Coastal Hills Haunted by the Team That Didn't Come Home

By HAROLD V. STREETER

SAN LUIS OBISPO (AP)—Low, brown coastal hills cradle the little town of San Miguel.

An old Spanish mission, built in 1797, meditates in the sun at one end.

At the other, a corrugated metal grain mill stands like a drab sentinel. It is the last sight a passing motorist catches before he leaves enchanting solitude and whirls out on the busy highway toward San Francisco, 210 miles north.

And in between the mission and the mill, little San Miguel remains locked between past and present, between bright dream and black fact.

Inevitably, the ironies come flooding back. . . . There was the boy who may have had a premonition. . . . The young father with another baby on the way. . . . The boy who didn't make the flight. . . . The night of fun, the night of the Halloween Hayride Hop, when the word came. . . . The empty football field. The locker doors left open, a sweatshirt here, a towel there, a dream of life everywhere. . . .

On the night of Saturday, Oct. 29, a chartered plane crashed in the fog at Toledo, Ohio, killing 22 people. Sixteen of them were football players from California State Polytechnic College. The only survivors had ridden in the tail section of the plane. . . .

* * * *

GARY VAN HORN, whose home was in San Miguel, rode over the wing, where flights are supposedly smoother. He had always had a problem of getting airsick.

Gary Van Horn had a wife. Her name is Karen. She is 20 years old. He had a son, 16 months old. Another child was three months on the way.

For him, San Miguel was the beginning, midway between the mission and the mill. A frame house on a slope a block off main street, almost hidden by overhanging trees and a fence, was Gary's boyhood home.

He hunted in the hills with his father, co-owner of the mill. And worked at the mill under the admiring eyes of his grandfather, Ed Wickstrom.

By high school age, Gary had grown into a six-footer of more than 200 pounds. His speed and power made him one of the most exciting track and football stars in the history of the high school at Paso Robles.

What sort of a boy was he?

Among the 700 townsfolk at San Miguel, the thousands who cheered him on at high school, his classmates, teammates and professors at California State Polytechnic College, 35 miles away in San Luis Obispo, the answers began the same way:

"Gary was a quiet boy."

After that, they groped for words.

Mrs. Jennie Bayer, Gary's next-door neighbor at San Miguel idolized him. "When my Jimmie was 5, I asked him what he wanted to be when he grew up. 'Just like Gary,' he said."

Terry Black, president of Gary's 1956 graduating class, dug a pencil into his chin and looked blankly out of his gasoline service station, trying to find the right words.

"It's hard to say . . . such a friendly guy, tall, big-

Two Drown, 7 Saved on Scout Cruise

Victims Tossed Into Ocean Near San Luis Obispo

SAN LUIS OBISPO (UPI)—A Boy Scout excursion ended in tragedy Saturday when a giant wave tilted a fishing boat on its side, hurling nine persons into the water. The Coast Guard rescued seven but said two men drowned.

The body of one victim, Arthur Howell, about 45, Fresno, was found late Saturday night, the Coast Guard reported. A search was in progress for the second, Charles Kolbert, about 50, also of Fresno.

The party of 16 scouts and 6 adult leaders of Boy Scout Troop 57 of Fresno was returning from an outing aboard the 60-foot fishing boat Missawit when the swell hit to the rear of midship, tilting the craft on its side.

* * * *

SIX ADULTS in the rear were flung against the railing which gave way. Three boys also were tossed into the water.

A Coast Guard tug, the Comanche, rescued four adults and three boys.

Rescued were Al Coop, 42; Tom Hird, 36; and Don Bishop, 27, the scoutmaster, and James Belcher, 14, Dean Cowley, 14, and Ken Bender, 14.

The sons of the two missing men, Charles Kolbert Jr., and Richard Howell, both 14, were members of the party but were not tossed overboard.

The Comanche was less than a mile away when the Missawit was swamped just outside the Morro Bay breakwater, the Coast Guard said. An unidentified coast guardsman on a point of land nearest the mishap saw the boat in trouble and alerted the Comanche.

Macmillan to Let Kennedy Make First Move for Parley

LONDON (AP)—Prime Minister Harold Macmillan has decided to let President-elect John F. Kennedy make the first move in renewing the close ties between Washington and London.

It was learned Saturday on high authority that the British leader will await an invitation from Kennedy for talks unless some compelling international emergency like a revival of the Berlin crisis forces Macmillan to go to Washington before spring.

* * * *

MACMILLAN considers it would be undignified if he were to appear to be chasing Kennedy. He feels a sudden dash to Washington before the President-elect adjusts himself would savor of overanxiety at Britain's status as America's closest partner in the North Atlantic Alliance.

By contrast, West German Chancellor Konrad Adenauer announced he would go to Washington in February. He made the announcement a few days after Kennedy's election.

To the British, Kennedy's election spells more than the rise of a dynamic symbol of American energy and youth. It ends the era of the "old boy network," in which Macmillan could telephone President Eisenhower any time for talks punctuated by "Harold" and "Ike."

Macmillan has never met Kennedy, although some of his aides knew the President-elect well in his congressional days. Kennedy's father was ambassador to Britain before World War II and young Kennedy accompanied him for a time.

* * * *

BUT SOME aspects of the old partnership will remain the same. Officials at the lower echelons still use the same language, address each other by their first names and swap intelligence secrets.

Macmillan may be expected to work on for these international objectives:

1—A steady, well prepared ascent to an East-West summit meeting in order to defuse the powder keg of Berlin.

2—An impetus for the limping Geneva negotiations to ban nuclear weapons tests.

3—A new approach toward serious talks on ending the world arms race.

4—Normalizing relations with Communist China, preferably by admitting Peiping to the United Nations. This need not necessarily mean the U. S. government would have to recognize Peiping as London does.

5—Strengthening of the North Atlantic Alliance, with special emphasis on winning full French cooperation.

Red China A-Bomb Seen in '61

LONDON (AP)—Red China will explode its first atomic bomb late in 1961, the Sunday Times reported today.

The newspaper said the explosion will be at least as large as one of France's Sahara Desert blasts.

The report from the paper's Far East correspondent Richard Hughes was attributed to intelligence sources in Tokyo.

Hughes did not specify which Sahara blast he meant. The first, in February, had a power equivalent of between 60,000 and 70,000 tons of TNT. The second, in April, was said to have been less powerful than the U.S. Hiroshima bomb which equaled 20,000 tons of TNT.

* * * *

HUGHES SAID there was evidence the Red Chinese had revised their program which formerly scheduled production of Asia's first atomic bomb by the end of 1962. He claimed this had now been speeded up by 12 months under a secret, priority directive of the Chinese Politburo.

The correspondent said Russia had ensured the supply of key materials under a revised pact for scientific cooperation.

McClellan, Jury Push New Hoffa Racket Inquiries

Senate Unit to Summon Union Boss

WASHINGTON (AP)—James R. Hoffa, much-investigated head of the big Teamsters' Union, is being investigated again—both by Congress and the courts.

Sen. John L. McClellan, D-Ark, announced Saturday he expects to show in a series of hearings opening Dec. 13 that "notorious underworld criminals and racketeers continue to control" Teamsters' locals under Hoffa's rule.

Hoffa himself is expected to be called for testimony in the hearings which will concentrate on New York City union operations, some of which were said to be still under the control of hoodlum Anthony (Tony Ducks) Corallo.

* * * *

McCLELLAN SAID the hearings will concern shakedowns, payroll padding and union-welfare-fund irregularities.

A federal grand jury at Orlando, Fla., ended a six-month recess and was suddenly reconvened several days ago in an inquiry into Hoffa's alleged misuse of $400,000 Teamsters' funds in a Florida real estate project.

Hoffa actively opposed the election of John F. Kennedy to the presidency, attacking both the Massachusetts senator and his brother, Robert, who served as chief counsel for another McClellan Senate committee which investigated Hoffa vigorously.

There has been a Democrat charge that the grand

FBI Ordered to Enter Voting Fraud Probes

WASHINGTON (UPI)—The FBI has been ordered by the Justice Department to investigate a number of complaints of alleged voting fraud in the presidential election, it was learned Saturday.

Neither the department attorneys working on voting fraud complaints nor the FBI would comment on the cases of alleged irregularities under investigation.

But informed sources said the department had received a tremendous volume of mail urging investigation of improper election activities and that a number of FBI inquiries were already underway.

* * * *

THE SOURCES said, however, that it was still too early to determine whether mail relating to the election was heavier than normal for presidential election years.

They also said many of the letters and telegrams merely suggested the possibility of voting frauds without spelling out charges.

Atty. Gen. William P. Rogers, who has been in Florida with Vice President Richard M. Nixon, could not be reached for comment. He warned prior to the election that the government would prosecute violations of the federal voting laws.

Rogers instructed federal district attorneys to be on the lookout for possible violations of federal voting statutes.

The Justice Department would become involved in the recount process going on in some states only if recounts turned up evidence of fraud.

* * * *

ON FRIDAY, the Republican National Committee announced it is sending representatives into eight states to take a "close hard look" at the election results. The inquiry would be made in Illinois, Texas, Missouri, New Mexico, Nevada, South Carolina, New Jersey and Pennsylvania—all carried narrowly by President-elect John F. Kennedy.

The latest tabulation showed Kennedy with 34,020,063 votes and Nixon with 33,819,535.

Republican Chairman Thruston B. Morton has asked state and county Republican officials to advise him and the Justice Department if they find any firm basis for complaints.

According to Justice Department attorneys, the job is made difficult by the fact that such violations are "hit and run" affairs.

Union Votes at 10 a.m. on MTA Offer

Members of the Amalgamated Transportation Union will vote at 10 a.m. today on the latest offer by the Metropolitan Transit Authority.

Negotiators early Saturday agreed on the proposed new contract covering 900 mechanics on strike since midnight Tuesday against MTA.

The dispute has idled 1,400 buses and trolleys, providing the public transportation for four Southern California counties. It has virtually closed down public transportation between Long Beach and Los Angeles.

Union negotiators, who said they will recommend approval of the contract, added that MTA service would be resumed Monday morning if the contract is ratified.

Vandals Bomb Dominguez High

Compton police and Lakewood sheriff's deputies late Saturday night were investigating a bombing at the Dominguez High School, 15301 San Jose St.

Officers said the bomb, apparently thrown by vandals, caused considerable damage to the administrative offices in the building.

No one was injured.

Kennedy, Symington Seek Defense Saving

PALM BEACH, Fla. (AP)—President-elect John F. Kennedy Saturday began Pentagon reorganization talks with the goal of saving taxpayers some money while gearing the nation's military might more closely to the nuclear-space age.

The talks were with Sen. Stuart Symington, the Missouri Democrat Kennedy asked to study and report on how to streamline the Defense Department.

What Symington told a news conference Saturday and what Kennedy said during the campaign about economy and modernization of the Pentagon presaged possible recommendations for a far-reaching shakeup in the defense establishment.

* * * *

WHETHER Symington, a former Air Force secretary, might get the call to direct a shakeup as the new secretary of defense remained a matter of speculation.

The Missouri senator said it wasn't discussed, that "I would rather stay in the Senate," and that he so told Kennedy last August. But he didn't rule out taking the post should Kennedy insist on it.

The President-elect and Symington, with Sen. George Smathers, D-Fla., present part of the time, talked for an hour and a half in the living room of the Spanish-style Kennedy mansion on the ocean front.

Symington told a news conference afterward that the Pentagon organization still is based fundamentally on World War II ideas, although there have been three major technological revolutions in national defense since that war.

* * * *

"ANY ORGANIZATION which is based on World War II," he said, "could not possibly be the right type and character of organization to have in the nuclear-space age."

Symington is head of a five-man committee studying the defense structure. Although Kennedy's staff had announced Symington would bring his report along Saturday, the senator said it won't be finished before the end of the month. He said there is disagreement on some points but the committee is trying for unanimity.

Thus the Kennedy-Symington discussions were in the nature of informal, preliminary talks.

Asked if he could mention some areas of agreement, in general terms, within his committee, Symington told newsmen:

"Well, we all agree that this organization is not the right organization. And we all agree that if we have an

U.S. Embassy Aide Shot in Cuba Fight

HAVANA (UPI) — Wayne E. Henderson, communications officer for the United States Embassy, was shot in the stomach Saturday night in a brawl at a nightclub here, authorities reported.

Henderson, of Pasadena, Calif., was rushed to the police hospital where he underwent surgery. His condition was described as serious.

Marine Cpl. William E. Tompkins of Warren, Ohio, who accompanied Henderson to the Club 21, said they ordered drinks and offered the bartender a $5 bill. Tompkins said the bartender refused to accept it and a scuffle broke out when someone grabbed for the bill.

* * * *

TOMPKINS said he and Henderson managed to get out of the club and were attacked by two men who were believed to be officers in Fidel Castro's revolutionary army.

One of the two men pulled a pistol and placed it against Henderson's stomach and fired. Henderson fell to the pavement unconscous.

Tompkins said he carried the communications officer to a taxi and when he could not find the driver, drove the vehicle to the hospital.

IN SEPARATE OCEANS

Swimming Kennedys Hurt

PALM BEACH, Fla. (UPI)—President-elect John F. Kennedy and his brother, Robert, suffered swimming accidents this week in separate oceans.

Acting press secretary Donald M. Wilson told newsmen the President-elect scratched his back on a rock several days ago while swimming in the Atlantic surf at the Kennedy family's Palm Beach estate.

Wilson stressed "it was just a scratch" and the President-elect " is perfectly all right."

Robert suffered a strained neck ligament Friday while skin diving in the Pacific off Acapulco, where he is vacationing with his wife. His injury was described as painful, but not serious.

L.A.C. Says:

Seems Incredible

The newly released report by Population Reference Bureau shows a chart of world population increase that seems incredible. But it is factual up to the present—and shows a trend that will continue if the baby crop continues to increase, and the loss of life from infant and children diseases continues to decrease.

* * *

An idea of what has happened to world population is shown in a chart from which we find the following estimates:

Population in the year 1500.....	500 million
1700.....	500 million
1800.....	1,000 million
1900.....	1,600 million
1960.....	2,700 million
2000.....	6,000 million

This means that in the next 40 years we will more than double world population. In many areas there will be "standing room only" if the trend continues. More than 110 million babies are expected to be born this year. That is equal to the total population of Japan and twice as much as that of France.

According to the estimates, Latin America population will increase fastest—growing from its present 206 million to 599 million. North America will grow from 197 million to 312 million. Asia—not including Russia—now has 55 per cent of the world population —will increase to over 3,700 million people—62 per cent of total population.

It is hard to visualize what all these statistics mean. But Southern California may have the greatest increase of any area of the Western world. It is estimated we will double our population in the next 25 years. This means more people will live here than live in all but a few states of the Union. As Newsweek puts it, "Our great-great-grandchildren will not starve. They will be squeezed to death."

Efforts to hold down population by birth control have been successful in Japan. This has been essential in that overcrowded country. But it is apparent similar programs of birth control must be adopted throughout Asia if the people are to be safeguarded against hunger and overcrowding.

The United States lives in a period of abundance. It has tremendous surplus production of food and most raw materials. But with a doubled population and agriculture lands converted to homes and factories this can change during the next 10 years. There are no food surpluses now in other parts of the world, except Canada and Australia. But these nations will soon find themselves with tremendous population increases.

The current Reader's Digest tells how the United States is increasing population at a higher rate than many backward parts of the world. It says "while a boon in some fields of business, this increase threatens to outrun both renewable and non-renewable resources. More than 1,000 American towns and cities already have been forced to curtail their water services."

These are real dangers. It seems incredible that such increases will occur. But the trend has proven itself. There is every reason to expect it to continue at an even greater rate unless stopped by birth control, epidemics or destruction of most of those now living by war.—L.A.C.

16 on Plane Land Safely After Scare

CHARLOTTE, N.C. (AP)—An Eastern Air Lines plane carrying 13 passengers and a crew of three landed safely Saturday after 40 frantic minutes with a faulty landing gear.

The plane, bound from Detroit to Miami, by-passed a scheduled stop at Greensboro in order to attempt a landing at Charlotte, where the airline has more repair facilities and personnel.

With one wheel down, the plane circled Douglas Municipal Airport for 40 minutes as crew members worked on the plane's hydraulic system.

They finally succeeded in cranking down the second wheel manually and brought the plane down safely. Emergency squads of city, county and state police, fire engines and ambulances stood by.

The plane, a Martin 404, piloted by Capt. Tom Latta, had stopped at Cleveland, Akron and Charleston, W. Va., before putting down here.

Airline officials praised Capt. Latta "for a very fine performance."

TURKEY RACE CRUEL BUT AX IS HUMANE

SAN JOSE (AP)—If you chop off a turkey's head, cook and eat the carcass—that's humane.

If you coop him up in a cage, then release him for a race down a street—that isn't.

So ruled the Santa Clara County Humane Society in getting a turkey race called off this morning in Sunnyvale.

After a crowd of 200 had gathered in downtown Sunnyvale, a spokesman for the Merchants' Association there said pressure by the Humane Society had caused cancellation.

The merchants then raffled off 10 birds under the watchful eye of a humane officer.

Drugged Girls' Mother Facing Retrial Monday

CLEVELAND (AP) — Mrs. Lillian Fratantonio, 29-year-old mother of Cleveland's two "sleeping beauties," goes on trial for the second time in juvenile court Monday.

The tiny, brunette mother of five children, is charged with mistreating her two daughters, Venita, 5, and Bernadette, 3, by feeding them sleep-inducing drugs.

The barbiturates produced comas for almost a year and baffled medical experts. The girls became nationally known as the "sleeping beauties."

Mrs. Fratantonio's first trial was declared a mistrial when the judge became ill, and later died.

Woman Burglar Lookout Slain

TULSA, Okla. (AP) — A California woman described by police as a lookout in a burglary attempt was killed Saturday and her male companion and a policeman were wounded by police shotgun blasts.

The dead woman was identified as Doris Mae Donnelly, 41, of Chico, Calif.

James Eugene Martin, 30, of Akron, Ohio, described as her companion, and police patrol officer Carl Stoops who participated in the investigation of a burglary report, received leg wounds and were admitted to a hospital.

Hoffa Facing Probes by Senate, U.S. Jury jury inquiry in Florida was suspended by the Republicans so Hoffa would be free to campaign against Kennedy.

The reopened court and congressional investigations come at a bad time for Hoffa. His attorneys have been on the brink of successfully negotiating a settlement to wipe out the court monitor system that has kept Hoffa under rein for several years.

A hitch developed in these secret settlement talks when a group of anti-Hoffa plaintiffs in the litigation, Teamsters' members from New York, balked at accepting the settlement as proposed by their attorney, Godfrey Schmidt.

* * * *

McCLELLAN SAID one reason for resuming hearings is to determine whether the 1959 labor law enacted by Congress is tough enough to curb what he termed racket control of unions.

The senator said Teamsters' Locals 239 and 875 and Local 238 of the International Union of Doll and Toy Workers will be specifically investigated in the coming hearings. Adlerman said hoodlum Corallo, supposedly ousted from influence in New York Teamsters' affairs, actually still is in.

McClellan said he expects the new hearings to show (1) racketeer shakedowns of employers to secure labor peace, (2) misuse of union welfare funds, (3) phony payroll payments to dummy union officials, and (4) obvious false filing of union reports to the government.

shouldered, easy going . . . never got mad at anybody. Since I got married, I've moved the family a few times. And when the moving van arrived, so did Gary. You never asked him to do something for you. He just dit it."

The answer came easier to Gary's father-in-law, William H. Taylor, leaning on the counter of his Paso Robles shoe store.

"Such a fine boy . . . began dating Karen when she was a freshman and Gary was a sophomore. They dated all through high school. She was only 17 when she graduated and that seemed to me a little too young for marriage. But they persisted. So I said 'You kids have been going together long enough to know.' And I gave Karen the money I was going to spend on her beauty operator training."

Gary had a Cal Poly scholarship and a resolve to become a grain mill operator.

* * * *

THE 3,000-ACRE campus of 59-year-old Cal Poly nestles in a basin at the foothills of the Santa Lucia range.

High on the hillslope behind the campus is a big white concrete "P." Agleam in the sun, it stands for many things. Poly, first of all.

Now, it stands also for—Porras. Big, husky Ray Porras. They called the fullback "Chico" because he was Mexican. He was proud of it.

Porras rode the death section of the twin-engined C46 that crashed at Toledo. He also had had misgivings.

Last year on a chartered flight to Montana, the Cal Poly plane had to land at Bakersfield. That disturbed Gary. If it bothered Porras, he concealed it.

The pilot for that flight was Mexican. Chico wouldn't let anyone forget it.

"I told you," he chortled after the plane arrived in Montana, "the 'Wetback' would get us through," jokingly referring to the slang name applied to Mexican migrant laborers.

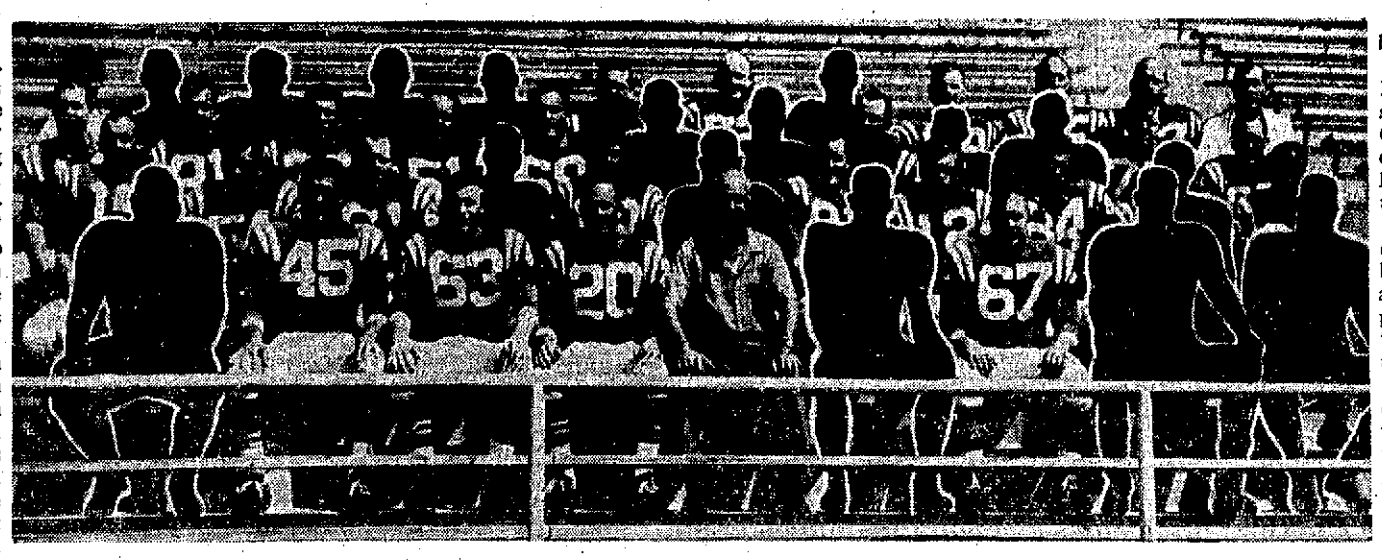

A father-confessor, counselor and trouble-solver to younger students, Chico would say proudly:

"Let the old Wetback help you."

At 27, Chico had to be a man in a hurry. Navy duty had delayed his college career. Now he had a wife and four girls, 7 years down to 3 months.

He crowded all the hours he could spare into work at El Corral, the student lunch room, while he studied to be a physical education leader of minority group boys. He was at El Corral every morning at 5:30 a.m. to open up and brew the coffee in steaming urns.

"Before the new baby came," said Everett Dorrough, the El Corral's manager, "he would say, 'If it's a boy this time, there's going to be champagne for everybody.' Well, it was another girl. But you would have thought she was his first."

TO 21-YEAR-OLD Curtis Hill of Bakersfield, the concrete "P" high on the hill meant just one thing—"Pro." Hill's ambition was to be a pass-catching end in professional football.

"Last year in one game Curt broke his wrist. Either he didn't know it or didn't want it known. He played two games with it broken," said Lynn Dyche, a dormitory manager.

"This year Curt had to get his strength back in it, so he squeezed a tennis ball while he worked cleaning out the halls.

"He squeezed it walking to classes. He squeezed it running all the way up the hill to the 'P' and back down again, getting his legs into condition."

Of Curt's host of friends, none admired him more than 19-year-old Bill Stewart. Bill was Curt's understudy, destined to ride the bench whenever Hill was in action—but they always were close together off the field. Close enough to ride together, talk together—and die together in Toledo.

Said Bob Spink, Cal Poly graduate manager, who works in the Associated Student Body office with Bill's mother, Phyllis, a bookkeeper:

"There was a time last summer when Bill was a lifeguard at Cayucos Beach. A fishing boat brought in a man who had suffered a heart attack. Bill, at the far end of the pier, away from the boat, ran as fast as he could. Another man had started artificial respiration by the time Bill got there. They worked a long time, but the man died anyhow.

"Bill went home, disconsolate.

"He just kept saying, 'If I'd only gotten there a little faster.'"

THE GOODBYES BEGAN on Wednesday, Oct. 26. The chartered plane's takeoff was set for Thursday morning, from Santa Maria for Toledo.

"Gary didn't want to go," his father-in-law recalled. "He thought about such things as a small plane crash in this area a short time ago. All four aboard were killed."

Chico Porras talked to his lunchroom boss, Dororough: "When I get back Sunday, I'm taking the family to church."

He was not a regular church goer. It was Chico's closest admission to a premonition.

The football boys trooped down to get their travel expense checks from Phyllis Stewart. She handed them out with a smile, including one to her own son, Bill.

Rodney Baughn, tall, 21-year-old tackle from San Gabriel, said his goodbye to Sandra Jackson. Queen of last year's "Poly Royal," the big social event of the college, she was engaged to Rodney and had bought her wedding gown.

Rodney was killed at Toledo.

IT WAS SATURDAY afternoon back on the sunny Cal Poly campus when the score came in. Bowling Green College had won, 50-6. Well, it was not unexpected. Bowling Green was unbeaten.

Two hundred Cal Poly couples went up the hill to the men's new gym for the Halloween Hayride Hop. Other students planned float decorations for the next Friday's homecoming game against Los Angeles State. It was never played.

Over in little San Miguel, laughing townspeople donned grotesque masks and went to a pre-Halloween party in Legion Hall.

Home television viewers at San Luis Obispo were watching the windup of an hour-long western.

"We interrupt this program for a special news bulletin. A plane carrying members of a football team to California has crashed and burned at Toledo, Ohio."

Jeanie Bayer, Gary van Horn's neighbor, had driven in to Paso Robles to pick up her son, Jimmie, Gary's hero-worshiper, after a date. Word fragments — "plane crash" — "Ohio" — "football team" — crackled over the car radio. Jimmie froze in his seat. Tears came before he heard the rest. He knew what team it was.

The death list came through slowly. Finally came the name of Curtis Hill.

Phyllis Stewart buried her head in her arms and wept. If Curtis was dead, then so was her son, Bill. They would have been together.

"They were like brothers," said Spink, the graduate manager.

"One thing nobody ever mentioned. To tell the truth, no one ever gave it a thought—Bill Stewart was a white boy, Curt Hill was a Negro."

Down by the oceanside, at 107 Indo Drive in Sunset Palisades, where Bill used to take Curt to enjoy his mother's cooking, father Ralph Stewart looked out through the picture window to the sea.

"Bill knew when he was only 12 what he wanted to be," Ralph Stewart mused aloud. "His elementary school principal, Mr. Rinaldi, told me, 'If ever a boy was destined to be a coach, it's Bill.'

"Now I wonder. If I hadn't encouraged him . . ." His voice trailed off and the father stared long at the billowing Pacific.

The minute Dorrough, El Corral's manager, got the word on Chico Porras, he grabbed his hat and raced down the hill to 30-A Casa. He spent all night there, talking to Dorothy Porras.

"She had told the girls, 'Daddy will be home for dinner Sunday.' Now she had to tell them he never would be home. How do you tell that to a 7-year-old?"

ON THE LIGHTED HOME field of the Cal Poly Mustangs that Saturday night, Mission High was playing Needles High. Under the homestands were the Mustang lockers, doors ajar, draped with dirty sweat shirts, scrawled crudely with identifying names . . . Hill, . . . Stewart, . . . Van Horn, . . . Guy Hennegan, . . . Vic Hall, . . . Larry Austin—and all the rest.

On the locker of General Owens, a Negro fullback from Barstow, teammates had pasted newspaper clippings of two plane crashes. Owens was always open in his uneasiness about flying. Hill had joined in the joking. Now Hill was dead. Owens lived—he was in the tail section.

The crash report reached the stadium press box while the high school game was going on. A student raced up the hill to the men's gym and spread the word. Laughter and music ceased. Couples at the Hayride Hop stopped dancing and wandered out to stroll under the stars, dazed and half unbelieving.

The news was slower spreading in San Miguel. When it did, off came the grinning Halloween masks at Legion Hall, to be replaced by tears in many an eye. Someone exclaimed, "Oh, God, not Gary!"

Quarterback John Ramsey couldn't make the trip. He had pulled a ligament in his foot. A numb shock gripped him when the crash news came. Ramsey went into seclusion. He would see no one.

* * * *

THE WEEK AFTER the crash, a campus visitor stood near the vacant football field. A boy wearing a Poly letter walked nearby.

"Can you tell me where the team dressed for a game?" the visitor inquired.

"There," the letterman pointed to a door, broke into sobs and hurried away.

Today, as every day at 3 p.m., a robed brother tugs three times at the rope to the bell tower of 163-year-old Mission San Miguel.

To Grandfather Wickstrom, remembering a quiet lad who tugged at the grain sacks, they have the sound of a dirge.

But the boys of San Miguel pay them no heed. They are busy roaming the low brown hills or playing sandlot football.

Jackson Urges NATO to Found 'MIT of Europe'

WASHINGTON (UPI)—Sen. Henry M. Jackson, D-Wash, proposed Saturday that NATO pact nations establish an international graduate school of science and technology in Western Europe.

Jackson said such an institute could be an "MIT of Western Europe" that would supplement existing national universities and aid the North Atlantic Treaty Organization countries in meeting the Communist challenge.

He made the proposal in a report prepared for the sixth NATO parliamentarians conference opening in Paris Monday.

SOME CAD TEARS OUT OLD NO. 1460

LONDON (AP) — Parking meter No. 1460 is gone, torn from its moorings in smart Berkely Square.

Detectives gathered in a thoughtful group around the little hole in the sidewalk Saturday and decided some unspeakable bounder stole the meter for reasons unknown.

"The man who did it must have had the strength of Samson," mused a City Council official. "Or else he used a machine of some kind, like a crane." Motorists got to park free alongside the little hole.

New Cabinet Choices Kept Tight Secret

WASHINGTON (AP)—President-elect John F. Kennedy is keeping tightly secret the names of men he will place in cabinet posts.

He has ordered elaborate precautions against leaks to newsmen concerning who may have an inside track for any major appointment. There has, however, been a seemingly authentic report that the secretary of commerce post will go to Gov. Luther Hodges of North Carolina. Hodges is a self-styled moderate Democrat and former vice president of Marshall Field & Co., the big Chicago department store.

* * * *

THERE HAVE been reports that Kennedy might choose a Republican secretary of state, promoting Undersecretary C. Douglas Dillon to that post. Or he might ask Republican Secretary of the Treasury Robert B. Anderson to stay on. Anderson once was a Democrat.

Kennedy is known, however, to be considering a long list of Democrats for the secretary of state nomination including:

Sen. J. William Fulbright of Arkansas; Adlai Stevenson, two-time presidential nominee; former Gov. Averell Harriman of New York; Rep. Chester Bowles of Connecticut; Dean Rusk, former assistant secretary of state, and David Bruce, a former undersecretary.

* * * *

PICKING a new secretary of agriculture is one of the most troublesome cabinet problems Kennedy faces. These Democratic names have been considered:

Gov. Buford Ellington of Tennessee; Gov. Herschel C. Loveless of Iowa; Gov. Orville L. Freeman of Minnesota; Gov. Gaylord Nelson of Wisconsin; Reps. George McGovern of South Dakota and Charles H. Brown of Missouri; Lauren Soth, farm economist and editor of the editorial page of the Des Moines (Iowa) Register; President Ralph Bradley of the Illinois farmers union, and President James H. Hilton of Iowa State University.

Some Kennedy associates say they will be surprised if he doesn't award a cabinet job to Gov. G. Mennen Williams of Michigan, either as secretary of labor, secretary of health, education and welfare, or postmaster general.

* * * *

A LONG LIST of other Democrats also has been suggested to Kennedy for the important secretary of labor post, including:

Mayor Robert F. Wagner of New York City; Archibald Cox, Harvard professor and one of Kennedy's top brain trusters; Rep. Edith Green of Oregon; Rep. Frank Thompson Jr. of New Jersey, who was another top campaign adviser to Kennedy, and officials of two labor unions.

The latter two are Arthur J. Goldberg, general counsel to the United Steelworkers Union and special counsel to the AFL-CIO, and Joseph D. Keenan, secretary-treasurer of the International Brotherhood of Electrical Workers.

Kennedy may choose his secretary of defense from this field:

Sen. Henry M. Jackson of Washington, Sen. Stuart Symington of Missouri; Byron (Whizzer) White, who headed the Citizens-for-Kennedy campaign committee; Frank Pace, former secretary of the Army; Dan Kimball, former secretary of the Navy; Roswell Gilpatrick, former assistant secretary of the Air Force, and Undersecretary of State Dillon.

White is viewed also as a top contender for attorney general and so is Gov. Abraham Ribicoff of Connecticut.

* * * *

IF SECRETARY of the Treasury Anderson is to be replaced, the post may go to one of these men:

John J. McCloy, a Republican former high commissioner to Germany and now board chairman of the Chase Manhattan Bank; President Eugene R. Black of the World Bank, or Board Chairman Henry Alexander of the Morgan Guaranty Trust Co. of New York.

Johnson Leading Senate Group to NATO Meeting

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The incoming Kennedy administration will have its first exchange of views with the European allies this week as Vice President-elect Lyndon B. Johnson leads a bipartisan delegation of senators to a Paris meeting of NATO lawmakers.

The delegates, including Chairman J. William Fulbright, D-Ark., of the Senate Foreign Relations Committee, are expected to explore such thorny problems as joint defense efforts, the flight of U. S. gold abroad, foreign aid and the cold war in general.

JOHNSON TESTS PRESS

* * * *

MEANWHILE, two top members of the outgoing Eisenhower administration flew to Bonn Saturday in an effort to persuade West German Chancellor Konrad Adenauer to relieve the United States of its major financial burden within the Western alliance.

It was noteworthy that Treasury Secretary Robert B. Anderson and Undersecretary of State Douglas Dillon conferred with Paul Nitze, President-elect Kennedy's top adviser on defense and foreign aid before leaving on the mission.

The nine-member Senate group will join a similar House group at the NATO parliamentary conference.

Because of Johnson's forthcoming role as vice president and the possibility that Fulbright might be made secretary of state, delegates from the other NATO nations were certain to consult with them in private on the major foreign policy questions confrontiing the new administration.

* * * *

DECISIONS reached at the NATO meetings have no binding effect on the member nations but are recommendations for the guidance of the national legislatures back home.

Anderson and Dillon, after meeting with Adenauer on the Eisenhower administration's battle to stem the flow of U. S. dollars abroad, will also visit London and Paris before returning to Washington.

The two administration envoys plan to urge West Germany to lessen some of the U. S. financial load by:

—Taking over a greater share of the loans and other economic aid going to underdeveloped countries.

—Paying a larger part of the maintenance costs for such NATO installations as airfields and communication plants.

The administration also hopes to get France and England to increase their contributions but is banking mostly on West Germany, whose gold and dollar surplus is growing at a rate of about $1 billion a year.

* * * *

ANDERSON and Dillon were scheduled to leave Germany for Paris on Wednesday and after a two-day conference move on to London.

Senators in the U. S. delegation to the NATO parliamentary meeting include: Assistant GOP Leader Thomas H. Kuchel of California, John Sherman Cooper, R-Ky., Estes Kefauver, D-Tenn., Maurine Neuberger, D-Ore., Jacob K. Javits, R-N. Y., Roman L. Hruska, R-Neb., and J. Allen Frear, D-Del., who was defeated for re-election.

Senate Foes of Kennedy Face 'Purge'

WASHINGTON (U P I). — Sen. Joseph S. Clark, D-Pa., advocated party action Saturday night which could cost such southerners as Sens. Harry F. Byrd of Virginia and James O. Eastland their committee chairmanships in the new Congress.

He did not mention either Byrd of Eastland by name but urged that Democrats who "failed to support" the candidacy of President-elect John F. Kennedy or opposed the Democratic platform be barred from heading Senate committees.

Byrd is chairman of the Senate Finance Committee which passes on all tax legislation; Eastland is chairman of the Judiciary Committee which controls most civil rights bills.

* * * *

BYRD DECLINED to support either presidential candidate this year. Eastland came out in support of Kennedy but is known to oppose strongly the liberal civil rights planks in the platform.

In another development, Sen. Clifford P. Case, R-N.J., said he opposed any attempt by Republicans and Southern Democrats in the Senate to team up "to block progressive legislation" in the next Congress.

He hinted that the success of liberal Republican candidates in the election indicated such a maneuver was opposed by the voters.

"Speaking for myself, and I am sure I am not alone in this, I believe Republicans should join the Democratic majority in supporting constructive legislation," Case said in a statement.

Clark urged that Senate Democrats block appointment of new members to a committee if they oppose the party's platform pledges in the area in which the committee has jurisdiction.

Clark's proposals, set forth in letters to Democratic members of the Senate, obviously was aimed at Southern senators.

* * * *

CLARK said his proposals were designed to insure that committee posts be filled "in such a way as to reflect the true centers of Democratic strength in the nation."

"We must not approve the designation of committee chairmen and new appointees to key committees of members who have failed to support the national ticket," Clark said, "or those who oppose the platform pledges in the area in which the committee has jurisdiction."

Clark also said he had written to every member of the Senate urging "bipartisan support of the rules reform effort which will be the first order of business for the Senate as soon as it convenes on Jan. 3."

He said Senate members were aware that party platform commitments can become law only if the Senate rules are modernized.

In an interview earlier this week, Senate Republican Leader Everett M. Dirksen, Ill., also rejected any policy for congressional Republicans based on the idea that it is the function of the opposition to oppose the legislative program of any administration.

Vandals Ruin Luxury Yacht at Newport

Damage to a luxurious Newport Beach motor yacht, stolen and almost demolished by vandals, may run as high as $30,000, Orange County Harbor Department officials said Saturday.

The 64-foot diesel launch, Mary-K, owned by industrialist Robert Willison of Los Angeles, was stolen early Saturday, systematically damaged and then set loose under full power in waters off the coast.

The unmanned yacht smashed into moored craft, crashed into Balboa Pier and then plowed into the shore near the Rendezvous Ballroom.

The vessel, considered one of the best anchored at Newport, was taken from Slip 11 at the Lido Yacht Anchorage.

Military 'Crisis' Seen Under Dependent Ban

WASHINGTON (UPI)—An armed forces journal said Saturday that "a morale crisis worse than any since the pay cut of 1933" may result from President Eisenhower's order to reduce the number of military dependents abroad.

The Army-Navy-Air Force Register, published independently but closely associated with the military through reserve and retired officers, said it recognized that the foreign drain on America's gold created "urgent fiscal reasons" for the reduction.

* * * *

THE SERVICE journal added:

"But it is sheer folly to ignore the serious morale aftermath. What we must do first is face up to the problem and then do something to remedy the situation.

"The government must do something about the economic situation that caused this crisis. The bringing home of dependents and other steps are only stop-gaps."

The number of dependents will be reduced by 284,000 through a series of gradual steps. The Air Force, which must reduce the number of its military dependents abroad at a rate of 6,120 a month beginning in January, late Friday banned family travel authorizations after Feb. 1 except in personal or special service hardship cases. It also banned extensions of overseas tours for men with families.

* * * *

THE NAVY has completed plans for replacing military families abroad with single officers in an effort to reduce the number of dependents at a rate of 1,170 a month.

But the Army has as yet completed no plan for its 7,710-dependents-a-month reduction. Defense officials, concerned over what they called Army "foot dragging," said the Army command has been reminded that Defense Secretary Thomas S. Gates Jr. asked for "positive leadership" by military commanders to minimize the adverse impact of the President's program.

Lakewood Twirler Contests for Third Win in Band March

With three-time winner El Cajon Valley's band not competing this year, a wide-open race will be on for sweepstakes honors in the 20th annual All-Wetern Band Review here next Saturday.

Some 60 championship high school marching bands from all parts of California will compete for honors. Under contest rules, El Cajon having retired the Mayor's Trophy after three Sweepstakes victories, will not be eligible to compete until next year. However, Benton Minor will bring his Sweepstakes winners here as non-competing honor band.

Competition will be keen, too, in the race for individual drum major, majorette and majorette teams. Given the edge in the competition for individual honors is Lakewood High School's Beverly Miller, twirling queen for the past two years. Beverly is California baton-twirling champion.

BEVERLY MILLER . . . After Her Third Win

* * * *

STRONG CONTENDERS for honors in the Class AA bracket, schools with largest Mt. Miguel, Santa Monica and Bakersfield. Montebello, directed by Herb Roesener, Long Beach Wilson graduate, won in this class last year.

In the Class A, two first-time entrants bear watching, according to Don Gill, Review executive director. They are Azuza High, which has won top awards in almost all Southern California competitions except the All-Western, and the Fresno Roosevelt High outfit which was one of the bands selected to open the Winter Olympics at Squaw Valley. Escondido's Golden Cougar Band, which also appeared at Squaw Valley, promises to be a prime contender for honors.

A third band which played at Squaw Valley and will participate in the Band Review is the Porterville unit. Porterville's band will appear in concert at Disneyland and at the Long Beach Veterans Hospital.

* * * *

GROSSMONT HIGH SCHOOL, the "winningest" band in the All-Western Review's history, is again after the top prize. This group, which won the Class B trophy last year, has retired two Mayor's Trophies.

Among defending champions seeking to hold onto their trophies will be Wasco, in Class D, and Dinuba in Class E. Selma and Washington High of Fresno and first-time entrant El Capitan of Merced are expected to furnish strong competition in Class D.

Dinuba will be pushed hard by bands from Coalinga, Kerman, Tulare-Western, Tranquility and Parlier High, whose 40 marchers comprise almost 25 per cent of the entire 180 students in the school.

* * * *

OTHER FIRST-TIME ENTRANTS will be Anaheim's Western High, El Cajon's Granite Hills High, Montclair and Bullard High of Fresno.

Bandsmen will march along Ocean Blvd. from Falcon Ave. to Cedar Ave., starting at noon. Awards will be announced at the ceremony in Municipal Auditorium beginning at 7 p.m. with a concert by the Long Beach Municipal Band, conducted by Charles Payne, and featuring baton-twirling exhibitions by the Los Angeles Rams Ramettes and a jazz combo.

Anaheim Man Jailed as L.A. Bank Bandit

FBI agents Saturday arrested a 45-year-old Anaheim father on charges of robbing a Bank of America Branch in Los Angeles of $500 Wednesday.

William G. Simon, special agent in charge of the FBI office, said the suspect, Hassan Pahir Zeghabe, a native of Syria, was arrested in his home at 1816 Sally Lane as he was packing to leave the city.

The father of three children assertedly told agents and Los Angeles police he was unable to find work as a tool and die maker and needed money desperately.

Zeghabe will be arraigned before U.S. Commissioner Theodore Hocke on Monday.

Two bank clerks at the branch at Vermont Avenue and Manchester Boulevard chased the bandit for several blocks after the robbery but lost him in the lunch-hour crowds.

organization which recognizes the great technological developments that have happened, are happening, and undoubtedly will happen . . . then . . . with the proper organization we will be able to get more for the taxpayers' defense dollar. On those two points we are in agreement."

SYMINGTON in the past has talked in terms of saving 5 to 10 billion dollars a year by reorganizing the Defense Department.

And while Kennedy spoke during the presidential campaign of an emergency increase of 2½ to 3 billion dollars in arms spending, he also said increased efficiency in the administrative end of things could save money.

As the Democratic presidential nominee, he said in a speech drafted for the American Legion conventioon in Miami a month ago that "the Pentagon should be reshuffled in accordance with the logic of modern weapons systems and technology." He said there is duplication of functions within 39 separate Pentagon offices and this must be wiped away.

* * * *

SYMINGTON said his committee hopes to give recognition in its report to "the importance of arms control not only in other departments of the government, like state, for example, but also in the military itself." He said in his opinion neither the Eisenhower administration nor Congress has given sufficient attention to arms control—a term he prefers to disarmament.

With Smathers, Kennedy planned to touch again on a subject he covered Friday in a top secret briefing provided by Director Allen W. Dulles of the Central Intelligence Agency. This was the topic of Communist-directed threats to Nicaragua and Guatemala which prompted President Eisenhower to send U.S. warships and planes to seal off the western Caribbean from Cuba.

Amnesty Given 25,000 Turks

ANKARA (AP) — Turkey's revolutionary government Saturday night announced an amnesty for 25,000 persons serving sentences in Turkish prisons.

Included in the amnesty are those serving life terms for murder. Their sentences will be reduced to 24 years.

This was the second amnesty granted within two months. The government has never officially announced any reasons for the amnesty.

Fear Termed Cause of School Rioting

BY LOUIS CASSELS

NEW ORLEANS (UPI) — Dotcine Johnson, 28, a Negro laborer, paid a $10 fine in New Orleans Municipal Court this week. The charge: carrying a machete.

Jules J. Bantaa Jr., 25, a white bus driver, was admitted to a hospital. A pistol he was wearing fell out of his belt and discharged a bullet into his abdomen.

Johnson and Bantaa have never met. They were victims of their fear of one another—a fear that prompted each of them to carry a lethal weapon for "self-protection."

This is what happens to a city when a school integration crisis builds racial tensions to the sparking point. White boys gang up on a Negro delivery boy and beat him, simply because he is passing by and his skin is black.

Negro men in a speeding car fire guns at strangers, simply because they have a savage urge to retaliate against people with white faces.

Will New Orleans be another Little Rock? How many Southern cities must go through this dangerous agony? It appears that New Orleans will be spared Little Rock's ultimate indignity — the arrival of bayonet-bearing troops to keep order.

The police are keeping order here with determination. Their firm handling of a noisy mob of anti-integration demonstrators last Wednesday, their subsequent arrest of some 300 whites and Negroes who breached the peace and their inhospitable attitude toward the carrying of concealed weapons, all have reduced tension.

* * * *

ALL OF THE public schools will be closed this week because of an annual teachers' meeting and the Thanksgiving holidays. That will give the city a breathing spell.

Here, as in Little Rock, the school board is caught in the middle of a collision of federal and state authority.

The federal government, in the person of U. S. District Judge J. Skelly Wright, has required the school board to make a token start on integration by admitting four 6-year-old Negro girls to the first grades of two formerly all-white elementary schools.

The state, through resolutions enacted by a special session of the legislature has sought to "interpose" its authority between the federal court and the New Orleans public school system. It has declared that the legislature is in charge of the schools.

* * * *

THE LEGISLATURE says a federal court cannot constitutionally order a state legislature to do anything, and that the integration decrees are therefore null and void.

The federal courts are sure to knock down the "interposition" doctrine. The courts could not accept it without reversing the Civil War, which established the supremacy of federal over state sovereignty.

A three-judge federal court now has under advisement three issues:

1. A plea by the Orleans Parish (county) School Board that federally ordered integration be set aside until the state and federal governments can settle their differences in the courts.

2. A motion filed by the federal government to enjoin state and local officials from interfering with carrying out of integration orders.

3. Motions asking the court to give the board full control over schools and to keep the state from interfering with the federal order to integrate.

The real decision is between gradually-integrated schools, and no public schools at all.

Many community leaders say that the overwhelming majority of the white people of New Orleans consider integration preferable to the abannonment of the public school system. But some pro-segregation groups are pushing proposals for a network of private schools.

New Orleans may soon find its schools closed, whether the local residents wish it or not. One practical effect of the legislature's puffing has been to create a doubt in the minds of bankers as to whether the New Orleans school board has the legal status to borrow money against future tax collections.

The school board has a payroll to meet this week—nearly $2 million for teachers' salaries. It has no money, and it certainly cannot look to the state government to relieve the situation.

WORLD NEWS BRIEFS

U.S. May Reduce Tourist Spending

WASHINGTON (AP)—The government may crack down on American tourist spending abroad if new action becomes necessary to protect this country's dollar reserves.

Officials already have studied the possibility of trying to reduce the $1-billion gap between what American travelers spend in the rest of the world and what tourists from abroad spend here.

The most obvious and simplest target for change, officials said Saturday, is the $500 tariff exemption permitted Americans on foreign purchase in any six-month period of travel.

Russ Blast Kasavubu in U.N.

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (AP)—The Soviet Union unleashed a bitter attack on the United States Monday in an effort to bar a General Assembly seat to Congo President Joseph Kasavubu, but Western diplomats remained confident that the assembly would vote in his favor.

ZORIN

Valerian A. Zorin, Soviet deputy foreign minister, told the assembly his country would not be bound by any decision upholding a recommendation of the assembly's credentials committee that a delegation headed by Kasavubu be given the vacant Congo seat.

The assembly met in a special Saturday session on the question, but adjourned until Monday without reaching any decision. It still must hear a long list of speakers before reaching the voting stage.

Churchill Holds His Own

LONDON (AP)—Sir Winston Churchill's personal physician reported Saturday "everything is all right" with the aged statesman, in bed since he fell and broke a small bone in his spine Tuesday. Lord Moran said the case is going normally and without complications.

The chief concern for Lord Moran and Prof. Herbert J. A. Seddon, an orthopedic specialist who went along on the morning visit, is bronchial congestion—a serious side effect that often comes when an elderly man is immobilized. Churchill will be 86 Nov. 30.

So far, no such congestion has formed, the doctors said.

Mt. Fuji Avalanche Kills 5

TOKYO (UPI)—A mighty avalanche roaring down the slopes of 12, 397-foot Mt. Fuji buried 55 student mountain climbers Saturday but rescuers saved the lives of most of the trapped party.

Rescuers reported that five persons were known dead and five others missing. They said that 30 of the 45 climbers rescued had suffered injuries.

The massive snowslide was triggered at the 11,000-foot level of the famed mountain, engulfing the students who were practicing mountain-climbing techniques at the 8,000-foot level. The student group included 10 coeds.

3 Perish in Los Angeles Fire

LOS ANGELES (CNS)—Three persons died in a fire that destroyed a four-room frame house on the east side of Los Angeles.

The victims were tentatively identified as a Mrs. Jesus Montez, her granddaughter, Delores, 2½, and a son, Tony, 24.

TV-Radio Strike Call Postponed

NEW YORK (UPI)—A new strike date for 16,000 radio and television entertainers probably will be set next week, union officials said Saturday.

Officals of the American Federation of Radio and Television Artists had been expected to set up a strike deadline Saturday, but they said their plans were "up in the air."

A MAJORITY of the board members of the union voted to reject an offer made Wednesday by the National Broadcasting Co., the Columbia Broadcasting System, the American Broadcasting Co., and the Mutual Broadcasting System.

Members of the union had authorized the board to call the union's first strike in 24 years if it deemed such action necessary.

The union represents entertainers and announcers in the radio and television industry.

Contracts between the networks and the union expired at midnight last Tuesday, but the union continued to negotiate. The key issues were money demands.

STARTED BY ARABS

Old Court Ticks Centuries Away

VALENCIA, Spain (UPI)—At noon every Thursday 12 strokes of the clock in the ancient Moorish tower overlooking the old sector of this city signal the opening of one of the oldest courts in the world.

The court is called to order as the first stroke reverberates across the city. It is the "Water Tribunal" (Tribunal de Las Aguas).

Actually, this court is not official. It is an independent court with no legal weight. But its "sentences" are always carried out by the thousands of land owners and workers in this rich rice and orange-growing region.

Set up during the Arab domination in Spain 1,000 years ago, it hears only "crimes" regarding the misuse of water that irrigates the once-arid but now fertile Valencian land.

The tribunal has been convened every Thursday at noon since it was founded in 960. It is made up of eight non-professional judges.

The judges, who get no pay, are appointed by the land owners and workers themselves and generally are recognized as the wisest and most respected farmers.

The tribunal sentences can not be appealed and its only force lies in the good will of the parties concerned.

No professional lawyers or prosecutors are allowed in the court hearings, nor are they necessary. In almost 1,000 years of existence, there has never been a sentence that was not obeyed.

Mercury Picketing On Again

LAS VEGAS, Nev. (UPI)—Pickets went up around the Camp Mercury atomic test site again Saturday after a truce with striking security guards fell through in less than 24 hours.

The pickets were removed Friday after nine days when the Independent Guards Association and Federal Services Inc. agreed on working conditions.

* * * *

BUT THE DISPUTE over the firing of some of the 110 guards flared again with the guards claiming Federal Services would not give guards back their jobs.

The strike, keeping out 1,100 other workers at the research facilities for Rover and Pluto nuclear engine projects, has tied up construction on the top priority projects.

A meeting between the two sides with a representative of the Atomic Energy Commission is set for Monday in an attempt to solve the dispute. Details of the firings never have been disclosed.

Kay's Happiness Brief

Bliss With Gable Followed Newport Ordeal

By LOU JOBST

NEWPORT BEACH — Before the death of movie king Clark Gable, Kay Spreckles Gable passed the bleakest and most unhappy days of her life here.

The inconsolable grief of the 42-year-old blonde widow who expects the late screen idol's first child in March can be traced, some who know her feel, to the fact she had found brief happiness in a devoted marriage with Gable after a heart-breaking and bitter scandal here in 1953.

It started on Aug. 20, 1953, when Kay was taken from the 106 Grand Canal home of her second husband, whom she had divorced, Adolph Spreckels, the sugar heir millionaire, to Hoag Memorial Hospital.

She remained in the hospital for 12 days, recuperating from painful and serious injuries she claimed Spreckles had inflicted in a savage attack at the Balboa Island residence.

* * * *

THE THEN DIVORCED Mrs. Spreckels brought felony assault charges against the portly Spreckles and the brutalizing scandal remained in the headlines for more than a year when Spreckels completed a 20-day jail sentence in Santa Ana on Thanksgiving Day, 1954.

Lurid charges by the ex-actress and the fun-loving father of her two children turned the tiny Justice Court of Judge Donald Dodge in nearby Costa Mesa into a jammed arena watched by the world.

When the case opened in September, Kay appeared in court wan and limping on the arm of a nurse.

Spreckels appeared with a battery of high-priced lawyers.

Kay said she had driven to the island home to visit with her children who were vacationing with their father. She said Spreckels tore off her clothes, dragged her by the hair across the living room and beat her with a shoe with 11 nails protruding from the heel.

"The shoe was used like a whip—it kept coming, coming," she said. With heavy emotion she said she fought for her life because she was afraid Spreckels was going to throw her down the concrete stairs into the canal.

She quoted him as raging: "I'll mar that beautiful face of yours—lovely Kay."

* * * *

THE DEFENSE PRODUCED a house guest witness who claimed Kay hurled a glass at Spreckels, initiating the ruckus, and that she had been drinking gin and orange juice steadily from 5:30 to 9 p.m.

Once during the proceedings the ex-actress said she was going to faint.

And reporters rushed for deadlines when the court prohibited the appearance of sarong siren Dorothy Lamour as a witness.

Finally after Spreckels carried the case to the U. S. Supreme Court, starting and ending his sixth marriage during the interval, he entered jail, served 20 days with five off for good behavior and emerged jauntily wearing a tee-shirt emblazoned, "Behind the Orange Curtain."

* * * *

KAY DROPPED from the scene and re-emerged in the public eye in July, 1955, as "the unbelievably happy" wife of Gable.

All was bliss and happiness reaching an intense devotion between the couple earlier this year when it was announced she was going to have a child — an occasion Gable called "a dividend" of a wonderful life.

Then he was stricken unexpectedly and Kay moved into the hospital, her spirits buoyed briefly by the belief he would recover. Then came the blackest moment of all—Gable's death.

Niagara Falls Tower Planned

NIAGARA FALLS, N.Y. (UPI)—A 300-foot steel sightseeing tower will be built on the U.S.-Canadian border to provide a panoramic view of Niagara Falls, it was announced Saturday.

The structure, an eight-story tapered building atop a tall column, will be called the Seagram Tower. Construction will start next spring with its opening tentatively scheduled for August, 1961.

Mystery Fracture Line Seen in Sea Deeps Near California

By ALTON BLAKESLEE

NEW YORK (AP)—Scientists have just found a fascinating new mystery of the ocean deeps:

The ocean floor off California has slipped 600 miles east-and-west along a great earthquake or fracture line extending out to sea.

The sea floor north of this line has marched westward, farther out into the Pacific. The floor just south has moved east, closer to shore.

Points which once were opposite one another now are 600 miles apart.

Perhaps this giant march produced titanic earthquakes at some unknown time in the past.

Discovery of the great slip shows that similar movements of the earth's crust might have occurred to shift all the earth's continents.

The continents may once have been one huge land mass. Then they separated and drifted apart, dividing the earth's ancient waters into the present oceans.

* * * *

THE SEA FLOOR movements, which presumably occurred millions of years ago, were discovered by Victor Vacquier and associates of the Scripps Institution of Oceanography, La Jolla. They found, in fact, three separate slippages.

The 600-mile slip took place along a line running out to sea from Cape Mendocino.

Farther south, off Montery, the ocean bottom has slipped by 170 miles along another fracture line.

Off Point Conception, still father south, the floor has slipped by 80 miles, but in the opposite direction. Here, rocks on the north side of the line have moved east, toward the coast.

The fracture line off Cape Mendocino runs along high cliffs or escarpments rising 6,000 feet from the ocean bottom. The tops of the cliffs are still more than a mile below the surface of the ocean.

* * * *

THE SLIPPAGES were detected by measuring the magnetic intensity of the sea floor from shipboard, in criss-cross voyages led by Vacquier.

The cracks in the crust running out to sea do not fit with the famous San Andreas fracture line running up and down the coast of California. Slippages there have caused many earthquakes, including the great San Francisco quake.

Land west of the San Andreas Fault is moving north, while that to the east is moving south.

Bible Group to Organize L.B. Chapter

Action to permit reading of the Bible in public schools is the aim of the California Christian Citizens Association, which will organize a Long Beach chapter Nov. 28 at 7:30 p.m. in the Oscar Langdale residence, 2300 Linden Ave.

Langdale, a former City Council candidate, is a member of the association's state board and is legislative representative for the Long Beach area.

* * * *

HE SAID members of the group are circulating petitions asking the legislature to take action to give freedom to read the Bible in public schools either by amending the Education Code or by giving California citizens an opportunity to vote on a constitutional amendment to that end.

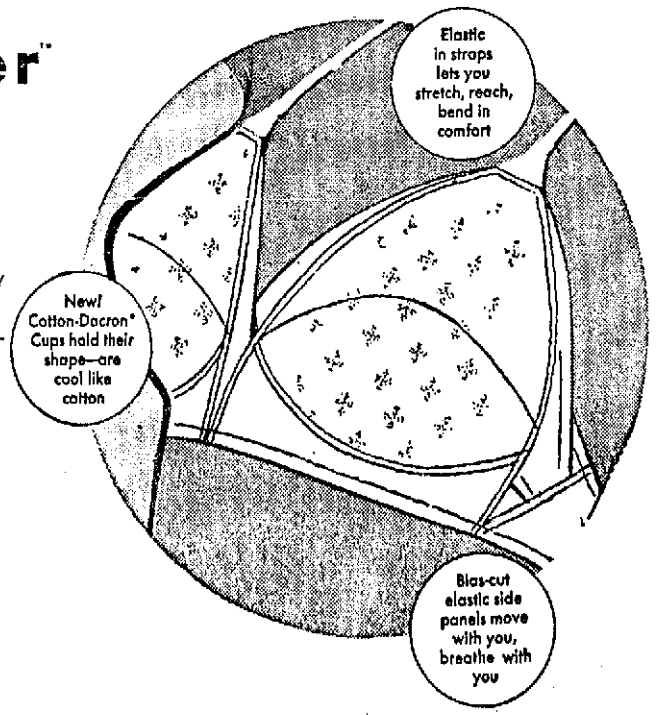

Langdale said all Long Beach ministers will be asked to make petitions available to their congregations. He said the Nov. 28 meeting is open to the public. Refreshments will be served.

NEW DENTAL PROGRAM FOR PENSIONERS NOW IN EFFECT

DR. RAYMOND SAYS:

I have been notified by the California Department of Social Welfare that the following program is now in effect for pensioners.

I QUOTE FROM THEIR LETTER:

"Effective November 1, 1960, as a result of additional funds available for Medical Care, all necessary dental services for Old Age Security recipients will be provided through the Medical Care Trust Fund to cover the entire caseload."

This means that on presentation of your Old Age Security "Identification" card, I can do the following things WITHOUT FURTHER AUTHORIZATION.

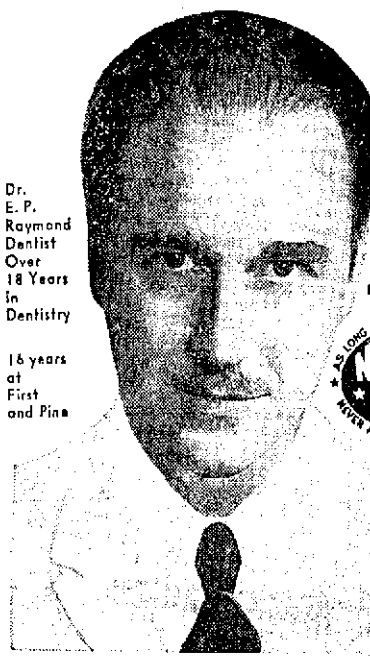

1. EXAMINATION
2. NECESSARY DIAGNOSTIC X-RAYS
3. EMERGENCY CARE
4. DENTURE REPAIRS
5. DENTURE ADJUSTMENTS

To complete your new dental plates, I turn in a report for final authorization after which the county will pay for your dentures.

VISIT DR. RAYMOND'S OFFICE AND LEARN HOW THIS NEW PLAN WILL HELP YOU!

NEVER ANY EXTRAS FOR EASY CREDIT

Plates put in immediately after extractions. No lost time from work. You need not be without your teeth even one day! Ask about Dr. Raymond's IMMEDIATE RESTORATION PLAN.

MODERN DENTAL PLATES aided by "modern" dental plate materials and "improved techniques," used in the construction of dental plates. Dental Science has followed a "progressive" path that resulted in dental plates more natural in "appearance," better fitting and more "comfortable" to wear than thought possible a few short years ago. Ask to see samples of modern dental plates, uppers and lowers and partials. Good dental plates need not be expensive. The cost is small. MY BEST OFFER: Make first payment after Feb. 1, 1961. No interest. No carrying charge.

Kennedy Margin Falls Under All-Time Low

WASHINGTON (UPI)—The percentage margin by which Sen. John F. Kennedy topped Nixon in popular votes fell Saturday below the record low set in the presidential election of 1884.

Not until all the votes are finally and officially tabulated next month will it be known whether the percentage difference in popular votes in this year's election actually was the smallest in history.

still missing and only a fraction of the late-counted absentee ballots still to be tabulated, the United Press International's count Saturday gave:

Kennedy—34,020,063.
Nixon—33,819,535.
Others—448,412.

Kennedy's numerical margin over Nixon of 200,528 — smallest since 1888—wasn't close to the record low of 29,214 recorded in 1884 — the first election in which as many as 10 million ballots were cast.

However, computed as a percentage of the two-party vote, the margin was:

Kennedy—50.1477.
Nixon—49.8522.

That left a difference of only 0.2955 per cent. And it compared with the record low margin of 0.3003 per cent established in that record-setting 1884 election in which Democrat Grover Cleveland defeated Republican James G. Blaine.

In polling a plurality of 29,214 over Blaine, Cleveland got 50.1501 per cent of the two-party vote. Blaine got 49.8498 per cent.

Until this year's balloting on Nov. 8 there had been only two elections in this century in which the winner failed to outpoll the loser by more than one million votes.

Democrat Woodrow Wilson edged Republican Charles Hughes by 594,188 votes in 1916 and Republican William McKinley defeated Democrat William Jennings Bryan by 861,757 popular votes in 1900.

The difference in popular votes between Kennedy and Nixon figured out to 1.2 per precinct.

Nixon Boosts State Lead to 20,531 Votes

SACRAMENTO (UPI)—Vice President Richard M. Nixon's lead in California increased Saturday to 20,531 votes.

With about 5,000 absentee votes still uncounted in San Diego County, and a handful uncounted in Placer County, Nixon had 148,215 absentee votes and President-elect John F. Kennedy had 94,019.

The overall statewide totals were:

Nixon 3,238,519; Kennedy 3,217,988.

Here is the vote breakdown, including corrections by county election officials, new resident votes and absentee votes:

	Semi-Official Count Last Week		Present Vote Including Absentees-NewRegstrts.
County	Nixon	Kennedy	Nixon	Kennedy
Orange-x	155,209	108,231	162,037	110,908
Riverside-x	61,428	48,709	65,855	50,887
Placer	9,645	12,482	10,175	12,887
San Diego	208,687	163,180	216,970	167,645
Totals	3,084,882	3,119985	3,238,519	3,217,988

X—Complete.

JUNEAU, Alaska (AP)—Vice President Nixon clinched Alaska's three presidential electoral votes Saturday as counting of absentee ballots gave him a steadily mounting lead.

With more than half of the state's approximately 5,000 absentee votes tallied Nixon had picked up another 295 and stretched his margin over Democratic president-elect John F. Kennedy to 953.

Works His Way Out

DARTMOOR, England (UPI)—Thornley Lowe, 29, escaped from Dartmoor prison Saturday through a hole in the wall which he had been repairing on a prison work detail.

Navy, AF Plan Vast Atomic Attack Force

WASHINGTON (AP)—U. S. ballistic missile launching planes and submarines will be able to fire about a billion and a half tons of nuclear fury from world-roaming, mobile bases if present building and projected programs are carried out.

This fantastic tonnage would be aside from the massive destruction potential of intercontinental ballistic missiles fired from fixed bases in the United States, intermediate range missiles based aboard and the tonnages of multi-megaton bombs dropped from planes.

* * * *

THE NAVY now is well along in the first phase of its program for building an eventual fleet of about 45 Polaris submarines. The first such submarine, with 16 missiles ready, is now at sea. Each missile today has an energy yield equivalent to slightly over 600,000 tons of conventional TNT explosive; the yield is expected to be increased later to about one million tons (one megaton) per missile. By comparison, the first atomic bomb dropped on Hiroshima was of 20,000-ton size.

The Air Force is pushing its program for a mobile missile launching system called the Skybolt.

These rockets are designed to have a range of about 1,100 miles when launched from B52 bombers, with each bomber carrying two missiles.

Air Force experts estimated Saturday that if only half of the B52 bomber force of 670 aircraft is equipped for Skybolt missiles, the volume of firepower will be about that of the 720-megaton total for the 45 Polaris submarines.

* * * *

THE SKYBOLT is being developed for the Air Force by the Douglas Aircraft Co., as prime contractor, with major subcontractors including Aerojet General Corp., General Electric Co., Boeing Airplane Co. and Northrop Corp.

Preliminary tests of experimental designs have shown the rocket can be launched from planes flying at supersonic or subsonic speeds. The B52 is subsonic. The rocket itself will fly at the hypersonic speed of a ballistic missile.

The argument advanced for the Skybolt system is the same as that for the Polaris: it gets missile launching away from known, fixed bases, using instead launching sites which are constantly on the move, hard to locate or destroy.

A B52 will be able to carry a combination of skybolt missiles, mounted externally, and a bomb bay load of gravity-dropped nuclear bombs.

* * * *

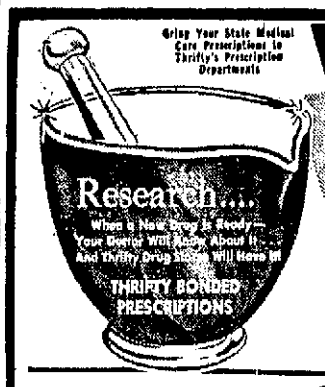

SOME OF THE last B52s still being built can be changed to permit use of the Skybolt, while the changes needed in existing bombers can be made easily and at comparatively moderate cost, Air Force experts say. The missile itself will be propelled with a two-stage, solid fuel power plant.

The Air Force estimates the Skybolt system will begin to come into operation in 1964. This apparently would mean the system would be completed about 1966—which coincides with the target date for completion of the last of the 45 Polaris submarines.

Patient of Healer Drinks Ashes, Dies

TAIPEI, Formosa (AP) — Police are investigating the medical practice of Wang Ti-ching, 70, who claims miraculous results for patients drinking water mixed with the ashes of burnt cloth. One patient died after consuming the ashes of 60 square yards of cloth.

MEDICINE AND YOU

Immunizing Your Young

(Prepared in collaboration with Medical Education Department, Memorial Hospital of Long Beach.)

By BEN ZINSER AND GEORGE X. TRIMBLE, M. D.

The American Academy of Pediatrics has announced a recommended schedule of routine immunizations for children.

The schedule was drawn up by the academy's Committee on Control of Infectious Diseases. The group is composed of some of the nation's foremost pediatricians.

First immunization against polio, diptheria, pertussis (whooping cough) and tetanus should be given when baby is 1½ or 2 months old.

(Vaccine to protect against diptheria, pertussis and tetanus is available in two forms. One is the standard 3-in-1, or DPT. When this form is used, Salk polio vaccine has to be given separately. Also available is a new 4-in-1, which immunizes against all four diseases and spares the child additional injections.)

THE FIRST THREE INOCULATIONS to protect against these four ailments should be given at monthly intervals, says the academy. A fourth injection should be given 8 to 12 months after the third. A booster is recommended when the child is 3 to 4 years old.

Thereafter, another booster should be given every four years, except that whooping cough immunization is not given after a child is 5 years old. An adult diptheria-tetanus preparation may have to be given to the older children, since they may react adversely to the diptheria vaccine prescribed for younger children.

Children 5 years and older who have never received polio-vaccine injections are immunized according to a different schedule: Two Salk shots one month apart, a third 7-12 months after the second, and a fourth a year or more after the third.

Polio boosters should be given, also, before traveling abroad or when entering an epidemic area, the Academy recommends. There is no harm in receiving a Salk injection every year if necessary.

SMALLPOX VACCINATION should first be given when a child is 10 to 12 months old and repeated at the age of 5 or 6 years. Thereafter he should be vaccinated every five years, or when exposed to the disease. Smallpox vaccination also is required before foreign travel if the individual has not been vaccinated within the preceding three years.

The Academy committee says that polio vaccination may be performed safely at any time of year. Reactions to the vaccine are extremely rare, the committee says.

To sum up, here's a chart which shows the Academy's recommendations for immunizations through the teens:

AGE	VACCINE
1½-2 months	DPT & Polio
3 months	DPT & Polio
4 months	DPT & Polio
10-12 months	Smallpox
12-18 months	DPT & Polio
3-4 years	DPT & Polio
5-6 years	Smallpox
8 years	DT* & Polio
12 years	DT* & Polio
16 years	DT* & Polio

*(Special adult-type vaccine for diptheria and tetanus.) Key to chart: D-diptheria, P-pertussis (whooping cough), T-tetanus.

NOTE: Although these are official recommendations, the reader should realize there are reasons occasionally to modify an immunization schedule. Your personal physician can best determine when this should be done.

State's 'Civil War' Statistics Listed

By BOB HOUSER

As forecast, North-South sectional sentiments were obvious in Nov. 8 balloting on California Propositions 1 and 15 but the two issues did not develop parallel voting patterns.

Figuring nine southern counties as the South (San Luis Obispo, Santa Barbara, Los Angeles, San Bernardino, Riverside, Orange, Imperial, San Diego and Ventura), the South voted 61 per cent in favor of Prop. 1, the water-bond issue, while the North voted 64 per cent against. The South's greater numbers spelled the slim margin of passage for the water program.

ON PROP. 15, for senate reapportionment in favor of the South, Los Angeles County was the only county in the state to give a favorable vote. The county's big vote was not enough to overcome the negative vote from the North, hammered Prop. 15 to a 1.5-million-vote defeat.

Herewith the North-South vote on the two so-called civil war issues:

PROP. 1 (WATER)

	YES	NO
North	818,132	1,443,032
South	2,045,450	1,278,220
Total	2,864,450	2,721,252

PROP. 15 (REAPPORTIONMENT)

	YES	NO
North	340,785	1,837,396
South	1,447,763	1,476,998
Total	1,788548	3,314,394

(Absentee ballots not included).

Federal Aid Held Vital to U.S. Science

By FRANK CAREY

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Eisenhower's Science Advisory Committee said Saturday that American science must "double and redouble in size and strength" in the next generation or the nation will become a second rate power with its freedom threatened.

"This means more scientists, better trained, with finer facilities," declared the committee in a special report issued by the White House. And it found increased federal aid the logical answer to these needs.

"We need more men doing more things, with more support, in more places . . .

"It is the simple truth that if this country is to safeguard its freedom and harvest the great opportunities of the next generation of science, the level of its scientific investment must be multiplied and multiplied again."

Saying the federal government is by far the most important source of funds for research in the universities, the committee declared the government should accept growing responsibility for support because it's the only agency big enough to do so.

The committee report was prepared by a special panel on the subject "scientific progress, the universities, and the federal government."

The 27-page document stressed repeatedly that "the process of graduate education and the process of basic research belong together at every possible level . . . and each is weakened when carried on without the other."

* * * *

ASSERTING THAT the present partnership between the universities and the national government is indispensable to first-rate university work in science, the report said:

"It has done much more good than harm. It seems certain to grow in importance unless the American people decide to acccept a second-rate standing in terms of power, of comfort, and of knowledge."

Critically appraising the roles of both the federal government and the universities, the report said the government's system of supporting research by contracts tends to separate research from education.

Car Smashes Into Home at 100 M.P.H., Kills Infant

HOMESTEAD, Fla. (AP)—A car speeding from police at an estimated 100 miles per hour smashed into a small apartment Saturday, killing a baby girl.

Eight-month-old Vicki Lynn McCoy and her mother were knocked through a carport wall. Mrs. Joseph McCoy is in critical condition with a broken leg and pelvis. Her husband suffered a broken arm.

Police said the car's driver leaped from the wreckage and ran.

Five hours later, Jacob McCray, 27, of Homestead was arrested and charged with manslaughter.

Mexican Newborn Weighs 16.5 Pounds

MEXICO CITY (AP) — The largest birth ever recorded in Mexico, a boy weighing 16½ pounds and looking the size of a 1-year-old, was delivered by caesarean section in a hospital. Doctors said the mother, Elodia Uribe de Tellez, and her son are doing well.

Club's Rocket Flops After 2 Years Work

EL PASO, Tex. (AP) — The sleek, five-foot aluminum rocket flashed into the air. Straight up it soared. Then at 500 feet it started a crazy flight across the New Mexico sky. Its stabilizing fins had fallen off.

The four-inch diameter, solid-propellent missile continued into the sky for about 200 more feet before it started somersaulting. Finally, after about 40 seconds in the air, the rocket's engine burned out and it fell on the Hueco rocket range, outside El Paso.

Thus ended two years of designing, building and dreaming by seven Chicago teen-agers. Nicholas Gruin, 14; Charles Newman, 16; Lawrence Day, 15; Mark Rekase, 16; Peter Field, 17; Paul Lief, 17, and Peter Legus, 16, belong to the Lane Amateur Rocket Society.

They built the rocket at Lane Technical High School with instruction from faculty advisor Joseph J. Ecki. They arrived Friday aboard an Air Force C47, spent the night at Ft. Bliss and early Saturday came to the range for their big moment.

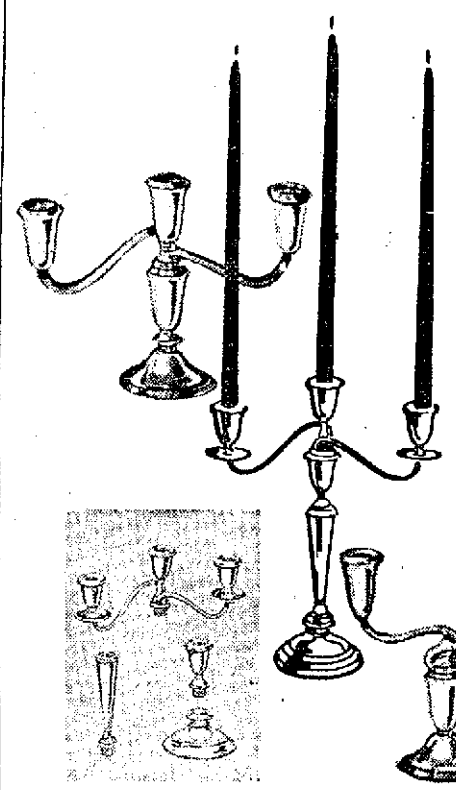

They had hoped the rocket would soar 35,000 feet, a new record for amateur rocket firing. They next plan a two-stage rocket.

INFLATION has done violence to a lot of traditional values, among them some favorite old cliches and terminology. "Thanks a million" doesn't seem so generous any more and long since it became ridiculous to speak of a $64 question.

Now Grace Bottles notes that "pin money" is just about useless. "From here on," she writes, "nothing less than 'railroad spike' money will be worth mentioning."

MEMORIAL Hospital management got a shocker of a letter the other day from a woman who had, as an indigent, gone through the hospital's prenatal and delivery facilities for the flat sum of $70.

She wrote that since her stay at the hospital she had come upon better times. Things were looking up financially for her and she now wanted to pay the full amount of the regular bill for the services she received.

Hospital officials rubbed their eyes and looked up the record on this unusual citizen. They found, among other things, that she is a full-blooded American Indian girl.

There's obviously something to be said for giving the country back to the Indians.

"BEYOND the call of duty" service was rendered the other day by William Winther, a Torrance policeman. He went to the hospital to investigate the case of a girl who had been injured in an auto accident. Learning that she needed blood, and quickly, he gave a pint, picked up the facts for his report, and went back to the station.

And on the subject of blood donations, public record should be made of the fine thing just done by members of Long Beach State College fraternities.

At an Interfraternity meeting, it was reported that a stranger here—one who had just arrived from Canada and immediately underwent heart surgery — needed 22 pints of blood. He hadn't been here long enough to acquire friends or neighbors who might help out.

The word went out to the fraternities and the next day 24 pints had been donated.

IT'S the tag end of the football season and one little high school girl startled us the other day when she looked up from the sports page and asked my teen-age daughter: "What's a first down?" This sweetie had been yelling her head off all season at the games.

Makes one wonder how many people — not just little high school girls — watch a lot of football without understanding the basic mechanics of the game.

Recently at the Coliseum a man nearby was having a heckuva time explaining to his feminine companion why a field captain would refuse to accept a penalty imposed by officials on the other team.

He was having a hard time convincing her it wasn't a case of pure gallantry.

Hep Teen-Age Dancers Converted to Squares

A ROCK-AND-ROLL FLING sweeps the coiffure of Connie Davies, 13, into a blonde cone as she twirls with Joe McNabb, 17. But like hundreds of the Southland's younger set, Connie and Joe also find time for square dancing, once considered strictly for "squares." They are swayed by growing family interest in the pioneer dance.—(Staff photos by Kent Henderson.)

Councilmen Ponder Municipal Bus Plan

By GEORGE WEEKS

City officials are moving gradually but with growing firmness toward a municipal bus system — if the Long Beach voters want one.

An early decision, to be reached within weeks, will be whether to spend a small amount of tax money to determine whether a larger outlay is justified, and if so, along what lines.

Pending before the City Bureau of Franchises and the City Council is a 75-page report recommending the employment of a transit consultant firm to devise a plan of public transportation.

Such a contract would be founded on the premise that transit service on a level higher than can be expected from a privately-owned carrier should be provided with city assistance.

Consensus among officials is that a system on that order is desirable. Whether it is justified may await a report by the consultants and, eventually, an expression by the electorate.

* * * *

HENRY E. JORDAN, chief engineer of the bureau and the city's top transportation expert, prepared the report. He opened it with the assertion that public transit "can no longer generate sufficient revenue to fully support the level of service needed for the economic and social welfare of a metropolitan community."

He stopped short of an outright proposal for municipal ownership or subsidy. But a majority of city councilmen appeared to be more than half convinced that this alternative must be considered in some detail.

If that trend is confirmed, Jordan suggested that a consultant be assigned to develop a plan that will include:

—The statutory authority that would be required, including the type of city agency exercising supervision.

—The form of service — transit routes, level of service, fares and type of equipment and facilities.

—Methods of acquiring the equipment and facilities, along with cost estimates.

—Estimated results for the first five years of operation.

—Methods of financing and of handling the surplus or deficiency that would come from operating revenues.

* * * *

ALTHOUGH HE IS a recognized transportation expert, Jordan said he preferred that the study be made by an outsider to head off charges of discrimination and prejudice on the part of a city employe.

Most of his report consisted of a synopsis of statutory authority and some of the transit history of 17 other cities—from nearby Torrance and Montebello to New York City — that have subsidized transportation systems.

At the outset councilmen were offered scant hope that the city will be able to attract any substantial number of new passengers. Of the other cities surveyed, only one reported such an increase between 1955 and 1959.

Eight registered an increase in gross revenue, but in most of these cases fares were raised.

Depending on such variable factors as levels of service and skill in management, there is a fair chance that Long Beach could at least break even on its own system, once established and financed. At any rate, 11 cities in the survey had an excess or revenues over operating expenses. Five reported deficitis.

Among the 13 instances of fare increases, the raises ranged from 13.3 per cent in San Antonio to 69.4 per cent in Montebello.

* * * *

ON ONE POINT Jordan made a firm recommendation —that the transit agency be prolected from pressure groups demanding "wasteful and superfluous service."

Most of the cities operating or assisting bus systems agree. In nine cases the administration is in the hands of a board, in two a commission is directly responsible and only six city councils retain the reins in their own hands.

In Long Beach a vote of the electorate is considered certain, if the city's entry in the transportation field ever reaches that stage—for charter amendments and for authorization of bonds.

In other cities the history has been mixed. Seven have had approval by the electorate and eight have not.

Councilmen are not yet fully convinced that the city must get into the transit field on its own. But there is a substantial opinion on the Council that eventually, if necessary, the city must help pay for transportation as a necessary service just as it now pays for fire protection, street maintenance and other long-established municipal services.

Wade Thinks L.B. Needs Full-Time, Full-Pay Mayor

After 4½ months in office, Mayor Edwin W. Wade is firmly convinced that Long Beach should have a full-time mayor, paid a full-time salary and elected by citywide vote.

The mayor said he believes other councilmen should be paid salaries commensurate with full-time jobs of like importance, but stressed that he believes council-manager form of government be retained.

He suggested that councilmen be paid about $12,000 a year and that the mayor's salary be $16,000 to $18,000 a year.

Of the three requirements he set forth for mayor, Wade qualified in only one respect —he works more than full time, including many evenings.

His salary is the same as that of other city councilmen, $200 per month. And although he was elected by a citywide vote as a councilman (after nomination in the Fifth District), he became mayor by a vote of council members.

* * * *

WHEN HIS IDEAS have crystalized, Wade said, he intends to work for them to the extent of proposing a charter amendment and risking his own chances for re-election, if necessary.

MAYOR WADE
Favors Charter Change

"My experience in this job convinces me that the time is past when the office should be considered mostly a civic duty. The business of the city has become too big and complex for that," he said in an interview.

"The same is true of councilmen. The city would have been money ahead if it had paid its councilmen and their staffs half a million dollars a year in recent years for men who could have afforded to give full time to the job. We could have saved that much and more on subsidence alone."

* * * *

A MAYOR elected by citywide vote would not only have greater prestige when representing the city but would be in a better position to heal dissension within the council itself and in City Hall generally, he asserted.

Wade mentioned no names, but he noted that the scars of the mayoralty election last July still come to the surface around the councilmanic table. Besides presiding over the council, he has had the responsibility of conciliation among its members and between the council and the administrative department.

"I am not suggesting that either the mayor or the council should become an administrator," he emphasized. "We have enough to do legislating, deciding policy and answering to our constituents. I believe the council-manager system is best."

* * * *

ALTHOUGH HE HASN'T decided on all the details of his charter proposals, the mayor is inclined to think that the present method of nominating councilmen by districts and electing them citywide is satisfactory, that the mayor should continue to have a vote on the council rather than veto authority and that the number of councilmanic districts should be reduced.

On the matter of pay, Wade said, in his brief tenure, the office has cost him considerably more than his salary.

"And I know the same was true, probably to a greater extent, with other recent mayors," he added.

Wade said his opinions, already taking form from the demands made on him and other councilmen, were strengthened by the consensus of officials with whom he discussed the subject at a recent meeting of the National Municipal League.

Hoedown Attracts Teen Set

Rock-and-roll no longer has a monopoly among the younger set. For hundreds of them, the newest fad is the favorite fling of pioneer days—square dancing.

Growing family interest in the hoedown is credited with stimulating a youth invasion of the ancient domain of the boot-stomping country fiddler.

* * * *

NOW THERE ARE 58 teenage and pre-teen clubs and 47 square dance classes devoted entirely to youngsters in 18 Southland cities.

Sessions exclusively for teen and pre-teen dancers have been scheduled in the hoedown sponsored by South Coast Association of Square Dance Clubs in Municipal Auditorium next Sunday.

WHILE ADULTS are dancing in Convention Hall from 2 to 5 p.m., the young people will twirl in the Exhibition Hall from 4 to 6 p.m. Round dancing is slated from 5 to 7 p.m. in Convention Hall and square dancing from 7 to 10 in both halls.

The hoedown will feature more than 30 callers, live and recorded music, four host clubs and guest masters-of-ceremony.

Spectators will be admitted free.

MEMBERS OF K-BAR-H TEEN TWIRLERS rehearse for the South Coast Association of Square Dance Clubs Hoedown next Sunday in Long Beach Municipal Auditorium. Sessions exclusively for the teenagers and pre-teens are programmed from 4 to 6 p. m. Adults will do-se-do in another hall.

L.A. Auto Show Sets Record

Los Angeles International Auto Show attendance at Pan Pacific Auditorium passed 212,000 Saturday night, a new 10-day record.

A breakdown of behavior categories among visitors revealed these totals:

Door slammers — 34 per cent.

Upholstery squeezers — 26 per cent.

Paint snippers — 19 per cent.

Tire kickers—4 per cent.

Recreation Dept. Tells Attendance

An aggregate attendance of more than nine million was recorded by the Long Beach Recreation Department in the fiscal year 1959-1960.

An additional eight and one-half million attendance was recorded at the city's beaches.

Participation in activities included these subtotals:

Sports, 546,450; cultural, 269,490; senior citizens, 404,982; camping and nature, 16,296; school playground and other municipal services, 2,885,000; parks and supervised aquatic areas, 5,084,036.

Pastors of City Joining Crusade to Reduce Road Deaths, Injuries

By H. A. PARK
L. P-T Church Editor

The clergy of the city went into action this weekend as a force on the side of law enforcement officials and the Long Beach Chapter of the National Safety Council in the battle against highway traffic fatalities.

Posters bearing a modernized Bible language slogan "Let There Be Safe Driving" went out to the churches for display. In some churches the pastors probably will take time today to tell their congregations about their moral responsibilities as drivers. If not, they will do so in the coming weeks.

* * * *

RELIGIOUS emphasis is being given to the drive to reverse the trend in irresponsible driving and it will be stepped up in an effort to make the coming holiday season a safer one on Long Beach highways.

Ministers have responded to the request of William A. Salvin, president of Long Beach Chapter of the National Safety Council. A committee of pastors is being organized to make the church appeal to drivers more effective.

IT WAS AGREED at the first committee meeting that the campaign, which will be given special emphasis during the holiday season, must be made a year around crusade. Pastors of all faiths are joining in the campaign.

The enlistment of the religious leaders in the drive to make America a safer place in which to use the highways, while just getting under way here, is in line with similar action in all parts of the nation. If you are a church attendant you will hear more about traffic from the standpoint of moral responsibility.

Worldwide Yule Theme For Lighting

"Christmas Around the World" has been selected as the theme for the annual Junior Chamber of Commerce Christmas Lighting Contest, Gordon Meinert, Jaycee chairman, announced Saturday.

Trophies will be awarded in five classes: Indoor display, outdoor display, outdoor lighting, children's division and special award. Judging will be done by people prominent in the fields of art, decoration, design and architecture, Meinert said.

An entry fee of $1 is being charged, and must be submitted to the Junior Chamber office, 121 Linden Ave., by Dec. 17.

Voters Will Have Last Say on Any Offshore Drilling

CITY COUNCIL action calling for preparation of a comprehensive plan for developing the huge untapped tideland oil field which lies offshore from Long Beach appears to be in the best interests of the city.

It means that Long Beach has learned from its problems of the past and intends to protect and enhance the city in the future.

For many years now, competent petroleum consultants have been advising the city that one of the largest oil fields in the world lies in the city offshore area.

Nevertheless, regardless of pressures, Long Beach has declined to develop that field—and for good reason. It would have been sheer folly to proceed with additional production as long as the subsidence problem, centering in the harbor district oil field, remained unresolved.

TODAY, HOWEVER, the main reason for failing to advance a development plan for the offshore area is rapidly diminishing. Oil field waterflooding has proved to be effective in controlling subsidence, and many experts predict that earth sinkage soon will no longer be a problem for Long Beach.

Long Beach controls the local tidelands as trustee for the state, and it shares oil revenue therefrom with the state. Consequently, when subsidence is fully brought under control, the state will be looking toward Long Beach to produce more revenue from this great natural resource. If Long Beach fails to do so, it will run the risk of forfeiting control to the state.

The experts say there is a billion barrels or more of oil in this city offshore field, and it stands to reason that a resource of this magnitude will, and should, be developed. The challenge facing Long Beach is to see to it that the program undertaken is in accordance with local desire for shoreline development.

AS THE CITY Council emphasized in its request for a comprehensive plan, avoidance of subsidence should be the No. 1 requirement. Unitized operations also should be required, and drill sites should be designed so as to enhance, rather than detract from, the beauty of the shoreline.

In weighing the Council's request for this comprehensive plan, we suggest that citizens keep in mind these two important points:

1. The city's Master Plan for Shoreline Development, approved early this year following extensive public hearings, cannot be fully financed within a reasonable period of time unless additional production is undertaken.

2. A vote of the people will be required before any drilling operations can be authorized in the offshore area.

Consequently, it is up to the Council and city officials to produce a total program which will both guard against subsidence and enhance shoreline development. This will take time to develop properly, and the Council displays foresight in starting now.

State Chief May Be 'Big Surprise'

By WALTER T. RIDDER, WILLIAM W. BROOM AND ROBERT E. LEE

WASHINGTON—These days any Washington dinner party automatically starts off with the engaging and conversation-provoking topic of: "Who's going to be secretary of state?" The question is a hostess' delight. The ensuing discussion can keep going all night.

The obvious names brought up are those of Adlai E. Stevenson and Chester Bowles. Then, too, Sen. William Fulbright and veteran diplomat, David K. E. Bruce are invariably mentioned. So is Eugene Black, currently head of the World Bank. John J. McCloy, also once head of the World Bank, and now president of the Chase-Manhattan Bank, is another one running strong in the conversational race.

There's a large group of persons who maintain that none of the above will be named and that President-elect Kennedy will pick "a big surprise." It is all very confusing, the only certainty being that no one around here knows who will get the post and it is doubtful whether Kennedy himself has made up his mind.

A LOT OF SENATORS are being mentioned for one cabinet post or another. Forget most of the guesses. Kennedy is not likely to strip himself of Senate support by moving men out of Congress and into the executive. He'll need every vote he can get in the upper chamber, so in all probability no senator or at the most one will receive an appointment to something.

AS POLITICAL campaigns go, this past one was the longest, most expensive, most travelling, and most publicized in history. It was also probably the most humorless. While Senator Kennedy has a good sense of humor, he obviously played it down remembering the fate of the last great humorist to exhibit his style on the political stump —Adlai E. Stevenson. Vice President Nixon has never been famous for his wit and he did nothing to enhance his reputation during the campaign battles.

Get Up, We've Got a Job to Do

JOSEPH ALSOP

Exposure of GOP Reports Will Aid Kennedy Mandate

WASHINGTON—The narrowness of Senator Kennedy's margin of victory is an important political fact. It has touched off a debate about whether the President-elect really has a mandate to carry out his program. He says, rather firmly, that he has a mandate, but others disagree.

If you look at the voting figures, to begin with, you discover that it was a considerable feat to win by any margin at all. In New York state, a Republican 1956 majority of nearly 1,600,000 was turned into a Democratic majority of 400,000. In Illinois, a Republican 1956 majority of just under one million was successfully overcome.

ALSOP

These calculations are far less significant, however, than another forgotten fact which will soon loom very large indeed. In brief, when Kennedy enters the White House, he will automatically acquire the keys to the closet where the skeletons are kept.

* * * *

THERE ARE skeletons enough, unhappily, to change the American mood overnight. There is the grim series of U. S. Information Agency reports on this country's true standing and influence in the world. There is the nightmarish Gaither Report on our defense posture; and there are at least three earlier reports which are broadly comparable to the Gaither Report. This defense series started, indeed, with the "Solarium" paper of 1953.

If and when released, in whole or in part, these suppressed documents and many others like them will prove to the country that the national situation has been grossly and persistently misrepresented for years on end. They cannot be challenged as partisan documents, either, since they were prepared by and for the Eisenhower administration.

* * * *

THE SIMPLE fact that the administration then put these documents in the skeleton-closet, without further ado, will have its own considerable impact. The bleak facts contained in the documents will have a vastly greater impact. Once the truth emerges from the skeleton-closet, the Kennedy mandate is certain to be more decisive than it is today.

If allowance is made for this vital future development, one can make a fairly accurate computation of how far the Kennedy mandate will extend in all but one of the main policy areas. In the area of foreign and defense policy, to begin with, the mandate will have no serious limitations. The country and the Congress are more likely to want the new President to do too much, than to place obstacles in his way.

In the social welfare area, again, there is every reason to believe that the new President can get the Congress to do what he wants about medical care for the aged, the depressed areas, aid to education and minimum wages. Though represented as radical, the measures he advocates are far from extreme. With no one in the White House to hold them back, a fair number of middle-of-the-road Republicans from industrial states will go along with Kennedy.

* * * *

IN THE AREA of civil rights, the first question mark is encountered. It is put there by the important role of the South in the Kennedy victory. Yet the Southern Democrats knew what they were getting when they chose Kennedy instead of Nixon. Neither Kennedy nor Lyndon Johnson ever spoke out of both sides of their mouths at any time in the campaign.

Furthermore, the biggest needs in the area of civil rights are not legislative needs. The biggest needs are for more vigorous executive action, and for more determinal moral leadership in the White House. Hence the question-mark about civil rights is not really grave.

The only grave question-mark is to be found, in fact, in the area of fiscal and tax policy. In this area, unhappily, acutely painful measures may be essential if the U. S. is to pay the bill for regaining the ground we have lost in the area of foreign and defense policy.

* * * *

WHEN THE skeletons in the closet are publicly exhibited, and the whole country knows how much ground has been lost, the clamor to regain the lost ground will be fierce. But will it be fierce enough to secure general consent to the measures needed to pay the bill? That question will prove the sharpest test of Kennedy's leadership.

JACK ANDERSON

Protestant Clergy Awaits Jack's Birth Control Stand

(Drew Pearson's associate, Jack Anderson, substitutes for Pearson today.)

WASHINGTON — President-elect Jack Kennedy's victory at the polls hasn't completely laid the religious bugaboo to rest. Awaiting his arrival in the White House is a foreign aid survey that will put him on an uncomfortable spot with his church.

The survey boldly recommends birth control assistance to underdeveloped, overpopulated countries which may request it.

Many underdeveloped countries regard population planning necessary to raise their living standards. However, the Catholic Church is morally opposed to birth control and would object vigorously to spending public money for that purpose.

PEARSON

Meanwhile, Kennedy will be watched with a stern, critical eye by many Protestant clergymen who remain uneasy over his religion. Among them is the great evangelist, the Rev. Billy Graham, himself, who discreetly did not take sides in the presidential campaign.

He seemed to be doing his utmost, however, to let the voters know his preference.

The evangelist's father-in-law, Dr. Nelson Bell, wrote an anti-Catholic tract that was circulated throughout the South during the campaign.

Billy Graham's own pastor, the Rev. W. A. Criswell of the First Baptist Church in Dallas, was one of the most outspoken Protestant ministers against Kennedy.

BEHIND KREMLIN WALLS—Behind the Kremlin's pale, yellow walls, an ominous debate has been raging over whether the United States can be crippled by a "nuclear Pearl Harbor."

The chief advocate of surprise attack has been none other than Nikita Khrushchev, the Communist czar, who supposedly has renounced nuclear war as an instrument of Communist policy.

This startling information is contained in a Pentagon intelligence report which traces Soviet military strategy back to the late dictator Stalin.

"Khrushchev wanted an offensive policy and argued that nuclear weapons enabled the side which seized the initiative to make short work of the victim," reports the Pentagon document. "Since Malenkov's ouster in 1955 the doctrine of surprise attack has found increasing acceptance in Soviet military circles."

* * * *

OPPOSITION has been raised inside the Russian general staff, however, by Maj. Gen. Nikolay Talensky. At first he believed that a surprise bombardment with nuclear weapons might be decisive.

But lately he has come around to the view that both the victim and aggressor would be destroyed and that half the world's population would be wiped out by nuclear war.

How much he has influenced Khrushchev, however, is still mushroom-clouded.

BOB HOUSER

If Everybody Took a Trip, GOP Would Win Them All

LAST NIGHT I SAW upon the slate; a mandate for my candidate; the absentees came in today; now my mandate's gone away!

California—giver of many good things, but Indian giver of many things politic, has long boasted a unique alchemy by which it can change paper ballots into gold. It's called absentee voting. The formula is unavailable to Democrats.

HOUSER

Pushed to its ultimate, Republicans could assure continuous political tenure through the rest of time if they could but get everybody to leave the state a couple weeks before election day and cast their votes by mail.

Big example, of course, is the ex post facto gift of California to Vice President Nixon on the strength of votes by people who weren't here. What better proof that this absentee dodge is a Republican distillate than to consider the case of our own Los Angeles County.

KENNEDY TOOK the county. You might think absentees would trickle back to Registrar Ben Hite in about the same proportion as the regular vote. But when the envelopes were slit, so was Kennedy's political throat. Absentees went 49,000 to 29,000 in Nixon's favor.

Consider our own 18th District. Hite's figures show Craig Hosmer collecting 75 per cent of the late paper; it was 4,480 votes to 1,548 to his congressional opponent Pat Ahern.

Although Joe Kennick won reelection to the Assembly, his opponent Herb Klocksiem won the absentee victory 1,295 to 1,010. Bill Grant's comfortable margin in the 70th Assembly District got a 1,400-vote additional pad by an absentee count of 2,450 to 1,089 for Democrat Mrs. Ora Knudson.

What happens here? Does absence make the heart grow Republican? Experts I've asked say no; they say Republicans make the ballots go absent. They say Republicans are generally more affluent and thus more likely to be vacationing at poll time. GOP people add the probable truth that Republicans take their voting obligation more seriously and don't neglect casting their ballots from their position of minority in registration.

GOP WORKERS charged with squeezing out every last vote work diligently on absentees. Why shouldn't they when they have all of California recent history to demonstrate that absentees report overwhelmingly in favor of their party?

Now, a couple of other considerations. If you vote absentee in this state you may mark your ballot as early as Oc. 19. Could it be that voters marking that early might be swayed by a current opinion poll which showed Nixon with a slight edge?

What if the roving elector finds himself with pen in hand in New York on election day. He can see East Coast returns before he even mails his California ballot because of the time lag. Say he sees Kennedy sweeping. Does he then mark for Kennedy to play the win, or does he mark and post for Nixon in a retaliatory gesture?

Absentee voters are good voters. Of 91,000 requested in this county, 91 per cent were returned. Nixon picked up 63 per cent of them. Nixon did just as well among the "new resident" voters, recent California arrivals who could vote only for the presidency. Nixon got 2,211 of them to 1,368 for Kennedy.

OBSERVERS IRKED at the slow absentee count are also irked at the Nov. 14 deadline for receipt of mailed ballots. Hite says this deadline might just as well be Nov. 8, election day because 98 per cent of all absentee ballots had been received by his office on election day.

However, that would not likely speed the count because processing of them was started the day after election and it still took all that time to reach a total.

Whatever else absenteesim proves, it has convinced even Democrats that if you're real gone, it's two to one you're a Republican.

Wants Election of High Judges

EDITOR:

Now that the presidential election is over and the people of the nation have signified a conservative trend in their voting of representatives, I believe that serious thought should be given to replace or impeach the majority of Supreme Court justices who have given lip service to known Communists and have interfered with the rights of the Congress—the one legislative body of our tri-part system of government.

It is a shame that a man like Earl Warren, who was literally kicked upstairs by the Republican Party so that he would not be a serious threat to the presidential position, is allowed to "legislate" and create national problems—the like of which this country has not seen.

Since the position of the Supreme Court has created problems for respective state governments, I feel that these offices should be voted on by the people so that justices more sympathetic to the various problems of the peoples of every segment and geographical location of this country be represented.

Hails Kennedy's Win as 'Greatest'

EDITOR:

The press as well as the politicians boast that President-elect Jack Kennedy has not won a "mandate" from the voters of any type in the past election; possibly not a mandate, but he has won the greatest victory of any presidential candidate in the history of our country. Mr. Kennedy is the first presidential candidate that has ever had the Protestant churches definitely against him and survived its attitude of "bigotry," as well as the desertion of thousands of so-called loyal Democrats.

Had Mr. Kennedy been other than of the Catholic faith, he would have won the election by the largest plurality of any candidate in our history. It's hard for this writer to understand how we, the greatest nation in the world, claiming free religion, freedom of the press, and freedom from colonization, could denounce and refuse to support any individual for any public office on account of his religious belief. The time is ripe for the Christian element to pray for forgiveness for their errors.

Sees Big Deficits From New Annex

EDITOR:

In a Nov. 4 headline, your paper carried the news that auditorium operating revenues are up $18,000. But seven lines down in the story it reported the city auditor found a $33,210 loss for last year's operation. This fact did not make the headline, even though the amount is nearly twice that of the other figure.

It was too bad we did not have a 10-months audit report on the auditorium before the May 10 vote for the annex. That would have had an affect on the vote.

With the completion of the annex we will be heading for bigger and bolder deficits for both buildings. Auditorium deficits are provided for in the city budget, not tidelands funds. Now that the Council has authorized that revenue from parking lots shall go into another fund, auditorium deficits will exceed $100,000.

When the new annex opens—well, we ain't seen nothin' yet.

Machines Help Students to Make Progress at Own Pace

By LOUIS CASSELS
United Press International

U.S. schools are gingerly experimenting with a variety of new "teaching machines" that may prove to be the most revolutionary development in education in many years.

At least 20 types of teaching machines are now on the market.

They apply the modern sciences of automation to a method of instruction as old as Socrates.

Educators call it the "tutorial method." It consists of leading an individual student, at his own pace, through a carefully-planned program of learning in which the subject matter is broken down into a series of very small steps.

At each step, the student is given a question to answer or a problem to solve, along with some hints or promptings. When he responds, he is told immediately whether he was right or wrong. If he was right, he goes on to another closely-related problem. If he was wrong, he is told why, and is given another crack at solving it correctly.

* * * *

HUMAN TUTORS do all this, of course, by simple verbal exchange with the student. Mechanical tutors, or teaching machines, do it by presenting the problem in writing (in an aperture of the machine, or on a TV-like screen) and lettering the student respond in either of two basic ways.

In one type of machine, he is given a multiple choice of answers and presses a button to record his choice. The machine then tells him (usually by flashing a red or a green light) whether he was right, and presents him with another problem, or an explanation of why his answer was wrong.

The other type of machine requires the student to write out his answer on a movable roll of paper. When he has done so, the answer is rolled up under a sheet of glass, so that he can't tamper with it, and the correct answer is simultaneously revealed to him in another aperture.

* * * *

THE FIRST teaching machine was invented in the early 1920's by Prof. S. L. Pressey of Ohio State university. Its potentialities were largely ignored by educttors, however, until 1954 when Dr. B. F. Skinner, professor of psychology at Harvard, threw his prestige behind the idea.

Skinner and others who have experimented with teaching machines say that their effect is remarkably like providing a private tutor for each student.

They say the machine requires a continuous, active response from the student (unlike lectures, textbooks, movies or television teaching) and insists that each point be thoroughly understood before he proceeds to another.

Also, like a good tutor, the machine presents just the material which the student is ready to handle, lets him move ahead as fast as he can or as slowly as he must, patiently gives him the amount of practice and repetition which he personally requires, and "reinforces" his responses by letting him know immediately (instead of a week later, when the test papers are graded) whether his answers are right or wrong.

Ather advantages are claimed: the machines are cheat-proof; they can free teachers from much of the drudgery of administering tests and grading papers; they appeal to the mechanical instincts of modern youngsters.

* * * *

IF EXPERIENCE bears out all of these claims, teaching machines doubtless will play an increasingly important role in education, and they may even become what some enthusiasts are already calling them — the answer to the teacher shortage.

But more educators are taking a wait-and-see attitude. They've been through "educational revolutions" before (radio, movies, TV teaching, etc.) and they know how easy it is to overrate the potential contribution of a new technological gadget.

They also know that teaching machines have not yet been tested on a large scale in ordinary classroom situations — and that any new technique looks good when it's being tried out by enthusiastic teachers and students under the artificial stimulus of an experimental situation.

In the words of one educator, "the cart is waiting, and it looks splended. As soon as the horse arrives, we'll try it out."

Lincoln Stamp Issued in N.Y.

NEW YORK (AP)—A four-cent postage stamp bearing a quotation from a letter written by Abraham Lincoln was issued Saturday on the 97th anniversary of the Civil War President's Gettysburg address.

The quotation, "Those who deny freedom to others deserve it not for themselves," was taken from a letter written April 6, 1859.

The stamp, printed in red and green on white, was sponsored by the National Urban League and is the fifth stamp in the American Credo series.

Find Anti-K Sign at Red Factory

BERLIN (UPI) — A sign saying "Khrushchev brings only unrest to the world" was painted on the wall of a state-owned factory in Karl Marx-Stadt, East Germany, the Communist newspaper Volkstimme reported.

Volkstimme said the sign was painted by someone "falsely oriented, the enemy of the workers."

Grain Lost to Rats

NEW DELHI, India (AP) — The ministry of food and agriculture estimates about 2.4 million tons of grain are eaten annually by India's rats.

5,000 Scots Protest U.S. Polaris Base

GLASGOW, Scotland (AP)—More than 5,000 demonstrators paraded through the streets of Glasgow Saturday in a mile-long protest march against the setting up of a U.S. Polaris submarine base on the River Clyde.

Three Laborite Members of Parliament — Emrys Hughes, John Rankin and John Forman — led the march.

At an open-air protest meeting, the Rev. Clifford Maguire of Trinity Congregational Church moved a resolution of protest which was passed unanimously.

There was a demonstration also in London. About 1,000 persons marched from a meeting of "The London Peace Campaign" in Trafalgar Square to hand a letter of protest to the U.S. embassy.

Russ Tourist Gyp Revealed

MOSCOW (AP) — The Soviet press said Saturday some workers at the Sheremeteva Airport buffet have cheated travelers out of 150,000 rubles by halving portions of caviar and diluting good cognac with bad. By Russian evaluation that's $37,500.

The buffet is patronzed chiefly by Western tourists since the airport is a terminal for international flights.

Camel Riders Greet Nasser

KHARTOUM, Sudan (UPI) More than 100,000 camel riders rode in formation under floodlights in a display honoring visiting President Gamal Abdel Nasser of the United Arab Republic.

Thousands of other mounted warriors on camels and horseback lined Nasser's route to the Sibdo Lake exhibition site. He was accompanied by Sudanese President Gen. Ibrham Abboud.

Rusk in Belgrade

Bombay Dockers Set Unloading Record

By LEE CRAIG

An eight-man longshore gang at the Port of Bombay, India, has laid claim to a record which should interest local dock workers.

In one 8-hour shift, the gang unloaded 537 tons of iron and steel from a ship last Oct. 19. Altogether, 3,230 tons made up the ship's cargo and it was discharged in two shifts totaling 14 hours.

This was an all-India record and perhaps, according to a spokesman of the Port Trust, a world record for one gang of manual workers.

* * * *

EACH MAN of the record-setting group received 85.50 rupees for the day's work, again an Indian record. This is a little under $18.

Indian longshoremen work under a piece-rate system of payment, in which they receive extra pay for performance over a minimum tonnage which varies with the type of cargo.

With this incentive, the undersized native dockers have been turning out fantastic cargo handling figures. The record cited above is probably already broken.

With a similar system in effect, the same results were achieved at Ensenada, where the little Mexican longshoremen loaded cotton as if they were jet-propelled.

* * * *

A FEATURE STORY in the Independent, Press-Telegram a year or so ago on the Ensenada operation drew letters from local dockers whose theme was that these poor Mexicans were being exploited; that they were being tricked into breaking their backs for a pittance under miserable working conditions while their foreign employers were amassing huge profits.

This is poppycock.

If being exploited explains why they're happy and grateful for a chance to work and earn more money than they ever had before, then the rest of us could stand a little exploitation.

'Life on Planets' Topic for Lecture

Five continuing lectures will be presented this week by the General Adult Division of Long Beach City College.

"Life on Other Planets?" is the topic of the third talk in the current space science forum scheduled for 7:30 p.m. Wednesday in the City College auditorium.

Speaker will be Dr. Normon Horowitz, professor of biology at the California Institute of Technology. Dr. Horowitz is a member of Journal of Biological Chemistry editorial board and was one of the delegates to a 1957 worldwide symposium on the origin of life.

Other admission-free programs this week:

MONDAY

Your Legal Rights—John L. Goddard, "Government: Courts and Legal Procedure," 7:30 p.m., Washington Junior High School auditorium.

African Report, 1960—Dr. Giles T. Brown, "Kenya—Another Congo?" (illustrated), 7:30 p.m., Room 202, Poly High School.

TUESDAY

Exploring Into Central America—Herbert Williams, "Central Highlands of Guatemala," 7:30 p.m., Room 202, Poly High School.

WEDNESDAY

Nutrition for Senior Citizens—Dr. Michael J. Walsh, "Nutrients by the Calorie," 2 p.m., Dewey High School auditorium.

Note: Because of the Thanksgiving holiday, the final program of the Thursday evening series, "The Wonderful World of Organ Music," will be presented Dec. 1.

Kuchel Opposes Foreign Oil for Navy

WASHINGTON (UPI)—Sen. Thomas H. Kuchel, R-Calif., asked the Defense Department Saturday to put off foreign oil purchases for the Navy until Congress can study the condition of the domestic industry.

Kuchel wrote Defense Secretary Thomas S. Gates Jr. that he had received complaints that the Navy's plan to buy oil from Venezuela and Caribbean sources would have a "decidedly adverse effect" on the California petroleum industry.

Cosmic Dust Belt Revealed

PASADENA (UPI) — The Explorer I Satellite has discovered that the earth literally has millions of tiny satellites in the form of cosmic dust particles, the Jet Propulsion Laboratory of the California Institute of Technology announced Saturday.

Dr. Albert Hibbs, chief of JPL's division of space sciences, said the pin-head size micrometeorites appear to form a belt around the earth starting about 100 miles above the atmosphere and extending out several thousand miles.

* * * *

THE PARTICLES come in from outer space, are trapped by the atmosphere into elongated orbits and circle the earth for perhaps thousands of times, Hibbs said. Then they fall into the atmosphere and burn up, but are replaced by other incoming micrometeorites.

"A close examination of Explorer I data shows a strong change in the micrometeoritic counting rate recorded as the satellite changes altitude," Hibbs said. "This effect could be caused only by a cloud of micrometeorites in closed orbits around the earth."

The discovery was hailed by Hibbs as the second major accomplishment of Explorer I, launched Jan. 31, 1958, after its detection of the Van Allen radiation belts.

Formosa War Games Start

TAIPEI, Formosa (AP)—The biggest maneuvers conducted by Chinese Nationalist forces since the fall of the mainland in 1949 opened in Southern Formosa Saturday with a simulated landing against theoretically hostile forces.

President Chiang Kai-shek's Defense Ministry said 140,000 men of the armed forces are taking part.

The landing was a rehearsal for what Nationalist leaders hope will be an actual descent one day on Communist China.

Nigeria OKs Defense Pact With Britain

LAGOS, Nigeria (AP) — A British-Nigerian defense agreement was approved Saturday by the Federal House of Representatives. The agreement provides for training of Nigerian forces in Britain and gives limited facilities for British forces in this former British colony. Nigeria became independent Oct. 1.

L.A. Terminal Prepares to Serve 23 Million Passengers a Year

ONE OF SIX 'SATELLITE' structures nearing completion at L. A. International Airport for decentralization of heavy passenger load. Facility has restaurant, and waiting rooms and is connected to ticket office by underground passageway.

STEEL, ALUMINUM, glass and concrete control tower dominates entrance to new International Airport terminal area.—(Staff photos by Bryan Hodgson.)

By GEORGE ERES

Los Angeles International Airport, operating since 1947 in temporary quarters east of Sepulveda Boulevard at Century, has more than $30 million worth of construction under way to keep pace with the jet age.

The huge program came to a halt last week when 450 construction men and electricians walked off jobs in a dispute over whether Los Angeles Department of Water and Power crews should string lines bringing power to the new buildings. Airport officials are keeping their fingers crossed, hoping men who walked off jobs will return Monday.

LAX, airman's code name for L. A. International, today handles 6,500,000 passengers a year from strung-out cramped quarters. It is the nation's second busiest passenger airport.

By 1970, officials estimate, the airport will be handling 23,000,000 passengers a year. But long before that, LAX will be operating out of one of the most modern airport's in the world.

* * * *

AIRPORT ADMINISTRATORS already have moved into one of the completed structures—the 12-story tower control building at No. 1 World Way. The 172-foot high control tower scheduled to be in operation in a year will be the nation's highest.

But even before the new tower becomes operable, some of the new facilities will be in use.

United Air Lines which handles 35 per cent of passenger travel at LAX is scheduled to move into two new terminals by mid-1961. By next fall, all projects are scheduled for completion.

Built for high capacity use, the new facilities are arranged in a rectangular shape on the 265-acre site. For decentralization each of the independent air lines will have its own facilities. These will be arranged around the perimeter of the rectangle. Six such satellite structures now are under construction. Space has been set aside for a seventh as need arises.

* * * *

THE INTERIOR of the rectangle has been excavated one story below ground level. In the center of the rectangle will be a glass-domed restaurant, concession and service buildings and space for 5,000 autos. Ringing the perimeter will be suspended cable cars for carrying passengers between airline ticket offices and the parking area.

Fueling and baggage handling operations will be conducted underground.

Voters of Los Angeles passed a $59,700,000 bond issue in 1956 to finance the project. Since, one of the airport's three east-west runways has been lengthened to 12,000 feet to handle biggest jets. The other two east-west runways are 10,000 and 8,900 feet long. (Provision is made for adding a fourth east-west runway if needed). A fourth existing runway is a 6000-foot long north-south strip.

* * * *

THE "TEMPORARY" facilities east of Sepulveda Boulevard will not be abandoned when the new airport becomes operational. The area will function as an air-freight center and the U. S. Post-office Department has plans for a $10 million air mail facility in the former passenger terminal district.

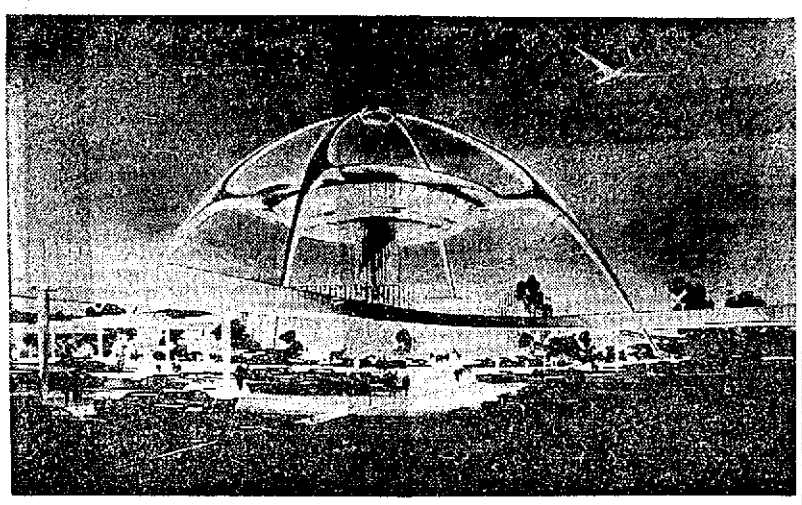

With construction well ahead of schedule and the operation financially solvent, Francis T. Fox, Los Angeles Department of Airports general manager, could joyfully report to Airport Division brass:

". . . All payments to date have been made out of earnings, and a sizable amount is set aside in the Airport Revenue fund for future bond payments . . ."

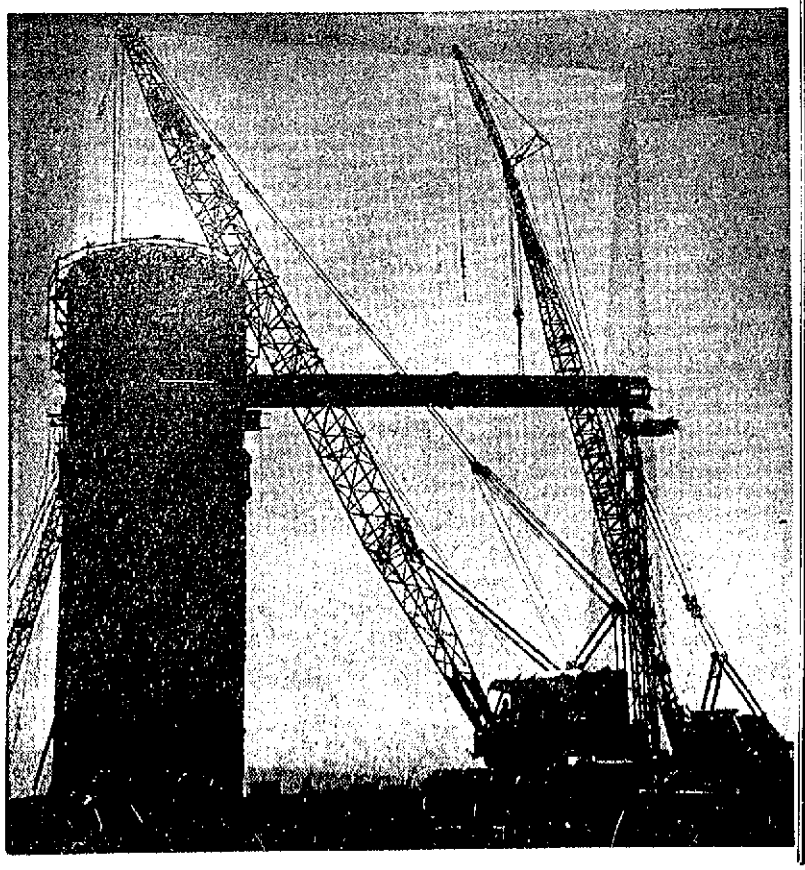

The department ended the fiscal year with a net profit of $1,808,965. It will have to continue to show profits for 20 years to continue to carry out the promise to voters that "the bond issue will be self-liquidating through earnings."

Irish Ask Honor for U.N. Troops

DUBLIN (AP) — The Irish Press, organ of the ruling Fianna Fail Party, has suggested in an editorial that the Nobel Peace Prize be awarded posthumously to U.N. troops who died in the Congo. Nine members of Ireland's large contingent there with the U.N. force were killed in a tribal ambush.

Ritz Parts With Last of Huge Double Beds

LONDON (AP) — The Ritz Hotel, which prefers customers who are kings, millionaires and aristocrats, has got rid of its last double bed.

The bed was a splendid piece of solid Victorian brass, with gleaming knobs and a mattress so big that the tallest man could sleep in any direction. It was just the thing for people who sleep and roll, and for small families.

"It is the end of an era," Edward Schwenter, the hotel manager, said dolefully Saturday. "I don't know what grandfather would have said about this deterioration in social habits. But it's a fact that few people require double beds these days. They say double beds are unhygienic, or unesthetic or something."

A Serpent in Pilgrims' Eden

★ ★ ★ ★ ★ ★ ★ ★ ★ ★ ★

Merry Rascal Raised Hob With the Stern Colonials of Plymouth

By TOM HENSHAW
AP Newsfeatures Writer.

Every Eden has its serpent.

It was that way with the Pilgrim fathers, the founders of Thanksgiving Day, whose Eden was a little island of stern morality isolated (they thought) from the world of sensual pleasure.

The serpent in the Pilgrims' garden was a swashbuckling, highliving man who signed himself Thomas Morton of Clifford's Inn, Gent., and who, from all accounts, was a very gay dog indeed.

Morton of Merrymount, as he has come down to us, dropped unannounced and debonair in the Pilgrims' midst with such regularity that they could not be blamed for thinking him an emissary from the devil himself.

Pilgrim chronicler William Bradford reserved some of his choicest invective for Thomas Morton, Gent., and Morton replied in a manner scarcely fitting a gent.

"A kind of pettifogger," Bradford called him, "The lord of misrule . . . tending to lasciviousness . . . instrument of mischief . . . (and, worst of all to the Pilgrims, he maintained) a school of atheism."

* * * *

MORTON STRUCK BACK in print. "Captaine Shrimpe," he called Capt. Miles Standish. "Rhadamant," he called Bradford, alluding to a mythological judge of the underworld.

The "lord of misrule" landed on the fringe of the Pilgrims' little Eden in 1625 as a member of a company led by one Capt. Wollaston, who settled in what is now Quincy, Mass., 20-odd miles north of Plymouth.

He had been a lawyer in England. He liked wine, women and song and wrote lurid poetry.

Small wonder the Pilgrims hated him from the start.

Less than a year after their arrival, Wollaston's enthusiasm for the settlement waned and the fun-loving Morton was left in charge of what turned out to be a very fun-loving community indeed.

He rechristened the settlement "Ma-Re Mount"—mountain by the sea, which the Pilgrims logically mistook for Merry Mount—and then the fun began.

The Pilgrims Besieged 'Mine Host'

"After this," chuckled Bradford, "they fell to great licentiousness and led to dissolute life, pouring out themselves into all profaneness.

"They also set up a maypole, drinking and dancing about it many days together, inviting the Indian women for their consorts, dancing and frisking together like so many fairies, or furies, rather; and worse practices."

* * * *

MORTON'S VERSES outraged Bradford. One went like this:

"Give to the nymph that's free from scorn
"No Irish stuff nor Scotch over-worn.
"Lasses in beaver coats, come away,
"Ye shall be welcome to us night and day.
"Then drink and be merry, merry, merry boys,
"Let all your delight be in Hymen's joys;
"Lo! to Hymen, now the day is come,
"About the merry maypole take a room."

Merrymount became a riotous roadhouse on Plymouth's outskirts. It's possible that a few of the Pilgrim sons liked to sneak off for an occasional evening of high living with "Mine Host," as Morton had taken to calling himself.

Worst than that, "Mine Host" also had an uncanny knack of getting along with the Indians—whom the Pilgrims never quite trusted—with the result that the lucrative beaver trade began to bypass Plymouth in favor of Merrymount.

The secret of Morton's success was simple: He had no qualms about trading guns and firewater to the redmen in return for beaver, something the Pilgrims never could bring themselves to do.

"And first he taught them how to use them (the guns)" moaned Bradford, "to charge and discharge, and what proportion of powder to give the piece, according to the size or bigness of the same; and what shot to use for fowl and what for deer.

"O, the horribleness of this villainy! How many both Dutch and English have been lately slain by those Indians thus furnished, and no remedy provided . . ."

* * * *

IT WAS OBVIOUS that the Pilgrims had to do something about Morton and it was equally obvious that the man to do it was Capt. Myles Standish, the dour, hot tempered commander of the little Pilgrim army.

What followed is known jocularly as the "Battle of Merrymount."

As Bradford tells it, "Mine Host" and his merry men locked themselves in their house and then proceeded to get so royally soused that they couldn't even defend themselves.

"Himself (Morton) with a carbine, overcharged and almost half filled with powder and shot, as was after found, had thought to have shot Capt. Standish; but he (Standish) stepped to him and put by his piece and took him."

Morton tells it differently.

Standish and his men laid siege to Morton's house and, as time wore on, it was the Pilgrims who hit the bottle so hard that "Mine Host" and his jolly boys had to tiptoe their way out of the house among sodden, snoring bodies.

Standish, wrote Morton, "took on most furiously and tore his clothes for anger to see the nest empty and their bird gone." Later, Morton claimed, he surrendered to avoid bloodshed.

THE PILGRIMS deported Morton to England and perhaps they held another thanksgiving dinner for they were certain that they had seen the last of the serpent in their Eden. They hadn't.

A few years later, when Isaac, Allerton, the Pilgrims' representative in London, paid a visit to Plymouth he brought along a secretary—none other than Thomas Morton, Gent., fat and sassy as ever.

Morton returned to Merrymount, but his days were numbered. This time he ran afoul of the stern old Puritans of Massachusetts Bay, who packed him up and shipped him home without delay.

He used this period of exile to write an account of his adventures with the Pilgrim fathers, called "New English Canaan," certainly the funniest contemporary book on colonial America.

Soviet Leaders Honor Tolstoy

MOSCOW (AP) — Premier Khrushchev and other Soviet leaders attended a memorial meeting at the Bolshoi Theater Saturday marking the 50th anniversary of the death of Leo Tolstoy. Descendants of the author of "War and Peace" were among guests on the platform.

Leonid Sobolev, chairman of the Union of Writers of the Russian Federation, likened Tolstoy to a snow-clad mountain which, " as much as the history of world civilization may advance, will always shine on the horizon of world culture."

Belgians Plan Tours

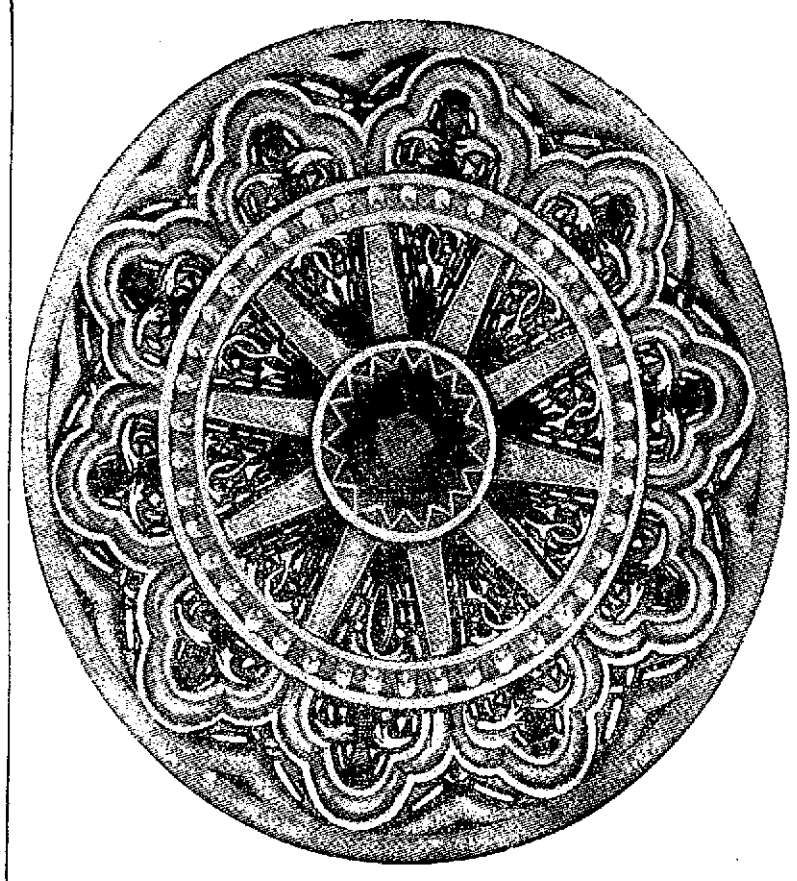

BRUSSELS (AP) — Belgian trade missions will visit Thailand and South Viet Nam next January and Brazil next May, the Foreign Trade Ministry has announced.

I, P-T Honors Hero of World War I for Loyal Service

John M. Larson, who holds the Belgian Croix de Guerre, is going into semi-retirement.

For 41 years John has been an integral part of the Press, the Press-Telegram and the Independent, Press-Telegram.

Effective Dec. 1, John whose title is "chief mail clerk," semi-retires. He'll work two hours a day. The rest of the time he will garden, indulge his hobby of woodworking and take it easy.

"You can't get rid of me all at one time," grins John, an easy-moving, slight man whose hair has turned from light brown to white in the 41 years.

JOHN LARSON
Medal for Courier

* * * *

ASSOCIATES gave a party for him in the I, P-T penthouse last week. Henry F. Burmester, retired executive editor of the Press-Telegram, presented him with a scroll signed by several hundred co-workers. Larry Collins Jr., business manager of the I, P-T, presented a watch.

Iowa-born John Larson came to Long Beach in 1906 and started carrying the Press on a route including everything north of Pacific Coast Highway. He attended Carroll Park (now Burbank) School and was graduated from Poly High in 1914.

In 1918 he sailed for France with the 91st Division and saw action in the Argonne and at St. Mihiel. Then his division moved to Belgium.

* * * *

AT OSTEND, Belgian King Albert presented him with the Croix de Guerre. His citation reads: "Citation for meritorious service in action on the morning of October 31, 1918, near Wacreghem, Belgium, in that he, as battalion runner, prior to and during a time when the enemy was heavily shelling all approaches, coolly carried messages between his battalion post of command and a company post of command, although the company occupied a front line position and was under extremely heavy machine gun fire."

The war over, John returned to Long Beach and a job at the Press. For 30 years John carried the newspaper's deposits to the bank. For 35 years he has gone to the post office at 6 a. m. daily to get the mail.

* * * *

JOHN IS the newspaper's official tour director, guiding visitors around the plant. Probably there are 1,500 of these tour visitors a year. Every one knows John.

John and his wife Hellen, married Oct. 2, 1920, in Mission Inn in Riverside, have lived the 40 years of their married life in a white stucco, vine-covered home at 223 Termino Ave.

Printers' ink runs in the family. John's son, Alvin, is an I, P-T sports writer. His daughter Burney-Lou Brown is the I, P-T night switchboard operator.

Temple Looted

Temple Beth Sholom, 3388 Long Beach Blvd., was burglarized of $65 in cash and stamps, police were told Saturday.

Six Flee Flames in Safety

Five children and a woman escaped unhurt Saturday night as flames extensively damaged their frame house at 513 E. 55th St.

Acting Battalion Chief L. G. Marlette said the fire apparently started near a water heater, then spread to the back porch, kitchen and roof. Much clothing also was destroyed by the blaze.

Mrs. Beverly A. Van Booven, occupant of the house, quickly led the children, all under the age of five, to safety, Marlette said. Three of the children are hers and two were being kept for a neighbor.

Three fire units quickly controlled the blaze, but remained on the scene approximately an hour to snuff out smoldering sections of the roof.

Placentia Fund to Aid 7 Orphans

PLACENTIA — A special fund to aid the surviving children of a Placentia couple killed in an automobile crash, has been set up here.

Chairman of the committee to administer the funds is Sal Zavala, member of the Placentia School District board of trustees.

* * * *

THE CRASH, which occurred in Riverside, took the lives of Mr. and Mrs. Epefanio Silva and their daughters, Marialusia, 28 and Celia, 20, who lived at 334 W. Santa Fe Ave.

The couple had nine other children, seven of them minors. The money raised for the special fund will be used to help the minor children.

Contributions may be mailed to The Silva Fund, Post Office Box L, Placentia.

RICHARD VERMILYA
Teacher 41 Years

Vermilya, 66, Former Poly Teacher, Dies

Richard D. Vermilya, 66, of 719 Cedar Ave., a former teacher at Poly High School, died Friday. He had been in the teaching profession 41 years and had been a teacher at Poly 26 years before his retirement.

Surviving is one brother, Dr. Thomas C. Vermilya of Muskegon, Mich. Vermilya moved to Long Beach from Fayette, Iowa, in 1926.

Dilday Family Funeral Directors are in charge of funeral arrangements.

Grove Near United Fund Fulfillment

GARDEN GROVE — Late contributions have swelled Garden Grove's 1960 United Fund drive to only $4,500 short of its $75,000 quota, according to UF President C. C. (Jack) Woolley.

He said that, while the drive is officially closed, more residential and business areas remain to be contacted, and he predicted the drive would go over the top.

The UF raised $67,297 last year. This year, demands increased and two agencies were added to the single city-wide drive for funds.

Discuss Drive on Border Reds

ALOR STAR, Malaya (UPI) — Thailand's interior minister conferred with Malayan government officials here Saturday. It was believed the talks concerned a final drive against Communist rebels along the Thai-Malayan border.

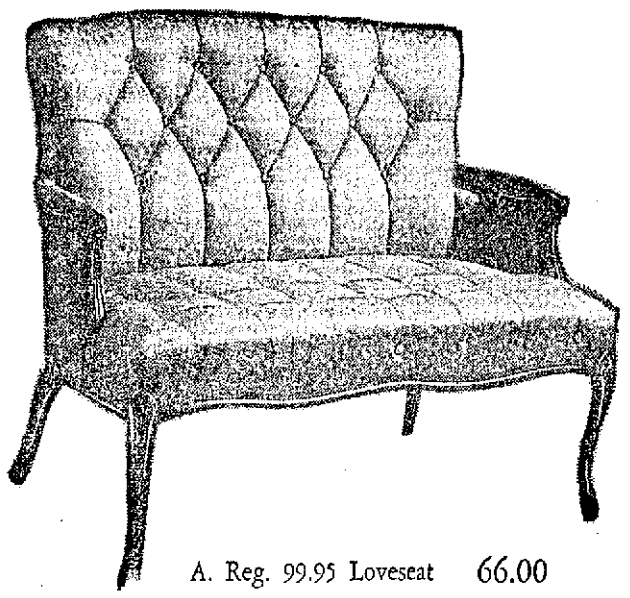

The minister, Praphas Charusatien, has led the fight from the Thailand side for more than a year. Malayan Communist Party chief Chin Peng was believed to be in the frontier area.

Tigers Tamed, But Make Bowl

COLUMBIA, Mo. (AP) — The Kansas Jayhawks overpowered Missouri's No. 1 ranked football team 23-7 Saturday and won the Big Eight conference championship but the Tigers still won a trip to the Orange Bowl at Miami, Fla.

Immediately after Kansas had humbled the proud Missouri defenses, athletic director Don Faurot announced the Tigers had accepted an invitation from Jess Yarbrough, president of the Orange Bowl.

Missouri was beaten by Georgia 14-0 in the Orange Bowl last Jan. 1.

* * * *

KANSAS WAS not eligible for the Florida trip because of a one-year probation by the National Collegiate Athletic Association, for recruiting violations.

Three of the best prospects for a Missouri opponent in the bowl—Mississippi, Navy and Florida—were idle Saturday.

Another candidate, Duke, lost to North Carolina 7-6 Saturday, and still has to meet UCLA in Los Angeles Dec. 3.

Of the probable selections, only Syracuse has completed its season, winding up a 7-2 record Friday night with a win over Miami.

The Kansans started on their way to victory in the third quarter when Roger Hill booted a 47-yard field goal.

Kansas completed the Big Eight race with a record of six victories and one tie. The Jayhawks were beaten only by Syracuse and Iowa in non-conference play. It was the Jayhawks' first undisputed championship since 1930.

Missouri had won its other nine games this season and was ranked No. 1 nationally this week. A record crowd of 43,000 witnessed vicious, scoreless defensive play by both teams until Hill's long field goal split the crossbars for the first score. Hard tackling and fidgety ball handling cost Kansas the ball four times on fumbles, and Missouri three.

The third Missouri fumble set up Kansas' first touchdown minutes after Hill's field goal. Quarterback John Hadl passed 19 yards to halfback Bert Coan for the touchdown. John Suder kicked the extra point, and Kansas led 10-0 after three quarters.

Pepperdine Upset Hope Washed Out by L.B. State, 15-8

By AL LARSON

Long Beach State washed out Pepperdine's upset hopes by bumping over the Waves, 15-8, Saturday night to close out its 1960 football campaign before 4,135 homecoming fans at Veterans Stadium.

Ray Aderman and Bob Stangel generated the scoring power as Long Beach stepped to its first winning season in four years. The victory gave the 49ers a 5-3-1 record and left Pepperdine with a 1-9 mark.

Long Beach scored first in the late moments of the first half when Aderman plowed over from the one. Tom Turrill converted with 55 sec- carried a 7-0 lead into the dressing room.

Turning point in the fierce battle occurred midway in the third period when Pepperdine thrust to Long Beach's 19-yard line. But the 49ers' massive defense stopped fullback Ron Wooton six inches short of a first down.

* * * *

LONG BEACH took over on downs and marched 81 yards for its decisive touchdown with Stangel plunging the final yard. Stangel passed to Dallas Moon for the 2-point conversion to give the 49ers a 15-0 margin with 3:28 remaining.

Then in the final quarter, Pepperdine manufactured a carbon copy scoring drive. Long Beach's Ron Bridwell was halted short of a first down on Pepperdine's 19 and the Waves washed 81 yards behind the superb signal calling of reserve quarterback Carl Shields.

The slippery field general darted the last nine yards on

JRB WILL SELECT WEST TEAM TODAY

The sponsoring Pasadena Junior Chamber of Commerce will announce the western representative for the Junior Rose Bowl today. Unbeaten Long Beach City College is expected to receive the official bid.

Other teams still hopeful are Cerritos, Riverside, Hartnell, Hancock and Bakersfield.

An announcement of the Eastern representative, probably Tyler, Tex., will be made on Monday. Tyler, rated No. 1 nationally, won its 12th in a row Saturday night, defeating Kilgore, Tex., 30-14.

The JRB's 11-man board of management has slated a day-long meeting at the Huntington Hotel in Pasadena to make the selection.

TROJANS PUSH 'EM BACK

SC's tremendous second quarter goal line stand is illustrated by sequence camera of staff photographer Bob Shumway. UCLA fullback Almose Thompson starts up the middle (1), is met head-on by Trojan defenders (2) and is pushed back to five-yard line (3). SC held on downs for 14-0 halftime lead.

Kilmer Sour in Big Upset

By DAVE LEWIS

It was a day like all Saturdays during the fall. Upsets were plentiful along the football front, not the least being SC's stunning 17-6 conquest of the heavily-favored UCLA Bruins before the largest crowd of the college season in the Coliseum—66,865 fans.

UCLA joined select company, though, for the likes of Missouri, Duke and Pittsburgh also were jolted by underdogs in another action-packed afternoon.

The Trojans struck for seven points with just five seconds remaining in the first period and picked up seven more at the outset of the second quarter following an interception for a commanding 14-0 advantage and after UCLA had scored its lone touchdown early in the final stanza, Don Zachik capped SC's victory surge with a 20-yard field goal with just 2:02 left to play.

THE INTERCEPTION turned the tide of battle and the Bruins finally caved in from the pressure of the early 14-point lead and the magnificent play of the massive Trojan line, which dominated the action from start to finish.

Though the interception proved to be the vital factor in determining the outcome, it was no fluke victory. The Trojans won it decisively as they piled up a clear-cut edge of 20-10 in first downs and 333 to 171 in net yardage.

They threatened three other times . . . being stopped on the 21 in the first period after a 59-yard advance, fumbling away another scoring opportunity on the Bruin

Dressing room stories on C-3, C-6

25 in the third quarter, and then being held for downs on the 18 in the final seconds after picking off a desperation UCLA aerial.

Marlin McKeever was never greater than he was in turning in a tremendous defensive performance. Marlin also registered the first touchdown on a 21-yard pass from soph quarterback Bill Nelsen, who also stands high among the Trojan heroes with his brilliant job of directing Troy's offense.

SPECIAL TARGET FOR McKEEVER and his burly mates on the Trojan line was the Bruins' touted tailback, Bill Kilmer, who experienced probably the roughest afternoon of his career.

Kilmer's hopes of winning the Heisman Trophy and also garnering the nation's total offense crown were shaken when McKeever and Co. limited him to just 29 yards on 10 carries. Bill's passing also was way off the beam in the face of SC's fierce rush. He completed only four of 17 aerials for 80 yards and had three intercepted. The interception which led to the back-breaking touchdown in the second quarter was a hurried and poorly-thrown pass.

It was obvious as the game progressed that the usually-steady Bruins began to panic. They were going for the "home run," especially through the crucial third period, and the UCLA system just isn't geared for the long gainer.

It was only when the Bruins settled down late in the third quarter and early in the final session and went back to "grinding" it out that they were able to pierce the SC

Winning Gophers Sniff Roses

By JERRY WYNN
I.-T.-P. Staff Writer

MADISON, Wis. — The Golden Gophers of Minnesota, a gridiron giant of yesteryear, were dreaming of new Rose Bowl glory today.

They took a giant step in the direction of Pasadena Saturday with a 26-7 triumph over Wisconsin that won for them a share of the Big 10 title before a festive throng of 55,576 at Camp Randall Stadium.

"All the sentiment at Minnesota is to accepting a Rose Bowl invitation if it is offered to us," declared athletic director Ike Armstrong.

Since the Gophers decisively defeated Iowa, the conference co-champion, it appears highly probable that their hopes of a collision with Washington Jan. 2 will soon be realized. They ended the regular season with a record of 8-1.

For Wisconsin, the defeat saw it nose-dive from the dizzy heights of champions of 1959 to the dismal depths of the conference cellar this year. . . . The first such turnabout in league annals. The Badgers were 2-5 in conference and 4-5 for the season.

From Minnesota's performance Saturday, Washington needn't lose any sleep over the prospect of a Jan. 1 meeting. As advertised, the Gophers were a big, tough team but not much else.

Minnesota scored the first two times it had the ball, held on for dear life as Wisconsin took complete command in the second and third quarters, and then finished much the stronger team with two fourth quarter tallies. The Gophers did not make a single first down in either of the middle two periods!

Individually, the game belonged to the quarterbacks. Sandy Stephens, a 215-pound junior from Uniontown, Pa., paced Minnesota with a pair of touchdown runs and three pass interceptions while on defense. For Wisconsin, Ron Miller—the 190-pound star sophomore from Lyons, Ill., was the key man. He completed 10-of-24 for 106 yards and threw for his team's only touchdown.

A team that has capitalized all season on the mistakes of their opponents, the Gophers recovered a Wisconsin fumble in the third play of the game to set up their first touchdown. They moved 31 yards in seven ground thrusts with Stephens rolling out eight yards around end for the touchdown.

After Wisconsin failed to make a first down with the ensuing kickoff, Minnesota took possession on its own 43 and 11 plays later were again celebrating in the Badger end zone. The 57-yard advance was highlighted by a 10-yard run by halfback Bill Muncie, another Pennsylvania import, and a 21-yard pass from Stephens to end Dick Larson.

Stephens scored on a one-yard sneak.

The last play of the first quarter proved a turning point when Minnesota pulled a page from Red

AFL Ready for NFL Battle

With the American Football League conducting a telephonic draft at this very minute (six rounds of top college stars are being tabbed by the eight clubs), this writer was interested in learning how the infant pro circuit would combat the NFL in battling for the collegians' services.

Our Dave Lewis spent an entire column last week in pointing out how the AFL would be "up against it" in trying to land this year's college heroes (admittedly a poorer crop than usual) simply because the youngsters could tell the AFL this:

"Well, if we don't make it with the NFL we can always jump into your league after we're cut."

BOB SCHLOREDT
First AFL Draftee?

The theory made much sense—but the AFL anticipated that problem months ago, according to Charger publicist Don Richman, who has been instrumental in setting up many AFL programs, such as the telephonic draft. Here's what Richman believes is the AFL solution:

"The Chargers draft a good lineman, for example, and offer him maybe a $10,000 contract. In this particular case we believe we're offering the boy about $1,000 more than the NFL.

"The player quite possibly will say he'd rather try out for the more established National League, but he'll be glad to join us for the $10,000 if he gets cut by the NFL.

"But our original offer for the player won't stand—and we'll tell him so. After he gets cut by the NFL, our contract to him will be sliced by perhaps 25 per cent, or down to $7,500. The boy either will join us or he won't be playing pro football, because there's nowhere else to go. Even the Canadian Leagues will be well into their seasons.

"Thus, by not joining us immediately, the player will blow $2,500. Our selling point is that the boy right out of college has a better chance in the AFL, for as much or more money, than in the NFL."

Such a plan worked out well last season for the AFL, which landed college plums as Billy Cannon, Charlie Flowers, Richie Lucas, Abner Haynes, Ron Mix and Garry Finneran. (They all didn't wind up with a string of gas stations, either!)

TELEPHONIC DRAFT SELECTIONS will be announced Monday—and I think a few surprises may be in store. I understand that not a quarterback was tabbed in the first four rounds!

Not only that, but just five offensive backs were selected during the first three rounds—and UCLA's Bill Kilmer, among others, was not included!

I would think the Chargers have their eyes on a running back or two, plus sturdy offensive guards and centers, and definitely some defensive backs.

In those categories would be (A) George Fleming (Washington) and Pervis Atkins (New Mexico State), who already has been drafted by the Rams; (B) Myron Pottios (Notre Dame), Tom Brown (Minnesota) and E. J. Holub (Texas Tech); (C) Bobby Schloredt (Washington).

Holub or Schloredt might have been the first draftee (by Buffalo) because both are outstanding defensive players. "The Beast" from Texas Tech has been called the most ferocious college tackler since World War II.

"He'd make SC's Pat Cannamela look like a butterfly chaser," quipped Richman.

GRABBING THE BRASS RINGS:

. . . Aren't some of those newspaper people who are extolling arrival of an American League baseball team in L. A. the same ones who blasted reports in past years that the "pitiful" Senators, A's or Browns were coming to L. A? If they thought those established clubs were pitiful, wait until . . . but I've said that before, haven't I?

. . . When the AP listed some players who'd be available for the new L. A. and Washington teams, I'll bet Mickey Mantle, Al Kaline, Harvey Kuenn, etc., licked their chops. Why, the L. A. team's "big four" pitching staff could be composed of such up-and-coming youngsters as Don Newcombe, John Klippstein, Turk Lown and Pete Burnside. Zow-e-e-e!

. . . Those SC people who are "bad-mouthing" John McKay for being a humorist in the midst of a losing season, should take a nice dive off Don Brackenbury's Belmont Pier. It's nice to have a smiling face around—even when the losses pile up. Isn't that right, Messrs, Gillman and Waterfield?

Yale Rips Harvard, Sews Up Ivy Crown

CAMBRIDGE, Mass. (UPI) — Unbeaten Yale scored a crushing 39-6 victory over rival Harvard in their 77th meeting Saturday to complete the first perfect Eli season in 37 years and capture both the Ivy and Big Three championships.

The rugged Bulldogs, who shattered two seasons of Harvard domination of this ancient series, romped 41 yards for a touchdown on their first play from scrimmage and never were in trouble before a capacity 40,000 in Harvard Stadium.

Yale's five touchdowns and a field goal were scored by five different players as the Eli counted at least once in each period to successfully defend their Ivy crown.

Bears Whip Stanford, 21-10

BERKELEY (AP)—California's sophomore quarterback Randy Gold passed for one touchdown and scored another Saturday as the hard-running Bears whipped Stanford 21-10 in their 63rd "big game" football traditional.

Fullback George Pierovich and halfbacks Steve Bates, Jim Burress and Jerry Scattini paced a grind-it-out offense on three long touchdown drives.

The Big Five Conference triumph before a capacity throng of 76,200, in Memorial Stadium gave California its second victory of the campaign and left Stanford at 0-10, the most games ever lost by the Indians in a season.

One oddity was that Stanford never once punted and California only three times during the regionally televised game.

California jumped into a 14-0 halftime lead on drives of 75 yards in 15 plays and 97 in 17. Gold's four-yard pass to Bates brought the first touchdown and Jim Ferguson booted the first of his three conversions.

After Cal stopped Stanford at the three in the second quarter, the Bears marched back the 97 yards with Scattini going over from the one.

Stanford rallied for 10 points in the second half, all by fullback Skip Face. He scored from the one after a 75-yard drive, kicked the conversion and later added a 29-yard field goal.

California put the game out of reach with a 61-yard march in 11 plays in the fourth quarter. Running to his right and looking for a pass receiver, Gold, the 19-year-old signal caller from Ontario, Calif., found running room and raced 18 before being stopped by Don Peter at the one. From there he sneaked over.

Although both clubs were noted for their passing attacks, California's only pass completion was the touchdown toss from Gold.

In a capsule, the first half consisted of the two long Cal touchdown drives and two marches by Stanford that failed.

Stanford advanced to the Cal 35, before being stopped on its first march and went all the way to the three before Cal's defenders repulsed them again.

After the game, newsmen voted Pierovich the outstanding back of the game with line honors shared by Cal Dick Carlsen and sophomore guard Roger Stull.

an option pass-run play for the touchdown and then powered over on a 2-point conversion run to throw a scare into the 49ers with 10:30 to go in the game.

* * * *

LONG BEACH threatened to lock up the game three minutes later when Stangel raced 51 yards on a keeper to give the 49ers fire-and-goal on the 3-yard line. But the Peps pepped up their defense and stopped three running shots and a pass to take over on downs. The partisan Long Beach crowd found it hard to swallow until the final gun sounded. Shields completed three passes to guide Pepperdine to Long Beach's 29-yard line before time ran out.

Quarterback Stangel and Pete Yoder engineered Long Beach's opening touchdown penetration in the closing two minutes of the first half. Two big aerial bombs set up Adermann's 1-yard plunge. Minutes earlier Pepperdine quarterback Ray Wrenn had missed a field goal from Long Beach's 34-yard line. Long Beach then rushed the distance as Stangel connected with Bob Heberer for a 48-yard gain.

* * * *

YODER replaced Stangel and fired a short screen pass to Moon who was finally dragged down on the Waves' 8-yard line with the clock running out Adermann went into the end zone three plays later.

Pepperdine took the ensuing kickoff and threatened to go the distance except for an official's whistle.

Resorting to a bit of razzel-dazzle, the Peps pulled the old sleeper play. But before Wrenn could get his pass off an official whistled the play dead as Gary Lashley raced down the far sidelines all alone.

Pepperdine coach Pence Dacus, argued, but to no avail as the game official thought one of Pepperdine's players had called time out. Pepperdine could run off only one more play before the half gun sounded.

Oregon St., Oregon Play Muddy Tie

CORVALLIS, Ore. (AP)—An Oregon State College field goal attempt with 19 seconds left sailed wide of the goalposts and the Beavers wound up in a 14-14 tie with the University of Oregon Saturday.

It was a bitter dose for the underdog Staters who held a two-point edge through most of the game.

Nearly all of the fireworks were packed into the final eight minutes of a dreary-rain-splashed afternoon.

Tailback Don Kasso, who normally alternates with sophomore Terry Baker, took over the show, and Baker was on the bench most of the second half. Oregon's defense had him well bottled up in the first half, and he gained only 2 yards rushing and 11 passing.

Oregon's mild hopes for a bowl bid were believed dimmed by the tie which left it with a 7-2-1 record. Its only defeats were by Michigan and Washington, Oregon State ended 6-3-1.

Vernon to Manage Senators; AL in 'State of Confusion'

(Compiled from Wire Sevices)

Washington's new American League baseball club Saturday hired former batting champion Mickey Vernon as field manager and Ed Doherty, president of the American Association, as general manager.

Elwood R. (Pete) Quesada, head of the Washington syndicate which will operate the franchise, announced the appointments. Quesada also said the team will be named Senators.

Doherty and Vernon will take charge of the team placed in the capital when the Calvin Griffith-owned club was transferred to Minneapolis-St. Paul in the American League's expansion to 10 members.

The other new franchise was awarded to Los Angeles, but no group has yet received operating rights there.

Vernon, 42, returns to the scene of his greatest baseball achievements. He won the American League batting title while playing first base for the Senators in 1946 and again in 1953. He spent last season as coach under Danny Murtaugh with the world champion Pittsburgh Pirates.

The American League is more concerned over the possible reparations that will have to be paid for invading Los Angeles than in finding a backer for its newest franchise.

Harried on one side by Dodger president Walter O'Malley, who resents the invasion, and on the other by Baseball Commissioner Ford Frick, who insists on "suitable compensation" for O'Malley, the American League finds itself in what one club owner described as a "prone and powerless" position.

"You might even add that we're in a state of confusion," he said. "We're distressed, distraught and in disagreement."

Frick contends that any American League franchise moving into Los Angeles must partially reimburse O'Malley for the reported half million dollars the Dodgers paid in indemnities to the Pacific Coast League in their invasion of 1958. He said although he originally had declared Los Angeles (along with New York) open territory, he would not approve a second major league club there until a "fair and equitable" solution was reached by the two leagues.

IOWA STATE SCORES LATE TO TOP COP

STOCKTON (UPI)—The Iowa State Cyclones pushed over two second-half touchdowns Saturday night to defeat stubborn College of Pacific 14-6 before 6,500 fans.

The Cyclones tallied each in the third and fourth quarter and end Cliff Rick's kicks were good for the extra points.

Pacific surprised the strong Iowa Staters, taking the opening kickoff and tallying in 14 plays with fullback Dick Scott going over from the 1.

Midway in the last quarter Iowa State iced the contest with tailback Pete Goeser passing to end Larry Montre for 13 yards.

Cerritos Rips Glendale, 30-0

NORWALK — Cerritos, its hopes for a Potato Bowl bid hinging on the outcome of its final Western States Conference contest with Glendale, came through Saturday night as the Falcons derailed the Vaqueros 30-0 here.

Quarterback Rickie Alvarado and halfback Mario Mendez drove the Vaqueros into the ground almost all evening with their flashy running and passing. Alvarado threw for three touchdowns two to end Joe Gibbs, for 7 and 16 yards and one to Mendez covering 17 yards.

Mendez, the "Santa Fe Chief," scampered 31 yards for the first Falcon tally.

The Falcons ended the regular season with a 9-1 record, and are the logical candidate to meet Bakersfield in the Potato Bowl.

Utah Shortens Unbeaten List

SALT LAKE CITY (AP) — Sophomore halfback Bud Scalley scored on a 12-yard run in the fourth period Saturday and led underdog Utah to an upset 6-0 victory which tumbled powerful Utah State from the ranks of the unbeaten college football teams.

But the Aggies, 9-1 for the season, finished in a tie with Wyoming for the Skyline Conference championship. Wyoming and Utah State each had 6-1 conference records.

Jubilant Utah fans stormed the field and carried coach Ray Nagel from the field as the game ended with Utah State trying to pull from behind.

Fresno Edged, 22-20 by Montana State

FRESNO (AP) — A 30-yard field goal by Montana State's Phil Schneider in the last 10 seconds Saturday night gave the Bobcats a 22-20 upset victory over Fresno State's Bulldogs, the 6th ranking U.S. small college football team. The Bulldogs were unbeaten and untied.

McKay's Magic Formula: Don't Fumble, Stop Kilmer

By HANK HOLLINGWORTH
Executive Sports Editor

"I'm so happy, I want to cry. For the first time in years, I can't think of anything funny to say!"

The speaker was Johnny McKay, SC's head coach who long has been regarded as football's answer to Shelly Berman. The much-maligned Trojan boss obviously was shaken down to his cleats over Troy's stunning upset triumph over UCLA.

"How did we beat UCLA?" he repeated a question hurled at him a dozen times over by eager reporters. "Well, we fumbled only once—that's how we beat UCLA. For us to fumble just once is an upset in itself."

* * * *

"We really beat 'em by stopping Kilmer (UCLA's purported all-America nominee, Bill). Our game plan was to prevent him from rolling out and allowing him to pass, not run — and I think we succeeded!"

Succeeded is hardly the word. Kilmer did run 10 times (more than any other Uclan) but he averaged only 2.9 yards-per-carry. He passed 17 times—and completed only four.

People named Waterfield and Gillman should have such a game plan!

* * * *

HOW DID SC stop Kilmer from rolling out?

"We reversed our line and backfield," explained McKeever, "two linebackers and Jerry Traynham on the strong side. I think Bill got confused at this strategy. Anyway, it worked."

Marlin McKeever had his arms around his injured twin, Mike, and kept chanting, "We won this one for you, Mike, for you."

Mike, still shaky after a life-and-death brain operation just a few weeks ago, only smiled and said, "It was my biggest thrill, believe me, to sit on the bench and see this team win. But, I'm so nervous and weak, I think I better go back to the hospital."

Before Mike returned to the infirmary he got another thrill: His mates awarded him the game ball.

Assistant Dave Levy, Long Beach's contribution to the Big Effort, was as excited as a huckster with a shipment of Kennedy buttons.

"I won't get over this for a year," drooled the ex-Poly High mentor. "It was better than beating Wilson."

Even President Norman Topping had a smile on his face.

"I knew you could do it, coach," the good doctor beamed. "A break here and there is all you needed."

Football's answer to Shelly Berman smiled magnamiously, took another long puff on his long cigar and chuckled:

"I wonder what they've done with that effigy of me I heard they were going to hang. It'd sure look wonderful in my trophy room."

"Shelly" McKay didn't allow his tears to linger long. He was getting warmed up early for the week's banquet brushes with press, radio and TV!

Hurray for McKay

Soph Cougar End Sets Catch Record

SPOKANE, Wash. (AP)—The stubborn Cougars of Washington State cracked two records and almost shattered Washington's hopes for a return to the Rose Bowl Saturday, but the powerful Huskies rallied in the final period to squeeze out an 8-7 victory.

A crowd of 28,750 — largest in the history of Spokane's Memorial Stadium — watched in startled surprise as the Cougars took a 7-0 lead on the first play of the fourth quarter.

It came on a three yard pass from Mel Melin to sophomore end Hugh Campbell, who caught six tosses to run his season total to 66 and his yardage total to 882. The NCAA former pass reception record was 61 and the old mark for total yards was 864.

Up to that time, it had been purely a defensive battle, with each team putting up a stirring goal line stand and each missing a field goal attempt.

At the close of the third period a pass interception gave State its touchdown start on the Washington 46. Melin, the nation's total offense leader, passed on nearly every play to gulp the yardage and kick the conversion point.

* * * *

STUNNED to anger, Washinngton came right back to wrap up the picture. Sophomore halfback Charlie Mitchel ran the kickoff 35 yards to State's 48. Sub quarterback Kermit Jorgensen piloted the 14-play march to goal and dived the final yard for the tally.

Regular quarterback Bob Hivner then came back and passed to Don McKeta for the two-point conversion.

The Huskies went into the game favored to win by three touchdowns in their drive for a second consecutive Rose Bowl bid.

The one point victory, third this year for the bowl champs, left them with a 9-1 record.

Defensive drama reached its heights in the third period, when sophomore end Ron Langhans recovered a Washington fumble for the Cougars on the Husky five. Three plays lost a yard and then Melin tried a field goal which was wide of the target.

BACK CAME Washington on a 79 yard march that ended inside the Washington State one on a fourth down smash at the line.

Big 5 Votes Today

SEATTLE (AP)—J. Gordon Gose, president of the Big Five Conference, said Saturday he would conduct a telephone and telegraphic vote of the members today and Monday to pick the West's Rose Bowl entrant.

The selection is considered certain to go to the Washington Huskies, the Big Five champions, who have a 9-1 record.

Gose said the eastern team would be picked by the conference's athletic directors, but the selection would probably not be made until next Saturday.

'Only' 35 for Elgin; Lakers Win, 130-122

By DON HARDIN

A crowd of 3,800 turned out at the Los Angeles State College gym Saturday to see Elgin Baylor. A nationwide television audience also tuned in to see what makes Elgin tick.

Tick Tock, however, was a bit disappointing but two Laker teammates, Hot Rod Hundley and Jerry West, were not as the Lakers turned back the Detroit Pistons, 130-122, in a National Basketball Association game.

To say that Elgin was disappointing is like saying that Johnny Unitas had an off day when he pitched only three touchdowns. Actually Baylor scored 35 points—his average—to lead all scorers in the contest but most fans wanted to see another 71-jewel performance. They just don't come that easy.

The Lakers, as has been their custom in the last few games, streaked to an early lead and held a startling 24-point advantage in the third quarter but had a few anxious moments in the final period as the Pistons closed to within six points of the lead.

With Hundley pouring in 12 points the Lakers winged to a 33-26 first quarter lead. West entered the game for the first time at the start of the second period and he swished in six baskets with only one miss and the Lakers rolled to a 69-50 halftime advantage.

* * * *

WEST CONTINUED his torrid pace after intermission, hitting four field goals and three free throws, and with 8:00 left in the quarter the Lakers pulled out, 84-60. At this juncture Elgin, who had done most of his team's rebounding, left the game. When he did, the Pistons got hot.

Gene Shue, the Pistons' sharp-shooter who had been held to two field goals in the first half, poured in five quick ones and 7-foot Walter Dukes sank seven free shots and the Laker lead had dwindled to 100-89 as the final period began.

The Pistons didn't let up as Don Ohl and Shue bucketed a pair of long sets each and with 4:00 left, the score was 116-110. Then Baylor came through with a pair of free throws but the Pistons traded baskets to keep within six points until Tick Tock broke it open with two charity tosses and a field goal with 1:40 left.

* * * *

WEST, TURNING in another sparkling performance, scored 26 points. Hundley had 23. Dukes was high for the Pistons with 32, 20 of them coming from the free throw line. Shue wound up with 23.

The Lakers' Jim Krebs, still recuperating from a Bill Russell blow in the mouth, did not suit up for the game.

The two teams move to San Francisco this afternoon for a game in the Cow Palace.

OVER MICHIGAN

Buckeyes Strike Late for 7-0 Win

COLUMBUS, Ohio (UPI)—Ohio State, outplayed for nearly three periods, struck savagely for a touchdown early in the final period Saturday to down Michigan, 7-0, and take third place in the Big Ten.

Bruising fullback Bob Ferguson scored the game's only touchdown with a 17-yard blast up the middle with only 2:45 elapsed in the fourth period. The touchdown brought a roar from the 83,107 partisan fans and set off a giant celebration in Ohio Stadium. One of the most wild celebrants was coach Woody Hayes, who jumped up and down and hugged his players.

* * * *

THE VICTORY was Hayes' sixth in 10 starts against arch-rival Michigan and it was as hard-earned as any of the earlier contests. The win gave Ohio a final 7-2 overall record and 4-2 in the league.

* * * *

THE BUCKEYES, held in check by a hard-hitting Michigan line, and fumbling twice in the first half, took over at the start of the final period on the Michigan 42. Ferguson, carrying the ball on four of the five plays, hit the center of the line, was momentarily stopped and then shook loose to score standing up.

Mich. State Breezes to 43-15 Win

EAST LANSING, Mich. (AP)—Michigan State's mighty man-power crushed Detroit with a second-half surge Saturday for a 43-15 football victory.

Michigan State was a 23-point pre-game favorite and it looked early as if the Big Ten Spartans were going to stage a runaway as they spurted ahead 15-0 early in the first half.

But Detroit made it 15-all at one point in the first half and was still in the game fighting until sophomore quarterback Jerry Gross was knocked out of the action with a broken nose near the end of the third period.

San Diego Beats 49ers for Title

SAN DIEGO (UPI)—San Diego State won its ninth California Collegiate Athletic Association cross country track meet Saturday, outdistancing Long Beach State and other rivals.

On the basis of low score, San Diego was first with 33, Long Beach State next with 65, followed by Fresno State, 70; Los Angeles State, 80; California at Santa Barbara, 140; San Fernando State, 147, and Cal Poly of San Luis Obispo, 170.

Mike Dragila, San Diego, was individual winner with a time of 16:32.1 for the 5,000 meters.

K-State Handed 9th Straight Loss

TUCSON, Ariz. (AP)—Halfback Joe Hernandez scored three touchdowns Saturday as Arizona handed Kansas State its 9th straight defeat, 35-16.

Hernandez broke away for touchdown runs of 8 and 4 yards and took a 21-yard pass from quarterback Eddie Wilson for another score.

Halfback Bob Thompson carried 9 times for 157 yards and Hernandez gained 48 yards on 9 carries.

JERRY BURNS SUCCEEDS EVY

Iowa Rips Irish, 28-0

SOUTH BEND, Ind. (UPI)—The power-laden Hawkeyes, No. 3 football team in the nation, gave retiring coach Forest Evashevski a 28-0 farewell victory over Notre Dame Saturday and plummeted the impotent Irish toward their most disastrous season in history.

BURNS

After the game, Evashevski tapped a young assistant, Jerry Burns, to be his successor.

The 33-year-old Burns takes command at the same age Evy was when he began a successful nine-year career in 1952.

Burns' appointment, announced by University President Virgil M. Hancher, had been expected since Evashevski was named athletic director last summer with the stipulation that he would coach only through the 1960 season.

Evashevski, 42, had a record of 52 victories, 27 losses and 4 ties at Iowa, three Big Ten championships and two Rose Bowl triumphs.

Burns is a 1950 graduate of Michigan, and was head coach at Whittier, Calif. in 1952.

Sparked by the breakaway running of a bevy of backs and rugged defense that thwarted every Notre Dame effort, the Iowans scored with only slightly more than four minutes gone, counted again in the second period and squashed all Irish hopes with two quick touchdowns in the final period.

The victory enhanced Iowa's chances to improve its national rating and win a bid to the Rose Bowl. The Hawkeyes assured themselves of a share of the Big Ten championship a week ago but must share the title with Minnesota, victor over Wisconsin Saturday.

* * * *

NOTRE DAME'S defeat was its eighth loss in a row after winning its season opener. The losing streak was the longest in Irish history, and a loss to Southeran California next week would give Notre Dame a dreary season record of 1-9, worse than the record low of 2-8 reached by a Terry Brennan coached team in 1956.

Cornhusker FG Derricks Oklahoma

NORMAN, Okla. (AP) — The Nebraska Cornhuskers used a 68-yard touchdown run by Bill Thornton and a 28-yard field goal by Ron Meade in the final quarter Saturday to beat Oklahoma 17-14 in a Big Eight Conference football game.

Meade, a third string quarterback, came off the bench with 1:38 left in the game and booted the ball squarely through the goalposts to upset the Sooners.

It was strictly a come-from-behind effort by the spirited Nebraskans after they found themselves behind 14-0 at halftime.

PURDUE STILL HAS OLD OAKEN BUCKET

LAFAYETTE, Ind. (UPI) — Highly-favored Purdue, led by the stellar quarterbacking of Bernie Allen and a hard-charging line, pummeled Indiana Saturday, 35-6, before 45,723 fans in the traditional football finale.

The Boilermakers, three touchdown favorites, thus stretched their mastery over their downstate rival to 13 years and retained possession of the prized "Old Oaken Bucket," emblematic of gridiron superiority in this colorful series dating back to 1891.

Allen passed for Purdue's first two touchdowns, the first a 16-yard toss to fullback Willie Jones, the second an 11-yard flip to halfback Dave Miller to give Purdue a 14-0 halftime lead.

The Riveters scored twice more in the third stanza and once in the fourth to wrap up the one-sided contest in sunny weather and break even for the season with a 4-4-1 record.

Indiana, closing its worst season since 1957 with a 1-8 record, finally scored in the last period.

THORNTON SPARKS CATS OVER ILLINOIS

EVANSTON, Ill. (AP) — Quarterback Dick Thornton passed and ran Northwestern to a 14-7 victory over Illinois Saturday in a Big Ten football finale.

Thornton, 20-year-old Chicagoan who was disabled last year with a broken ankle suffered in Northwestern's second game, returned the opening kickoff 83 yards to set up the Wildcats' first touchdown, and took charge in an 87-yard drive in the final quarter for the game-winning touchdown.

Illinois punted to the Northwestern 13 to open the fourth quarter. Thornton went around his left end for 22 yards. Mike Stock picked up one yard before Thornton tossed a 31-yard pass to Elbert Kimbrough. Thornton ran for another 20 yards and then fired a 13-yard touchdown pass to Kimbrough.

The outcome gave both teams 5-4 records for the season, and 2-4 in conference play.

Illinois' only touchdown came in the second quarter to tie the score at 7-7.

13-POINT FAVORITES OVER BILLS

Chargers Seek 5th Straight

By HANK HOLLINGWORTH
Executive Sports Editor

The Los Angeles Chargers, looking all over a division winner as they turn into the home stretch of the American Football League race, engage the Buffalo Bills at 1 p.m. today in the Coliseum.

The Chargers (6-3) are 13-point favorites over the hapless Bills (3-6) as they seek their fifth straight triumph.

The 13-point favoritism is merited inasmuch the men of Sid Gillman pelted the Bills 24-10 last month in Buffalo—without the services of their quarterback ace, Jack Kemp.

Kemp's shoulder was ailing when the Chargers shuffled off to Buffalo and in his spot was Bobby Clatterbuck. Bobby performed well enough against Buffalo to win the SoCal Football Writer's accolade as "pro player - of - the-week."

For his meritorious performance, Clatterbuck was slashed from the Charger roster one week later!

Buster Ramsey's visitors have made one notable change in their lineup since the initial Charger battle: In place of veteran Tommy O'Connell at quarterback is a youngster named John Green from Chattanooga.

Ramsey is so enthused over his Chattanooga choo-choo that he has likened him to Johnny Unitas, which is about par in quarterback circles this season. (Two consecutive passes earns the monicker of "another Unitas.")

* * * *

BUFFALO'S TOP runner is former Penn State all-America Richie Lucas. On the Bills' defensive line is a behemoth familiar to Southlanders, 310-pound Chuck McMurtry from Richard Nixon's neighborhood, Whittier College.

Only significant Charger changes find ex-Trojan Jim Sears back in regalia after a month's absence and rookie end Howie Clark in mothballs, still staggering from an explosion heard 'round the interchange when he cracked torsos with a Houston defender last Sunday.

Winter League Softball Set Today

Four teams of the Western Softball Congress will begin a winter league today at 1 p.m. at Mayfair Park in Lakewood. There will be two games each Sunday. In the opener, Long Beach will meet Lakewood, while San Pedro will face Anaheim in the nightcap.

The pitching mound will be moved back four feet, making a distance of 50 feet. Amateur Softball Association commissioner Gene Martin says if this experiment proves successful, the new idea will be adopted nationwide.

Doug Ballard, manager of the San Pedro nine, plans to start Bob Amos on the mound.

PACKERS BIG CHOICE

Rams, Green Bay Lock Horns Today in TV Skirmish

By JERRY WYNN

MILWAUKEE—Ready, set, sing:

I'm in Milwaukee and I oughta know
It's Green Bay Packers wherever you go,
There's Hournung and Taylor and Lombardi too
A victory today they plan to brew!

That ditty is No. 1 on the Hit Parade in this home of beer, bratwurst and Braves as the Rams bump up against the powerful Packers at County Stadium today. Television time in Southern California over channel 2 is 11 a.m.

Just as they've taken the Braves to heart, Milwaukee citizens are waving the banner this year to their tiny neighbor to the north, Green Bay, and some 35,000 of them are expected to cheer on the Packers today.

* * * *

NOT THAT THE Packers need help. The rags-to-riches upstarts of the National Football League are rated 13-point favorites to whip the Rams and move into a tie with the Baltimore Colts for the Western Division lead. Green Bay is 5-2 to 6-2 for Baltimore, but the Colts have a bye today.

Unfortunately for the Rams, the Packers aren't buying their pleas that a team with a 2-5-1 record (the Rams) should be a soft touch. They remember too well last year's game in Milwaukee when the underdog Rams rose up to clobber them, 45-6. That stunner started a five-game skid for Green Bay while it was 12 league games later before the Rams tasted victory again.

Green Bay, this year, is a rock-solid club expertly coached by Vince Lombardi. It has two of the league's top ground gainers in left half Paul Hornung and fullback Jim Taylor and a good passing game with quarterbacks Bart Starr and Lamar McHan chucking to Boyd Dowler, Max McGee, Gary Knafelc and Ron Kramer.

* * * *

HORNUNG, the league's top scorer with 100 points, particularly is devastating with his superior ability to pass on the option play.

The Rams enter the game—the last leg of a long road trip—in poor shape physically and mentally. Key players such as Les Richter, Lamar Lundy and Jack Pardee are unable to go at full speed because of injuries. Team morale, so high all season, was hurt by the loss at Detroit last week.

Upset hopes rest on a reshuffled backfield that has Bill Wade and Dick Bass in starting roles, and continued inspired play from the defensive unit. Probable starters:

Once Over Lightly

Rules Committee's Rules Frustrating

HITTIN' THE HIGH SPOTS: There has been much criticism of the "wild card" substitution rule being used by the colleges this season, the main rap being that it permits the coaches to call every play.

Although Gen. Bob Neyland, head of the rules committee, says that it was never intended that the coaches would take advantage of it to send in every play, he reveals that the "wild card" rule probably will be retained.

GENE MAUCH
Quick and Aggressive

We still can't see the reasoning behind the rules committee's attempts to come as close as they can to "free substitution" without going all the way, which they should have done years ago.

The Big Ten has made a strong comeback against nonconference foes this year after a couple of lean seasons by posting a record of 20-1-2.

Only loss outside the conference was Indiana's defeat by Oregon State. The two ties were the wild 28-28 wing - ding between UCLA and Purdue, and the 7-7 draw between Michigan State and Pitt.

Wire reports recently didn't reveal how close Yankee pitcher Whitey Ford came to being seriously injured or killed when his car was completely demolished in an accident . . .

Commenting on the Senators moving out of Washington, Frank Lane of Cleveland said "I've always felt that Washington is one of the top two or three franchises in baseball. Fourteen years in the second division is a long time, though, and the city never has had an opportunity to show how it would respond to aggressive operation" . . .

ONE OF CASEY STENGEL'S MORE classic remarks was "you know, I was a better manager when I had Joe DiMaggio."

In that vein, Senator skipper Cookie Lavagetto points out that "regardless of what anyone may say, it's the ball clubs that win games, not the manager. If eight managers took turns running the same team, there wouldn't be a half a percentage point separating one guy's performance from another's."

However, it is agreed that some managers excel more than others in certain phases of the game.

For instance, Al Dark, who will pilot the San Francisco Giants next season, says "I've learned from every manager I played under, but I do not plan to be exactly like any of them.

"Billy Southworth, for instance, had great patience that I admired. Bob Scheffing is another with patience, especially with youngsters. Leo Durocher was quick and alert and in the game all the time. Fred Hutchinson knew how to handle pitchers. Gene Mauch is something like Durocher, quick and aggressive, and Charlie Dressen's baseball knowledge is astonishing in its depth."

THE "GOLD MEDALS" HANDED OUT at the Olympics in Rome the past summer already are peeling. They were not pure gold, but gold-plated.

First winner to discover a flaw in the workmanship was Peter Snell of New Zealand, the 800-meter winner. His medal began to peel within a month.

The IOC does not demand medals to be pure gold, specifying only that they contain enough gold so the plating will look like gold. The true amateur spirit, eh?

Last solid gold medals were awarded in the '32 Olympics held here in Southern California.

Bothered by a sugar deficiency, John Crow, the St. Louis Cardinals' great halfback, drinks more than a half-dozen bottles of Coke during a game.

Thus, whenever the offensive team takes a breather, it naturally has become known as "The Pause that Refreshes" . . .

WORD FROM "DOWN UNDER" IS that Italian net star Nicola Pietrangeli has tennis officials quite upset over his refusal to play in the New South Wales championships because he wasn't given enough money.

He maintains he is accustomed to getting at least $400 a week for "expenses" and will not play for any less than that. "I'm no different than the other top players in the world," he declares.

Pietrangeli is slated to join Jack Kramer's barnstorming pro troupe shortly — "at a cut in salary, of course," says a wag . . .

We ran across this cute item about Ed Doherty, Xavier football coach whose wife recently presented him with his sixth son and ninth child.

Ed's sister immediately wired: "You now have a center, a quarterback, a halfback, a guard and a tackle. I hope this is the end!"

DRESSEN, HANEY JOIN STENGEL DINNER CAST

Charlie Dressen and Fred Haney, who managed against Casey Stengel in world series, Saturday were added to the list of notables who will pay tribute to Stengel at a testimonial banquet Tuesday night in the Biltmore Bowl.

GOGI

Haney, who won pennants at Milwaukee in 1957 and 1958, split in two world series meetings with Stengel. Dressen, Haney's successor with the Braves, managed the Dodgers, who bowed to Casey in 1952 and '53.

Other guests at the head table include Yankee co-owner Del Webb and president Walter O'Malley of the Dodgers.

Entertainment will be provided by song stylist Gogi Grant and master of ceremonies Pat O'Brien. The dinner begins at 7:30.

Tickets, priced at $10, may be obtained from the Baseball Writers Office, 606 So. Hill St., room 404, Los Angeles, or by 'phoning MAdison 2-6471.

Moss, Gurney Top Grand Prix Field

By PAUL WALLACE

RIVERSIDE—Britain's best drivers and a Southlander will sit in the front row at 2 p.m. today when the nation's most important road race, the U.S. Grand Prix for Formula 1, cars, is flagged off at Riverside International Raceway.

Riverside's Dan Gurney, in his dark green BRM racer, will share the top starting spots with Stirling Moss, Black Lotus' and world champion Jack Brabham, Factory Cooper, in the world championship event.

Moss was fastest in the three days of qualifications which wound up Saturday. He drove his low-slung dark blue auto around the winding 3.3-mile course in 1:54.4, an average of more than 103 mph, the fastest official lap ever recorded here.

* * * *

BRABHAM TURNED 1:55.1 for the second best lap, followed by a determined Gurney who worked hard to cut his time to 1:55.2 on the circuit which was made slower by cool, gusty winds and rolling sand.

Behind these three will be Jim Clark, 1:55.6; Joe Bonnier, BRM, 1:55.8; motorcycle champion John Surteef, Lotus, 1:56.6; Innes Ottowa, Lotus, 1:57; Tony Brooks, Cooper, 1:57.2.

Oliver Gendien, in a Yeoman Credit Cooper, qualified at 1:57.2 to take the pole spot in the fourth row beside Bruce McLaren, Brabham's teammate in a manufacturing Lotus.

* * * *

OTHER QUALIFIERS include Garham Hill, Jim Hall, Phil Hill, Henry Taylor, Roy Salvaberi, Wofgang von Trips, Brian Baker, Chuck Daigh, Maurice Trintignant, Pete Lovely, Ron Flockhart, Robert Drake and Ian Burgess.

Today's activities will open with a 13-lap chase for compact and small sedans at 11:45 a.m.

In Saturday's formula junior feature, Walt Hasgen, Westfield, N.J., was first in a Cooper, averaging 86.4. Billy Krause, Long Beach, was second in a Lotus.

Roebuck, Latman Hurl Here Today

The Long Beach Rockets, riding the crest of a four-game winning streak and leading the semipro Winter League, get a breather today, but there is an "if" attached.

The "if" represents the availability of the Cleveland Indians' Barry Latman to pitch for the invading and winless Scoremaster Braves. The game is scheduled for Blair Field (10th and Park Ave.) at 1:45 p.m.

Latman, who came to the Indians in the Herb Score deal with the White Sox, is expected to face Ed Roebuck of the Rockets in a duel of major leaguers.

The Rockets will be without the services of outfielder Bob Carter, one of their leading hitters, and pitcher Gordon Seyfried. Both are expected to return next week. Ron Fairly will be in the Rocket outfield.

GIBBONS, FOE OF DEMPSEY IN '23, DIES

ST. PAUL, Minn. (UPI) —Thomas J. (Tommy) Gibbons, who fought Jack Dempsey for the heavyweight boxing title in 1923, died of a heart attack Saturday at his home here. He was 69.

Gibbons' ring career spanned 14 years, the last seven of which he boxed as a heavyweight.

It was at Shelby, Mont., that the 6-foot Gibbons met Dempsey for the heavyweight crown on July 4, 1923. Dempsey defeated him on a decision in 15 rounds.

Other boxing greats who Gibbons met included Gene Tunney and Harry Greb. The Tunney fight, in 1925, was the last of Gibbons' career.

Halimi Set to Fight Jofre If Purse Right

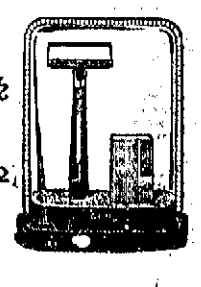

PARIS (AP)—Alphonse Halimi of France Saturday night said he is willing to meet Brazil's newly-crowned Eder Jofre for the undisputed world bantamweight boxing title—if the purse is right.

Halimi is the recognized champ in Europe and Britain since he out-pointed Ireland's Freddie Gilroy in London recently. Jofre won the U. S. National Boxing Association's version of the title by knocking out Elroy Sanchez of Mexico in the sixth round at Los Angeles Friday night.

The title had been left open with the retirement of Jose Becerra of Mexico. Becerra called it quits after being knocked out by Sanchez.

Vandy's Flash Nabs Feature

12,381 on Hand for Big Card

By MAC McGUIRE

Big red Vandy's Flash got his nose in front at the last jump to win the $5,000 Clabbertown G. Stakes at 350 yards Saturday before 12,381 fans at Los Alamitos Race Course.

John D. Askew's six-year-old chestnut gelding edged out First Call, who in turn had an edge on the early leader, Table Tennis.

Off at 7-5, the holder of two world records had to step on the gas in the last 150 yards to catch the two mares. Vandy's Flash was clocked in 17.9 to get to the wire first for the fifth straight time at Los Alamitos.

* * * *

TABLE TENNIS, who had won her last three starts, including the Pomona championship over Flash, jumped out first with Hoss Inman's First Call right with her.

First Call nailed the Western Stable's filly about 150 yards from the wire, but Vandy's Flash was thundering in third place. He kept inching up and jockey Terry Armstrong got his nose in front at the wire.

Vandy's Flash paid $4.80, $3.40 and $2.60. First Call returned $5.40 and $3.20 and Table Tennis paid $3.00.

Third favored Miss Louton placed fourth.

Vandy's Flash was named horse of the sprint meeting at Los Alamitos after he hit the wire first in all of his four starts. In one of them, however, the big gelding was disqualified and Miss Louton given the win. Flash climaxed the spring campaign with a world record victory in the $25,000 Los Alamitos Championship.

IT WAS THE first time in his last four starts that the top-weighted chestnut had gotten to the winner's circle. He had two seconds and a fourth lugging 130 pounds, but Saturday he carried 128 to 118 pounds on First Call and 126 by Table Tennis.

In the secondary $3,000 feature for 2-year-olds, Hugh Huntley's Lotta Charge scored a full length upset victory in the 350-yard Orange County purse in 17.9 seconds to return $33.60.

The almost even money favorite, Go Billie Go, a highly regarded daughter of the great Go Man Go, placed third to Bar Deck.

The daily double paid $272.80, with Cajun Creek ($11) in the first race and Lucky Ruby ($29.80) in the second. Lucky Ruby is another member of Askew's Stable and also was saddled by L. G. (Brandy) Culver.

FIRST NOSE ACROSS COUNTS

Vandy's Flash, horse of the meeting during the spring season at Los Alamitos, came right back Saturday to flash across finish line a nose in front of First Call to win $5,000 Clabbertown G. Purse. Western Stable's Table Tennis was another nose back in the third spot.—(Official Photo Finish)

UNDEFEATED AEGEAN COLT TOPS SPRINT

AGUA CALIENTE — Bar 7-6 Ranch's undefeated Hesacorker heads a field of 13 two-year-olds entered in today's Magnolia Allowances. The six-furlong sprint figures to be the best juvenile race of the season.

Hesacorker, a son Aegean, was withheld from racing until midsummer. In his maiden effort he went five and one-half furlongs in 1:04 1/5 and followed with a second triumph in 1:04. He is topweighted today at 120 pounds, giving from nine to 14 pounds to the field.

Other entries include Sirod Deer, New Shoot, Red Sean, Rancho Day, Joyous Hour and Fault of Pride, all winners in their last starts.

GARWOL ROMPS

Gallant Fox to Argentine Star

NEW YORK (UPI) — Don Poggio, a distance-loving thoroughbred from Argentina, romped to an easy seven-length victory in the $83,000 Gallant Fox Handicap at Aqueduct Saturday, his third victory of the year in a marathon.

With jockey Sam Boulmetis in the saddle, Don Poggio went to the front high in the stretch and pulled away from his rivals in the final yards. He was an even money favorite of the crowd of 43,121.

Manassa Mauler was second in the one and three-quarter mile race, three lengths ahead of Nickel Boy. Two lengths farther back came Promised Land. The time was 2:55 4/5.

Don Poggio, winner of the Merchants and Citizens Handicap at 1¾ miles and the Manhattan at 1½ earlier in the year, paid $4.00, $2.80 and $2.30.

Manassa Mauler paid $4.40 and $3.10 while Nickel Boy returned $2.90.

BALTIMORE (UPI) — Garwol, favorite in the crowd of 19,653, charged from fourth place at the halfway mark to win the $110,260 Pimlico Futurity going away.

The star 2-year-old colt of Louis Wolfson's Harbor View Farm earned a gross purse of $68,256.50 as he passed the wire a length and one-half before Bal Musette. Sherluck was another half-length back in third.

Garwol covered the distance in 1:45 4/5 and returned $6.00, $3.80 and $2.80. Bal Musette paid $8.00 and $5.40 and Sherluck paid $5.40.

ALBANY, Calif. (AP) — Free Copy scored a wire-to-wire victory in the $11,075 Berkeley Handicap at Golden Gate Fields. Azure's Orphan was second and Happy Harry F. third.

Free Copy was timed in 1:43 for the mile and one-sixteenth and paid $6.20, $4 and $3.20. Azure's Orphan returned $5.80 and $4.60 and Happy Harry F. $7.80.

Bob Kelley Says—

UCLA Forgot to Win Game

MILWAUKEE — On hearing the SC-UCLA score, I drew two conclusions: (1) Bill Kilmer set the stage for the upset with his remarks on a radio broadcast following the Air Force game. (2) They don't make Vow Boys the way they used to.

Without even seeing the game, I can conclude the Trojans out-desired the Bruins. Could UCLA have been overconfident? I think so.

Following the Bruins' win over the Air Force last week, Kilmer was asked about the upcoming Trojan game on the radio. "We want to beat them badly."

BOB KELLEY
Analyzes 'Upset'

By "badly" Kilmer meant decisively, he left no doubts.

During the week, word came to me the Bruin players were going around vowing to themselves that they would beat the Trojans worse than any UCLA team in history, run up a higher score. Previous high was a 39-0 win under Red Sanders.

OBVIOUSLY the 1960 Bruin Vow Boys do not compare to the famous Stanford Vow Boys of 1933, '34 and '35.

They took a vow in '33 never to lose to the Trojans. Not only did Stanford keep the vow, but went to the Rose Bowl for three straight years, to boot.

Second item of importance to the Bruins this past week was recording a shutout over SC. They wanted to blank them, and they wanted to run up more than 39 points. That's all they talked of all week.

How about winning the game? Nobody considered that—it was automatic.

Before I say that a Trojan win shouldn't be too surprising, let me admit I am already on record as giving SC no chance whatever. So this is not an "I told you so" pitch.

Frankly, however, you can explain the win by saying they played up to their pre-season potential. This was the game they had been looking for all year—free of fumbles, free of mistakes and plenty of desire.

THE TROJANS are potentially one of the top teams in the country, if the breaks go their way. They're big and they have good personnel.

The wonder to me is how Johnny McKay got them so high for this game.

Remember that the Trojans were really fired up for Washington, the week of Mike McKeever's brain surgery. But a fumble right off the bat, then a punt runback by George Fleming got them in a hole from which they could never extricate themselves.

(As Aragon would say, "What's 'extricate' mean?")

Being that high, then getting dumped 34-0 is apt to convince a kid spirit doesn't do a bit of good.

EVEN MORE remarkable is that Troy's spirit continued high the next week against Baylor, in a game which didn't especially mean much. Again bad breaks—seven fumbles—ruined their plan.

I realize the UCLA game is a traditional one, but I still say Johnny McKay did a fantastic job building the morale up so high for the Bruins.

We can only hope some of the grumbling old grads (and I'm not looking at you, Marsh Duffield) will get off McKay's back and let him stick around awhile. He's got the makings of a good one.

Stock Cars in Action at Ascot, Western Today

Stock cars make up the Southland's auto racing bill of fare today. Late models, including 1961's, take over at Ascot Stadium and early models compete at Western Speedway.

Downey's Danny Letner (Plymouth), Lakewood's Marvin Porter (Ford) and Buena Park's Lloyd Dane (Chevy) will hook up in a special match race at Ascot. Time trials begin at 1 p.m. and racing at 2:30.

Other drivers in the field of more than 40 at Ascot include Bob Ross and Dick Smith, Lakewood; Jim Blomgren, Norwalk; and Bob Dykeman, Buena Park.

Eight events are billed at Western. The field includes Gabby Garrison of Long Beach, Bruce Worrell, Lakewood; and Jim Cook of Anaheim, winner of a recent "500."

Lowly North Carolina Upsets Blue Devils, 7-6

CHAPEL HILLS, N. C. (UPI) — Ray Farris somersaulted for a touchdown over a mass of Duke linemen and Bob Elliott kicked the point in the last two minutes of play Saturday to give North Carolina a stunning 7-6 upset victory over the sixth-ranked Blue Devils.

The triumph by the victory-starved Tar Heels in this battle of arch-rivals tarnished Duke's chances for an Orange Bowl invitation.

North Carolina, with only one victory and seven defeats before the game, battled the Blue Devils on even terms through three quarters. Both teams had scoring thrusts thrown back repeatedly before Duke sent fullback Dave (Red) Burch crashing for a touchdown early in the fourth period.

The Tar Heels rallied fiercely and drove the kickoff to the Duke eight. But frustration again hit them in the face and on fourth down, end John Schroeder dropped a pass in the end zone.

With the clock running out, North Carolina's defense—magnificent all afternoon — throttled Duke's runs and forced a punt. Then the Tar Heels took only eight plays to sweep 43 yards for the tying touchdown.

I Was Really Bad...Kilmer

By JEROME HALL

"I was really bad out there, wasn't I," asked Mild (not Wild) Bill Kilmer as he groped for an explanation of what happened to UCLA's vow to run up a record score on the SC Trojans Saturday.

"I was pressing. I just did the wrong things."

But the Bruins, who hadn't been scored on in their previous three games and went against Troy as a prohibitive favorit, didn't attempt to depreciate the SC triumph.

"We were roundly beaten," said deflated coach Bill Barnes, "and I mean roundly beaten."

"They did everything right," chimed in Kilmer. "They really smashed us around."

* * * *

WAS IT A CASE OF overconfidence, Barnes was asked.

"I don't think so," he replied, but then he paused a long moment. "I just don't know," he decided.

It was, Barnes conceeded, a case of Kilmer having an off day. The triple-threat tailback who entered the game with a 191-yard total offense average, was held to 29 yards rushing and 80 passing. In the first half while Troy was building up a 14-0 advantage, Kilmer was held to minus one yard on the ground.

That's why the Bruins employed a "go for broke" style that saw them futilely flinging long passes. Three of Kilmer's "fling and a prayer" throws were intercepted.

* * * *

KILMER PICKED OUT HIS FIRST interception as the turning point in the game. It came in the opening minute of the second period when he threw a sideline pass intended for wingback Gene Gaines. But Gaines seemed to lose it in the sun and SC halfback Jerry Traynham picked it off at the UCLA 42, returning it to the 13. It set up TD No. 2.

In a deep hole, the Bruins had to abandon their punch-jab-grind offense and try for the quick strike. But they lost their poise.

"I though we could do it with the long passes," said Barnes. "But they just beat us every place. Who knows, maybe even if we had been our best they would have beaten us. But, boy, they really did. They just swept us off the field."

Barnes figures he "must have walked a million miles" up and down the sidelines in a nervous sweat. By contrast SC coach Johnny McKay, stood calmly in front of his bench, masterminding in all directions.

* * * *

BARNES AND HIS PLAYERS agreed that SC did nothing surprising, but "they just did it better than we did," the coach said.

"We knew they'd switch (Marlin) McKeever around," said Kilmer. The SC all-American end played the "strong side" — the side to which the single wing was pointed. He stopped the sweeps.

Barnes was pressed to select the single most important play of the day. He said there was no doubt about which one. "It was a pass to end Don Vena late in the first half that had touchdown written all over it. Vena grabbed the ball on the goal line but was hit at the same instant on a vicious tackle that jarred the ball loose, so it wasn't 14-7 at the half. The tackler? Defensive back Jim Bates, a man who was praised all over the UCLA dressing room."

But there's one thing even more important in the outcome. The Trojans forgot the ol' fumble play.

STAR'S CHEEKBONE CRUSHED

Dyas' Kicks Pace 57-21 Tiger Rout

AUBURN, Ala. (AP)—Sure-footed Ed Dyas broke both of his collegiate field goal records in leading Auburn to a 57-21 victory over Florida State in another day of gridiron glory Saturday, only to see his college career virtually ended a short time later with a crushed cheekbone.

Trainer Kenny Howard said the injury, which came with only a few minutes left in the game, will keep Dyas, a senior, out of next Saturday's finale against Alabama, except possibly for placekicking.

Dyas fell crashing into the Auburn bench when a tackle by Florida State halfback Tom Hillabrand knocked him out of bounds and cracked his face against the wooden bench. He had taken a 9-yard pass from quarterback Joe Overton.

A 21-yard placement in the third period gave the 21-year-old all-America prospect 13 field goals for the year —at least one in every game—and 16 for his college career. He had established new records in both categories earlier in the season.

Dyas also kicked 4 points after touchdown to give him 7 points for the day and 63 this year.

Penn St. Thwarts Panthers

PITTSBURGH (UPI) — The Nittany Lions of Penn State scored all their points in the last 12 minutes of play Saturday to keep alive their Liberty Bowl hopes with a 14-3 victory over Pittsburgh in the season finale for the intrastate rivals.

State halfback Jim Kerr, transformed an early game "goat" role into a heroic pattern that pulled the Lions high into consideration as a repeat contender in the Bowl. Syracuse, conqueror of Miami Friday night, was being considered with State for a chance to play in the Philadelphia post season game Dec. 17.

* * * *

KERR CAUGHT a touchdown pass from Galen Hall with three minutes gone in the final period for the initial State score which was set up by Don Jonas' 21yard return of a pass interception. The scoring play covered 30 yards.

Kerr then atoned again for his fumble of the opening kickoff when he ran back a Pitt punt 40 yards to set up the second Lion touchdown.

BLASTS TEXAS TECH, 34-6

Ark. in Cotton Bowl

LUBBOCK, Tex. (AP) — Arkansas marched over Texas Tech 34-6 and into the Cotton Bowl Saturday on the bullseye passing of George McKinney and the blistering runs of Lance Alworth and Billy Moore.

The hard-bitten Razorbacks rolled up 27 points in the first half, then threatened repeatedly the rest of the way until scoring again with six minutes left on a jump pass from McKinney to Brent Shinall that gained 44 yards.

It was Arkansas' fourth straight victory over Texas Tech and it gave the Razorbacks the host spot in the Cotton Bowl because they defeated Rice, the team expected to tie it for the title, in regular season play.

A fumble and an intercepted pass helped Arkansas to its first two touchdowns. Then E. J. Holub, the great Tech center, intercepted a pass and ran 40 yards for a touchdown to pull the Red Raiders back into the game.

But the next time Arkansas had the ball it roared 79 yards for another touchdown and Tech never had a chance after that.

Gophers on Way to Pasadena

Sanders' old book by electing to punt on second down from its 39 to take advantage of a prevailing wind. The Gophers then did not regain their early momentum until the final quarter.

Wisconsin scored midway in the second quarter after a weird straight-up Minnesota punt gave the Badgers the ball on the Gopher 32. Four plays later, Miller passed 15 yards to end Hank Derleth for the touchdown. Erv Kunesh kicked the extra point.

The third quarter was all Wisconsin, but the Badgers failed to cash in on two forays into Minnesota territory.

* * * *

MINNESOTA put the icing on cake in the final quarter with a 65-yard drive capped by Dave Mulholland's five-yard off-tackle slant, and a late 40-yard spurt climaxed by an 18-yard end run by sub quarterback Larry Johnson.

Fishin' Around

By DONNELL CULPEPPER

Anything Goes in South Dakota

Del Strobele, a 71-year-old Long Beach hunter who just doesn't know when to quit his scattergunning, is back from South Dakota with some rather interesting experiences and 10 pheasants to prove that his sight is still excellent.

Strobele, who resides at 1606 E. 7th St., is the hunter who went with three older companions into the deer country of Northern California a couple of months ago. The men, ranging up to 90, camped out and had a wonderful time.

Strobele flew back to South Dakota and hunted just west of Aberdeen. That state had a wonderful hatch this year and Strobele said that just prior to the opening of the season, he saw as many as 500 pheasants within a mile alongside a road.

He shot 10 in three days and thought that was enough. South Dakota allows four per day for 24 for the season.

He saw hunters traveling along the roads, shooting from the windows of cars. Some even rode the fenders and running boards of older-model cars and shot in that manner. Legal? Of course not, said Strobele, but nobody seeemed to mind.

Can you imagine any one trying that in California? He would be up for 16 murders in the first half-mile of driving and shooting.

INCIDENTALLY, CALIFORNIA'S SEASON for pheasants continues through Nov. 27, but by this time, most of the remaining birds are scared out of their tail feathers. You can place safe odds of 100 to one that most of the kill is already is in the bag.

The season in Imperial County and parts of Riverside County continues through Dec. 11, but hunters who have tried that area wonder why. Most of them haven't seen a bird.

Rain took its toll on the quail opening, but that doesn't mean that the quail have flown to other states, or even to Mexico. There will be good quail shooting in preferred places until the season closes Jan. 2.

Take a tip from some of the oldtimers who know where the quail are and then get permission from the land owners to hunt on their property. Such areas are becoming scarcer all the time and a great part of that problem lies with the hunters themselves.

Even when granted permission, there seem to be some knotheads—perhaps that should be spelled NOT-HEADS and drop the T—who just won't respect other person's properties.

Cooperation is the essence of preserving farmer-hunter relations and, most certainly, we need more of it.

SOME ANGLERS REFUSE to give up—fish or their ideas. Take the case of the sportsmen in Santa Barbara County. When Lake Cachuma was formed, they insisted that the state plant trout, much to the disgust of the Department of Fish and Game.

Trout were planted and fishing went well for a time. Then hot weather came and the trout died off. The sports men wondered why. DF&G men told them—as they had before—that trout couldn't take that hot water, plus the parasites generated in such water.

The state then turned to warm-water fish, largemouths and bluegill, and Cachuma became famous for that type of fishing. In fact, hundreds of thousands of bluegill have been taken this year at Cachuma and there seems to be no end.

Now, the Santa Barbara sportsmen have donated $1,140 to purchase 4,500 commercially reared trout 7 to 10 inches in length. They were delivered and stocked last week. Those trout will survive through the winter and early spring, provided they aren't caught, but they'll never last through the next summer,

That many trout in a lake the size of Cachuma hardly makes a showing, but the sportsmen of that county are determined nonetheless. They should have a capital E for effort.

Kentucky FG Ties Tenn.

KNOXVILLE, Tenn. (UPI) —Clark Mayfield's 26-yard field goal in the final period gave slow-starting Kentucky a 10-10 tie with Tennessee Saturday.

The Tennessee Vols, who haven't beaten Kentucky since 1956, struck swiftly and led at halftime, 10-0. But the Wildcats roared back on the deadly passing of quarterback Jerry Eisaman, scoring on a 94-yard march in the third period and then catching up with Mayfield's field goal.

The Tennessee single-wing attack was highly effective in the first half. But the Cats' defense stiffened as the game progressed.

Snead Stopped as LSU Blanks Wake Forest

BATON ROUGE, La. (AP)—Louisiana State jammed the passing barrage of Wake Forest quarterback Norman Snead and turned loose a horde of hard-running backs to smother the Deacons 16-0 Saturday night.

Snead, one of the nation's top-ranking passers, flooded the LSU defenses with passes but was unable to drive the Deacons into the scoring column.

The rock-ribbed LSU defense limited the Wake Forest running game to five yards.

Snead connected on 13 of 28 passes for 156 yards, but frequently was dumped for big losses while trying to spot receivers.

Wyoming Whips BYU, Ties for Loop Title

PROVO, Utah (AP) — The powerful Wyoming Cowboys tied Utah State for the Skyline Conference football title Saturday, trouncing Brigham Young University, 30-6.

The victory gave Wyoming an 8-2 record for the season and a 6-1 mark in the Skyline Conference.

RICE ROUTS TCU; STILL IN SW RACE

HOUSTON (UPI) — Rice turned a pair of pass interceptions and a fumble recovery into scoring drives Saturday to defeat Texas Christian 23-0.

Quarterbacks Alvin Hartman and Randall Kerbow both scored for Rice following pass interceptions by the Owls, and fullback Max Webb kicked a 48-yard field goal, following a fumble recovery in the second period.

The win ran the Owl's conference record to 5-1 and left them the only team in the loop with a chance to share the conference title with Arkansas.

Baylor Raps SMU, 20-7

DALLAS (AP)—Baylor fought past Southern Methodist 20-7 Saturday but saw its chance for a share in the Southwest Conference title washed up when Arkansas defeated Texas Tech hundreds of miles away in Lubbock.

SMU, which hasn't won a game this season, made Baylor fight for every inch, and three times had touchdown chances broken up by interceptions, twice on the 10 and another on the 1.

SMU scored first on a 15-yard pass from Frank Jackson to Glynn Gregory, with Gregory converting. That was all for the Ponies despite their several threats.

Surprising Tulane Belts Vandy, 20-0

NASHVILLE, Tenn. (UPI)—Halfback Tom Mason, the Southeastern Conference scoring leader, tallied two touchdowns Saturday as he led Tulane to a surprisingly easy 20-0 win over Vanderbilt.

It was the first conference win for Tulane since the Greenies whipped Alabama during the tag-end of the 1958 season.

Maryland in 44-12 Romp Over Virginia

CHARLOTTESVILLE, Va. (AP)—Maryland's Terps recovered two fumbles, blocked a kick and got two long kickoff returns for a 44-12 Atlantic Coast Conference football romp over the helpless Cavaliers of Virginia Saturday.

The Cavaliers also got a brilliant pass reception performance by sophomore end Joe Kehoe, who snagged 11, but still went down to their 26th consecutive defeat—only two short on the national major college mark.

SC Jolts Bruins

defense for their lone score.

UCLA drove 75 yards in 18 crunching plays for the TD with Kilmer booming over from the two at 3:55 of the fourth period. But Kilmer's drive over left tackle for a two-point conversion was doomed to failure. Bill was stopped on the one-yard line.

With 11:05 remaining there was still hope for a tie, but it was absolutely necessary that the Bruins stop Troy cold after the kickoff in order to get the ball with time enough remaining to mount another attack.

However, SC snapped back with an 80-yard advance that consumed nine minutes and three seconds while moving to the three-yard line to get in position for Zachik's field goal from the 10 at 12:58.

Key to the drive was Jim Maples' 21-yard romp on the second play and the Bruins wilted after letting the Trojans off the hook.

On the second play after the kickoff, Al Prukop intercepted another Kilmer pass on the 41 . . . and the Trojans moved to the 18 before being held for downs as time ran out.

* * * *

IT WAS SWEET revenge for the Trojans, who last year suffered similar treatment from the Bruins. Unbeaten SC was working on a string of eight straight wins a year ago and was ranked No. 2 in the nation when it went into the UCLA game a two-touchdown favorite. However, the Uclans' slipped 'em a 10-3 "mickey."

The victory gives the Trojans a 4-5 standing for the season with one game left . . . with Notre Dame next Saturday in the Coliseum. The Bruins are now 5-2-1 with Utah and Duke still left to be played.

With the Troy forward wall punching huge holes in the Bruin defense, SC moved 59 yards in 15 plays to the Bruin 21 after the opening kickoff before being held for downs.

The deep penetration pushed the Bruins into a hole from which they were unable to extract themselves until they were behind 7-0.

* * * *

FOLLOWING an exchange of punts, the Trojans resumed the attack from the UCLA 43. Nelsen's pass to Jim Bates on the 27 and a personal foul penalty put the ball on the 13. After reaching the six, SC was penalized for holding back to the 21 . . . but on the very next play Nelsen passed to McKeever for the touchdown at 14:55. Zachik's kick was good.

On the third play of the second quarter, Jerry Traynham intercepted Kilmer's pass out to the left sideline and returned 29 yards to the UCLA 13 to set up the other Troy TD.

Except for a two-yard pickup by Nelsen, fullback Hal Tobin carried it in for the Trojans in four stabs at the middle . . . diving over from the two for the score at 3:08. Zachik again kicked the PAT.

* * * *

HELD TO only five yards and no first downs during the first 22 minutes of action, the Bruins finally got something going for them when a 37-yard Kilmer-to-Jim Johnson aerial launched a 74-yard advance . . . but it finally died on the SC four when three straight passes by Kilmer fell incomplete in the end zone.

The Trojans were closing in on another TD midway in the third quarter after two straight passes from Nelsen to McKeever for 16 and 15 yards carried SC to the Bruin 25.

However, Tobin fumbled at that point and Marshall Skirk recovered for UCLA. The Bruins used this as a springboard for their only scoring advance.

Trobabes Rout UCLA Yearlings

SC's freshman football team closed out an undefeated season Saturday by trouncing the UCLA Yearlings, 32-6, in a preliminary to the Trojans and Bruins varsity encounter.

Trobabe halfback Loren Hunt from Salinas led his team's offense with two touchdowns and a pair of conversion kicks.

For the Bruins, tailback Mike Haffner sparked a 63-yard drive climaxed by his 14-yard pass to end Joe Ohlgren for the score.

IT HAPPENED LAST NIGHT

Crawford on Go but Lonely

By EARL WILSON

HONOLULU — Joan Crawford Steele was busy in her penthouse in the morning, getting massaged, writing letters and reading her Bible . . . in the evening there'd be a gay dinner climaxed by Joan saying, "How about a midnight swim?"

CRAWFORD

Joan Crawford Steele's figure would then be the best to be seen in any bathing suit on the beach at Waikiki.

Joan Crawford Steele seemed to be leading a fascinating, whirlwind life that even Joan Crawford would have envied.

One lunchtime I asked her about it up in the Imperial Suite of Henry Kaiser's Hawaiian Village overlooking Diamond Head.

She was waiting behind a door to surprise me in her new muu-muu (the loose-fitting native female garment.)

"I brought one for scrubbing floors!" She whirled about in it, making it balloon. "You KNOW that's what they've got to be for."

* * * *

DISAPPEARING to change into white shorts and white sports coat, she sat, legs up, on a divan, stirred a 100-proof vodka, which is her second favorite drink, and described how she has become Good Will Ambassadress for that soft drink company which her late husband, Al Steele, headed when he died.

"The widow Steele is doing the most glamorous job of press-agenting I've seen," I had remarked to a company official earlier. "I hope she's getting properly paid for it."

"No, I just think she's doing it for Al," he said.

Now I asked her if that's how it was. Joan's voice lowered. "Yes, I would think so." Her mood became very serious.

* * * *

SHE'S A DIRECTOR, the holder of 1200 shares of stock, and she tells Herbert Barnet, president of the company, when she wants time off to do TV or a movie—still, she said, she isn't paid for her work.

"The last speech Alfred made," she said, was in Washington thanking me for contributing so much to him as a man, and to the company.

"And so, continuing that is my job and my purpose in life."

"Do you think you might marry again?"

"I don't know. It's a very lonely existence . . . very lonely."

I asked about "Clipper" Squires, retired New York textile millionaire.

"I adore 'Clipper'," she said softly.

The Henry Kaisers opened up their million-dollar, two-bedroom home to Joan and some of us of the working press when Joan came here for the Kaiser Foil Cookoff. Joan, in a swim suit, sipping champagne between dips in the pool, was the eternal glamour girl.

* * * *

JOAN SOLD her Hollywood home to Donald O'Connor, still has a small apartment in Loretta Young's Hollywood Realty development—but the swank apartment at 2 E. 70th in New York which she and Steele fitted out is her real home. She's there between acting chores—such as a Zane Grey Theatre TV film she just made. It was called "And One Must Die," and it'll be shown in January.

Necessarily, Joan lives a lot on planes.

"I have my three poodles and I always go TWA because they let me travel with my dogs," Joan said. "They know my dogs are well-behaved.

"I give them half a tranquilizer when I go to the airport. One sits here on this side, one here on the other side, and one on my lap. They're never any trouble."

When Joan visited the Kaisers' poodle palace, one of the poodles kept licking Joan's big diamonds.

Mrs. Kaiser looked at the size of them and said: "So would I!"

THE WEEK-END ROUND-UP . . . "DON'T PRINT THAT!": One of the most successful of the B'way playwrights gives his secy's daily instruction on how much liquor to allow him (depending on the importance of his appointments, etc.). . . The pretty star of a new film detests the escort she's been linked with lately, but her studio insists, 'cause it's great publicity.

Tommy Sands wants Bill ("My name Jose Jiminez") Dana to write his cafe act. . . Johnny Desmond'll star in a film, "The Caribbean Hawk," in Italy. . . Boris Karloff said at the Forum he wants to do a musical satirizing his horror roles.

Brendan Behan's next play, "Gargle in Champagne," will have a scene set in Jack Delaney's Greenwich Village bar. . . Architects Morris Lapidus and Leo Kornblath, who created Miami's most famous hotels, split up: Kornblath'll design a building for Concord. . . Columbia's planning a memorial album to the late Johnny ("North to Alaska") Horton, killed in an auto crash.

Producer Sam Spiegel wants Cary Grant and Kirk Douglas for his next big film, "Lawrence of Arabia." . . . Here's a switch: Trombonist George West quit Kai Winding's swinging jazz band to join Guy Lombardo's sedate crew. . . Debbie Reynolds opened a dress shop in San Francisco. Name: Debbie Reynolds Originals.

EARL'S PEARLS: Automobiles continue to be driven at just two speeds—lawful and awful.

TODAY'S BEST LAUGH: A good diamond will cut into almost anything—including a man's bank account.

WISH I'D SAID THAT: It's nice to have relatives visit occasionally for a short while. In fact, that's the best way.

Remember the fellow who used to conveniently forget his wallet? Well, he's changed. Now he forgets his credit card. That's earl, brother.

TO MAKE IT—SPEND IT

Movie promoter Joe Levine spends big money advertising a movie, then rakes in more money at the boxoffice. He hopes his current Gino Lollobrigida-Yves Montand epic will fit into the pattern.—(AP Photo.)

MOGUL WITHOUT A MESSAGE

'Paradise' Was Flop 'Til Renamed 'Hell'

NEW YORK (AP)—In the hands of Joseph E. Levine, money takes on an abstract glory unknown to the ordinary mortal with job, wife, youngsters and clutch of unpaid bills.

"If you start thinking of money as money, you'll never spend it like you should," says Levine, a movie promoter.

"You can't play scared in this business. It's sort of like being in Vegas where they use chips instead of cash."

Gambling has no part, however, in his operating credo which, simply put, is:

"To make a lot of money, you spend a lot."

With expensive, high-octane mixtures of promotion, advertising and massive market saturation, Levine has racked up impressive box office records.

* * * *

WHETHER THE films possess any esthetic merit beyond momentary escapism, frankly doesn't interest their sponsor.

"A lot of people have forgotten that ours is a circus business," he says. "A lot of good pictures have been unsuccessful because no one dared exploit them.

"You say a picture you like is a good picture? I say one that gets 18 million people into theaters is a good picture."

A short, round man of 55, Levine is recipient of a top cinematic citation—motion picture pioneer of the year. Previous recipients include Adolf Zukor, Cecil B. Demille, Spyros Skouras and Barney Balaban.

"Pretty good for a guy out of New England just five years," he comments on this and other industry honors that have been recently coming his way.

* * * *

IN QUIET Bostonian accents, he ticks off spending-and-getting achievements. On five recent films, Levine estimates, his Embassy Pictures Corp., expended $5 million. Thus far, 12¾ millions have grossed back into company coffers.

Although by industry standards, Levine has only been on the national scene briefly, he has been around the trade since he quit the ready-made clothing business 25 years ago. But until a film named "Attila" came along, he was simply a respectable, small-time theater operator and exhibitor.

Levine bought the American rights to "Attila" for $100,000. The pseudo-historic epic of blood and thunder had been lying around for four years in Italy without any Yankee takers.

Firing an opening broadside of exploitation, Levine reaped a $2 million yield.

Notable milestones since have been "Godzilla," a Japanese film (his gross, $1¼ million); "Hercules" ($5 million); and "Hercules Unchanged" ($3 million).

'Can-Can' Offers Delightful Evening

"Can-Can" can and "Can-Can" does.

Provide an evening of delightful musical entertainment, that is. The Cole Porter-Abe Burrows romp through Montmarte, now playing at the Magnolia Theater, moves trippingly on the tongue and toes, with never a single dull moment.

Director Pat Brown has not only kept the singers singing and the dancers moving, but has also kept everybody around acting. This fact adds considerably to the quality of the production.

So does dancing itself. Choreographer Ray Raymond has designed the movements to take full advantage of the small stage, so that a few colorful costumed can-can girls create the illusion of a kaleidoscopic multitude. In a couple of rather ambitious numbers which need distance to lend enchantment, the limitation of lack of space is keenly felt, but most of the time the added intimacy is an advantage.

* * * *

THE GREATEST advantage of all is the excellence of the cast, singers, dancers, and straight players alike. In the leading roles of Pistache and Aristide, Mary Lou Peterson and Cliff Robertson display powerful, well trained, beautifully controlled voices and more than adequate acting ability. Miss Peterson especially brings life to every line, spoken or otherwise. She makes her part so interesting that the songs are just a welcome added dividend.

"Can-Can" is not, I think, Cole Porter at his best, and contains only a few memorable numbers. However, the good ones stick in the memory—"It's the Wrong Girl," "C'est Magnifique," and "I Love Paris." Miss Peterson and Robertson do them justice, and that's high praise indeed.

Others in the show do equal justice to their material. The best single number of the evening in my opinion is "Never, Never Be An Artist," sung and danced by Milf Cooper, Ric Larson and Charles Culver, but the rest are almost as good. Wynne Wilson as Claudine has the major portion of the solo dancing, which she manages with grace and vitality, and also plays her comedy part well.

* * * *

THE REAL COMIC of the show is not Claudine, however, but the Bulgarian sculptor, Boris Adzinidzinadze (yes, that's a name, not a chemical), played by Milf Cooper with superb timing and always just the right intonation. Complementing him as an art critic and rival for Claudine, Ed Skillman gives a brilliant performance. He wastes not a single motion, makes not a single false move. Even his eyebrows behave.

And so it goes. Everyone is good, and most are better than that. For instance, Leon Derr and Walter Romanski bring real distinction to small parts, and Vickie Todd improves every scene of which she is a part.

Dancers besides those already mentioned include Carol York, Carole Anderson, Karen King, Marjorie Metzger, Cheryl Elliott, Sherri Palmer, Thomas Chandler and Tom Frew. Others in the cast are Dennis Castro, John Ciuchta and Harriette Seekins.

Joseph Enos is musical director and provides all accompaniments and background from his bench at the organ. Evelyn Finer was in charge of the costumes, which couldn't have been brighter.

While "Can-Can" isn't the best musical to come out of Tin Pan Alley in the last few years, it's funny enough, tuneful enough, colorful enough, and lively enough to be worth seeing, particularly in the local version at the Magnolia. Take the children along. They can con can-can too.

Performances continue on weekends. Call the box office for reservations.

Little Caesar Shows Imitator How It's Done

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — In "Pepe," Dan Dailey is called upon to do an imitation of Edward G. Robinson as "Little Caesar."

Robinson, also in the picture, saw Dailey's imitation and commented in his famous snarl:

"You're imitating the impersonators. Are you going to impersonate the impersonators or are you going to learn 'Little Caesar' from 'Little Caesar' himself?"

So Robinson took over the job of coaching Dailey. But there's one hitch. The character has been so mauled by night club mimics since 1931, that audiences may have trouble recognizing the original version.

Two actual horsepower with Motorlog guest riders challenge 300 mechanical horses under hood of Mercury Monterey in canter at Rancho de Los Caballeros near Wickenburg, Ariz.

NEW MERCURY VISITS ARIZONA GUEST RANCH

By ART STEPHAN
Auto Editor

It's a long drive but worth every one of the 353.3 cactus-studded miles.

Speaking about our last weekend jaunt to Wickenburg, Arizona, dude ranch capital of the world, and more specifically, the Rancho de los Caballeros, luxurious resort in Arizona's famed Valley of the Sun.

Our Motorlog car this time, undoubtedly accounting for the ease of the 777.8-mile round trip, was a big, luxurious Monterey, top series in the 1961 Mercury line, loaned to us by Duffield Lincoln-Mercury of 1633 Long Beach Blvd. here.

WELCOME TO CABALLEROS!

Dallas Gant, owner-manager of guest ranch, offers Western welcome to Long Beach tourist Lorraine Stephan at entrance to resort grounds.

It was John Lemmon, genial general manager of Duffield, who put us in the fire-engine-red, two-door hardtop for the long desert trip. Walking us out to the car, John told us how Duffield has come up fast in Mercury sales since the former Trojan grid star took over the dealership less than six months ago. The general manager enthusiastically revealed Duffield Lincoln-Mercury led all Southern California dealerships in the sale of Continentals for the month of October and was second in the sale of Mercurys. Looks like quarterback Marshall Duffield can plow his way through that sales line, too.

Leaving the dealership a week ago Friday at 1:30 p. m., we pointed our spirited Merc onto Carson Street, through Santa Ana Canyon to Corona and the Riverside Freeway. Skirting downtown Riverside via Pennsylvania Avenue, we were soon on the Palm Springs turnoff, then into Beaumont, past Banning and on into Indio. Just south of town we took a left turn for the desolate drive to Blythe and the Arizona border.

MERCURY QUIET

Now, on this long stretch was a good chance to analyze the top qualities of our Motorlog chariot. As in every new car, some certain things stand out impressively and in the case of this 1961 Mercury I'd say it was the extremely quiet ride. Engine noise, road and wind noise were hardly a factor as we talked in normal tones or tuned the radio as we cruised along at 65 in the desert twilight. No boiler factory is the Mercury Monterey.

It was dark as we entered Blythe and after a short dinner stop we were barreling along again, over the Colorado River, through Arizona territory now. Towns with such imaginative names as Hope, Salome and Love flashed by, some of them merely wide spots in the road. Fifty-three miles this side of Phoenix and four miles from Wickenburg itself, we turned right on Vulture Mine Road to the grounds of Rancho de los Caballeros, our sumptuous weekend home.

With reservations made in advance, our Motorlog party of four — myself, Lorraine, our son Craig and his friend Cam Kenady—his dad operates a clothing store in the Shore—were soon settled in a huge Western-style bungalow. The spacious connecting rooms, each with private bath, were decorated with authentic Southwestern furniture and many of the room decorations were handcrafted especially for the ranch. Everything was done in the homey western touch.

AMERICAN PLAN

The Los Caballeros is operated on the American plan and rooms such as ours are available for $38 a day for two, which includes three robust meals that do justice to any gourmet's palate, east or west. This we discovered in the morning as we enjoyed our first breakfast at los Caballeros.

The menu offered a varied choice of juices, fruits, hot and cold cereals, wheat cakes, meats of all kinds and "fresh ranch eggs, cooked any way you like them." It was a solid start for a day of varied activities.

The credo at the ranch seems to be one of genuine western hospitality and this we learned as, over our third cup of coffee we chatted with Dallas Gant, owner-operator of this sprawling 21,000-acre resort. Tall, lanky, looking like a true Westerner should, Gant told us of the many diversions at Los Caballeros.

Naturally, the accent is on riding with miles of open desert county to explore. You can select your own mount from a stable of 60 horses. Then, for the dudes, there's a big mineral water pool, a double tennis court, shuffleboard and a new all-electric automatic skeet range right on the ranch grounds. Golf is available two miles away at the Wickenburg Country Club.

Children are especially welcome at the ranch, Gant told us, with many special provisions to keep them happy while parents relax. In addition to a children's dining room, there's an indoor playroom, an outdoor playground with supervision by trained counsellors. You can be sure the kids are enjoying themselves, just as you are, our host guaranteed.

DESERT COOK-OUT

Now it was time for one of the planned activities of the ranch, a cook-out at the base of famed Vulture Mountain, one of Arizona's noted landmarks. For the more hardy guests horses are provided for the four-mile ride, while the tenderfoots do just like the song says—ride the range in a Ford V-8, station wagon. Although the boys took the ride, we chose the mechanical transportation. After all, this is a Motorlog, not a Horselog we were doing up here.

Arriving at the desert clearing the ranch cowboys and cooks had already been at work and the aroma of sizzling hamburgers, pinto beans and strong coffee was in the air. You might say it was a blend of Old West atmosphere with modern comfort as we lined up for grub in the balmy 70-degree desert air. Although the chow was cooked right on the ground, a ranch truck had preceded us with comfortable folding chairs and a canvas tarp to spread on the ground, so it was a unique combination of roughing it in comfort.

We met many interesting people at our desert luncheon, many of them traveling thousands of miles to enjoy the warm hospitality of Los Caballeros and the Gants. Long Island, Boston, St. Louis, Berkeley, were a few home-towns mentioned as we chatted with other guests. Many of these people return year after year to the ranch for days, weeks even months for fun in the sun.

Meanwhile, back at the ranch, where soon we were, it was time for late afternoon siestas, swimming, shuffleboard or plain do-nothingness. There is no bar, as such, at the ranch but lockers are provided for your own spirits at the cost of 25 cents per day. Ice and mixes are available and beer and wine are served.

At cocktail hour guests gather at the poolside lounge in casual attire, many in Western motif, and animated conversation takes over till time to tackle another wonderful Los Caballeros meal. Dinner this Saturday night was a choice of steak or trout, both superbly prepared.

Late evening at the ranch finds guests in conversation, playing cards, watching TV or enjoying a well-stocked library. Late movies are shown in Wickenburg. Our own evening consisted of chatting with our host and other ranch personnel and learning the rigors of operating a 100-room guest ranch, one of the largest in the world.

VULTURE MINE

In the morning we had a chance to enjoy the fine riding qualities of the Mercury as we drove up the rough dirt road to Vulture Mine, 12 miles from the ranch. Back in 1863, a hardy Prussian prospector named Henry Wickenburg, while chasing a runaway burro picked up some rocks to throw. They proved to contain gold and by this strange means the famous Vulture Mine was discovered. During its hectic career the Vulture produced some 30 million in bullion. It was on this wealth that Wickenburg was built.

But today the Vulture is just a ghost mine gradually being buried by the Arizona sands. Anyway, it was worth a look and as I say, the lonely desert road gave us a chance to admire the smooth riding qualities of our Motorlog car, something we hadn't thought too much about on the smooth paved highway.

By now it was noon and time to think of our homeward trek. With an all-daylight drive we made it in a little over seven hours, a wonderful weekend behind us. We traveled in comfort, we lived in comfort, thanks to the blending of two Spanish names — Los Caballeros and Monterey.

Ole!

SENTINEL OF THE DESERT

Cam Kenady of Belmont Shore is dwarfed by giant saguaro cactus which dots Arizona desert. In background is Vulture Peak.

THE WICKENBURG KID

Notorious Arizona badman strikes "killer" pose which brought terror to peace officers throughout the West. (Editor's Note: Listen, Stephan, stop clowning, take off that rig and get back to your typewriter or you'll find out what a real bad man your city editor can be.)

THE BIG DIFFERENCE IS Duffield
WHEN YOU BUY THE ALL NEW 1961 MERCURY AND COMET AT NEW LOW PRICES.

The difference is in our policy and method of being able to sell you a brand new automobile that will give you complete confidence and assurance. Because we carry one of the largest stocks of Mercurys and Comets, we can afford to sell our cars as low, or lower than, those offered by any legitimate dealer in the west. At Duffield we price our cars so low that practically anyone can afford a new car. This is not on a long term contract. When we advertise low prices and high trade-in dollars for your present car, we are not using a misleading form of advertising . . . we can do just that.

WHY DRIVE A USED CAR?
. . . with higher payments than you would ordinarily pay for a brand new Mercury or Comet . . . with low, low payments.

Change Your Luck

Growing Orange County offers you today the selling condition Long Beach had several years ago. We have an opening for one top new-car salesman to complete a sales group of six men. We offer you:

1. Biggest commission plan of any new-car agency.
2. Demo.: either Plymouth or Valiant.
3. Gasoline.
4. Medical insurance plan.
5. Weekly draw check.
6. Top working conditions and facilities.
7. Plenty of floor time.
8. Protection against overhiring of salesmen.

We are a volume dealer (among first 15 Plymouth dealers on the West Coast) with permanent force of only six new-car salesmen and four used-car salesmen.

If you live in Long Beach you are only 30 minutes from our store by taking South Street (changes into Orangethorpe), continue all the way to Harbor Blvd. in Fullerton.

If you are a professional salesman and not afraid to work and have experience in selling cars in Los Angeles County, see Bob Thayer or Wally Sharp.

DREAM RANCH

Just 10 acres of heaven on earth located on the banks of the east fork of the Russian River, about 8 miles on a paved road from Ukiah. The house, a 2-bedroom, 2-bath home, is so arranged that sliding doors to the patio and barbecue look right over the river. Two live streams run through the property. Also 2-car garage and workshed are painted barn-red with white trim and most of the fencing is white boards. Tasty furniture thruout home including electric washer, dryer and refrigeration. A big Oriental rug as well as all equipment are included in the price. This is a dream home, built by a television personality and nothing was spared in the development. The present owner hates to sell it but he must remain in Southern California so will trade for property here, take trust deeds or a reasonably low down payment.
I could dream up many profit producing projects for this site—horses, Shetland ponies, sheep or even a good worm farm. The colored pictures I have in the office will make one drool! I sure wish I could buy it! The price—just $39,500. One might have to look for a year to find such a location at even close to this price!

NEW CAR TRADE-INS

SPECIAL NOTICE!
SPECIALS WILL BE HELD UNTIL 5 P.M.-SUN., NOV. 20th.
YOU INSURE YOUR MONEY WHEN YOU BUY A NEW CAR TRADE-IN.

HERE ARE THE FACTS
The used cars we have at our huge plant are the cleanest & best in the world. We say this without fear of contradiction. Here is the procedure for our cars
1. Wash Motor & Chassis.
2. Inspection by foreman.
3. Motor compression test for rings and valves.
4. Transmission & rear-end tested and checked.
5. New rings, bearings, piston pins, clutches, replaced as needed.
6. Carburetor, distributor checked and tested.
7. The car is road-tested,
8. Oil changed & lubed.
9. All parts properly lubricated to factory specifications.
10. Wheels pulled to check the brake lining.
11. Front end examined and necessary correction made.
12. Necessary bumping done in metal dept.
13. Polish & clean up.
14. Upholstery completely renovated.
15. Tires checked, made to meet our specifications, which should be good for approximately 20,000 miles.
16. Front end aligned & (4) wheels balanced.

1-Year Guarantee Avail.

Better Grades of Merchandise Boost Business in L. B. Stores

Independent-Press-Telegram
Real Estate and BUSINESS DEPARTMENT
LONG BEACH 12, CALIF., SUNDAY, NOV. 20, 1960—R-1

EDITOR'S NOTE This is the first of a series of two stories showing how Long Beach retailing trend has swung to better grades of merchandise and has resulted in increased business.

By JIM McCAULEY

Long Beach, long considered a resort-retirement and-bedroom community, suddenly has awaened to a new economic destiny.

Increasingly in recent years, Long Beach has become a retailing mecca for the champagne and caviar set. The result: More quality merchandise on display here and an upgrading of retailing facilities locally.

Dazzled by the sudden upsurge in the carriage trade here, merchandisers are revamping their stocks to cash in on the new retailing trend.

* * * *

WHY THE BEVERLY HILLS TREND in local retailing? Long Beach businessmen credit these factors:

1. Influx of thousands of persons in the upper and upper middle income classes to plush, new homes in adjacent coastal areas — from Palos Verdes to Laguna Beach.

2. Booming economic conditions throughout California since World War II.

3. National trends away from price promotion merchandise toward quality lines.

4. Marathon freeway snarls which discourage coastal shoppers driving to Beverly Hills or downtown Los Angeles, Traffic is less congested on arteries which take shoppers to Long Beach-Lakewood-Los Altos.

* * * *

THE TREND TOWARD QUALITY merchandise graphically is revealed in many lines of merchandise, including:

FURS—Joseph Morrow, co-owner of one local fur retail shop, said sales in both September and October ran considerably ahead of a year ago. "We have taken away business from firms that specialize in price promotion furs," he said.

AUTOMOBILES — A Rolls-Royce dealer now is doing business here. The Independent, Press-Telegram consumer analysis revealed preference for Cadillac had increased to 5.4 per cent in 1960—from 3.7 per cent in 1959. Chrysler was up to 2.9 per cent from 2.2 per cent.

BEVERAGES — Beer slumped as a consumer preference (56.3 to 55.4 per cent). But vodka and whisky both chalked up substantial gains.

BOAT OWNERSHIP — Increased here to 5 per cent in 1960, compared to 3.3 per cent in 1959.

* * * *

HOME OWNERS—Nine per cent of the persons in the Long Beach market owned a home in the over-$25,000 class in 1960, compared to 5.4 per cent in 1956.

Both family income and consumer income here are soaring to new highs, according to the Long Beach Chamber of Commerce.

Long Beach's variety of merchandising services still beckons middle and lower income shoppers—but it is the blue chip customers who account for the biggest new trend in retailing.

Hotels, department stores, 10-cent chains and other segments of the business community are gearing to meet the new influx of the carriage trade here.

A chain of remodeling projects is changing the face of the Long Beach area business community.

FASHION CREATIONS HERE

Under the new trend in retailing in Long Beach, the downtown stores are stocking upgraded merchandise and getting good results. Where once an eye-catching bargain cotton dress would be seen in the display windows, the newest in fashion creations will be found today.

Highway Engineer to Speak

J. W. Trask, deputy state highway planning engineer, will be the speaker at the Long Beach Board of Realtors breakfast meeting Tuesday in Lafayette Hotel.

Trask is expected to outline the planned development of the freeways in this area, discussing the work to be done in the immediate future.

He started his career with the highway department in 1928 as a junior bridge engineer and worked his way to the present post. He now has much responsibility for the development of freeways including advance planning, traffic design and right of way purchases.

Harry Newton will be the program chairman and Harry Jordan, exalted ruler of the Elks will be the honored guest.

Artist's Conception of $1,500,000 Newporter Inn

Plan Luxury Hotel at Newport Beach

Newport Beach will join the world of fabulous resortlands available for the modern tourist upon completion, in June 1961, of the Newporter Inn. According to George D. Buccola, president of the Newporter Hotel Corp., construction will begin immediately on the luxurious three-story ultra-modern hotel.

The building site is a 10-acre parcel of Irvine land located on Jamboree Road between Newport Dunes and Irvine Country Club. Situated on a bluff overlooking Newport Dunes, the Newporter Inn will create an atmosphere of sophisticated elegance surrounded by a garden.

* * * *

AT A TOTAL estimated cost of one and a half million dollars, the Newporter Inn will consist of 103 deluxe suites, with plans for additional units in the future. Each suite will have its own private balcony affording a panoramic view of the country club, ocean and bay. The splendor of the historical past will blend with the simplicity of the modern in the decor.

Guest facilities will be designed to give fullfillment of pleasure offering a tennis club with four championship courts where future major tournaments will be played and two separate swimming pools for adults and children. One of the country's outstanding golf course architects has been commissioned to design a nine-hole pitch and putt course to test both the novice and professional player.

* * * *

ONE OF the Southland's most beautiful restaurants will compliment the gourmet's appetite and feature convenient room service, poolside dining and fashion shows. Additional facilities are provided at the Newporter Inn for conventions, sales meetings, company parties or any group of up to 200 people.

Former Jamaica Inn manager Bill Munce was appointed executive vice president of the Newporter Hotel Corp. The new vice president and general manager of the Newporter Inn is Don Daley, formerly with the Jack Wrather Organizations as general manager of the hotel and club division.

Saturation in TV?

NEW YORK (UPI) — Sales Management magazine reports that nearly nine out of every 10 American households have television sets.

New Executive Is Named for Buffums' Sportswear

Buffums' announced the appointment of a new executive, John E. Cole, who will assume the duties of manager of Buffums' specialty sportswear stores.

The first of these sportswear stores will be located in the Marina at Alamitos Bay. It is the intention of Buffums' to open two more of these units in the near future, as has been previously announced.

Cole comes to Buffums' with a rich background in fine apparel, especially in the sportswear field. He previously was associated with Sak's Fifth Avenue as merchandiser of sportswear and also as manager of the Sak's Detroit store. He was also with Ransohoff's Inc. of San Francisco and Sacramento in an executive capacity as well as Carson Pirie Scott in Chicago and Wannamakers of New York.

Cole's responsibilities will include the supervision of the store and the coordination of all the merchandise for Buffums' Marina sportswear.

"Buffums' recognized that special emphasis must be placed on the development of these sportswear stores to bring our customers the finest selection in both the sportswear designers of America and unusual imported merchandise. It is our feeling that these store should reflect the carefree, casual way of living typical of Southern California," said Harry Buffum, president.

Goody Step-Up

CHICAGO (UPI) — There's good news for kids who love ice cream. An ice cream plant of the future which produces 70 gallons per man hour, a step up from the present 31.2, has been devolped by engineers of Cherry-Burrell Corp.

Kayser-Roth Buys Cole's

LOS ANGELES (AP)—Kayser-Roth Corp. of New York, whose products include Catalina swimwear, has purchased Cole of California, manufacturer of women's and children's swimsuits and playwear.

The announcement was made by Chester H. Roth, president of the West Coast firm.

Purchase price was not disclosed. Said the announcement: "Cole will be operated as an autonomous, wholly-owned subsidiary of the Kayser-Roth Corp."

Cole will serve as chairman of Cole's board of directors and act in an advisory capacity. Succeeding Cole as president will be C. W. Frazer Jr., former vice president of Catalina, Inc.

Roth said the acquisition was made to expand Kayser-Roth's participation in the men's women's and children's markets.

State Bank Gains Shown

California state-chartered banks held deposits of $6,629,098,000 as of Oct. 3, William J. Murphy, superintendent of banks, announced.

This represented an increase of $284,848,000 or 4 per cent since Oct. 6, 1959, the date of a previous bank call for comparison purposes.

There were 94 banks reporting and they represented 498 bank offices compared to 478 the previous year.

Total resources in the new bank call were listed as $7,747,595,000 or an increase of 5 per cent over 1959.

Loans and discounts of $4,238,485,000 had increased 10 per cent during this period and represented 64 per cent of total deposits and 55 per cent of total assets.

Corporate Income Taxes Show Gain

NEW YORK (UPI)—Business paid Uncle Sam $22.2 billion in corporate income taxes in fiscal 1960, $4.1 billion more than in 1959.

Federal excise taxes on various products took in another $11.9 billion, up $1.1 billion from 1959.

HOSTESS TODAY

Mrs. America of 1961, Mrs. Rosemary Murphy, will be hostess today at the opening of a new unit of Sol Vista Homes. She is the 32-year-old mother of five children and lives in Kentland, Ind.

SOL VISTA HOMES SHOWING THIS MODEL TODAY
The newest in the luxury series of homes will be opened today by Sol Vista in the big development in the Huntington Beach-Westminster area. Mrs. America, Rosemary Murphy of Kentland, Ind., will be the official hostess. Here is one model of the new unit in which the big homes are priced from $17,150.

Mrs. America Hostess for Sol Vista Opening

The Sol Vista Luxury Series Homes, a housing development in the Huntington Beach-Westminster area, will officially open another unit this weekend. Hostess will be Rosemary Murphy, Mrs. America of 1961.

Architectural design verging on custom-individuality is characteristic of Sol Vista Homes, which offer a selection of 18 exterior elevations and five floor plans.

These three and four bedroom 2 bath homes are priced from $17,150 and may be purchased with the minimum FHA down payment. Cal Vet or Conventional loans may also be arranged.

* * * *

LOCATED WITHIN a few minutes of the ocean and close to several golf courses, Sol Vista presents itself as a natural for the pursuance of typical indoor-outdoor California style living.

"Of particular interest to homemakers is the Sol Vista Medallion all-electric kitchen including built-in range, oven, dishwasher and disposals. Cabinets of natural ash with ample space make the kitchen convenient and a pleasure to work in," states Al Solomon of Alco-Pacific Construction Co., builder.

* * * *

SOL VISTA HOMES, regardless of price range, also include fireplaces, forced air heat with thermostatic control, colored bath fixtures by American Standard and stall showers with safety glass doors and many other quality features.

Over one thousand families are now owners of Sol Vista Homes in Westminster, Garden Grove, Orange, Santa Ana, Riverside, Santa Maria and Huntington Beach. Sales Agents are Walker and Lee.

To see Sol Vista from Long Beach: Go East on Garden Grove Blvd. to Hwy. 39—Turn right 3 miles to models. Homes are open from 10 a.m. to 8 p.m., and until 6 p.m. on Saturday.

A DUTCH HAVEN HOME
Visitors to the newest unit of Dutch Haven Homes have acclaimed them for the many innovations and yet priced low. Here is the view in a living room of one model.

Newest Dutch Haven Homes Widely Acclaimed by Many

Dutch Haven Homes, unit 14 in Buena Park, is expected to sell out rapidly, a spokesman said, after thousands of homeseekers acclaimed them on visits during the preview showing.

Sensational innovations and features drew much praise and the attractive prices had great appeal to value-conscious visitors.

These budget-priced homes are constructed in the same manner that has gained Dutch Haven developments recognition through the nation.

* * * *

ALL HOMES in the Unit No. 14 Patio Series include luxurious large patios of concrete to add to the indoor-outdoor pleasure of suburban family living. Walls of glass in the living area open onto these patios.

William Lyon, president of Luxury Homes, Inc., builders of Dutch Haven communities, also pointed out that all front yards are completely landscaped, enhancing the value of the Patio Series homes.

Thirteen exteriors are available in the popular "Dutch Styling." Three and four bedrooms and up to two full baths are available.

* * * *

PRICED FROM $14,950, Dutch Haven offers new $95 move-in terms for vets, low FHA terms and California Veteran terms are also available.

Central hall planning is incorporated in the spacious homes, and features such as paneling, decorator selected wallpaper, custom lighting fixtures, and accoustical ceilings, which are the most desired.

The homes may be seen by driving east on Carson (which becomes Lincoln) to Knott Ave. and left (north) to Houston Ave., then left to the models.

IN PARK VILLAGE
Models such as this will be shown today in the grand opening of Park Village in West Fullerton.

Grand Opening Set for Park Village

This weekend's grand opening will draw prospective home buyers to new Park Village, in West Fullerton, where a convenient trade-in plan enables buyers to apply their equities in their present homes towards the down payment, report officials of Pierce & Armour, the builders. When the equity exceeds the down payment, the buyer receives a cash refund, officials add.

Priced as low as $16,500, the distinctive Park Village home are offered with lower FHA financing for vets and non-vets, plus low-interest Cal-Vet terms.

OFFERED with three or four bedrooms, family room, and two complete baths, the homes include many quality features.

To visit Park Village from Long Beach, take Carson (which becomes Lincoln) east to Magnolia. Then left (north) to Orangethorpe, and left (west) ¼-mile to models.

Women Needed to Test Products

Needed: 150 Long Beach and Lakewood homemakers to test products.

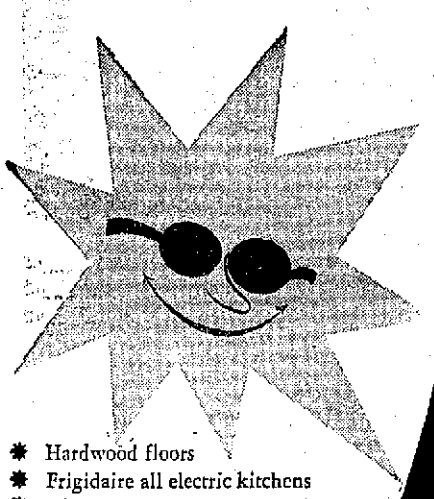

Mrs. Margaret Morrison, 1812 E. 10th St., area leader for the Consumer Panel of Research, announces that the local Consumer Panel is to be enlarged and 150 more women are needed to test and give their opinions on products and services.

The non-profit panel, started four years ago by Lu-Wanna Cormier of Burbank, has grown to a membership of housewives. A fee of $5 is charged for membership.

Panelists now are checking a shoe dye kit, by which a woman may change the color of her shoes to match her costume, and a utility bag on a tear-off roll.

Ceiling Heat in Sun Ray Estates Homes

The distinctive new all-electric Gold Medallion homes at Sun Ray Estates, Bellflower, are compelling attention at this weekend's preview showing such unusual features as electric ceiling radiant heating, which gently warms each room from above, like an indoor sun, declares a spokesman for the building company.

Separate thermostatic controls make it possible to select the perfect "climate" for each room in the house.

The radiant-heated Sun Ray Bellflower homes are situated just 10 minutes from Long Beach and 25 minutes from Los Angeles. As little as $18,250 will buy one of these close-in Gold Medallion homes, and monthly payments can be as low as $115.40, with convenient 30-year financing. Principal and interest are included in the low monthly payments.

* * * *

AMONG THE QUALITY features of the homes are: Hotpoint built-in electric range and oven, with hood, fan, and light over range; luxurious wall-to-wall carpeting throughout; fine oak hardwood parquet in family room; Formica breakfast bar; solid lath and plaster construction; 150-Amp. Romex electrical system; bath fixtures in color; sliding glass doors; natural ash kitchen cabinets; American Standard Plumbing Fixtures; natural birch doors; oversized 2-car garage; Hotpoint garbage disposal; acoustic ceilings; and fireplaces of used brick or concrete.

BELLFLOWER HOME

Model homes such as this are attracting throngs to Sun Ray Estates in Bellflower. The homes have ceiling radiant heat.

To visit the new Sun Ray Bellflower homes from Long Beach, drive north on Lakewood Blvd. to Artesia, then turn right to the furnished models.

35 Years With Bank

Edward L. Shaw, 2548 Quincy Ave., vice president and manager of Security First National Bank's Civic Center branch, is marking his 35th anniversary with the bank.

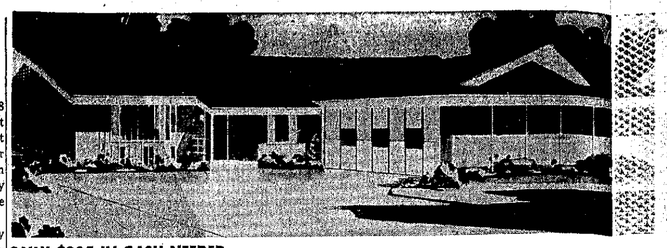

E. L. Shaw

Originally from Cleveland, Shaw came to California in 1908 and started with Security as a teller in 1925.

He was named assistant manager of the Long Beach branch in 1944 and in 1948 he became an assistant vice president.

Three years later he was elected a vice president. In 1958 he took over as manager of the Civic Center branch.

ONLY $205 IN CASH NEEDED

Homes such as this are available to non-veterans for only $205 move-in costs. They are the new Stardust Homes in Westminster and are available in various sizes.

Low Non-Vet Terms on Stardust Homes

Non-veteran home buyers are responding to the offer of low $205 total move-in costs at Stardust Homes' outstanding development in Westminster, just minutes from State Beach, Knott's Berry Farm and Disneyland, states Robert H. Grant, Orange County builder.

According to Grant, the well-liked Stardust Homes are offered in six attractive exterior stylings: Colonial, Provincial, Contemporary, Storybook, California Ranch, and Hawaiian Modern.

* * * * *

THE NEW Stardust Homes are scientifically planned to afford practical separation of activity and sleeping-zones. The distinctive new homes are offered with three bedrooms, family room, two complete baths, and a large two-car garage.

Among desirable features of the new Stardust Homes in Westminster are built-in color-toned Universal all-gas ranges and ovens, plus matching range hoods; select oak hardwood floors; and gas forced-air heating units with thermostatic control and modern overhead "no-draft" diffusers.

* * * *

WITHIN EASY driving distance of the new homes are the Sears and Broadway shopping centers, as well as modern schools, churches, and diversified recreational facilities.

To visit Stardust Homes in Westminster, drive out the Santa Ana Freeway to Artesia turnoff. Continue south on Knott Avenue to Lincoln, then go east on Lincoln to Stanton Blvd. (Hwy. 39). Turn right on Stanton to Westminster, then left on Westminster to Stardust Homes.

Disposable Suits in the Making

NEW YORK (UPI)—Disposable men's suits, women's evening gowns and children's play clothes made of paper may be developed through chemical research now in progress, officials of American Cyanamid Co. say.

IN PRESIDENT MANOR

This is one of the models offered by builder C. P. Middlebrook in two different locations of his President Manor developments. The homes are priced from $18,800.

Home Savings Assets Jump

Assets of the nation's largest savings and loan association, Home Savings and Loan Association of Los Angeles, gained over $12 million in October, to reach a new high of $838,995,356 at the end of the month, Howard Ahmanson, chairman of the board of Home Savings, reported.

The October gain of $12,239,620 enabled Home Savings to chalk up an 18 per cent increase in assets in the 12 months ending Oct. 31, 1960.

Ahamson also reported that the association's savings accounts increased a record $145,751,343 in the same 12 months period.

Open Two New Units in President Manor

Builder of many outstanding housing developments in Orange County, C. P. Middlebrook is offering two new groups of homes in President Manor in Anaheim.

Stressing distinctive designs with hardwood floors throughout and of genuine lath and plaster construction, the homes are offered from $18,800 to $19,250. There are low down payments available under FHA, conventional and Cal Vet financing.

Close to freeways yet far enough away to escape the traffic din, the homes have three bedrooms, two baths and a family room.

Raised panel kitchen cabinets, tile drainboards in the kitchens, fireplaces, built-in ovens and ranges, forced-air heating, Coppertone hood with fan and light, distinctive wallpaper, Armstrong linoleum and many other extras are provided.

Model homes are now open on Magnolia Ave., between Broadway and Orange Ave. H. L. Milligan is in charge of sales.

Keeping Track

Many Quality Features Found in Mesa del Mar Luxury Homes

BIG ROOMS HAVE APPEAL

Mesa del Mar homes in Costa Mesa, a development of luxury homes by Macco Co., have great appeal to the home buyers. Here is the large living room in one model, showing the broad front given the fireplace with a huge picture window adjoining it.

Careful attention to the selection and quality of details in the decor and construction of the new homes in the multi-million-dollar Mesa del Mar residential community in Costa Mesa, is attracting many families to the Macco-built development.

Features most frequently appealing to families visiting the group of furnished model homes are such extras as decorative panels in the ceramic tile kitchen counters custom designed to match the wallpaper pattern, the backset brass door knobs with multi-colored escutcheons, and the special Moen single control bath and kitchen fixtures.

Also impressing visitors are the numerous luxury features included such as wall-to-wall wool carpeting with waffle padding, infra-red heat lamps in all baths, brick fireplaces with raised hearths and gas loglighters, and the custom marble-top pullman vanities.

* * * *

KITCHENS ARE deluxe-equipped with built-in Gaffers & Sattler gas range and 20" rotisserie oven, range hood and exhaust fan, optional built-in dishwasher, twin sinks with waste disposal, and raised panel hardwood cabinets with matching hardware.

Another prize in the Mesa del Mar package is complete yard landscaping with front lawn, shrubbery, shade tree, underground sprinkler system and redwood fencing for the side and rear yards.

Exterior styling of the homes is varied and attractive. A choice of floor plans is offered with 3- or 4-bedroom, 2 baths, family room or dining area and an over-sized 2-car garage with installed laundry facilities.

PRICES on the homes range from $18,900 to $20,200 with down payments as low as $395 plus costs, according to McFarland & Mattocks, sales agents. Monthly payments on 25-year low interest loans are budgeted to fit the buyer's needs, they said.

Four furnished model homes are open daily at Mesa del Mar from 10 a.m. to 8 p.m. weekdays and 9 p.m. weekends. Models are located at the community entrance on Bristol St., Costa Mesa, at the corner of Newport Blvd.

PEOPLE IN THE NEWS

New Realty Service Offered Nationally

Clive Graham, Long Beach Realtor, is one of the nation's leading realty men who have formed a cross-country home-finding service.

Aimed at providing immediate and reliable service to executives and other personnel who are transferred by their company or who may be moving to another city, the new organization was announced at the National Real Estate Board Convention in Dallas last week. Graham was elected to the board of directors of the organization, to be known as Inter-City Real Estate Referral Service, Inc.

Through the association, a family can study the availabilities of home life in another city well in advance of the actual move, Graham points out. When the people are ready to inspect a house of their choice in another part of the country the service office will offer to make all arrangements, including travel reservations.

Only long-established Realtors are assigned as representatives of the organization.

Low Prices on Starlite Homes

Economy-minded families looking for a reasonably priced new home with many luxury extras will be interested in an attractive group of homes being offered by Evans Building Co. at Starlite Mesa in the Huntington Beach recreational area.

Although priced at only $12,650 to $14,250 with only $195 total cash down payment required, the homes are well designed, of good quality construction and have spacious facilities with many special features seldom found in homes in their price range.

The exterior design of the homes in a variety of architectural styles gives each home an individualized appearance. Wide overhang eaves, planters, recessed entries and diamond pane windows add to their distinctiveness.

* * * *

SEVERAL DIFFERENT floor plans are available with 3 or 4 bedrooms, 1½ or 1¾ baths, living room, dining area, well-equipped kitchen and attached double garage.

Typical of the extra features in the homes are wall-to-wall carpeting, ceramic tiled kitchen counters and bath showers, waste disposal unit, shades and screens throughout and the landscaped front lawns.

E. W. Hoke & Associates, sales agents, say financing terms on the homes are set up to meet the budget of average income families and monthly payments on principal and interest average $89.50.

Starlite Mesa furnished model homes are open daily on Yorktown Ave., just east of Beach Blvd. (Hwy. 39) in Huntington Beach.

Wide Selection of Luxurious Homes Now Offered in Lemon Heights West

IN LEMON HEIGHTS WEST

With the greatest appeal in quaint design, here is one model of the Newport Series of homes offered in Lemon Heights West in Santa Ana. Prices begin at $28,950 and the homes have from 2,000 to 3,000 square feet of actual living area.

Visitors in the hundreds are inspecting the furnished model display "showcasing" new Lemon Heights West's unusually spacious, elegantly appointed "Newport Series" in Santa Ana's exclusive Lemon Heights District. Buyer response has greatly exceeded even the builders' expectations, officials of this Savoy S/Y community report.

Lemon Heights West's "Newport Series" presents a wide and distinctively diverse selection of one and two-story exterior designs and the varied, flexible plans, encompassing from 2,000 to 3,000 square feet of actual living area, afford choice of three, four or five bedrooms and two or three baths.

* * * *

FULL PRICES INCLUDE many custom-quality features, and they begin at $28,950, officials explained, with flexible financing terms available, as well as a unique "trade up" program.

Roster of fine home features lists dramatic fireplaces, three huge sliding glass walls to the outdoor living areas, extensive paneling, master bedroom suites with dressing rooms and private baths, and appliance-equipped kitchens with special "step saver design."

These kitchens have built-in wall oven and range, range ventilating fan, automatic dishwasher, food preparation areas, family convenience areas and laundry centers, plus a built-in buffet breakfast bar and a built-in kitchen planning desk.

* * * *

LIST OF LUXURY and convenience features also includes such attractions as radio and intercom systems throughout, inviting entry halls with floors of slate or terrazzo, center hall plans, oversize family rooms, powder rooms, baths with double pullman lavatories and ceramic tiling, oversize heating units and water heaters, 100 amp. main service and luminous ceilings in kitchens and baths.

Lemon Heights West's furnished model home display is reached by driving Santa Ana Freeway to 17th St. turnoff in Santa Ana. Drive east on 17th St. to Newport Ave. and then left to the "Newport Series" display.

Early Occupancy in Westmont Assured

"A new home for the holidays" is the theme at the newest unit of George M. Holstein and Sons' Westmont community in the Huntington Beach area where buyers can purchase and move in within a few weeks.

Offering the lowest in FHA terms, the Westmont homes are priced from $16,350 for both three and four bedroom homes with family rooms, the builder reported.

The Westmont California ranch designs feature shake roofs, large double garages and sliding glass doors to patios. Interior detailing includes fireplace, rich wood paneling, built-in color matched kitchens, insulation, glass lined water heaters, tile eating bars and other custom type features.

Near to the Long Beach area, Westmont is located just off Hwy. 39 (Beach Blvd.) at Heil. From Long Beach go out Seventh St. to Hwy. 39 and turn right aboout three miles to Heil. The models are off the highway adjacent to a new grammar school site. At Hwy. 39 and Heil turn left acorss the highway to the models.

Mural wallpapers lend charm to the separate family rooms at Westmont near Long Beach. View is from open kitchen across attractive tile eating bar. Homes are available in both three and four-bedroom plans from $16,350 with minimum FHA terms.

Much Appeal Found in Imperial Estate

Imperial Estates' "1961 Golden Crown Series" of handsomely styled, well built residences in the north Long Beach-south Norwalk area reflect Emblem Homes' years of experience constructing thousands of homes, Frank Chandler of Key Land Co., sales agents, declares.

Of these thousands, Chandler pointed out, a total of 3,254 were built in Imperial Estates' 24 earlier units, most of which sold even before completion.

Opening of this 25th Imperial Estates' community presents prospective homeseekers with a diverse selection of "one price" residences available in 15 different exterior designs and a choice of flexible three bedroom or two bedroom with den, plus dining room, two-bath plans.

* * * *

LOW FULL PRICE, no matter what the buyer's selection of home, homesite or plan, is just $15,750, Chandler said. Veterans may purchase on VA loans with no down payments except impounds and closing costs with monthly payments of $87.18, including principal and interest. Convenient FHA loans "for everyone," Chandler added, have new low down payments of $750 plus costs and impounds.

"Golden Crown" larger homes incorporate attractive features such as oak floors over "high and dry" conventional raised foundations and solid diagonal subflooring that made the earlier units so popular, plus additional features.

Furnished model display is reached by driving Santa Ana Freeway to the Pioneer turnoff, then south to Centralia, left to Norwalk Boulevard and then right on Norwalk Boulevard to the homes at 230th Street.

Coin Machines Big Collectors

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Americans are putting well over a billion dollars into coin-operated machines to buy cigarettes and cigars, the publication Tobacco News estimates.

Tobacco products are by far the biggest selling items in the field of automatic merchandising, averaging 38 to 40 per cent of sales in recent years.

IMPERIAL ESTATE HOME

Larger and reflecting many luxury features, the new homes in Imperial Estates Unit 25 are appealing. Here is one of the models.

WHAT'S AHEAD IN BUSINESS

Housewares Sales Expected to Boom

By KEN CHILCOTE
Business Editor

While national concensus shows U.S. consumers are increasing their plans to buy new cars, furniture and appliances in the coming months, the biggest boom in retail fields is expected in housewares.

Although the housewares industry is an ancient one, dating back to peddlers, it also is really one of the nation's youngest for only in recent years has it grown into a big business.

While there is no General Motors or such major firms in housewares, there are many growing manufacturing firms who have seen business booming in their short operation.

* * * *

DONALD E. NOBLE, president of Rubbermaid Inc., writing in the Wall Street Exchange, says his company this year will gross $27 million in sales. Twenty-six years ago they had one product, a rubber dustpan. Today they manufacture over 75 items for housekeeping and housewares.

Boosting the business outlook for housewares is the national trend which started here in the Southland and has spread over the country. Your country cousin in Iowa will be entertaining and eating out just like you folks in the coming year. This outdoor living trend has opened a wide field for outdoor tables, cooking and serving utensils.

With the changing architecture in modern homes, there is a color conscious economy spreading. Sandalwood, unheard of a few years ago, is news now in everything from dish drainers to new cars. The new colors in home decor call for new colors in housewares.

Wall Street is predicting that within 10 years the housewares industry will double in size.

WITH THE RECENT gold buying spree overseas we naturally wonder about California's place in gold production and we find it is quite a paradox that this state—home of the great Gold Rush—unearthed only $5.1 million in the yellow metal last year. We have produced $2.4 billion since 1848. The Wells Fargo American Trust Co., says the fixed price of gold, rising operating costs and depletion of workable deposits account for the U.S. decline.

However, California still is doing right well with the mineral deposits mother nature provided. We have a wider variety of commercial minerals than any other state and we are one of the three leading states for mineral production.

In 1959 this state produced $1.42 billion in commercial minerals, most of it coming from 16 counties. Fuels including oil and natural gas accounted for 69 per cent.

* * * *

COMING PRODUCTION of man-made rubber equivalent to and nearly duplicating natural tree rubber may open a new market for the petroleum industry.

Dr. Victor J. Anhorn, chemical research head for Goodyear said commercial plants capable of producing 195,000 tons of the new synthetic rubber will be in operation late next year. Much of this production will be cispolyisoprene rubber made from isoprene supplied by the petroleum and petrochemical industries.

DESPITE THE FACT that 88 per cent of the U.S. households have television sets California TV makers foresee a good sales year ahead, according to Union Factors Co. There will be a big market for replacement of old sets; there is a continued growing market of new homes and more and more homes will be adding a second or third set. They also see a big market in sales of sets to schools for closed circuit educational programs.

All companies are working on special battery sets to tap the remote farm areas where the market hasn't been touched.

Garden Park Estates Location Holds Big Appeal to Families

The site chosen for Garden Park Estates on Knott Ave. at Garden Grove Freeway, offers residents one of the most convention locations in "booming" Orange County, W. R. Effinger, sales manager for S & S Construction Co., states.

Bordering the city of Garden Grove on one side, Garden Park Estates is virtually within minutes of shopping; schools for all ages including Long Beach State College 10 minutes away; business and industrial centers, and recreational facilities. And, the Santa Ana Freeway and Long Beach Freeway are just 15 minutes drive, Effinger said.

GARDEN PARK ESTATES luxury homes offer choice of distinctive Hawaiian, Contemporary, California Ranch and Modern designs and a number of well-conceived plans scaled to the needs of families both large and small.

These two-bath plans include three bedrooms or two bedrooms with dining room and den, three bedrooms with family room, four bedrooms or three bedrooms with convertible den and an attractive three-bedroom with family room plan with dual bath.

* * * *

IMPRESSIVE list of luxury and convenience features includes decor-designed fireplaces, sliding walls of glass, forced-air heating, sliding glass doors, master bedroom suites in some plans, and appliance-equipped kitchens with built-in gas wall oven and range and superamic tile counters. And, Effinger added, the sound conventional construction that is the hallmark of S & S built homes.

Attractively moderate full prices are just from $16,450, Effinger explained, and the flexible terms, in addition to VA loans with nothing down except impounds and costs and FHA loans with new low down payments, also include Cal-Vet and favorable conventional financing.

Furnished models are reached from Long Beach by driving out 7th St. which becomes Garden Blvd. to Knott Ave. Turn left on Knott to the homes.

Big Investments Made Overseas

NEW YORK (UPI)—Overseas business investments of U. S. companies are now over $30 billion. Of this, $10.2 bililon is in Canada, $8.2 billion in Latin America and $5.3 billion in Europe, according to Sales Management magazine.

No Check Issued Under New Plan

WICHITA, Kan. (UPI)—The Union National Bank of Wichita has picked up a lot of new deposits by persuading 15 companies to adopt its "no check payroll plan. Instead of a paycheck, each employe gets his full pay deposited in the bank. He is free to transfer it without charge to another bank if he wishes.

Record High Is Seen for Farm Crops

WASHINGTON (AP)—A record farm production this year has been assured. The agriculture department's November crop report put the crop's volume at a new record of nearly 3.5 per cent above the previous record set in 1958 and matched in 1959.

Production of livestock and livestock products is being estimated at about the same as last year. Thus the increase in crops places total output at a new record.

* * * *

A MARKED INCREASE during October in the feed grain group, heavyweight of the nation's crops, contributed heavily to the new record. The corn crop set a new mark of 4,378,000,000 bushels, a third above average.

Late season gains for sorghum grain, rice, peanuts, tobacco and dry beans as well as for corn more than offset slightly to moderate reductions in cotton, soybeans and sugar crops.

The report said prospects are generally favorable for the fall-planted winter wheat crop being grown for harvest next spring and summer.

In the livestock sector, smaller production of hogs and eggs this year is being offset by increased output of cattle, milk, broilers and turkeys.

Will Manage Chemical Plant

Appointment of John J. Zullo as plant manager of American Chemical Corp., 2112 E. 223rd St., was announced by Albert P. McGuire, general manager of the subsidiary of the Stauffer Chemical Co. and Richfield Oil Corp.

Zullo, a native of New York City, is a graduate of the Columbia University School of Engineering. He has been assistant plant manager at the Niagara Falls plant.

Christmas Club Checks in Mail

NEW YORK CITY (UPI)—Checks totaling more than $1.4 billion are being mailed to over 13 million Christmas Club members, according to the Christmas Club Corp. This year the average check will amount to $110 against $108 in 1959, $105 in 1958 and $93.73 in 1957.

New York State has the largest number of club members—2,625,358 receiving checks totaling $287,862,572. Pennsylvania, New Jersey and California follow.

Tradition of Friendship

The biography of Dames Club is a story of warm friendships, many of them stretching back for the 30 years of the organization's history. Coupled with happy personal memories is the satisfaction members take in their many philanthropic projects to benefit the community.

STILL MAINTAINING active interest in the group's progress are, at top left, charter members Mrs. Charles (Nina) Matthews and Mrs. William (Nellie) Yankie; and, at top right, Mrs. Havelock (Texas) Fraser, president in 1938, and Mrs. Tom (Lucille) Crosby, who headed the club in 1949.

It was in the spring of 1930 that 10 young girls, seniors at Wilson High School, organized a bridge group, dubbing it Debs Club. By 1946 membership had grown to 35 and the name was changed to Dames Club.

Although personnel has changed through the years, as members take on inactive or honorary status and new women enter to maintain the roster at 35, close bonds unite all who have belonged to this group.

SINCE 1932 the club has, in addition to its social affairs, continually contributed to one or more philanthropies such as the Tuberculosis Cheer Fund Association, Red Cross, Community Chest, Westside Girls Club, the National Foundation for Infantile Paralysis, and Thanksgiving and Christmas baskets. The organization purchased equipment for the Children's Wing of Seaside Hospital and for the past three years has contributed to the Cystic Fibrosis Research Foundation.

Students to Wed

Engagement of Barbara Jean Smith of Tucson, Ariz., to Gordon V. Johnson, son of Mr. and Mrs. Elvyn Johnson of Long Beach, recently was announced at a party in Tucson. The wedding will be solemnized in December.

Miss Smith was graduated from the University of Arizona in Tucson, in 1959. She spent the following year in Germany under the Fulbright program and is now enrolled as a graduate student at the university.

* * * *

HER FIANCE was born in Long Beach. He was graduated from Wilson High School and attended Long Beach City College for two years before transferring to UC at Berkeley. He followed graduation in 1955 with work on his Master of Science degree.

Both will continue studies at the university after their marriage.

Betrothal Revealed

Announcement of the betrothal of Carol Jean Endter and Roberts King Thomas was recently made at Long Beach Stake Center of the Church of Jesus Christ of Latter Day Saints.

Carol Jean Endter

The bride-elect, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. C. K. Endter of North Long Beach, is a senior at Jordan High School. Her fiance, son of Mr. and Mrs. Ben R. Thomas of Pocatello, Idaho, spent two and a half years in Mexico on a mission for the church after graduating from high school.

Both young persons are dancing instructors in Long Beach. A June wedding is planned.

Tri Delta Luncheon to Benefit Kiddies

Long Beach children will benefit when Delta Delta Delta Sorority sponsors its annual Sleigh Bell luncheon for Children's Hospital in Los Angeles at noon Dec. 6 in the Beverly Hilton Hotel.

Money from the event, which will include an elegant style show, is donated to the hospital for research in hematology. Twenty-four per cent of the children being treated there for the disease are from Long Beach.

Mrs. Harold Hough, local representative to Tri Delta Hospital Committee, was in charge of making arrangements for the benefit. Christmas candle centerpieces and gay holiday decorations have been chosen for the dining room. Many door awards also will be offered.

* * * *

THE GROUP takes special pride in the fact that money from past Sleigh Bell luncheons, totalling more than $80,000, has contributed to the findings of Dr. Phillip Sturgeon, who was called once to Vienna and twice to London to read papers on hematology.

Among the more than 1,000 Tri Deltas and their guests planning to attend from Southern California are many from the Long Beach area.

They will incude Mmes. Charles Latshaw, Robert H. Hartt, George Reynolds, Walter Troxell, Everett Miller, Clifton Halliday, Fred Long and John Ryan. Also Mmes. Albertis Hulen, Richard Brookins, Edward Brisson, Charles Smith, Clarence Klassen, Norman Tatum, Stephen Podesta, Hough and Maurice Burk.

LONG BEACH STATE COLLEGE EVENTS

—by PLACER MINER—

It's frustrating trying to write a column about Long Beach State activities this week — everything seems pointed in the direction of Homecoming, an event which is being well covered elsewhere.

We might say, however, that we heartily approve of the procedure where a board of experts narrowed a large field of Homecoming queen and princess candidates to three finalists in each position before the student body voted for its choices.

We believe such a method of selection guarantees an increasingly regal quality for LBSC Homecoming Royalty, and we trust that the manner of choosing becomes traditional.

* * * *

CHANGING the subject, the Sociology Club and the Social Welfare Club meet jointly Tuesday night at 7:30 in the Soroptimist House, and the feature of the evening's program is a panel discussion, "Severity of Punishment — Deterrent to Crime?"

Certainly the subject should be well covered, for the panel members include Judge Beach Vasey of the Superior Court in Long Beach and Capt. Paul Lansdown of the Long Beach Police Department.

Dr. David Dressler of the LBSC Sociology staff is moderator, and the public is invited.

* * * *

IF WE CAN shift to sports terminology, we'll recount the end of a couple of win streaks.

In last week's Barbershop Quartet Contest, winner of the men's division was not —as had been the case four years in a row—Tau Kappa Epsilon fraternity, but an entry which called itself by the intriguing title, "Uncalled Four."

Likewise, 'twas not Zeta Tau Alpha Sorority which repeated its 1959 women's division win, but the entry from Alpha Phi.

Delta Gamma Sorority was the only quartet which ran true to form as it captured the sweepstakes trophy, evening's highest honor, for the second consecutive year.

'Just Follow the Pink Arrows' Dec. 1

Some people follow the yellow brick road. Others follow the white line. The smartest thing to do on Dec. 1 is to follow the pink arrows, for they'll mark the route of the Long Beach Community Hospital Auxiliary's fourth annual home tour.

Several distinctive homes in the Lakewood Country Club area will be opened that day from 10 a.m. to 4:30 p.m. Proceeds from the tour and from sale of homemade articles offered along the way will aid the auxiliary's work at the hospital.

Auxiliary members, smart in their pink-and-white striped uniforms, will greet visitors throughout the tour, leading off with the home of Mr. and Mrs. Archie R. Amos, 4308 Clubhouse Dr. A magnificent fireplace of hand-picked Palo Verde and lava rock will command attention here.

* * * *

PINK ARROWS will point the way next to the homes of Messrs. and Mmes. George Brower, 3945 Bouton Dr.; Clyde H. Dunlap Jr., 4220 Lakewood Dr., and Dr. and Mrs. Sabin Miner, 4128 Lakewood Dr.

Mrs. Dunlap will have her art work on display in her second floor studio, while at the Miner home the principle attraction will be the central outdoor patio, completely surrounded by different rooms of the house.

The Brower home will be especially noteworthy with its beautiful revolving Christmas tree made by Brower of gold embroidered lace and 200 hand-created ornaments each distinctively different from the others. In all, the tree will glisten with more than 15,000 rhinestones, 2,000 crystals and 10,000 opalescent pearls.

* * * *

TEA WILL be served at the home of Mr. and Mrs. W. B. Blenkinsop, 3934 Ann Arbor Rd. "Pinkie Cookbooks," compilations of favorite recipes of auxiliary members, will be sold here.

Cookies, candy, fruit cakes and special gift articles, all made by auxiliary members, will be on sale at the various homes.

Mrs. Eugene G. Jameson, ways and means chairman, is overseeing the many plans for the tour. Major chairmanships are being handled by Mmes. Don Woolf, Dean Gemmill, Richard Hoard, John Worthington and Emil Lubick.

Mrs. Charles Mutter is in charge of tickets, which may be purchased from auxiliary members or at the doors of the tour homes.

SPIRIT OF CHRISTMAS has special meaning to members of Long Beach Community Hospital Auxiliary. First, because unit's fourth annual Home Tour Dec. 1 will reflect season's traditional gaiety, beauty and comradeship. Enjoying a little of all three are (from left) Mmes. Frederick Taylor, Edgar K. Prine, John Harmon and Eugene G. Jameson, tour chairman. Added significance comes with knowledge that proceeds will further group's philanthropic work at hospital.—(Staff photo.)

Flora Holt New Leader

Mrs. Flora Holt will be installed as president of American War Mothers, Chapter 5, at a luncheon meeting Monday in Veterans Memorial Building.

Mrs. Thelma Dyer, AWM state president, will officiate at induction ceremonies for Mrs. Holt and her slate, Mmes. Lottie Thomson, Josephine Brocato, Helen Freeman and Frances Falsetto, vice presidents; Ada Mae Schlotterback, Jean Tosh, Inez Van Hyning, Annie Sullivan and Cornelia Pollard.

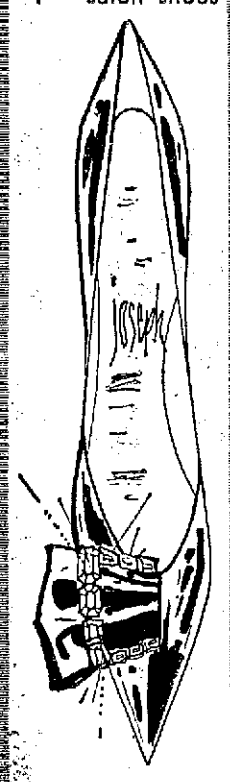

Luncheon will be served at 11:30 a.m., with the business session scheduled for 1 p.m.

The Wild Waves Say

By IOLA MASTERSON
I. P-T Women's Editor

WISHING they had two-way stretch walls—or, better still, the kind that just melt away with the flick of an aerosal bomb, like they do in certain TV commercials — were Norma and Burt Marter last night. They volunteered to let Nightingales use their home for a cocktail party, anticipating perhaps 50 guests. When acceptances were finally tallied they learned there would be well over 100 present from 6 to 8 p.m.

"Great outdoors"

Well, even without the rubber walls they yearned for, bet the gang of newly installed members, their provisional duties complete, associates and regular, old run of the mill type members and husbands had a ball. Pat Willis and Patt Collins, party co-chairmen (aided by husbands Bob and Jim) planned and made the delectable liquid refreshments — French 75's.

Holding their own at the door as the merry avalanche of guests atrived were official greeters, President Susie Meager and husband, Norman. A mere smidgin of the crowd, sampling their share of the 18 different kinds of hors d'ouevres as well as the heady champagne and brandy brew, were Margy and Clarence Davis, Nita and Rodger Engle, Thelma and Bill Jameson and Jane and Bob Lemmon. These women are representative of the associates (non-active members) to whom the active membership looks for help and guidance in their fine philanthropic work.

HUSBANDS of Sandlarks donned apron strings Wednesday night, cheerfully accepted baby sitting duties if necessary, in order to give their busy wives a long, free night to put final touches on the group's increasingly popular Christmas Fantasy. They met at Ruby Deal's to iron out any wrinkles which might still be marring the smoothness of the affair.

Among those present were Mattie Henry, Betty Mitchell, Martha Ford and Mary Jane Walker, president. The event, a whopping big Christmas decorations contest (categories open to professionals, amateurs and clubs) and sale of these entries, will take place early in December at the Lafayette.

You won't want to miss it, Mrs. Long Beach. Doesn't cost you a penny to get in—just if you buy for your own Christmas time decor. And what you spend goes to the Sandlarks very worthwhile assistance to the Children's Home Society adoption work in Southern California.

THE DESERT season appears to be in full swing. Pat and John Brennan and the children are in Palm Desert this weekend staying with Mary and Bob Lintz at their spot at the Sand Piper. A few doors away are Pat Settles and Julia Cheney, who went to dunes country earlier this week to be joined by husbands, Ralph and Bill, and children for the weekend.

BEST "catch" of the season for Long Beach Tuna Club tournament group fishermen was netting an invitation from Charlie Cox for a gala cocktail buffet party at his Lido Isle home last weekend. A few of those who hauled in a record good time for themselves were Martha and Art Hall (still the world's champion fisherman), Millie and Frank Vessels Jr., the Glenn Brackens, Olive and Gordon Bateman, Mary and Tom Kiddie and Ruth and Harrison Moore.

Guests heard that Charlie has just bought a home in Alamitos Heights and will make himself a bona fide localite again by moving soon.

JETWARDS to Hawaii Thursday went Vera Chalmers, planning to make a careful comparative study between the beneficial effects of Long Beach sunshine on the epidermis versus Honolulu's ultra violet. If she comes back too golden we may have to put her on report with the Chamber.

ONE OF the most impressive black eyes in town belongs to Jack Crawford. He previewed his remarkable shiner at a cocktail buffet party given by his parents, Lillian and Walter, last weekend to welcome him home from Hawaii where he has been for several months.

Wow!

During an automobile accident in Hilo about two weeks ago, Jack had a little right of way argument with the windshield, see, and lost. But all's well that mends well. He is. Assisting at the black eye affair were Peggy and Romaine Akers and Merita and Vic Hart.

Fortunately, Jack had completed negotiations for himself, brother, Don, and Walter, to buy a 12,000 acre cattle ranch on the Kona Coast. They plan to develop this prize purchase (mainlanders, as you may know, aren't often able to buy land over there) into an exclusive residential area. Jack will go back in the spring to continue work on this project.

LOCAL girl wows 'em! Heard that Mildred and Max Boyer's daughter Linda, ruled over South High in Torrance as homecoming queen this big game weekend. Just because they moved away to the Hollywood Riviera area doesn't mean we still can't claim Linda. Long Beach had her first!

ONE OF the week's most pleasant gatherings was the party Wednesday which Bertha and Howard Conrad hosted for Clarence and Evelyn Miller, here en route from Mexico City to their home in Honolulu. The Millers, who arrived Tuesday, are due to sail on the Lurline today. Among guests bidden, first to the Conrad home then on to the Reef for a carefree dinner, were the Clyde Dunlaps, Jimmie and Don Nutter, Evelyn and George Scott, the Wallace Bruces and Joseph Shuffs, Larry Lawrence, Joan and Jean Haden, Lillian and Walter Crawford and Wilma Hastings.

In Seattle They Think of Us as 'Kissin' Cousins'

Howard Jones and John McKennon flew home from Washington Tuesday with a very large bouquet for all of Long Beach from almost all of Seattle. They went up to meet U of Washington officials, air lines and travel agency people and other interested citizens in connection with the "On to Long Beach" movement in the anticipated return of the Huskies as Rose Bowl contenders.

"Real bouquet!"

What Howard and John found out is that Long Beach, which has adopted the team in the past during pre-game training, has won a warm spot in the hearts of Seattle-ites for this hospitality to its team. In fact, our city has had such favorable publicity up there as the Huskies' foster parents we are thought of as kissin' cousins in Washington.

Vows Unite USC Graduates

All Saints Episcopal Church was setting for the recent afternoon nuptial service uniting Sandra Rae Nishkian, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Martin A. Nishkian of 270 St. Joseph Ave., to Thomas Lyon Hall, son of Mr. and Mrs. Edward M. Hall of Santa Ana.

The bride wore a gown of white delustered satin, styled with three-quarter-length sleeves, empire bodice and princess skirt.

Her illusion veil fell from a lace cap trimmed with seed and drop pearls and she carried a cascade bouquet of white camellias, Hawaiian pikiki ginger and lilies of the valley.

Her attendant, Barbara Jane Nishkian, wore a white street-length dress of rose patterned brocade and carried a cascade bouquet of garnet roses and stephanotis.

AFTER THE CEREMONY the newlyweds were honored at a reception and dinner at the home of the bride's parents. They will reside in Corona del Mar upon return from their honeymoon in Acapulco, Mexico.

Both were graduated from USC. The bride holds a degree in dentistry and her husband a degree in business administration. She is past social chairman of Delta Delta Delta and was a member of the dental hygiene sorority.

He is past president of both Delta Sigma Phi and Balboa Ski Club, a member of Transpacific Yacht Club, Newport Beach, and a member of Knights and Squires.

Mrs. Thomas Lyon Hall

Hostesses at the reception included Kay Carol Steltenkamp, Teresa Klassy, Mrs. James P. Clifton and Bonnie B. Barnes.

Food Fad Fells Fat

By JEANINE BAYS

An answer to one of modern man's weightiest problems comes in a can. It's the controlled calorie food supplement that promises to change fat into lean, the overweight into thinned comeliness.

A blessing to the obese (and a boon to advertising media), the food fad has hit where it hurts the most—at the waistline. But, judging from tremendous sales here in Long Beach and across the country, nobody seems to be in much pain. In fact, the exchange of sweet tooth for slimness via such products (like Metrecal) has become a pretty happy arrangement—sort of a case of diminishing returns.

Local pharmacists report that while women buy the biggest percentage, many men are going for this easy way to a new silhouette. Even a few teenagers are getting in on the diet act.

* * * *

A COMPLETELY balanced nutrient, the supplements usually are meant to be just that — supplements to low-calorie foods. For those who need to lose only a few pounds, they're considered completely safe substitutes for one or two meals a day. For those who have a major weight problem, druggists recommend that they go on an all-supplement diet only under a doctor's supervision.

The pounds do seem to slip away, and dieters who sing the praises of these "foods" enthuse that they are the least painful way they've tried to shed excess baggage. One man—a pharmacist, by the way—lost 30 pounds in three months eating only one regular meal a day and two meals of supplement.

"I was a little hungry, but I was more energetic and happier than on any other reducing diet I'd tried before.

"I didn't suffer at all," he says, then grins, "except when I was thinking of food!"

* * * *

SCIENTIFICALLY balanced to give absolute control of caloric intake, these products provide all known essential nutrients needed for a good reducing program.

But there's a catch. You've got to work up the old will power and use them instead of, not in addition to, your regular meals. Or hit a logical balance—a little supplement, a little whole food.

Some people fool themselves, say druggists, into thinking they can eat all they want and sip the "magic liquid, too. 'Tain't so. Do that very long and—voila!—you're five pounds heavier than when you started. (Note to underweights: This is a dandy way to add those pounds.)

New liquid forms have greatly increased the popularity and convenience of these supplements, once available only as powders. The new form makes dieting a lot simpler for the working gal or guy.

Nowadays, drinking your lunch has a whole new connotation—drinking your way to new trimness!

Desert Setting for Vows

The marriage of Cornelia Jane Hanstein, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Jack E. Hanstein of Long Beach, to Ralph Kenneth Houp, forferly of Birdsboro, Pa., was solemnized recently in St. Paul's Episcopal Church, Palm Springs.

The Rev. Frederick A. Barnhill, D.D., performed the double ring ceremony which was attended by the bride's immediate family and intimate friends. The bride's sister, Barbara, was her maid of honor, and her brother-in-law, Jack Hanstein Jr., was best man.

* * * *

AFTER THE ceremony, members of the bridal party were guests at a small celebration at the Palm Springs residence of Mr. and Mrs. Herman H. Ridder of Long Beach and later attended a wedding dinner at the Racquet Club.

The newlyweds will reside in Long Beach upon return from a honeymoon at La Quinta Desert Club.

Anne Barrows Recital to Aid Benefit Fund

Anne Barrows, popular Long Beach contralto, with Vernon Overmyer as accompanist, will present a song recital Dec. 6 at 8:30 p.m. in Petroleum Club to benefit the scholarship fund of Long Beach Chapter, Executives' Secretaries, Inc.

Anne Barrows

Miss Barrows will sing compositions by Handel, Haydn, Munro; a group of German lieder; and a group of English songs.

* * * *

IN CARMEL, where she lived before coming to this city, the singer appeared in presentations of Handel's "Messiah" and Mendelssohn's "Elijah." She was soloist for four years at First Church of Christ, in Monterey and sang numerous times for servicemen at Carmel USO.

In Long Beach she has been guest artist several times at Women's Music Club and the Musical Arts Club, has been substitute soloist for many Christian Science churches in this area, and appeared with the Cantando Club of Santa Ana singing the Brahms "Alto Rhapsody."

* * * *

THE FIRST of the year Overmyer will begin a tour with the Lola Montes Spanish Dance Group, sponsored by Community Concerts; he will appear as soloist as well as accompanist.

Among concert patrons and patronesses are Messrs. and Mmes. W. F. Prisk, Harry Buffum, Herman H. Ridder, S. C. Cameron, Edward Killingsworth, Daniel H. Ridder, L. A. Collins Sr., Walter Groshong, Harry H. Newton, Rex L. Hodges, Noble Miller, Malcolm Epley, William L. Rawn, Alvin P. Bly, Milton Arthur, Gerald Kint, Vernon Fay, Victor A. Mingers, F. A. Knight; Dr. and Mrs. John Cottrell; Mmes. John Persons and Doris W. Richards; and Harvey Waggoner.

Recital tickets are on sale at Humphrey's Music Co. and Morey's Music Store.

Curtain at 8

"Pantaloons," French satire starring Fernandel, will be shown on Bay Theater's Curtain at 8 program Tuesday through Thursday. Set in 17th century Spain, the story tells the escapades of Don Juan's valet, who impersonates his master. Short subjects "The Red Balloon" and "Juggler of Our Lady" complete the program.

On Stage--

LONG BEACH ACTORS' STUDIOS, Morgan Hall, 835 Locust Ave.: "The Man Who Came to Dinner," 8:30 p.m. Friday and Saturday.

Preview Promises Brilliant Concert

By ELISE EMERY

Long Beach Auxiliary to Southern California Symphony Association heard the first salon symphony preview of the season Thursday morning in Assistance League Clubhouse.

Certain as any forecast can be is this prediction: Not a preview-goer will miss tonight's concert by Los Angeles Philharmonic Orchestra at 8:30 p.m. in the Concert Hall of Municipal Auditorium.

So contagious was reviewer Owen W. Brady's enthusiasm, so vivid his humor-laced word paintings of composers and scenes, so spontaneous his piano excerpts, that he virtually set conductor Georg Solti and his orchestra to performing in the clubhouse.

* * * *

BATON-SLIM, young blond Brady, an organist of note and music director at Harvard School in North Hollywood, directed with lean hands as recordings illustrated his points, tapped rhythm with his feet, dashed to the piano to emphasize themes and melodies.

"This concert program is put together with wonderful artistry and will be wonderfully performed," he said. "Los Angeles Philharmonic Orchestra is one of the most unusual instruments in the United States, with unusual, brilliant musicians. Under its new permanent conductor, Solti, it will become one of the finest in the world."

Opening number, Haydn's "Symphony No. 104 in D," is one of 12 which the composer wrote for the Salomon series in England. Just why it is called the "London Symphony" is unknown said Brady, except that the English are fond of attaching titles to everything.

* * * *

"THE OPENING movement is ponderous and sonorous, setting the mood for the orchestra and letting the musicians get the feel of the music. There is blatant fanfare, and an answer by the woodwinds. Then comes the first theme—joy, pure joy, clean, clear, silvery sound.

"In the minuetto every beat is important, unlike a waltz where only the downbeat is strong. The conductor almost dances himself when he directs. The entire symphony is zest and sunlight."

Georg Solti

Haydn was born in Austria in 1732 and died in 1809. He lived most of his adult life in the Esterhazy Castle, which rivalled Versailles in its splendor, serving as music director for the prince. His use of Slavic rather than the more common German techniques sets his work apart and he was fond of incorporating folk themes into his music.

* * * *

"INTRODUCTION and Rondo Capriccioso" by Saint Saens illustrates the French composer's love of rhythm. Opening in a melancholy mood, it brightens in the allegro, and the fandango is so lively that it originally was banned by the priests of Paris.

"This work begins dark and solemn, then explodes in a brilliant flash of orange," said Brady.

Of particular interest tonight will be the world premiere of Paul Creston's "Concerto for Violin and Orchestra," commissioned by the concert's brilliant soloist, 24-year-old violinist Michael Rabin.

Because a score of the new work was not available, Brady commented on the concerto from program notes.

* * * *

"THE FIRST movement is basically interested in form, the second in melody, the third in rhythm. This reverses the order in which music developed. First came rhythm outside of man, in the very turning of the earth. Man became aware of the presence of rhythm in life, in his very heartbeat. Melody came with the beginning of vocal sound, in the use of the voice to worship, the development of the Jewish and Gregorian chants and finally in harmony. The final step was organization, form.

"Creston's music, unlike many contemporary composers, is tonal. It is music to listen to, not to read in a score.

"Music doesn't need to be explained; it is just to be listened to. Sometimes I hear music that doesn't like me—or I don't like it—at first. But I return again and again and I find myself hearing it in a different way. Let your mind grab on to sounds. Be willing to accept new ideas."

* * * *

"THE MIRACULOUS Mandarin," which completes the program, is by the Hungarian Bela Bartok who died in the United States in 1945. Composed as a ballet, the work has as its theme the triumphant force of love, able to conquer all evil. The story tells of three thugs who use a girl as a lure so that they may rob her victims. One who calls for her favors is a richly garbed mandarin, so repulsive to the girl that she will not let him touch her. Her companions attack him, but he survives their attempts to smother, stab and hang him.

The girl's compassion is aroused and, as he lies stabbed, but unbleeding on the floor, she goes to him with remorse. As she pulls the sword from his body he begins to bleed, perhaps symbolizing his identification with humanity, and she is transformed by love.

"The improbable tale is set to exciting music full of Hungarian melodies, clamorous street sounds, violent themes. It sparks with vitality and imagery."

PERSONS in search of a "new look" in contemporary art find it in the newly-opened Veltman Gallery, 5608 E. 2nd St., Naples.

Owned and operated by Jack and Joyce Veltman of the Long Beach Peninsula, the gallery shows sculpture, paintings, drawings, watercolors and pottery, with emphasis on works by Long Beach, Big Sur, Carmel and Monterey artists. Local exhibiting artists include Betsy Zill, Billie Hamil and Dean Spille.

The Veltmans say the gallery is an outgrowth of their interest in contemporary art developed since they began collecting for their own Alamitos Bay-view home 10 years ago.

Gallery hours are 9 a.m. to 6 p.m. daily.

Major & Minor Notes

By RACHEL MORTON

When I was a young woman I was sent to Berlin, Germany, to study to become an opera singer. I had led the usual life of a girl brought up in a middle class family. My graduation from high school had been a big event in our family as I had been selected class poet and soloist.

The pension to which I had been recommended in Berlin was a most pleasant and comfortable, high-grade boarding house. There were about 20 of us living there; artists, singers, pianists, high-ranking officers and even a duke! It was very difficult for me at first as I spoke no German. But most of the pensionnaires spoke English when alone with me. However, I had a lesson in German every day and soon was conversing at table quite glibly.

* * * *

BERLIN was a beautiful city at that time. The gleaming apartment houses fretted with balconies looking out on green parks, meticulously kept. It was thrilling to take long walks in the brisk autumn air or shop in the magnificent shops. Also, it was a great treat to sit in the sidewalk cafes and listen to the lovely music played by small string and piano ensembles. But as I became better acquainted, my eyes were opened and I began to see the sordid existence that many of the Berliners led. There seemed to be no sense of morality at all among them.

* * * *

ONE NIGHT in a popular cafe where the well-dressed demimondes picked out their men I was so shocked that I wrote on the back of a menu:

"The faces about me are bored and dismayed, the atmosphere reeks with a dullness decayed; the men with a sinister insulting leer, gaze after the women with smiles insincere. Life here is a medley, a folly, a lie; all that is honest is passing us by. The home of the idler, a rotten array, insolence, indolence, Princess Cafe."

We all know what happened to Germany. Berlin is now a city divided against itself, where, according to a recent visitor there, people lock themselves into whatever room they are using.

PERHAPS it is because of these early experiences that I have such a deep aversion to subverted art, whether it be music, the theater or painting. This accounts for my revulsion to the opera "Wozzeck" by Alban Berg. The atonal music did not disturb me; in fact, I found it clever. But to spend a whole evening with mentally depraved characters filled me with disgust. Should we continue on this trend we shall some day strike rock bottom and then we shall have to laboriously climb our way back, as did Berlin. The pity is that we might have been going in the opposite direction all the time. "And this is the condemnation, that light came into the world, but men preferred darkness rather than the light."

Top Designers 'Resigned' to Feminine Figure

Don't Hide It--Take Pride in It!

By MARY ELLIS
I. P-T Fashion Editor

Top-name designers of California's couture syndicate are out to make all American women look like movie queens.

Women who have the money, that is.

Maybe it's because California's couturiers never forget the world's most glamorous movieland was born right beside them. Or maybe it's because many of them have dressed the vamps of Hollywood since their heyday.

Whatever the influence, most California fashion makers in the 24-karat class are resigned to the feminine figure. Instead of trying to rise above it, they work to cover it with glory.

And never was that more true than in their resort-spring collections previewed this week by the nation's fashion press.

* * * *

FOR THE sexy look this year (or any old year) there are Howard Greer's peek-a-boo tricks with nude marquisette and low-lying lace, guaranteed to give a bosom to any girl who hasn't got one.

For sheer dramatic effect, there's Irene's side-swept cascading look of windblown snow in chalky white lace, a long stem of an evening dress frothed with an oversize tulle bow.

And for the "kind of forever dress" there's a Helen Rose favorite with beige chiffon skirt, lace top and beige satin coat.

Add to these Helga's airy evening things that fairly glide across the body . . . Marusia's printed silk costumes . . . Don Loper's slinky jeweled sheaths . . . and Travilla's always flat front and manipulated full skirt as well as his Jean Harlow pleated white satin.

* * * *

HOWARD GREER and co-designer Bruce MacIntosh (they're now together on the firm label) believe that all form is good form and show costumes that spell S-E-X. Greer has turned his back on the relaxed silhouette because buyers won't buy it. Says he, "I believe that a woman who has spent years and dollars to get her figure in shape doesn't want to hide it under a barrel."

Highlights of his collection are a tiered ostrich feather strapless short evening gown, new apron effects and seersuckers that have gone Hollywood.

This is his first attempt at bringing seersucker upstairs for snob appeal. One example is a crisp black and white striped costume that comes unjacketed to prove it has country club manners.

This Californian, who has given oomph to many a glamor girl, says his prices are lower than a year ago. The reason? He's decided to make a bid for volume business.

In line with this thinking is a plaid cotton skirt and jacket with embroidered pique blouse which he calls "supermarket." It retails for $250!

* * * *

MOVIE designer Irene, who has brought quiet courage and serene good taste to haute couture, this year clings to the identifying look she's always loved—the column silhouette.

But this time it has assymmetrical closings, trim, and other devices such as flounces, ruffles or half capes that cover one shoulder.

This blond and regal queen of design is preoccupied with the skirt. Most unusual: the envelope. It begins and ends with narrow width at the waist and hemline but as it descends, this curved and gored skirt widens at the knee to simulate a bellows shape.

One of her smartest suits is described as a "belted-in, boxed jacket." Sounds impossible. And to any but a couturier like Irene, it probably would be. This one, however, comes out as a truly superb suit.

Irene, by the way, has just finished designing the clothes for Doris Day's new movie with Rock Hudson, "Lover Come Back to Me."

* * * *

MARUSIA, designer whose clientele often are in the news and public eye, believes in jacket dresses and silk print costumes.

Floral and abstract prints line the coats or jackets, silk linens are used in beiges, blues and coral.

Another Marusia forte: theater costumes with flared great coat lined in silk print over matching dress.

Loosen Edge

Always loosen a gelatin mixture around the top edge before trying to unmold it.

AFTER DARK elegance keynotes coat and dress ensemble (below) from drawing board and workshop of California's Marusia. Floating coat in camellia pink silk gros d'londre, lined with matching camelia pink silk taffeta print, whispers its rustling message over beautiful evening dress in camellia pink silk taffeta print. (Designs pictured are from spring and resort collections by California designers previewed during Fashion Press Week in Los Angeles.)

AN ENSEMBLE by Irene to wear around the world, or if you prefer, right here at home. Classic coat (above) with three-quarter bell sleeve is in French wool. Dress of Italian raw silk (not pictured) has hand-picked detail ending in belt at waist.

"PANDEMONIUM" is apt title for provocative costume (above) by Bruce MacIntosh, designing for house of Howard Greer. Warp print green and white silk taffeta repeats its voluminous balloon effect in both sleeves and skirt. Neckline plunges ever lower.

Being Angel Is Easy

By MARY NETH

There is only one Santa—or so they say—but anyone can be a Christmas angel. A set of wings and a shining halo come easy to the one with an eye for matching the right gift to the right person. Being an angel is fun, too. Especially so when the gift adds up to starry eyes and angelic expressions in some one very young. The following includes a few suggestions for the Christmas list for adults and children.

Under $3

Cupid will stand guard over letters from the favorite beau if they are kept in a red leather box. A delightful gift for a romantic teenager or college girl, the letter box comes with lock and key and features raised golden cupid on lid.

* * * *

For the shoe shine boy, or mother, in the family, a compact kit makes shoe care easy. Omits messy daubers, stained hands and dried up polish. Kit features polish impregnated puff to last a year and handy buffer. Refills may be purchased in black or brown.

* * * *

Electric jack straws reward the steady hand. Cheating just is not possible with this game. Straws peek out of holes in top of cannister. Object is to pull them out without getting caught. Red light flashes and a buzzer sounds when player touches top. It is battery operated for safety. Fun for every age.

Under $5

Little girls will love the latest in the stand-out petticoats. For true bouffant, petticoats blow up. Soft plastic tube in hem does the trick. For softer effect, the nylon all-washable petticoats are deflated. Available in size 4 to 14.

* * * *

Small fry delight in toys that have cranks to turn, doors to open, and dials to spin. New ten-in-one toy combines them all. Of safe plastic without loose parts, it is good choice for toddlers up to 4 years. A whole amusement park built into one toy, it features noise-makers and pictures and attaches to play pen or crib.

Under $6

Flashlights finally have modern design. New one is slim hand size and fits into pocket or purse with ease. Best of all it is rechargable. Never needs batteries. No danger of darkness when it is carried. Handsome case comes in pastel shades for ladies and grey for men.

* * * *

A real time keeping clock that comes apart and goes together again in a jiffy is right for any child from 5 to 15. Spring-driven plastic clock actually runs for 14 hours. Youngsters not only learn to tell time but how time keeper operates. Gear assembly is color-keyed for appearance and ease in fitting together.

* * * *

Who wouldn't love to own a mansion? The petticoat crew can. New doll house has three stories including living room, bedroom and kitchen. All fully equipped with fiberboard furniture down to simulated rugs. A dream house for girls from 4 to 10, mansion stands nearly 5 feet high so small homeowner may decorate standing up.

Under $20.00

Five to 12 year astronauts can be first to land on another "planet" if they are owners of a super astro base. The battery powered remote control panel operates science fiction space ship, maneuvers a take-a-part scout car and fires space probes.

MOLLY MAYFIELD

Daughter's a Big Girl Now

DEAR MRS. MAYFIELD:

I have a problem with my daughter which cannot be solved without help. She reads your column . . . maybe between the two of us . . .

She has had one bad marriage, and a darling child, 7. Recently she met a young man who has completely obsessed and possessed her. She is now working and making an excellent salary, and is a good mother.

Since meeting this boy two months ago they are planning on marriage. The boy has no job, nor does he give any evidence of wanting to improve himself.

The home situation is terrible. They hug and kiss and carry on in front of the child; the child in return feels more and more insecure and at times has even run to neighbors and asked them to let her stay with them.

My daughter is used to living well — pretty clothes for herself and daughter. When she marries this boy there will be an end to this —and sooner, not later, an end to the marriage, I know my daughter, you see.

This would be no marriage — simply legalizing an affair based purely and simply on sex.—WORRIED.

DEAR WORRIED:

All I can say is this: You simply cannot run your daughter's life now. She is a grown woman and must be responsible for her own life.

You can try to advise her; you can certainly put a protective arm around your grandchild. But when we become adults we become the captain of our own ship — and so often not very good captains.

Not a very cheery answer, dear Worried—but the only one I can in all truth give you.—M.M.

Trick to It

Many cottons not labeled "no-iron" actually are "no-iron"—if you use a dryer.

For best results, the trick is to take cottons out of the dryer the instant the machine shuts off. Shake them out, stretch the seams, and more than likely they will look nice enough to wear.

Voice of the Viking

As this column's deadline approached, the burning questions of the hour for Long Beach City College students were these: WOULD the Vikings win their final football game of the regular season, and WILL they be chosen sometime today as western representative in the 1960 Junior Rose Bowl.

And IF all goes well, you can look for the biggest student celebration since the banner year of 1950. (If it doesn't, of course, the "Voice of the Viking" henceforth will appear edged in deepest black.)

ON THE LIBERAL Arts Division campus, members of the Order of Kassai, women's honorary service club, are sponsoring a scholarship-benefit cookie sale all day Wednesday. In keeping with the Thanksgiving season, the cookies will be "turkey-shaped," according to a Kassai spokeswoman.

Mona Hagan, regular "V of V" columnist, is now recovering from that operation in room 330 of St. Mary's Hospital, in case anyone would like to send a get-well message.

AT THE Business and Technology Division, members of Voksen Club are now planning their fourth annual pre-Christmas visit to the children in St. Mary's Hospital on Dec. 5. The door of Room 226 is open to all students who wish to contribute small gifts to a good cause. Each wrapped gift should be appropriately labeled "Boy" or "Girl."

STILL flushed with the success of their first concert two weeks ago, members of the new band are rehearsing for a second program Tuesday night, Director Earl Thomas will conduct the informal concert in the east lanai, adjoining the cafeteria from 8:10 to 8:50 p.m.

ALL CLUBS on the Pacific Coast Highway campus have been invited to name representatives to plan the annual Christmas dance, scheduled for Dec. 10 at Whaley Park Clubhouse. Already at work are Mary Markwell, Nestor Espana, Edita Jajerang, Micki Isimizu, Mary Conlan and Carole Stapleton.

Ways to cook the Christmas and New Year's Day dinners in portable appliances will be demonstrated to home economics students at 10 a.m. Nov. 30 in room 130. The demonstration will be presented by an economist from the Southern California Edison Co.

Gadget Gone

One of the delights of bathing in the Gay Nineties was the "face shower"—a device curiously overlooked in this current age of the gadget.

The Victorian lady's face shower, spraying up from her lavatory basin, simultaneously rinsed away soiled soapsuds and stimulated her complexion.

Dear Abby

She Wants the Car at Home

By ABIGAIL VAN BUREN

DEAR ABBY: When my husband goes out of town he makes sure our car is never left at home for me to use. He doesn't come right out and say he doesn't want me to have it, but he either leaves it with his brother (who has a car of his own) or else he promises it to "one of the boys" at the office.

ABBY

I've never had an accident or a ticket, so he doesn't have to worry about that. And I've never given him any cause to doubt me or to be jealous. Why does he do this, and how can I change him?—DISCOURAGED.

DEAR DISCOURAGED: Your husband's insecurity is showing. In the "old days" men would keep their wives pregnant or barefoot to make sure they didn't stray. Today, they remove the "wheels." Bring the subject out into the open and discuss it freely. Once he's gained self-confidence he'll leave you the car.

* * * *

DEAR ABBY: I am what is known as a "brain." I always get straight A's. This may sound wonderful, but it isn't. The other kids are so jealous, they shun me. Even the smart kids. I try to be friendly and never brag about my grades, but the resentment is always there. I would like to have some friends, but I am not going to get poor grades on purpose to do it.—THE BRAIN.

DEAR BRAIN: Face it. There are plenty of "brains" who have lots of friends. If you are disliked generally, there must be another reason. Use some of that brain power to figure out why.

* * * *

DEAR ABBY: Please advise me if I was right or wrong for accepting a diamond ring from a man who, at the time, was still married, claimed he was going to get a divorce, but instead was trying for a reconciliation with his wife. We have nothing to do with each other any more. Am I right in keeping the ring, or should I return it to him?—TYLER.

DEAR TYLER: You were wrong to accept the ring under those circumstances. Return it.

DEAR ABBY: That foolish girl who whined because she has to wear braces on her teeth in high school doesn't know when she's well off. I am 13 years old and will have to wear a 14-pound brace on my back for the rest of my life.—GOLDINE.

* * * *

For Abby's pamphlet, "What Teen-agers Want to Know," send 25c and a large, self-addressed, stamped envelope in care of this paper.

If you want a personal reply from Abby, write to her in care of this paper and enclose a stamped, self-addressed envelope. She answers ALL letters.

Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Duprey

Golden Year for Dupreys

One hundred and 50 friends and relatives have been bidden to a reception this afternoon to join Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Duprey in celebration of their golden wedding anniversary.

Sons and daughters of the goldenweds will be hosts at the festivities in Agate Hall from 2 to 5 p.m.

Long Beach residents for 37 years, Mr. and Mrs. Duprey were married Nov. 22, 1910, in Olga, N. D. They are parents of seven children and have 14 grandchildren and one great-grandchild.

Guests will include Mr. and Mrs. Edward Rivard, who were honor attendants at the Dupreys' wedding.

Opening lead—♠ 10

Today's hand is taken from one of the early matches in the 1936 Vanderbilt and represents experts at their worst, or an expert named Jacoby at his worst, anyhow.

I sat North and my partner, Dave Bruce, opened one heart. In those days Dave used to bid an occasional psychic. When he made such a bid he always had a completely blank hand, but he also had at least a five-card suit. Also, he would pick a time when we were not vulnerable and the opponents were and this was the situation with his hand.

* * * *

ANYWAY, I decided he had bid a psychic and made the safe bid of four hearts. We were going to make that, psychic or not.

Needless to say, I still hear about the hand. He had an opening bid and we had every high card in the pack and spread seven.

Our team went on to win the match and the tournament, so my bad bid did not really hurt us.

It is interesting to note that if we were playing the Jacoby slam convention back then, I could have had my cake and eaten it too. I would have bid four clubs. With a psychic Dave would have bid four diamonds to show no aces. As it was, he would have bid four spades to show two and I would have bid the grand slam.

CHEF OF THE WEEK

Supercharged, Finds Success in Vitamins

By Mildred K. Flanary
Ind., P-T. Food Editor

He could sell you 50c for $1. Chef of the Week Lee S. Mytinger (the vitamin man) got off to a running start in Red Bank, N.J., and hasn't stopped running since.

Before he was 10 years old he was selling newspapers, picking berries, peddling crabs and even eel, to help an older brother and widowed mother to support the family.

Before his 14th birthday, Mytinger had finished eight years of schooling, and had his first full-time job as office boy with a New York City fire insurance broker. Living in Brooklyn for 18 years, he thinks of it as his second home.

After he had served his apprenticeship with that company, the next 13 years found him climbing the ladder to that of mail clerk, bank clerk, bookkeeper, accountant and purchasing agent. About that time World War I became a reality and he joined the Marines, serving 10 months in France and Germany.

* * * *

AT THE AGE of 27, Mytinger, with a wife and son, made the decision to strike out for himself. He eventually became sales manager of Club Aluminum for the State of Texas. It was an awareness of the value of cooking with as little water as possible to save the vitamins, which actually brought him into his present business, the Mytinger Corp. Food Supplements. His son is associated with him. The company functions in all 50 states and Puerto Rico. With more than 100,000 full-time and part-time sales people associated with him, 100 of them are headquartered here. He came to Long Beach in 1929.

His continuing business responsibilities do not prevent him from maintaining active membership in the Chamber of Commerce, YMCA, Boy Scouts (the 100 club), and the Better Business Bureau, both in Long Beach and Los Angeles. He has been especially active in the Chamber of Commerce of the United States. His memberships include the Jonathan Club of Los Angeles and the Marco Polo Club of New York.

An avid reader, he is equally interested in travel and photography, especially color motion pictures. He has shot some 65,000 feet of colored film in every country in the world.

* * * *

TIME DOESN'T permit him to do the household fixin'—but you can be sure he'll be there to give the fix-it-man some sound advice. There's not one speck of green in either thumb . . . he just likes viewing the complete whole with pride. He likes to do a bit of cooking, and doesn't mind whether it's indoors or out. Today his recipe is for fish, either bonito, barracuda or mackerel.

* * * *

THE RECIPE serves four generously and the total cost is a bit less than $1.50.

1 fish, 10 to 12 inches long, after head and tail are removed
2 cups onion, cut in one inch cubes
2 cups green peppers, cut in one inch cubes
2 cups celery, cut in one inch cubes
1 can tomato soup (undiluted
1 8-oz. box rice
Salt, pepper, paprika

After thoroughly cleaning, salt the inside of the fish then cut cross-wise so that portions are 2½ to 3" wide and the full thickness of the fish. Mix salt and pepper with some flour and very lightly flour the outside skin of the fish.

Melt ½ of a quarter pound section of butter in the cooking utensil. Be sure the butter melts slowly and does not brown. (Note: While I have always used butter it could be that the modern margarines would answer the purpose as well.)

Place the floured fish on the bottom of the pan in the position it was when alive, surround it with the mixed cubed vegetables. Decorate the fish thoroughly with paprika. Put the cover on the pan and place it over a very low flame.

It is preferable not to hurry this dish but to allow the fish to thoroughly steam and the vegetables to thoroughly cook without allowing the steam to escape. One-half to three-quarters of an hour will generally suffice if the flame is the proper height.

Ten to twenty minutes before you expect the fish to be thoroughly cooked, cook the rice, using as little water as possible. Remove fish from pan, add the can of tomato soup, (undiluted). Mix the soup into the vegetables, and leave on low fire until the whole is steaming hot.

OUR COVER

Tasseled corn shocks and golden pumpkins brighten the fields and Dame Nature spreads a backdrop of soft clouds and a mountain bulwark to strengthen the feeling of security that a bountiful harvest guarantees for the long months ahead. There's much to be thankful for and now is a time of giving thanks . . . for freedom . . . food . . . shelter . . . for the many things that make for a better life. Across the land it's the season of the harvest. In most areas the yield has been counted. In balmy climes, the taking of the crops goes on the year around on warm and fertile land, but even there mankind pauses for the day of thankfulness. Today's Southland cover is remindful of Autumn across America, captured in color by the camera skill of Josef Muench of Santa Barbara.

NEXT WEEK

When Old Sol swings south and the cool of winter spreads into Southland days and nights, the desert comes into its own. Palm Springs becomes a magic phrase and the warm appeal of the many desert centers is strong again. True, the desert has been there all year long—and many there are who enjoy it in all its seasons—but the balmy hours of winter when it's not too hot and not too cold are best for the average visitor. What goes on in the desert? Southland Magazine next Sunday will brief its readers with a Fall-Winter Desert Roundup.

WHAT YOUR NAME MEANS

DEAR MISS RULE: Would you explain SCRUGGS, SCROGGIN, and SCROGGINS?—B.S., Garden Grove; H.S., T.S., C.S., D.P., Long Beach.

SCRUGGS, SCROGGIN, and SCROGGINS, based on the early Norse-English word "Skragg," meant "thin and bony." This uncomplimentary but descriptive nickname was handed down in several different spellings all depicting "Son of the thin man." The Scruggs coat-of-arms has two gold birds between two black, running greyhounds on a diagonal blue band across a silver shield. Thomas Scruggs was a Massachusetts resident in the 1650s.

DEAR MISS RULE: Would like genealogy on ELSNER.—Mrs. R.J., Sweet Springs, Mo.; H.E., Los Angeles.

R.J., H.E.: ELSNER, a recognized ancient German surname, was taken from the heavily forested ancestral property. Elsner means "from alder-tree covered land." No other genealogy is available on this family without extensive research.

DEAR MISS RULE: Please publish the origin of MARSTON. — L.M., C.C., Garden Grove; M.C., Long Beach.

L.M., C.C., M.C.: MARSTON was taken from one of a dozen towns called Marston. Marston has a dual source, one from the Old English "Meres-tun" for "pool farmstead," another from "Mersc-tun" or "marsh farmstead." Warwick records of 1591 list John Marston. The family coat-of-arms from Shropshire has an ermine stripe between three silver fleurs-de-lis on a black shield.

DEAR MISS RULE: My STONE family claim England as their original home.—D.S., Fullerton; N.S., Beaumont.

D.S., N.S.: STONE describes the terrain where the remote grandparents lived. This place was near a remarkable roadside rock landmark. Among forebears was John Atte (at the) Stone of Somerset in 1327, and Robert Atte Stone, 1303. The Stone shield, granted in London in 1585, is silver, emblazoned with three black rosettes below a blue stripe. The Irish clan O'Maolcluice (Sons of the Gamester) of County Sligo, erroneously translated their name as Stone in the 1500s, providing another interesting source of this name. Deacon Simon Stone, born in Britain in 1585, came to Watertown, Mass., in 1635 on the ship Increase with his wife, two sons, and three daughters.

DEAR MISS RULE: May we have your analysis of CORDOVA?—F.C., Long Beach.

F.C.: CORDOVA, also CORDOBA, a celebrated Spanish name, was used first by a man who came from the ancient city of Cordoba. This place was called Corduba by the

'Who Peeled the Berries?'

By Ruth C. Ikerman

IF ALL the cranberry sauce which has been spilled on white tablecloths at Thanksgiving dinners could be squeezed out it would make a precious liquid fit to write the history of the happy eating customs of America.

Whether guests arrived via the Mayflower or helicopter they smacked their lips around the bright phrase "Cranberry sauce." Did Indian children nibble the red berries raw from the low bogs and first show the pilgrims how to add this nutrition to their stark diets?

The cranberry has survived all the changes in manners and modes of living throughout our country's history. But chiefly there are two kinds of cranberry sauce, and two types of sauce eaters. There are those who eat cranberry sauce made from the whole cranberry; and there are those who won't touch the dish unless it contains a jelly which is thoroughly strained of the outer coating.

So, in many homes on Thanksgiving Day there will be at least two different bowls of the beautiful accessory set on the table, perhaps as favorite heirloom recipes are once more sampled.

THE IMPORTANT thing is for the cook to know which type she is expected to prepare or both. Otherwise she may face the situation encountered by one family which now jokes about "peeling the cranberries."

It seemed that father was passing the bowl of ruby red sauce around the table to brighten the turkey and dressing. The small son scooped out a big helping, and spread the sauce atop his snowy white mashed potatoes.

As soon as he got the first bite into his mouth he put down his spoon and screamed: "Who peeled these cranberries?" He was outraged that anybody would dare to "peel off" the outside. Always before he had enjoyed the taste of the cranberry, skin and all, as cooked together with sugar.

It had to be explained to the lad that cranberries are too small to peel unless the cooked material is placed through a seive which removes the skin and leaves the pulp. He was fascinated to discover this was a process with which he could help. But he still likes his cranberry sauce with the "peelings" on the outside.

And the question before the house today is: How will you have yours, sir, and your family, now that the wonderful American feast day is approaching? Please pass both bowls down the table to the rest of us.

Food, organic materials, minerals and chemicals offer wealth untold in the sea.

Secrets of the Deep

By Frank L. Remington

MOST OF THE world is unexplored! So say the oceanographers, those scientists who study the oceans. According to these researchers, the seas cover some 70 per cent of the earth's surface and little is known about the underwater regions or the strange creatures that inhabit it. Deep in the sea there exists a weird world of eternal darkness, save for the fantastic flashing lights of strange fish. Today, the oceans of the world are gaining in importance, for their potential resources in metals, minerals and foodstuffs is incalculable.

The oceans contain three times as many living organisms as all the world's land masses. Among them are nightmarish creatures of the deep who must supply their own illumination. Some have brightly-glowing parts that resemble light bulbs. One deep-sea denizen flashes lantern-like lights along its sides. Gliding through the water, it appears like an eerie submarine with glowing portholes. The eyes of another strange-appearing fish are fastened to projections that extend several inches in front of it. The Chiasmodon, one of the oddest denizens of the deep, has rubber-like jaws and an expandable stomach that enables it to swallow and digest fish three times larger than itself.

THE BLUE WHALE, largest of all known marine animals, weighs as much as 295,000 pounds and consumes a ton of food each day. What fantastic creatures live in the utmost ocean depths, no one knows. And because of the terrific underwater pressures there is little hope that this region can ever be explored. There's little doubt, however, that sea serpents of incredible size actually exist there, and that they occasionally come to the surface. Pieces of tentacles scores of feet in length, 40 feet in circumference, and weighing as much as the largest whales sometimes wash to shore. The unknown monsters to whom these parts belong are frightening to contemplate.

Some of the ocean's lower forms of animal life appear more like plants than animals. Among these are the beautifully-tinted sea anemones. Lured by the beauty of the sea anemone, other denizens of the deep discover their error too late to escape. With the speed of lightning, the lovely assassin ensnares its victim, pierces the creature's skin with barb-like cells and shoots poison into the wound. Stupor or death ensues and the anemone feasts on its latest catch.

Popularly termed "sea flower," the anemone in reality is a low form of animal life. The tentacles resemble the petals of a flower. Some species are called dahlia anemones and daisy anemones because of their resemblance to those plants.

GORGEOUSLY TINTED in shades ranging from bright crimson to dark purple, these flower-like animals usually attach themselves to rocks. Although they are capable of slow creeping movements, they depend mostly on ocean currents and the waving of their tentacles for locomotion. The tentacles, covered with numerous thread-like cells, capture and paralyze the prey and conduct it to the slit-like mouth in the center of the waving arms. Food, as well as air, also comes from the constant stream of water passing through the creature's body.

Many anemones form peculiar partnerships with other inhabitants of the ocean, but these associations usually benefit both participants. For instance, some sea flowers acquire their own private limousine and chauffeur by attaching themselves permanently to the hard shell of a hermit crab. The chauffeur carries his passenger about from place to place, and even shares his food with the rider. For its part, the passenger discourages any prowler who might cast hungry eyes toward the crab. Experience has taught such would-be diners to keep safely away from the anemone's poisonous tentacles.

Beauty of the widowed sea anemone is a trap. Each tentacle of what looks like a tropical plant will seize and poison any smaller creature in reach.

Strange creatures dwell in the depths of the sea. Cow fish, named for sharp horns above eyes, is one. Sea is rich in mineral, organic wealth.

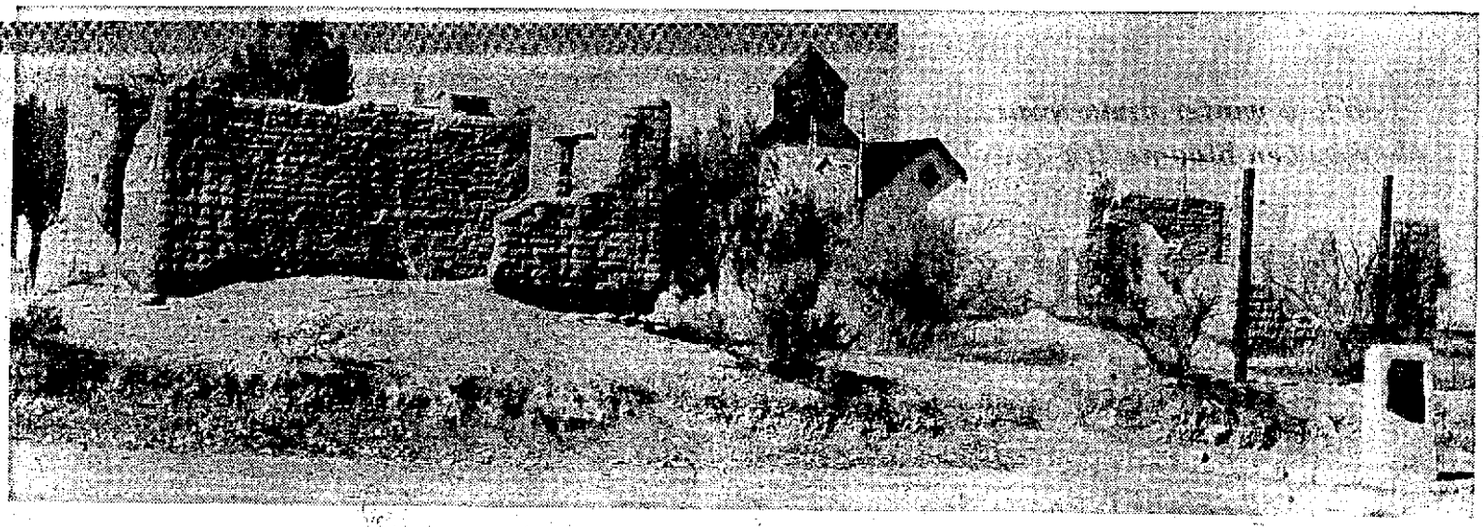

Lace-like pattern is formed by the sea fan, member of sponge family.

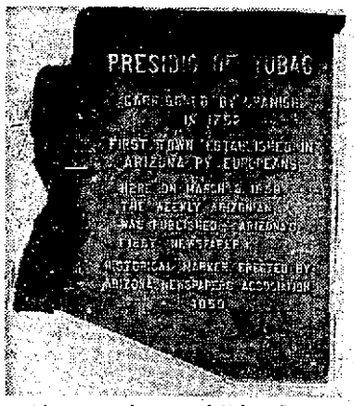

Dahlia anemones are brightly colored and arms are in 5 rows around mouth.

Sea anemone or "sea flower" closely resembles a plant but in reality is a low form of animal life, another of the strange contrasts found in the ocean.

Ruins of Tubac, 40 miles south of Tucson, mark first town established in Arizona by Europeans.

Plaque marks site of Tubac Presidio manned by Spanish in 1752.

Jewels of the Gadsden Purchase

By Herb Davis

SOUTHERN CALIFORNIA and Southern Arizona are tied together by a historical cord that led Juan Bautista de Anza from Tubac to San Gabriel; that brought the Franciscans and the Missions to both.

We are also tied by a paved highway that carries thousands of Southern California sportsmen and travelers to Guaymas, Mazatlan and Acapulco, in old Mexico, along U. S. Hwy. 89.

On this road are three of the jewels of the Gadsden Purchase—land bought from Mexico in 1853: the Mission of San Xavier del Bac, the Presidio of Tubac and the Mission San Jose de Tumacacori.

Between Tucson and Nogales, about six miles south of Tucson and two miles west of the highway, there nestles close to two low hills Mission of San Xavier del Bac. It is in daily use and is one of the best preserved of the early missions. It was founded in 1697 by Father Eusebio Francisco Kino, a Jesuit, who was the founder of most of the Southwest missions. At first it was only a small adobe hut. Later, in 1700, he laid the foundation for a larger church, but nothing more was done until the Franciscans took over, following the expulsion of the Jesuits in 1768.

The present structure was started in 1783 and completed about 1797. This was the northern-most mission in the Pimeria Alta, the name given to the northern part of the State of Sonora, Mexico. Because of its design and the fact that it has not been allowed to fall to ruins, San Xavier is the most beautiful of the Southwest missions.

FORTY MILES south of Tucson, about half a mile east of the highway is the village of Tubac. In its center are the remnants of the Spanish Presidio, established in 1752. Capt. Juan Bautista de Anza was commandante of this Spanish settlement, the most northerly in Sonora, in 1774. He was selected to head an expedition to locate an overland route from Sonora to Monterey.

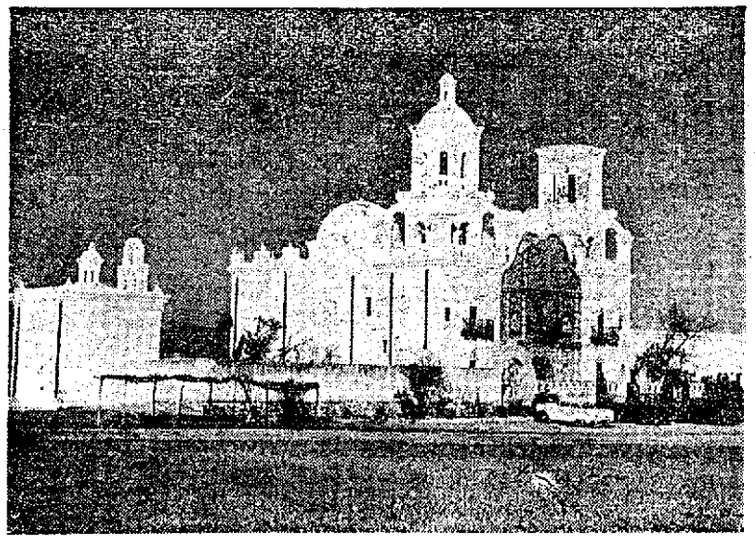

Anza had an intrepid neighbor, Father Francisco Garces, at San Xavier Mission, who went with him on this trip which took them across the Camino del Diablo to the junction of the Colorado and Gila Rivers; across the southern edge of the Imperial Valley, then north and west to Borrego Springs. Then up Coyote Canyon to San Gabriel and finally to Monterey. A year later he led an army of settlers over he same route, through Borrego, to reinforce the settlement at Monterey and to go still farther north to establish the Presidio and Mission at San Francisco. The Anza Borrego State Park is named to commemorate this event.

FOUR MILES south of Tubac is the Tumacacori National Monument. You don't turn off the road, the ruins of the Mission San Jose de Tumacacori are right there. Founded in 1701, on a ranch, it was here that Father Kino and Father Salvatierra held the first Christian services ever held on Arizona soil, on one of their trips to this ranch in 1696 or 1697. Like San Xavier, the first church was an adobe hut. The present building was not started until about 1800 and was finished in 1822, more than 100 years after Father Kino had built his first hut.

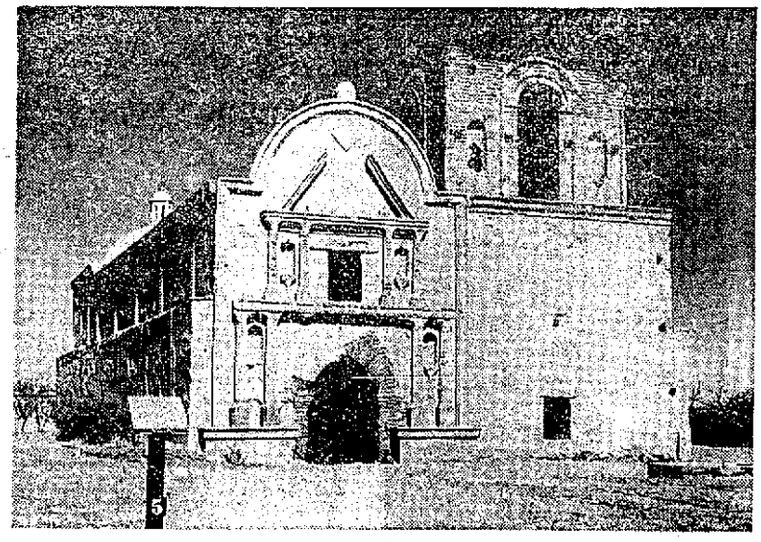

In 1821 Mexico won her freedom from Spain. There was no money to support missions, so Tumacacori, along with some other frontier missions, was abandoned. In 1844 Mexico sold Tumacacori to private citizens. In 1848 the devout Indians stripped the church and moved all the furnishings to San Xavier. This was one of the shortest-lived churches and it fell into ruins rapidly. The United States government purchased it for a national monument and in 1921 did enough restoration work to prevent further deterioration. There is a museum here and the church is well marked for guidance of the visitor.

ARCHITECT Prentice Duell wrote in "Architect and Engineer" Dec. 1921 "Tumacacori is of great architectural importance, though primitive and faulty in construction. The circular chapel is brilliant with red stone showing the Moorish influence."

This is the Pimeria Alta country south of the Gila River, that Mexico sold to us in the Gadsden Purchase of 1853. You drive through this jewel box every time you go south on U. S. Hwy. 89.

Most beautiful of the Southwest missions is that of San Xavier del Bac, south of Tucson. It has not been allowed to fall in ruins, is in daily use.

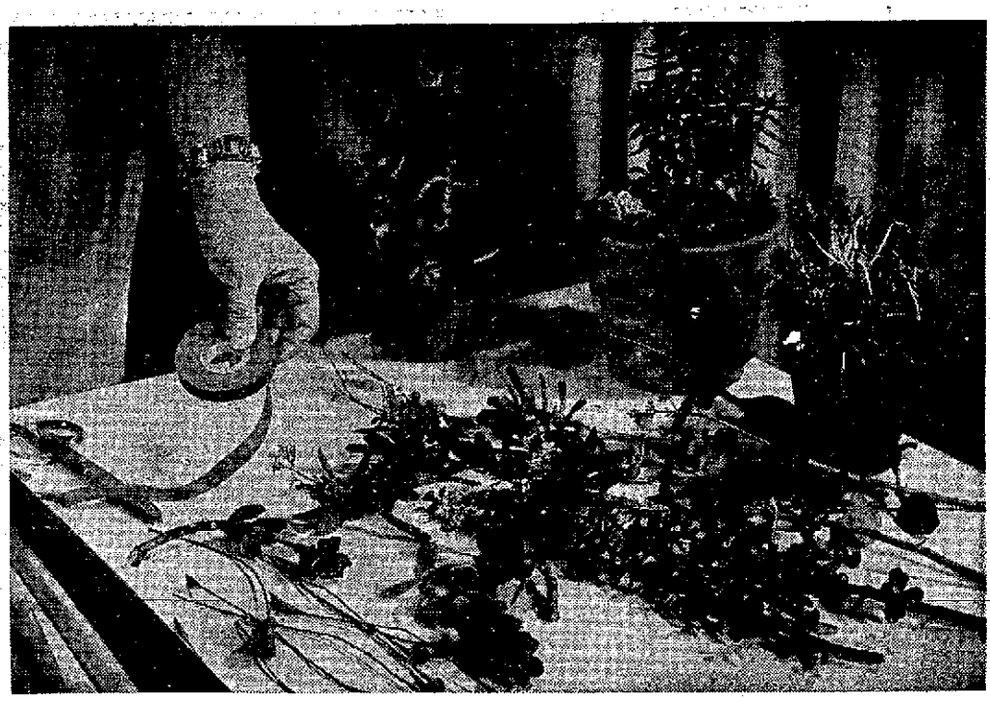

Mission San Jose de Tumacacori, founded in 1701, was site of first Christian service in Arizona. Building shown was completed in 1822.

Succulent Corsages

By Eda Johnstone

Collection of succulents ready to be made into corsage. Advantage of succulent over other types of corsages is that they need not be kept in refrigerator, lasting for weeks in flat bowl.

YOU NEED NOT wait for the spring or summer flowers, if you like to make your own corsages. Many succulents bloom in mid-winter and early spring. Some, with their brilliantly colored leaves, make unbelievably attractive corsages.

Fashioning corsages was a hobby with Mrs. Elsie Duschnes of West Los Angeles. One winter in a search of her garden for corsage material, she found nothing in bloom but the succulents. Observing the rosette form of a small Echeveria, she decided to experiment, and with it combined the leaves of other varieties. They were so successful and attracted so much attention that she has made dozens.

One advantage of a succulent corsage is that it need not be stored in the refrigerator. It may be placed in a flat bowl where for weeks it will be an attractive adornment and conversation piece.

THE MAKING of a succulent corsage is similar to any other, and perhaps easier, for the substance of the leaves and blossoms is pliable, yet not too soft to take the wire.

Wire is cut in lengths of 6 to 8 inches. For durability, two wires are inserted into the leaf or flower. These are wrapped with green floral tape, starting at the top, giving a couple of turns of the tape around the lower part of the stem. The wires are spun between the fingers so that the tape goes on diagonally. The stem is ended with a piece of flat tape which is more decorative than a sharp end.

If a rosette Echeveria is used, the wires are run up the center and a hook made, then pulled down. This makes the stem secure. The pieces are then assembled like any other corsage. The wire ends are turned around a pencil for a special effect. Half an inch of ribbon makes a pretty finish.

IF SUCCULENT flowers are not available, an attractive addition to the leaves are the ribbon rosebuds, two-toned red and gold of about 2¾-inch width. A triangle is cut 5 inches long with selvage, which is gathered on the raw edges and Leaves, buds wire easily. Here they are assembled for a 2-way corsage.

Mrs. Elsie H. Duschnes of Los Angeles shows the succulent corsage made of blue-gray Echeveria and the bright green "jade plant." Mrs. Duschnes found the succulents good corsage material.

Wired together in center, corsage takes shape. Floral tape wraps wire.

Our Changing Thanksgiving Day

Tables laden with game, wild fruits and vegetables, Pilgrim Fathers sat down to first American Harvest Festival in October 1621, with a number of Indian guests.

By G. Russell Shaw

SINCE the celebration of the first Thanksgiving Day (Harvest Festival), it has undergone many changes as to the day, date and manner of observance.

The Pilgrim Fathers held their first American Harvest Festival in October 1621. There is no record of their giving thanks for the first bountiful harvest, but they were zealously religious, it is proper to assume they did.

The occasion is described in this old account: "Our harvest being gotten in, our Governour sent foure men on fowling, so that we might, after a more special manner, rejoyce together after we had gathered the fruits of our labors. They foure in one day killed as much fowle as, with a little help beside, served the Company almost a week."

THE FIRST permanent Plymouth colonists were not sent out by the Plymouth Company or the Council for New England. The members were Independents, or Separatists, who first become voluntary exiles to Holland and then to the New World. They were a branch of Puritans unwilling to accept a "Supreme governor" for the English church set up after the break with the Pope at Rome. They wished to be self-governing and independent of the Established English Church.

In 1608 the entire congregation of a country church at Scrooby, in north-central England, moved to Holland where they remained for 12 years in the community of Leyden. Here they had complete religious freedom, but their sons and daughters turned to the Dutch language and manners; some married into Dutch families. Once more the self-imposed exiles banned together to maintain their language and customs. This time they set sail for North America, landing at what is now Plymouth, in December 1620.

The women and children lived aboard their ship, the Mayflower, for several months while the men and boys cleared land and built log houses. They prepared the land with the help of an Indian, Chief Massasoit, who taught them to use fish as fertilizer. From their efforts they reaped a great harvest. The chief and several of his braves were invited guests to the first harvest festival on American soil. So bountiful was the supply of wild turkey that it has been accepted down through the years as the most appropriate Thanksgiving fowl.

THE YEAR following the harvest festival was a discouraging one. The storerooms were nearly empty. A terrible drought withered the corn and burned gardens brown. So desperate was their plight that a special day of prayer was called almost immediately, a long refreshing rain came and the next day a ship, laden with supplies and many of their friends, sailed into the harbor. The governor appointed a day for "public thanksgiving." However, there was no feasting after the long church service.

Although we read of feasts, fasts and "Thanksgiving Days," being observed each year, it was not until ten years later (1636), that we find record of the kind of celebration such as we now keep.

Thanksgiving Day has survived many changes. During the Revolutionary War the Continental Congress set Dec. 18, 1777, to be observed as a "thanksgiving day," celebrating the surrender of General Burgoyne. President George Washington, during his first year in office, issued a proclamation in which he recommended that Nov. 26, 1789, be kept as a "day of national thanksgiving, commemorating the establishment of a form of government that made for safety and happiness."

FOR MANY years the festival was almost exclusively a New England institution, celebrated by religious services in the churches, political speeches and visits to the family homestead. Gradually the custom spread all over the United States. Then in 1864, President Lincoln issued a proclamation in which he "appointed and set aside," the last Thursday in November as a national day of thanksgiving "for the defense against unfriendly designs without, and signal victories over the enemy who is of our own household."

Lincoln's proclamation was adhered to until 1939, when President Franklin D. Roosevelt, desiring to lengthen the time between Thanksgiving Day and Christmas, set the next to the last Thursday in November as the date of celebration. However, in December of 1941, Congress passed a resolution making the fourth Thursday a legal holiday for Thanksgiving. Today, the celebration is kept in all 50 of the United States, and the governor of each state issues a yearly proclamation to that effect.

House With a Model Home Look

Twin white linen chairs in the Italian Provincial style flank a large round marble top table in the home of Mr. and Mrs. William J. Kuzynowski in the Rossmoor section.

By Stella George

THE HOME of Mr. and Mrs. William J. Kuzynowski, 3101 Walker and Lee Dr. in Rossmoor, has a two-story elegance which is obvious when one drives up to the front door. The lawn is expertly landscaped with mounds of flowers and shrubs.

From the front entry there is a view of the living and dining room to the left, the kitchen straight ahead, and a small den to the right. The entire home, upstairs and down, is carpeted in spotless white.

Walls in the room are pale gray-green. Windows are draped in white. A potted palm on one side of the brick fireplace is a pleasing color accent.

THE FORMAL dining room is perfectly furnished with exquisite, polished fruitwood. The round dining table is flanked with high-backed chairs upholstered with a gold plastic-type material. The buffet is fruitwood, and there is a minimum of ornamental bric-a-brac.

The kitchen is large and spacious with a center island stove. A wide, functional bar separates it from the family room. The latter is furnished with a round table and chairs, television set, and other casual comforts. A handsome candle holder, large enough for about a dozen candles, and cleverly designed from a piece of manzanita, ornaments one wall. A colorful mural is on the other wall. The family room has sliding glass doors to the patio and garden beyond.

The small den to the right of the front door is simply furnished with twin beige chairs, tables, a hi-fi set, and the white carpeting mentioned before. To the left of the den is the carpeted stairway which leads to the upstairs.

SIMPLE ELEGANCE is evident in the bedroom furnishings. The largest bedroom easily accommodates a king-sized bed, chest of drawers, and other similar furniture with room to spare. An attractive window seat is in the far end of the room.

A second bedroom is done in fine Italian Provincial, with white the predominating color everywhere. The third bedroom has twin beds made of fruitwood.

The garden surrounding the home is large and well planned. At one end is a custom-made waterfall. There is a bricked area for tables and chairs.

Stone front of the Kuzynowski home forms excellent background for expertly landscaped lawn, mounds of flowers.

HOUSE OF THE WEEK

'Raised Ranch' Rated a Bargain

By David L. Bowen

WHEN THEY SAY they want a small house, what most people really mean is that they want a roomy house at a small cost.

B-25 in the House of the Week series is just that. It is an adaptation of a home designed by architect Lester Cohen for a New Jersey developer who wanted the largest home he could build to sell under $11,000, including land. Houses similar to B-25 in all essential details are being sold in South Toms River, N. J., by builder Robert Schmerz for $10,800. Monthly payments on a 30-year FHA loan, including taxes and insurance, come to $69. Economies out of reach of a small contractor are available to a large operator, and values vary widely around the country, but this should be a low-cost house wherever it's built.

A MAJOR REASON for the economy is the two-story arrangement of living area, achieved without abandoning completely the popular low look of ranch designs. What is ordinarily waste basement space is finished and put to use. This is the "raised ranch" technique seen before in House of the Week, but never before in such a low price range.

Living area on each level is 624 square feet. Garage and service stair cover 492 square feet.

The entrance at front and rear come in at ground level midway between the lower and upper floors. The effect is particularly pleasing at the front, where the entrance landing has a ceiling a story and half high with steps leading down both to the living room at front and the service hall in the rear. A third half-flight leads to the bedrooms upstairs.

AT THE BACK of the house, the service entranceway provides access directly from the house to the attached two-car garage.

There's a half-bath downstairs and a full bath serves the three upstairs bedrooms.

Over-all dimensions are 46 feet width by 25 feet depth.

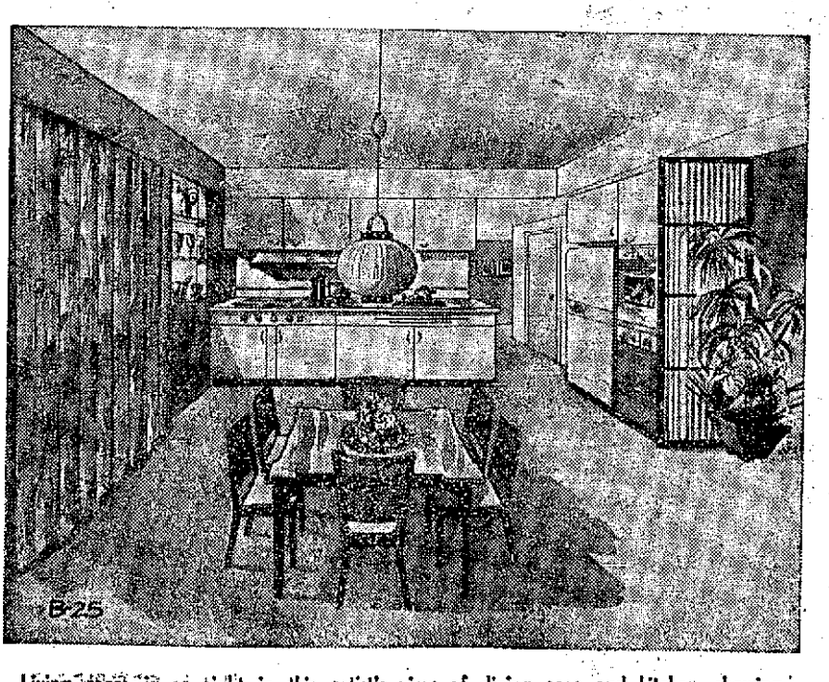

A pair of windows brightens the efficient kitchen area. Appliances are placed for easiest handling with least waste steps.

The open dining area adjacent can be set off by louvers or screens for formal use, but during family hours it adds to the feeling of space in the kitchen.

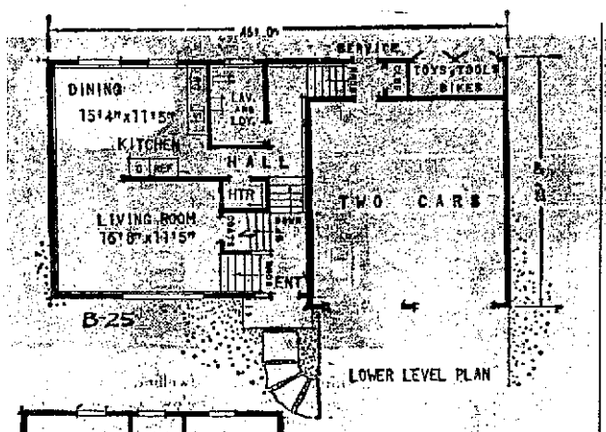

THERE IS NO basement and all operations usually on the darker downstairs level are brought within reach of the kitchen.

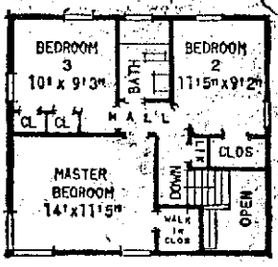

The heater alcove is centrally located to serve all rooms with a minimum of ducts. Also accessible from the service area is the laundry which incorporates a lavatory easily reached from the front hall (down the back steps), rear entrance (down the service steps) and kitchen.

There are eight closets in and outside B-25. Biggest is an outside storage compartment, with louvered doors opening on the backyard, for outdoor toys and gardening tools. The laundry area offers more service storage and there is a coat closet in the back entry as well as in the front of the house. Five big closets are spotted around the upper floor.

FROM THE FRONT entry, bedrooms are reached by going up a half-flight of stairs. Each of the three bedrooms has two exposures, with corner windows in the master bedroom. There's a minimum of wasted hall space and the two-story plan offers sleeping privacy that most families with young children demand.

Why Not an All-Year Christmas?

By Frances Edelman

INSTEAD OF a Merry Christmas and a Happy New Year once a year, why not a cheerful 365 days a year?

Why not a Merry Monday, a Tuneful Tuesday, a Warm-hearted Wednesday, a Thankful Thursday, a Friendly Friday, a Salubrious Saturday and a Spiritual Sunday?

At the Christmas season practically everyone experiences a feeling of goodwill and cheer towards others. Shoppers in crowded downtown stores and streets during the Yuletide season, when jostled by other anxious, busy shoppers do not push back and go off muttering to themselves, "about the rudeness of people nowadays." No, they smile good naturedly and hurry on to attend to the tiring but exhilerating task of gift selecting gifts for family and friends.

A JUDGE imbued with the Christmas spirit suspends minor sentences and sends offenders home to spend

Romans, an obscure word believed to mean "Place of the Hides." Cordoba was in the 7th and 8th centuries the seat of the Moorish Caliphate which ruled most of the Spanish peninsula. The proper pronunciation of this name stressed the first syllable, CORdoba, not CorDOBa. Francisco de Cordoba who died in 1518 discovered Yucatan in south Mexico. Fernando de Cordoba (1792-1883) was captain-general of Cuba in the 1800s.

DEAR MISS RULE: Please publish history on NELSON. —L.M.D., L.M., Long Beach.

L.M.D., L.M.: NELSON is traced to the Scandinavian given-name Nial meaning "champion." It was introduced to Britain by Vikings who settled England's east coast in the 9th century. "Nial's Son" become Nelson in England, Norway, and Sweden, and Nielssen in Denmark. Most American Nelsons have Scandinavian ancestry. However, John and Thomas Nelson of England were Pennsylvania taxpayers in 1741. The Nelson shield, granted in Berkshire, England, in 1576, has six alternating vertical red and silver stripes covering it.

DEAR MISS RULE: What is the source of PFAU?—Mrs. H.J., Long Beach.

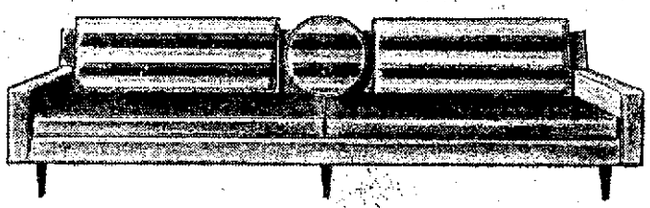

H.J.: PFAU is a German surname meaning "peacock." Pfau was originally the cognomen of an inn or shop owner who had a peacock pictured over the door of his premises. No other data is available on this family.

All foiled up for the holiday feast is this planked turkey. Mashed potatoes, apple tarts are foiled again.

Turkey on a Plank

By Mildred K. Flanary

Independent, Press-Telegram Home Economics Editor

WHEN LARGE families gather, holiday feasts are often served in the spacious family or recreation room of modern-day homes. Here a richly garlanded plank may hold the plump turkey and other informal ways of serving may be used for holding the array of wonderful foods.

Household foil, either the natural color or the little rolls on red, blue or gold, can be used to provide a festive setting. Use bouquets of parsley to contrast and the table can easily be as beautiful as one set with ancestral silver and china.

Garlanded Plank: Crush foil lightly into a rope and secure to plank with thumb tack. Press with fingers into attractive pattern. Tuck parsley into this border at intervals.

Autumn Leaves: Use two 5"x7" pieces of foil, one on top of the other. Fold in half; then cut elongated half circles. Open out, turn up edges and flute to look like a leaf. Use to hold mashed sweet or white potatoes or squash.

Tart Shells: Cut circles of foil with pinking scissors. Place each baked and filled tart on circle and crimp the foil attractively up and around the dessert to frame each attractively.

Turkey Roasted in Foil

Preparation: Prepare turkey for roasting, defrosting thoroughly, if frozen. Stuff turkey or not, as desired, and truss in usual manner. Simmer giblets and neck in covered saucepan with one quart of water, seasonings and a small onion, until tender. Remove liver after 30 minutes. Use this broth in the gravy.

Wrapping: Use heavy duty foil and wrap turkey carefully. Eighteen-inch-wide foil will wrap turkeys up to 16 pounds eviscerated weight. Two 18-inch widths may be spliced for larger turkeys.

Lay turkey on its back in middle of foil. Brush all over with soft shortening. Season with salt and pepper. Place small folds of foil over the ends of legs, wing tips and tail to prevent puncturing. Bring long ends of foil up over the breast of the turkey and overlap 3 inches or more. Close open ends by folding underneath foil up and over the top piece. Let it extend up 2 to 4 inches so drippings will not run into pan. Large turkeys may have as much as 3 pints of drippings. Place turkey in a shallow pan in oven; roast according to chart.

Time for Roasting Turkey in Foil

If using a thermometer, the internal temperature in each case should be 190 degrees F. The oven temperature in each case should be 450 degrees F.

Browning: 20 minutes before end of roasting time, open and fold back foil. Spoon juices in bottom of foil over turkey and let turkey brown.

Gravy: Remove turkey to plank. Ladle juices into a saucepan, add broth from giblets, seasonings to taste, and thicken in the usual manner.

Glazed Apple Tarts

Make up pastry from a favorite recipe, enough for six 3-inch tarts. Roll thin. Cut 5-inch circles from standard foil. Cut matching circles of pastry and place on foil. Prick all over with a fork. Turn up foil and pastry and pinch all around to form tart shells. Place on a cookie sheet and bake in a very hot oven (450 degrees F.) 12 minutes or until lightly browned.

Apple Filling
- 2 lbs. apples
- 4 tblsps. lemon juice
- 1 cup sugar
- ½ cup water
- 2 tblsps. butter
- nutmeg

Peel apples and cut in quarters. Place the lemon juice, sugar and water in a saucepan and bring to a boil. Add the apples and simmer until tender, being careful not to break them. Cool slightly; then lift apples from syrup and fill tarts. Add the butter to the syrup and pour over each tart. Dust with nutmeg. Cool; then arrange each tart on a second foil circle, crimping it attractively.

A Nativity Scene You Can Make

Patterns for scenes such as above with NBC-TV actress Lori Martin have been sent all over the world. In U. S., families and organizations make scenes for display.

By Steve Ellingson

THE FIRST recorded creche, or nativity scene, was made in 1223 by St. Francis of Assisi. His object in making it was to dramatize that greatest of all Christian events, the birth of Jesus. In those days few people could read, consequently the scene was a means whereby everyone could be told of the incarnation of God.

Nowadays, the scenes are used for decorations. But what is more important, they are a dramatic stimulant to the imagination and a reminder to believers of the essence of their hope as well as their duty.

This will be the sixth year that the interdenominational CHRIST in CHRISTmas Committee has asked us to use our columns to support their campaign to keep Christ in Christmas.

IN OUR OWN COUNTRY the scenes are made by families who want them for decorations in their front yards. Sunday school classes make them for their church yards. Scouts and similar organizations make them for hospitals. Men's clubs have made them for missions on skid row. Businessmen make them for display in their store windows.

The scene pictured is very colorful and something anyone can make in a few hours. It's two-thirds life size (camels are about five feet tall). The pictures come to you printed in many bright and beautiful colors. All you need do is paste the pictures on plywood or masonite, then saw them out. After that they're ready to go on display wherever you choose to show your true Christmas spirit. The pictures are waterproof and may be used year after year in all sorts of rough outdoor weather.

To obtain the complete set of nativity scene pictures No. C-7 shown here, send $5 by check, currency or money order made out to: Steve Ellingson, Long Beach Independent, Press-Telegram Pattern Dept., Van Nuys, Calif. Also available, a miniature nativity group same as above but small size for table or mantel. It's No. 180 for $2.

HOW TO Grow Plants in Glass Houses That Can Care for Themselves All Winter Long.

1. TERRARIUMS — miniature greenhouses (left) that care for themselves—will give you fresh, lively pleasure all winter long. Here's all you need: sparkling glass containers; washed gravel; standard potting soil; and an assortment of small, slow growing plants that like warmth and humidity.

2. LINE UP the materials you'll need (right). A glass bottle, gravel, soil, and plants. Pour gravel and soil through funnel top; set plants with long wire hook and flexible lath; tamp in roots with dowel. Use a spray bulb for watering.

3. COVER FLOOR of container with 1-inch layer of gravel (lower left). Make it deeper at one side if you want a graded planting. Add a generous 2- to 3-inch covering of soil which you can smooth or shape into mounds and valleys with the lath.

4. PUSH PLANTS gently through top and set in place with hook and lath. Tamp in roots. Spray the finished planting sparingly, just moistening the soil to the drainage level.

When Your Voice Goes on a Submarine Jaunt

By Olive Breed

PICK UP your dial telephone receiver, give the operator a number on the Hawaiian Islands, and the next voice you hear will be at that number. The long, unbroken expanse of water, 2,400 statute miles between the mainland and the newest state, has been telescoped to the width of an imaginary line between two contiguous states.

The voice will sound as though coming from next door, giving no sign that it has just completed the most spectacular submarine journey to date, for beneath the unchanging surface of the water, the coaxial voiceways snake around the easiest curves of mountain ranges, along oozy plains, and to the 3½-mile depths of an underseas Grand Canyon called the Murray Fracture Zone.

When the American Telephone & Telegraph Co. and Hawaiian Telephone Companies were ready to chart the exact route of the twin cables, Navy Electronics Laboratory and Scripps Institution of Oceanography had been sounding the depths of the Pacific for some eight years with the miracle called precision depth recorder, or echo sounder. This is a device sending down an electric "ping" every second as the ship moves. The sound bounces back from the ocean floor, or from any solid object intervening. The time it takes to return is the measure of distance it has traveled, which is recorded by a stylus on moving tape, called an echogram. Something like 80,000 miles of this tape were available to the telephone companies as a basis on which to figure the optimum path for the cable.

Dr. Henry W. Menard of Scripps Institution of Oceanography was associated with these excursions, and headed the expedition on the Liberty Ship Huddell that mapped the exact route on which the twin, one-way transmission cables lie. In his words, "The Murray Fracture Zone forms a great gash in the earth's crust, 30 miles wide . . . separating two great mountain ranges."

IT HAS BEEN established that one can get an idea of these undersea grandeurs best by comparing them to the ridge-bordered rift valleys of Central Africa. One of these subterranean ranges is said to resemble Ptolemny's famous Mountains of the Moon. Because of their depth of one to five thousand feet below the surface, they have been named the Moonless Mountains.

A line laid on the surface would take 4,800 miles of cable for the two-way circuit, but this scenic seafloor used up 5263 miles of actual measurement. One of the safeguards necessary is that the cable rests firmly on the ocean floor at every point. If it were stretched from one point to another across a sharp declivity there would be added danger from sea life, landslides, and water movements.

Because the cable rests on the sea floor it is armored to resist 8,000 pounds pressure. This is especially important around the amplifiers, the prima donnas and the heart of the whole operation.

Because even the 2,500 volts fed into the cable at

A Word for THE Bird

By M. J. Robertson

SCIENCE has done a lot for the turkey since our first Thanksgiving and, as a result, the bird is tamer, meatier, tastes better, and costs more!

Unlike people, turkeys are considered "dressed" when they are "undressed."

Gobblers are a frustrated flock because they all have drumsticks but no drums.

Turkeys prefer the rural life but occasionally can be found in bowling alleys.

Like most folks in neighborhoods across the country, turkeys dilly dally about wasting time and then all decide to go to market at the same time.

An argumentative lot, they can constantly be heard bickering over which one can make the best gravy.

These great birds have one thing in common with the Christmas tree . . . both are lost without the trimmings!

FOR YEARS turkeys have effortlessly laid eggs, a feat sometimes matched by playwrights only after hard work and considerable expense.

Not all turkeys make the grade till that big day in November. Many are canned long before that. Others, bitten by show biz, wind up in TV . . . dinners!

Of course, everyone doesn't like turkey and ironically, the people who hate turkeys are their best friends.

When Americans give someone the bird, it is never a turkey.

THERE ARE three kinds of turkeys: Undercooked, Just Right, and Dried Up.

Throughout the years turkeys have stayed out of politics but, despite this, are eagerly sought after by Democrat and Republican alike.

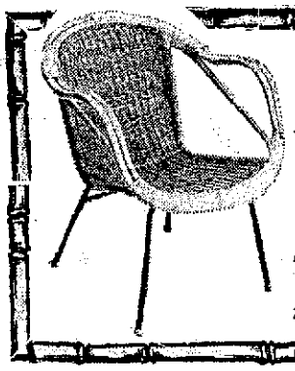

When a man is a boy he can never get enough turkey. When he grows up, he always gets too much.

So, as the turkey said to the cranberry, "We'll have to get together sometime!" Let's hope they make it this year!

Empty oil drums pop to surface as shore end of telephone cable drops in trench blasted through coral reef barrier.

Undersea Telephone

either end can send the voice only a little more than 40 miles, there is of necessity built into the cable one of the most sensitive and intricate devices known, a "booster" that picks up the dwindling voice, multiplies it one million times and sends it along another 40 miles. This happens 57 times in each direction.

A BOOSTER consists of about 60 parts aside from connections, housed in a copper tube three inches in diameter and eight feet long. Three electronic, or vacuum tubes, are the center of the intricate mechanism in which nothing has been left to chance. For instance, one calculated effect of 8,000 pounds pressure and a near freezing temperature is that in 20 years as much as a thimble full of moisture will have formed, and a desiccator to absorb this much has been included.

The electronic tubes were developed at the Bell Laboratories after decades of research of about 750,000 related items. To get the 342 tubes selected for the Hawaiian cable; 2,400 tubes were made before testing proved the 342 acceptable. By the time the amplifier is connected in the cable, the overall length is 80 feet.

The transmission core of the cable itself is a one-eighth inch copper wire, over which a pay load of 35 voices and one teletype message travel one way, simultaneously much as cars on a freeway.

The one predator which had to be guarded against for the entire length of the cable is the "ship's worm" or teredo, a half worm and half mollusk that only copper can stop. There is a copper "teredo tape" covering every foot of the cable.

Approaching the areas nearer shore, new dangers appear as the water gets shallower. Sperm whales have been entangled with and have broken cables in other waters. Closer in, armor must protect from trawlers, ships' anchors, destructive winds, waves, tides and erosion.

THE TERMINALS have been built after taking into account dangers of bomb, submarine or air attack. In addition, the east end of the cable touches on the San Andreas fault and probability of earthquake, so that across that area the voice has an air lift of 125 miles via microwave. At Point Arena a 12-mile shore end was necessary, as the big cable ship could get no closer.

The Hawaiian terminal is built into the side of an extinct volcano.

The British Post Office owns the world's largest cable laying ship, HMS Monarch, length 485 ft., and carrying a crew of 135 men. This and another British-owned vessel, the Ocean Layer, were leased to lay the first trans-Pacific telephone cable. To be sure it went where it was intended to go, on the exact path Dr. Menard had supervised, each ship used two echo-sounders, the charts, long range and celestial navigation and piano wire. The wire anchored on the shore and unrolled from huge drums on deck; by this means the engineers knew within a foot (or feet) just where they were.

Since 1931, 14 radio circuits have been, and still are, in use between Hawaii and the mainland. The 36-channel submarine cable is in addition to these.

Precision designed, made, charted and laid, this Pacific voiceway is planned to give trouble-free service for a minimum of 20 years.

Under 3½ miles of cold ocean, should some part of an amplifier fail, it could be traced from shore as to which line, east or west, it belongs. As these lines lie 25 miles apart, there is no chance of confusing them; and as the amplifiers differ slightly according to where they lie, the repair man would be reasonably sure of what to bring.

A 20-year delay in a repairman's visit is understandable when it is realized that he would need to travel in one of the big cable repair ships, drop miles of heavy anchor chain attached to a giant anchor and probably would travel halfway around the world at a cost of a quarter million dollars.

World's First Known Yule Card

By Quinby Schuyler

—Photos courtesy The Greeting Card Association

This quaint greeting was designed in 1843 by John Calcott Horsley in London, added Christmas wishes to those for Happy New Year, custom long in vogue.

THE WHIMSICAL curiosity of American children, it seems to me, has never been any keener than it is today. At least, I got that impression a few days ago, when my 10-year-old son abruptly asked: "Where do Christmas cards come from?"

It stumped me, but good. And my wife, I'm afraid, wasn't much better informed. To the same question, she had answered:

"Oh, from friends and relatives usually. People you don't see much anymore."

So I, realizing that it's wiser to answer these questions properly as they come up, did a little Christmas card research and found:

1) Contrary to a fairly general supposition, the history of Christmas cards is not centuries-old, the first known Christmas card having been designed in 1843 by John Calcott Horsley, R. A., painter and illustrator to Sir Henry Cole, the inaugurator and first director of the Victoria and Albert Museum in London, England. In 1846, one thousand copies of the Horsley design were lithographed, hand-colored and sold by Felix Summerly's Treasure House in Bond St., an art shop which Cole had set up in order to improve the taste of his contemporaries.

2) The first American Christmas cards were published in 1875 in Roxbury, Mass., by a noted craftsman lithographer, Louis Prang. Earlier he had perfected a lithographic process of color printing that surpassed those of other graphic arts craftsmen in both Great Britain and the United States. In the early 1870s he began the publication of de luxe editions of Christmas cards which found a ready sale in England, culminating in the introduction of the first American Christmas cards in 1875.

3) Early Christmas card designers met widespread public ridicule. Like Fulton and his steamboat, they were warned that the custom of sending Christmas cards "could never win popular support."

These preliminary findings intrigued my interest further. What did the first Christmas card look like? How does it compare with the 1960 Christmas cards? Who were the people most responsible for founding a custom that brings such tremendous happiness into every American home?

THE FIRST known Christmas card, I have discovered, has a central illustration depicting the conviviality of the season. Small panels in the design to the left and right show the charitable acts of "clothing the poor" and "feeding the hungry," always connected with the Christmas season. Inevitably, of course, the greeting on the card was destined to become the most popular Yuletide message ever composed—it reads, "A Merry Christmas and A Happy New Year To You."

Notwithstanding the rather cool reception the first Christmas card received, other artists and publishers during the next few years after its appearance intensified their efforts through what might be termed an experimental or face-lifting period. Then, in 1866, Messrs. Marcus Ward and Co. of Belfast, Ireland, were commissioned by an English firm to lithograph a set of four designs by the artist, C. H. Bennett. Reproductions from this set, it seems, were the forerunners of the first "popular" Christmas cards.

Before the 1860s had passed, the exchange of colorful Christmas greeting cards was one of England's most cherished customs.

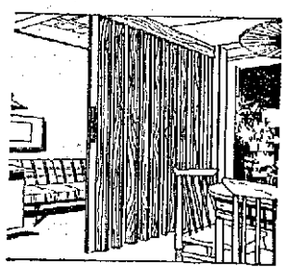

The modern era of Christmas cards dates from 1900-1910, when a number of new publishing firms were first established. But the big boom came immediately after World War I. At that time, public fancy was completely won over by the symbolic designs —Christmas trees, holly wreaths, gleaming candles, and church bells—which are as popular today as they were then.

Santa Claus is ever popular in Christmas card designs.

Modern cards offer a wider and gay choice to buyers.

Why Not an All-Year Christmas?

Christmas with their families. A train crew gives a Christmas party for a 4-year-old blind boy, who has been waving to them all year. Postal employes "pass the hat" to pay for extra postage on Christmas mail going into Canada.

This spirit of exuberance mounts until it attains its height on Christmas Day, with enough momentum built up by then to carry it through to the week between Christmas and the New year, when it again rises to an even higher peak of conviviality.

A few days before the New Year and New Year's Day, we go about wishing people we have never met, "A Happy New Year." The climax to this jubilance is reached New Year's Eve when we not only wish total strangers the season's greetings, but given half a chance kiss any other celebrant, who is seeing the New Year in and the old one out with us.

DOES THE FACT that we exchange gifts at this time of year, cause us to be so gay, so buoyant, so genial, or is it that giving and making others happy is the reason?

Of course, we cannot be expected to exchange gifts all year in order to diffuse this amiable atmosphere.

However, it is within our power to distribute a gift of immeasurable value perennially, which, while it costs us nothing, is not purchasable at any price.

This wonderful gift is consideration. Consideration for man's dignity. Consideration for his point of view. The need for emphasizing the good and minimizing the bad in people. Showing not only tolerance but respect for other's ideas in the family circle, between friends, acquaintances, as well as the differences that exist between nations and races.

TO DO THIS, we must teach our children, by setting the right example, the pure joy to be gained from giving, without the expected recompense of receiving. We will also have to show our children, by example, that the Christmas season is not the only time to share with others, but that we should be aware of the material as well as the spiritual needs of other peoples throughout the year and throughout the world.

Were we to capture the Christmas and New Year spirit and retain it all year, then the Prince of Peace would indeed walk the earth again.

Youth Hosteling Is Booming

Youth hosteling has grown to massive proportions in West Germany, where 8 million overnight guests were registered in 1959. The German Tourist Office reports that 500,000 overnights were booked by foreign visitors. The U.S.A. ranked fifth among nations sending youths to German hostels during the 1959-60 season, according to figures of the German Youth Hostels Association.

By the end of 1959, West Germany had 719 youth hostels with 75,183 beds. Most popular area was the Rhine. Greatest traffic last season was noted in Cologne, followed by Bonn, Bad Godesberg and Bad Honnef.

Mutton Birds of Phillip Island

By Adelaide K. Roselein

"WHEN THE mutton birds return to Phillip Island . . . te-da . . . de-dum . . ."

Hardly the lyric phrase to fit a popular song, such as the bard's version of the swallows that return to Capistrano—but the mutton birds are pretty consistent fellows about their return date and hour, nonetheless. Phillip Islanders expect them at 8 p.m. November 23 annually.

The mutton birds are the slender-billed shearwaters that breed on all the small islands south of Australia. For nests they dig holes and burrows in the sandy grass-grown knolls, or they use any burrow they find unoccupied. They are seabirds and spend most of their days at sea, returning only at night to care for their young. For the babies receive only one meal in 24 hours — an oil poured into their throats by their parents. The little ones thrive on it because every year, about 400,000 fat baby birds are harvested for food.

Like the swallows of Capistrano, the mutton birds of Phillip Island stage an annual November rendezvous.

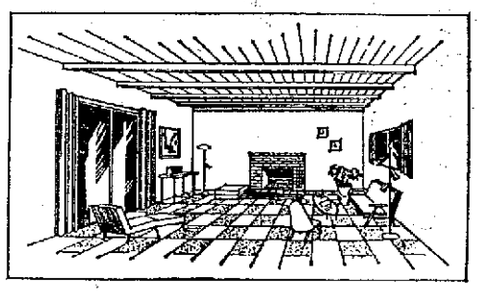

THE BIRDS stage an intriguing show when they return from their annual flight from their home island.

At 8 o'clock they begin to arrive—a bird or two at a time. Soon they come by tens, twenties and then by hundreds and thousands. The sky becomes black with them and they are discordantly noisy as they wheel and circle, dart here and there, and then circle some more in constantly narrowing swoops until a flickering wing and a rather sudden application of the brakes indicates a desire to land. And, sure enough, on the next circle a bird will alight like a snowflake at the very mouth of a burrow. This is to be his home until some time in April—that is, if he's made a wise choice, he's lucky and everything goes well. If not, an angry squawk and a scream of triumph from a more successful rival who had arrived first might indicate that he is being rather unceremoniously evicted. A second later he hastily emerges from the burrow and then he must start hunting for another.

By 8:30 p.m. the ground is black with birds and Phillip Island is a very busy place. New arrivals are running about noisily-inspecting and rejecting burrows, visiting, fighting and courting. All the confusion seems to be one big surge of movement as each individual buried in this big mass of excited birds seeks to find his nesting spot, for he isn't about to dig a burrow if he can help it. The show is fascinating to watch, but is anything but musical.

GRADUALLY darkness settles and near-quiet returns. Still a few birds unlucky enough not to find a burrow, or that have been evicted from the ones they thought they had found walk awkwardly about muttering their resentment against a cruel world. Here and there a lucky householder may stand at the door of the burrow and utter an unmusical proclamation of ownership.

The big show is over now and quiet will rule until the next evening when the colony returns from a day at sea. But the mutton birds have kept their November rendezvous, faithful to the strange tradition that brings them back each year.

CALIFORNIA YESTERDAYS

First Mail to Avalon

Catalina's first postmaster, Harry Elms holds a photo of modern Avalon, a far cry from his islander years.

By Vera Williams

HARRY M. A. ELMS, who on New Year's Eve will be 95 years old, was Santa Catalina Island's first postmaster.

He tells the story, in his English accent, as he sits under a wide-spreading apricot tree in the yard at the Mission Bell guest home for elderly people, at 1310 E. Plymouth St.

"Catalina's first post office was in my shell store on the beach in Avalon," he recalls. "It was established July 27, 1889. I had it until Feb. 20, 1892.

"The first two years I didn't get paid—I handled the mail as an accommodation to the island folks.

"After that, I was paid on the basis of stamp cancellations."

MAIL WAS CARRIED to and from the island, twice a week, on the sailship Ida, also as an accommodation. When the sea was rough and the Ida could not land, papers and mail were put in a barrel which was sealed, and then thrown overboard.

Boys diving for coins towed the mail barrel to the beach, and carried it to the shell store post office.

In those days, according to Municipal Judge Ernest Windle, author of Windel's "History of Catalina," the island had 150 residents, practically all of them living in Avalon. A few lived on the Middle Ranch, and a few on scattered farms. Fishing was the island's main business.

IN THOSE DAYS, too, the island was owned by George R. Shatto, who bought it for $200,000 in 1887 from the James Lick (Observatory) Estate of San Francisco and an English mining syndicate. In 1892, Shatto sold the island for $300,000 to the Banning Brothers — Captain William, Joseph and Hancock. They held it until 1919 when they sold to William Wrigley Jr., chewing gum magnate, for $5 million.

Herbert A. Wegmann, Avalon's 11th postmaster, has served since 1938.

Elms, who was born in London, came to California in 1875. The family lived on a 15-acre ranch near the approach to the San Fernando Valley. They raised apples, peaches, cherries, and Elms remembers peddling milk, butter and eggs.

He mined in Goldfield, Nev., in its rush and he mined on the California desert. He was a friend of Death Valley Scotty.

Until recently, Elms danced five nights a week. He has taught, he says, dozens of women to dance the polka, but he prefers the rhumba and the samba.

Saguaro Saga

The giant saguaro cactus found around Phoenix, Ariz., stands some 30 to 40 feet high when it is full grown at an age of 150 to 200 years. But at the age of 15 or 20, the giant-to-be is only about one foot high.

Some Intimate Oddities of Africa

"I HAVE to winter abroad," says English author Evelyn Waugh, and at the start of 1959 he sent out from chilly London for Genoa, Port Said, Tanganyika and the Rhodesias, Cape Town and then Southampton and home just in time for spring.

"TOURIST IN AFRICA" (Little, Brown, $3.75) is his record of people from Stanley to contemporary native leaders, and there are cutting reflections on the gifts bestowed by whites on blacks, the "pacification" by Europeans of Africa, and race prejudice.

But mostly this rounds up an infinite number of intimate oddities—women cook mealies, officials wear open skirts, shorts and monocles, the plumber stays to dinner, the elephant twitches its ear menacingly at the autoists, signs urge modest dress instead of Bikinis on the European ladies who a generation before covered black nakedness with Mother Hubbards.

It's the informality of this account that will charm you most. If credits are given for the 19 photos, this reviewer missed them. The photographer could have been too ashamed to admit he took them!

"Now here's my plan."

Shel Silverstein, who has been called an inspired fiend as a pen-and-ink artist, includes all of us without excluding himself in "NOW HERE'S MY PLAN" (Simon and Schuster, $1.50 paper), a book of futilities. The scores of cartoons in the book all carry the same message, and they range from the riotously funny to the macabre.

"THE WONDERS OF LIFE ON EARTH" by the editors of Life and Lincoln Barnett (Prentice-Hall, pre-Christmas, 9.95; after Christmas, $12.50): One of the most extraordinary books of the season, this splendidly produced oversize volume investigates the changing and developing story of natural history through the combination of hundreds of full-color photographs, maps, charts, drawings and text. Illustrations and text originate from the research and writings of Charles Darwin, who first expounded his theories on evolution more than 100 years ago. The book moves from the Galapagos Islands, where Darwin found his first clues on evolution, to many remote spots on the earth for glimpses at seldom-seen animal life. In an epilogue, the theory of evolution is carefully weighed after presentation of the evidence in the text.

SAN FRANCISCO comes to life in two new books. One, which the publishers call a love poem in prose by Harold Gilliam and Phil Palmer, is "THE FACE OF SAN FRANCISCO" (Doubleday, $5.95). It contains literally scores of photographs, and end papers are maps of San Francisco and San Francisco County. The other, a small but artistic little volume called "SAN FRANCISCO: City at the Golden Gate" (Arts, Inc., $3.50) by Harold and Ann Gilliam, is a brief summation of what makes San Francisco one of the great cosmopolitan cities of the world. Its many full-color and black and white drawings depicting life in San Francisco are done by Fritz Busse, German artist whose work is rapidly gaining favor in this country.

"HORIZON" (Horizon, $3.95): The November issue of "A Magazine of the Arts" contains 12 superbly illustrated articles, one of which "The Artful Banker" by Peter Lyon recounts how the Chase Manhattan Bank board's vice chairman, David Rockefeller, with a budget of $510,700, parlayed his bank into the greatest corporate patron of arts. One of the new magazines between hard covers, Horizon's circulation has climbed to almost 200,000 and is still going up.

"FIRST MATE OF THE HENRY GLASS" by Capt. Robert A. Hill (Vantage, $3.50): A novel of life aboard a Liberty ship during World War II, with rousing action. The author, a first mate aboard such a vessel during the war, is a Californian.

WORLD OF SCIENCE: Two absorbing books relating to science, but with divergent subject matter are "SCIENCE PONDERS RELIGION" (Appleton - Century - Crofts, $5) edited by Harlow Shapley; and "GROWING UP WITH SCIENCE" (McGraw-Hill, $4.50) by Marianne Besser. In the first, a group of eminent scientists examine a problem which has puzzled and enthralled mankind. The second aims to assist parents in developing their children's natural curiosity, imagination and understanding of the world in which they live.

"THE DEEP TREASURE: Tales of the Oil Fields" by J. C. Williamson (Crown, $3.50): With names changed and locations altered, this collection of short stories deals with people and situations that have arisen during the last 20 years in the oil fields of West Texas, but they could happen in any oil field. Mr. Williamson is a long-time oil worker in West Texas.

"SPANISH ADVENTURE TRAILS" by Lowell C. Ballard and Frank L. Beals (The Naylor Co., San Antonio, Texas, $4.95): Historic accounts of seven explorers and one missionary priest — Father Junipero Serra—who blazed trails from Mexico to California through all kinds of hardships. The first is Columbus; following are Cortez, Cabeza de Vaca, Coronado, Cabrillo, de Portola and de Anza.

"THE UNTRIED CASE: The Sacco-Vanzetti Case and the Morelli Gang" by Herbert B. Ehrmann; foreword by Joseph N. Welch; introduction by Prof. Edmund M. Morgan (Vanguard, $3.95): If Sacco and Vanzetti were innocent of the murders for which they were executed, then who was guilty? The author, a lawyer who investigated the Madeiros confession in the case, gives what he believes to be the answer in this book which reads like a whodunit.

CHECK THESE paperback originals (first time published in book form) for reading enjoyment:

"STORE OF INFINITY" by Robert Sheckley (Bantam, 35c): Eight stories of possible future life, calculated to strain, sprain, or maybe even snap the most agile imagination, like: when television programs are real live dramas—with real killers and real victims!

"THE DANISH RESISTANCE" by David Lampe (Ballantine, 50c): A history of five years of secret warfare against the Nazi occupation.

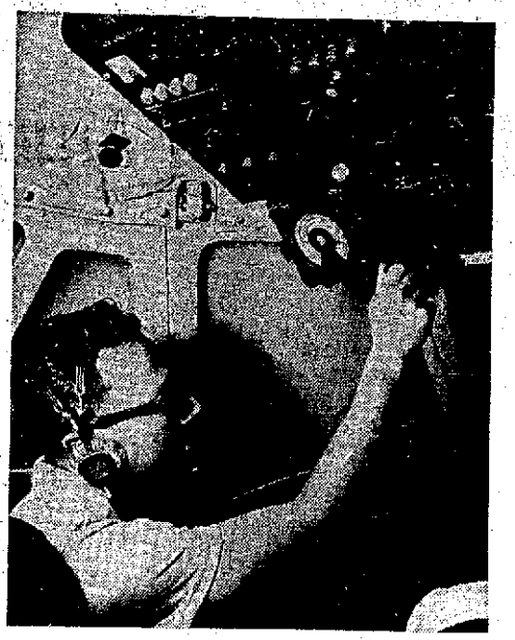

"LAST SCOUT" by Wade Everett (Ballantine, 35c): Riding shotgun on the stage, and guarding gold shipments, was not his only problem. There was his grandpa . . .

"THE DOLL MAKER" by Sarban (Ballantine, 35c): A tale of terror, of a girl caught in the fascination of willing slavery of an egomaniac practicing unknown horrors.

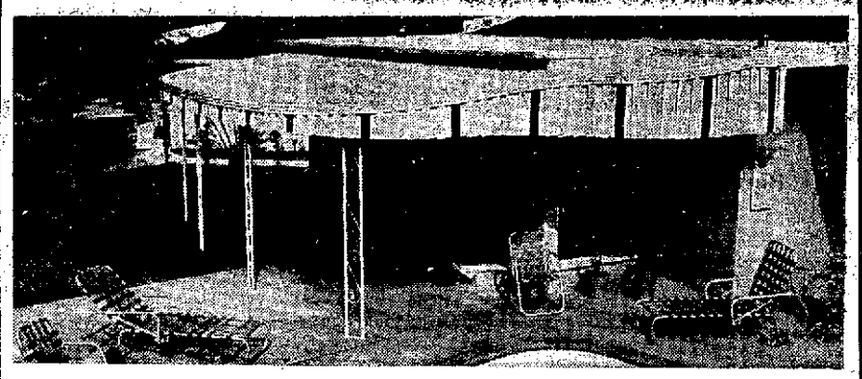

"FOLK SPRING JAMBOREE" by Josef and Miranda Marais (Ballantine, 50c): Songs from many lands with full words and music and with arrangements especially for guitar arrangement.

"THE COMFORTABLE COFFIN" by Richard S. Prather (Gold Medal, 35c): A collection of 15 weird, wicked and witty stories from America's leading mystery writers.

AIR SAFETY IS THE SUBJECT of "THE PROBABLE CAUSE" (Doubleday, $3.95), a new book by Robert J. Serling (above), which tells why airliners crash and what is being done to make flying safer. Mr. Serling's love for aviation leads him to treat the problem seriously, though he feels "the real story of U. S. commercial aviation is not one of disaster but of fantastic accomplishments toward greater safety." He lists in detail the major projects under way to make aviation safer and frankly criticizes what he terms "legislative failure" for many of aviation's past mistakes. He is manager of UPI Radio News Bureau in Washington and winner of two TWA Aviation News Reporting Awards.

Tips for Buying Pups

By Eleanor Avery Price

IF YOU PLAN to buy a puppy sometime between now and Christmas, here are some suggestions that may save you trouble and heartbreak.

A pure bred puppy costs between $50 and $150, with some exceptions, since prices vary with the breeds as well as with quality. If the price is very low, proceed with caution, as there may be something wrong with the puppy, and extra trips to a veterinarian can become costly. Don't quibble over the price, however, if you know the breeder is reliable. He has a lot of money wrapped up in each puppy he sells.

Look the puppy's surroundings over carefully. They should be sanitary, and the puppy should not be infested with parasites and skin ailments. Ears should be smooth and firm. Eyes must be clean and bright, and there should be no discharge from them or the nose. The teeth should be white, and the puppy have the correct bite according to its AKC standard by eight weeks. Insist upon knowing if the puppy has had any preventative "shots" and if it has been wormed.

A GOOD BREEDER will gladly give you all the medical details in writing as well as a written statement that the puppy is returnable if, after an immediate check-up with your veterinarian, it is found ailing. It is a good idea to have the puppy's temperature taken before you buy the pet. Anything over 102 degrees spells trouble.

Don't consider a shy, cringing or listless puppy. Test his steadiness by dropping a tin pie plate on concrete behind him. This will also test his hearing, but since he might feel some vibrations, it is better to snap your fingers behind him to learn if he can hear well. Always ask to see the puppy's sire and dam, if possible. If they are over 2 years of age and have good temperaments, chances are the puppy will too.

Insist upon a signed pedigree and a breeder-signed

'Secrets' Exposed

By Irving Desfor

ONE OF THE shortest kept secrets of the 1960 Photokina at Cologne, Germany, involved two of the newest Agfa cameras.

They were shown secretly to some dealers to prepare them for the future—but not to photo writers.

Within a day or two, however, whispers were heard everywhere: "Have you seen the new Agfa movie camera and the automatic motorized miniature?"

When I asked company representatives about these rumors, they uncovered the hidden cameras. Delayed "surprise" or not, the cameras make news because they are a step ahead in certain features.

THE 8-MM MOVEX Reflex is the first home movie camera with a magazine or cassette in which regular roll film can be preloaded. Then, after shooting the first 25 feet, the cassette is simply turned over to side number two and filming is immediately continued.

This rollfilm-magazine feature is unique but the camera's other qualities are important.

It is a fully automatic electric-eye camera with an f/1.8 Schneider Variogen zoom lens which ranges from 7.5 to 37.5 mm in focal length, a ratio of 1 to 5. It focuses through the universal reflex viewfinder in full size image from 4 feet to infinity. Screw-in supplementary lenses bring accurate focusing down to 20 inches.

When the zoom lens is removed from its bayonet mount, a basic 13mm f/1.8 lens remains in the camera.

The camera has five filming speeds (8, 16, 24, 32, 48 frames per second) and a single shot release. Once the filming speed and the type of film being used is set (ASA 10 to 500), the release button sets off correctly exposed filming or warns that the light is inadequate.

A further unusual feature of the camera is the long-run hand wind. One winding is enough to run off 25 feet or more than twice the usual run.

TURNING TO Agfa's 35mm Optima Electric camera, we find in addition to the automatic picture-taking features found on most new electric-eye models, this has automatic motorized transport of the film plus cocking of the shutter.

The power is supplied by two penlight batteries. Pressure on the release button snaps one picture or, if maintained, a second, third, fourth, etc., until the entire roll of film is finished, if wanted.

The camera has a 45mm f/2.8 lens and offers the photographer a choice of three settings after which the automatic mechanism takes over completely. The camera can be set on a blue, black or yellow mark.

The blue is for all normal subject matter. The electric eye scans the scene and selects speeds from 1/80 to 1/200, along with the correctly coupled lens aperture.

IN POOR LIGHT or for extreme sharpness, the camera would be set on the black mark. Here, the electric eye selects slower exposure speeds from 1/30 to 1/80 with the correct lens opening.

For action shots, the yellow mark is used. Here automatic selection of speeds from 1/200 to 1/500 would be made according to the light. If the light is insufficient, a red flag appears in the viewfinder. Then the photographer may shift to the blue or black fields.

These two cameras were not expected to reach the United States for six or seven months or more.

Noted U. S. photographer Weegee experiments with kaleidoscopic unit over lens, shooting model with camera at German exhibit where he had caricatures display.

pulled together. The right side is rolled toward the center and stitched at the bottom. This is wrapped with wire, the stem wires inserted and the two wrapped with floral tape.

Many different arrangements may be made, completing either a single upright, or a double corsage, which will be found to be attractive, durable and eye-catching.

DISTINCTIVE CUSTOM DRAPERIES
Over 800 Rossmoor homeowners have Willbanks Draperies in their homes . . . There is more than one reason why all of these people have selected us to do the drapery jobs in their lovely new homes. Price, of course, is a major consideration . . . With the largest shop, best equipment and largest stock of mill fabrics our bids are consistently lower than smaller competitors . . . But price alone doesn't make a good looking window. In Rossmoor as well as all over Long Beach . . . one woman has sold another. The quality of our work, the after-the-sale service, the lower price and better selection has made Willbanks the largest Drapery factory in this entire area.

GOING PLACES —
—with the Sloanes

POSSIBLY no place comes closer to fulfilling the tourist's classic image of unspoiled, primitive, rural Europe than the Portuguese countryside.

The roads are still plied by grizzled farmers in stocking caps leading burros loaded down with straw; teams of oxen hauling giant piles of wood; old ladies swathed in the black shawls of eternal Latin mourning; cowboys bestride Iberian horses and costumed in tight pants and flat back Zorro hats.

Pumpkin and squash ripen on the roofs and walls of crumbling adobe farmhouses. In valleys beneath grim gray Moorish fortresses, women pound clothes in the streams and spread them to dry on bristly fields. Kite-like windmills with cloth blades turn steadily in an imperceptible breeze, lone and untended, seemingly abandoned. Along the coast, pools of sea water evaporate, making salt in a manner dating to a time out of mind.

IN VILLA FRANCA, virtually a suburb of Lisbon, a running of bulls not unlike Pamplona's takes place. It's called, in translation, the "Red Vest" Festival, not after the color of the chests of the gored, but after that of the cowboy's traditional costume.

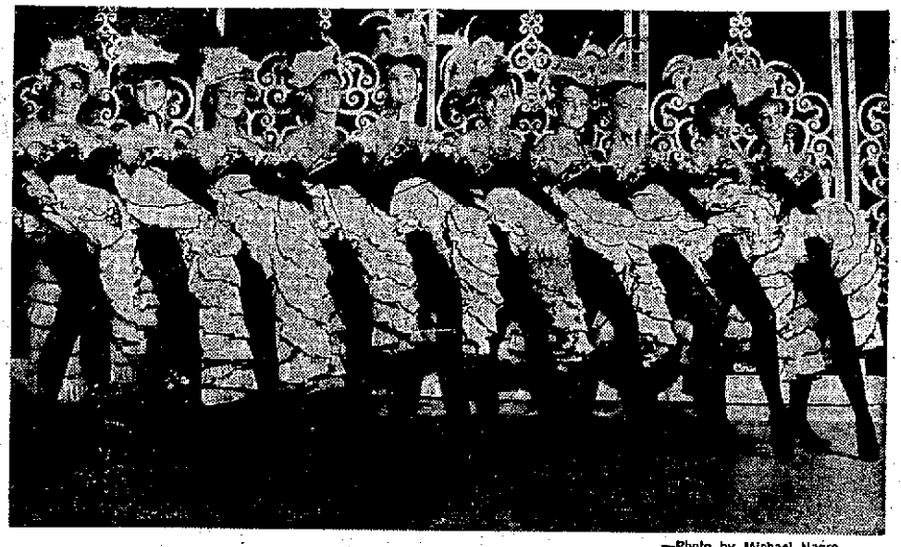

A little further to the north, along a logical tourist's route, lies Caldhas da Rainha—the Queen's spa of a bygone royalist era—where, in common with most Portuguese villages, Monday is market day.

Portugal is no larger than Indiana, but in that area it encompasses a dreamlike assortment of landscapes.

THERE ARE MOUNTAINS and there are plains. Cactus grows, and so do towering eucalyptus and forests of fern and bougainvillaea; squat Italian pines and great tropical palms; moors of purple Scottish heather and groves of olive and fig trees; rice paddies and wheat fields; vineyards and stands of cedar; cork trees that "blush" crimson when they are stripped.

You can hear "fado" singing—the plaintive, melodious blues of Portugal—in Lisbon night clubs that are quickly discovered by Ed Sullivan. But only in Coimbra are you likely to plumb the depths to which fado touches the Portuguese soul.

Shirley and Bob Sloane will be happy to help readers with their travel problems. Address them in care of Southland Magazine, Independent, Press-Telegram, 6th and Pine, Long Beach 12, Calif.

AROUND THE WORLD WITH DELAPLANE

"I will be in Europe on business but have a short time in December for myself. What about hunting?"

SPAIN IS the great hunting country — from ducks to ibex. They say more than 100 ducks and geese have been shot by one gun in one day at Lake Albufera near Valencia. Duck hunting in the south is supposed to be great, too — near Seville on the river.

Your contact on this is the Spanish National Tourist Office, 485 Madison Ave., New York City. Or the main offices in Madrid across from the Palace Hotel: Duque de Medinaceli, 2.

If you can get hold of Max Borrell in that office, he is the hunting expert—the man who accompanies Franco on his hunting trips.

"... a cheap way to do the winter sports in Europe?"

Several airlines make a specialty of this—SAS, TWA, Pan American, SWISSAIR, Lufthansa, Air France. The 15-day excursion fare on economy class is so low during these winter months you can hardly afford to stay home.

The airlines usually have an all-expense tour. And you can ask any travel agent about special ski tours.

Since air fares are low and ski countries are inexpensive, there are all sorts of attractive packages. Roughly, $400 to $500 round-trip New York.

"What about the gambling in France and Europe?"

YOU CAN BET the bangtails at Auteuil, Chantilly, Longchamp, St. Cloud and Vincennes near Paris. Deauville casinos (and a number of smaller casinos along the Normandy coast) are open during the summer. Same with Cannes and Nice in the south. Monaco, of course. Then there are several in Germany. And the big casino at Estoril outside Lisbon.

THE EASY WAY: Here's a tip from a Brazilian banker—"In carrying Brazilian bills, fold them so that the backs are up. Pay from the back side of the bill, not the front. The front of the bills is always the same color — from one cruzeiro to 1,000. But the backs are different colors. Watch the backs and you won't make mistakes."

Jets Open S. American World to Vacationists

By Fred Taylor Kraft
Independent-Press-Telegram Travel Editor

THE BIG intercontinental jets are about to open a new and beautiful world for travelers, an entire continent of 10 fascinating countries whose area totals two-thirds of all of North America.

This is South America, a world of 131 million exciting people of flamboyant tastes, a world of beautiful modern cities, great mountains and rivers, and unexplored jungles. The entire continent is preparing feverishly for the coming deluge of visitors, just as the big airlines are multiplying their facilities and inducements to get vacationers there.

In other words, what the big jets have done to revolutionize travel to Europe they seem destined to do for South America—and soon!

The airlines—notably Pan Am, Panagra, Braniff, Avianca, Varig, Aerolineas Argentinas and Real—who have seen their tourist business double since inaugurating South American service, are extending existing services, adding more flights, and reducing fares.

The advent of the jets has made its mark on Latin airport facilities. A year ago only Buenos Aires, Caracas, Asuncion and Paramaribo had strips that could accommodate jets. Today there are five more—in Rio de Janeiro, Brasilia, Sao Paulo, Bogota and Lima-Callao—and more are in the works.

Furthermore, a survey just completed by American Express shows that anticipation of jet travel has triggered an extensive program of hotel building and modernization throughout South America. Among new de luxe hotels recently opened are Hotel Quito (250 rooms), Ecuador's first plush hostelry for vacationers; Hotel Iguassu on the Argentine side of Iguassu Falls (100 rooms), and Lima's Riviera Hotel (200 rooms). Early 1961 will see completion of extensive facilities in Lima, Rio, Bogota and Caracas.

Even Conrad Hilton is getting into the act. Hilton International has signed contracts for hotels in Brasilia and Bogota, to be completed in 1962 and 1963.

Pan American World Airways Photo

DYNAMIC CONTRAST between this image of the thunder god and the serenity and repose of the figures of Buddha illustrates the many physical contrasts of Japan itself, factors that fascinate the tourist. Japan is now but a few hours away from the U.S. by air.

PROSPECT of a 35 per cent reduction in tourist fares will be a tremendous incentive for North Americans to fly south to these once hard-to-reach vacation spots. When the reductions, proposed at last month's International Air Transport Assn. conference, become effective through approval by the governments involved, the New York-Buenos Aires tourist fare, for example, will drop from $934 to $599 for the 10,600-mile round trip.

Take a good look at the crystal ball. It may show a trip to South America for you—even as early as 1961!

FOR THOSE WHO now think of winter travel as "fashionable," American President Lines offers a 10 per cent reduction in price for economy class passengers sailing from Long Beach-Los Angeles Harbor—aboard the President Wilson on Dec. 8 or the President Cleveland on Dec. 30—for the Far East.

By taking advantage of such an off-season offer, it is well to point out that a traveler can do most of the things he wants to do with a minimum of traveling effort, in surprisingly little time, at surprisingly little cost. The reasons are simple enough: besides the reduction in steamer fare, hotels everywhere have off-season rates, so accommodations generally are choice in the best hotels, and all conditions are pleasant and uncrowded.

In case you're wondering, APL's round-trip fares to Yokohama begin at $531, to Manila and Hong Kong, $603. The itinerary includes calls at Hawaii, Japan, the Philippines and Hong Kong.

ABOUT 500 reasons for visiting Europe now through May are listed in a booklet, "Major Events in Europe," available without cost from the European Travel Commission (Box 2866, Dept. K, New York 17). If you wish to know when high-spirited folk festivals take place in ancient walled towns, this book gives the answer.

They Speed Up Flower Arrival

By Joe Littlefield

BEDDING PLANT growers can save gardeners a month to five weeks of babying tender seedlings—protecting them from snails, slugs and other bugs.

Well-started young seedling annuals, biennials and perennials are available in nurseries and make it possible for gardeners to have flowers quicker.

You can plant out snapdragons, stocks, calendula, delphinium, iceland poppy, pansies, violas, cinerarias, primroses, forget-me-nots, English daisies—all of these from flats or pony packs, ready to take off and start to grow for you.

Sweet pea seeds are generally grown in individual containers because of their heavy root system. It is a handy way to grow sweet peas if you've had poor luck growing them from seeds and having some of them rot off.

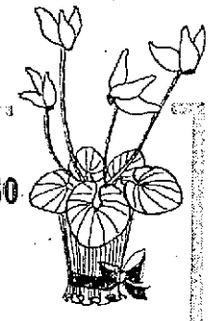

OF ALL THE plants mentioned, stocks perhaps are a little finicky. It is best to get the smallest plants possible where they haven't started growing robustly in the nursery container. They don't like to be kept damp all the time, or in a heavy damp soil. Work organic matter into a heavy soil to make it looser. It is better to plant stocks in a flower bed area, where lawn sprinkler head won't wet the stock planting area each time the lawn is watered.

Winter aphids are more damaging to certain annuals, than are the spring aphids, because the winter aphids are smaller, hardy to cold, and frequently more difficult to detect. One of the reasons why stocks grow in stunted forms and produce short stemmed small flowers is because of aphids. As soon as you notice a few aphids, spray with garden spray to head off more future aphids.

Cinerarias are one of the variety of bedding plants ready to take off and grow.

They're Discovering the Secrets of the Deep

THE PLANKTON, microscopic plant and animal life, constitute the chief item of diet for all forms of sea life. Marine animals either eat it themselves or devour other animals which live on it. A single quart of sea water holds hundreds of thousands of plankton organisms. Those animals which cannot go in search of their food eat nothing but plankton. The clam, for instance, has no mouth but siphons water through its body and devours the plankton it contains. Sponges and sea squirts live entirely on a plankton diet. In the future, humans may enjoy "plankton-burgers."

The ocean supports huge quantities of plant life. Some scientists believe there is enough animal and vegetable matter in the oceans of the world to support a far greater population than now exists on the earth. As yet this vast food potential has barely been tapped. Indeed, man now takes only about 1 per cent of what he eats from the sea. There are, for instance, at least 70 types of edible seaweed. Kelp, one of the most abundant, is eaten by Orientals. It can also be processed into paper pulp, insulation material and fertilizer.

DESPITE THE great food and material potential of the world's oceans, vast areas of the sea are as barren as a land desert and essentially devoid of organic content. This was revealed in a recent report of a Scripps Institution, La Jolla, deepsea research expedition. In these desert areas, then, only minerals and chemicals assume importance, along with those of the rest of the salt water realm.

THERE IS enough mineral and chemical wealth in the ocean to make every person on earth a billionaire! The Dow Chemical Co. estimates that each cubic mile of sea water contains 175 million tons of dissolved chemicals worth five billion dollars. And there are some 320 billion cubic miles of ocean water!

A cubic mile of sea water holds suspended gold particles worth 93 million dollars and silver particles worth eight million dollars—but to extract this fabulous fortune by present processes would cost even more. There are also vast oil fields beneath the ocean. These riches will be available when man devises economical methods to salvage them.

OCEANOGRAPHERS and industrial researchers, however, do recover many valuable chemicals and useful substances. Industry uses millions of gallons of body oil from fish for dozens of purposes. It's an ingredient of paints, varnishes, lacquers and furniture finishes. And because it has good non-drying qualities, the leather trade employs it for "stuffing," a process that keeps leather soft and supple.

Dolphins and porpoises carry the world's finest oil in their headbones. It is used by watchmakers, and no other oil has yet been discovered to take its place. But there are also coarse oils in fish which find their way into heavy industrial greases. Still other fish oils have a place in the making of soap, linoleum, oilcloth, printing ink, coated fabric, and a long list of useful products, including substitutes for butter and shortening.

A new remedy for high blood pressure, which has proved successful in the laboratory, comes from substances contained in both fish livers and body oils. Cigarette cases, belts, billfolds, handbags and shoes are made from the skins of tough fish, like sharks. In fact, the products of American and Canadian fisheries are worth hundreds of millions of dollars each year.

POSSIBLY there is more salt in the sea than any other substance—a pound of it in every four gallons of water, or enough in all the oceans to cover the entire earth with a layer 112-feet thick. Commercial companies extract salt from sea water.

Oceanography has only recently been recognized as an important branch of knowledge. Roughly, only one in every thousand of the world's scientists pursue this work. Yet the field is wide and offers unlimited opportunities for productive research.

Almost daily, oceanographers and scientists are discovering fascinating new secrets of King Neptune's realm. These findings and those to be made in the future will do much to improve man's life on earth.

By Dorothy Jonson

Pyracanthas add much red and orange beauty to our fall gardens.

Their chief enemy is woolly aphis. This appears as a cottony substance in the crotches of the branches and around the roots at the surface of the soil. In short, there are two armies . . . the aerial regiments on the plant and the underground divisions on the roots. Therefore, when you spray the plant (and a smooth oil emulsion containing nicotine is an excellent material to use) you should also treat the soil at the root-growing area with a safe oil disinfectant. An ether product containing copper is excellent for the purpose. Unless you take these double measures of protection, you will often find reinfestation occurring within a few days of either spraying the plant or treating the soil.

Wood ashes from your fireplace, scattered around the plants occasionally, assist in the control of these subterranean enemies.

Get Ready for Winter Rains

Downspouts should empty on areas where the runoff is sufficient to carry excess rainwater away from house.

By Bob Gilmore

THIS IS THE time to plan what to do with the winter rains. Actually there are two problems: the first is concerned with directing the water to where it will do the most good . . . down to the root zone; the second problem has to do with removing surplus water from your property to prevent damage to either the garden or house.

Increasing soil porosity provides for maximum drainage down into the root zone. Ground that lacks porosity prevents the desired seepage of water into the soil. In such cases rainfall will puddle or run off the surface. As a result the plant roots are unable to absorb sufficient moisture.

You can improve soil porosity, especially in clay-like areas, by adding peat or other forms of humus. This additive separates the soil particles which in heavy ground cling together so tenaciously that movement of moisture is delayed. In addition, liquid wetting agents are now available which may be sprayed on the surface and which open up tight soils.

CATCH BASINS surrounding tree trunks should be kept free of vegetation. These basins collect water and by preventing run-off insure the proper seepage down to the roots. Should these depressions fill up with grass runners, weeds or debris . . . thus raising the basin level to the surface . . . rain will run off and not be caught in the catch basin.

To insure quick removal of excess rain it is necessary to provide the proper grade. The surface must slope downwards from the house; unless this is accomplished superfluous water may drain under the foundation where damage can occur. During heavy rains it is not uncommon for several inches of water to accumulate in a basement.

It is easy to correct the slope of the land. Place a straight and level board on the surface with one end at the foundation and the other end pointing in the direction the water should flow. Set a carpenter's level on top of the board. If the soil is low near the foundation then build up this section with top soil.

MAKE CERTAIN that downspouts empty on a surface that will guarantee immediate run-off. If the water from downspouts empties in your garden then seepage under the house might result. In such cases attach an extension to the downspouts to carry the excess water away from the building.

This is also a good time to clean out the metal drains on the roof that carry the rain to the downspouts. These channels frequently clog up due to dust and dirt settling in the channels. A whisk broom will prove ideal for cleaning out all debris in the line of flow.

Tips on Gardening

GARDENING TIPS for the week . . . Ranunculus corms should be soaked in water for several hours prior to planting. This treatment causes the corms to swell and encourages more rapid sprouting.

Oleanders may suffer from a yellowing of the leaves and this condition is often due to excessive moisture. Make certain that before planting oleanders sufficient drainage material is added below the root zone.

Ant control is a definite part of your pest control program. Do not place ant poison cups inside your premises. These cups contain a lure that attracts ants; the idea is to keep these pests outside your home; place the cups along the foundation at intervals of seven or eight feet but away from where children and pets can get at them. Sprays are also effective.

Mulching the soil with peat will tend to keep the root zone moist, lower the soil temperature, reduce evaporation and keep surface roots from drying out.

DON'T LET A whimisical face in a store window be your only guide to buying a puppy. The good pet shop will be clean, and the manager will gladly give information and provide pedigree and registration slip if they are available.

Think carefully about the size of the dog when it is grown. Big dogs need lots of leg room. Long haired dogs require more care and may shed profusely at times. You'll overlook these if long hairs are your dogs.

When purchasing a puppy, you are buying love, loyalty, and a lot of other fine qualities. Give the puppy a good home with a fenced yard. Do not permit small children to maul it or lift it by the legs or tail. Not every small child is ready for a puppy. Be certain yours is.

CHARLEY GOTT
They Eat With Him

WHY DO THEY call it Eat With Charley's?

Well, that's not such a puzzler. For many years this restaurant at 1625 Cabrillo St., near Carson St., Torrance, was known as Daniels', the name of a previous owner.

But its present owner, friendly Charley Gott, (who took over in 1944), his partner Wayne Davis, and their hosts of patrons rarely used the name Daniels' in referring to it. Instead almost everyone got into the habit of saying: "Hey, let's go over and eat with Charley" or "Have you had dinner lately with Charley?"

Four years ago they changed the name to Eat With Charley. And since then the restaurant has become known far and wide for the outstanding quality of its prime rib chuck wagon dinners. A large dining room designed in a western motif has been set aside for the chuck wagon, which is served from 1 to 9 p.m. Sundays and from 5 p.m. on daily.

Charley's $2.15 chuck wagon undoubtedly is one of the most generous in the Long Beach-Torrance area. Guests help themselves to heaping platefuls of the following appetizers and salads, arranged tastefully on an iced table: spiced apples, macaroni salad, green salad, pickled beets, olives, marinated green beans, jello, pineapple, slaw, tomatoes, baked beans and many other similar items. The entrees include delectably juicy, tender roast prime rib of beef, chicken or a third "surprise" item. These are accompanied by mashed potatoes, light hot rolls, beverage and dessert. After the guests serve themselves at the counters, skilled waitresses take over to complete the serving of the meal.

Charley's which has a coffee shop and a cocktail lounge as well as the dining room, is open daily from 6 a.m. to 2 a.m. The coffee shop serves breakfast, lunch and complete dinners.

TWO CARTOONISTS CLAIM

Television Creates Smarter Children

By BERT RESNIK
TV and Radio Editor

Television is creating a new species of children, claim two men in the cartoon business.

Jay Ward and Bill Scott, the claimants, are producers of the popular "Rocky and His Friends" series aired Thursdays and Sundays at 5:30 p.m. on channel 7.

"We think children are pretty sharp," said Ward. "We write up to them—not down."

His professional pen-mate agreed.

"None of our people try to write what might be labeled a children's show," Scott said. "Everyone just writes as funny as they know how."

* * * *

CHILDREN, since the major advent of television in 1946, are as different from their predecessors as the youngsters who listened to the radio contrasted with those brought up on McDuffy's readers, according to Scott.

"Today's children are much smarter," he said. "They're more aware of what's going on in the world. Their ideas of humor are shaped by the adult world."

Both men foresee a bigger future for cartoons in adult time slots.

"There's a good reason for the prediction," said Ward. "It's simply that adults, too, like cartoons because they're funny.

"And an average cartoon is better than most of the shows on television today."

* * * *

THE LATTER POINT is proved, Ward contends, by the success of "The Flintstones," a cartoon series inked by competitors.

It's one of the few new time-slot series that has made any kind of impression in the rating wars.

And, in the opinions of both Ward and Scott, classifying "The Flintstones" as an "average" cartoon is stretching a point in the series' favor.

SELF-'PORTRAITS' OF JAY WARD, BILL SCOTT

Ward and Scott have a night-slot entry coming up next month called "The Green Hopper."

It stars a frog who, in one episode, discovers brook water that will grow hair on a rock. (There aren't any billiard balls around.) Women with cloth coats use it to make their garments "instant mink."

A millionaire, who heads a toupee firm, sets out to ruin the frog.

* * * *

NOT COMING up next month is what Jay Ward Productions, Inc.—the official name for the cartooning firm—believes is their best product, "Watts Gnu."

It combines puppetry, animation, film clips and live action. Peddling the package has been a problem.

"It just doesn't fit a category," said Ward. "We've shown it to audiences of network officials and they fall on the floor laughing.

"When it's all over, they say, 'Great, but what will we do with it?'

"They can't describe it to a client as a puppet show, as a cartoon series, as a situation comedy, a western or a private eye.

"They don't have the courage or initiative to try and get it across any other way."

Scott interrupted.

"Network personnel," he said, "are cowards. The sponsore should buy time, not shows."

* * * *

THE CARTOONISTS have also run into trouble trying to sell the networks on cartoon specials for such holidays as Easter, Halloween and Christmas.

But the television success road hasn't always been rocky.

Their staff has amassed a total of 72 major awards for excellence in their specialties, including nine Oscars and seven coveted prizes from film festivals in Cannes, Venice and Edinburgh.

They have been responsible for the creation of "Crusader Rabbit," "Gerald McBoing-Boing" and another upcoming series called "Super-Chicken."

Basically, they're pioneers in a movement that started a revolution in the cartoon industry in 1947.

That movement incorporates four main points:

1. The prime ingredient of any cartoon is the writer, not the animator.

2. Cartoons can be made on a schedule for television.

3. Talking cartoon characters, as contrasted to the silent ones, are funnier.

4. Limited motion, in contrast to a conglomeration of activity, has more appeal.

The pioneers have pride in their craft.

"We are," said Scott, "the last of the handmade arts."

Sullivan Drops 'America'

Discontinuance of "See America with Ed Sullivan" programs resulted from added time needed to produce them, CBS reported.

The "America" segments had previously been scheduled as a monthly feature of "The Ed Sullivan Show."

Network officials said that the initial programs, produced in San Francisco and Chicago, met with "enthusiastic reception."

However, the added time needed to produce them could, if the schedule was continued, detract from the time needed for the regular weekly shows, network officials felt.

Rather than risk a lowering of quality in the regular shows, the "America" format was dropped.

'Macbeth' on TV's 'Hall of Fame'

Two of the world's most famed Shakespearian thespians will appear in the two-hour presentation of "Macbeth" in COLOR at 6 p.m. today (Sunday) on channel 4.

They are Maurice Evans and Judith Anderson. He portrays the Scottish chief and she is Lady Macbeth.

The production, a "Hallmark Hall of Fame" presentation, was filmed in Scotland.

The plot concerns Macbeth's maneuverings to become a king. With Lady Macbeth's encouragement, he commits murder.

'Holiday Playhouse' Debuts Tuesday

Eddie Hodges, 13, who had a starring role in "The Music Man," will be featured in "The Wonderful World of Little Julius" at 8 p.m. Tuesday on channel 11.

The play is the premiere program of the "Shulton Holiday Playhouse."

In movies, Eddie appeared with Frank Sinatra in "A Hole in the Head" and starred in "Huckleberry Finn."

The television play finds him hitchhiking across country to New York. He wants to surprise his father, who had left him with an aunt on the West Coast.

Appearing with the teenager will be Sam Levene and Gregory Ratoff. The plot concerns show business.

Succeeding half-hour plays will star Margaret O'Brien, Chuck Connors, Reed Hadley and Lloyd Nolan.

Belafonte on TV Tonight

HARRY BELAFONTE and members of the cast for his special rehearse a number at Birdland. The special, "Belafonte, New York 19," will be presented 10 p. m. today (Sunday) on channel 2.

By CYNTHIA LOWRY
Associated Press TV-Radio Writer

NEW YORK (AP)—Harry Belafonte's second TV show is on CBS' schedule for today (Sunday, channel 2 at 10 p. m.) and Belafonte is a man with a worry. He's out to top himself.

His first television special last season, "An Hour With Belafonte," won an emmy award, a Sylvania award, and an excellent audience response. This past success doesn't ease his mind.

"The Negro performer—me—perhaps does not have the privilege of making a mistake," he says. "Or perhaps I feel that I do not have it. Anybody can have bad days and turn in one or two bad performances because that is only human.

"Of course, nobody can expect perfection every time. Jackie Robinson was a magnificent athlete who turned in a consistently good performance, but nobody expected him to be perfect every game. That would place an inhuman burden on any human being."

BELAFONTE, A TALL, SLIM, soft-spoken and intensely earnest young man, has had a spectacular career as a singer of folk music. But his career is but one facet of his existence. He is passionately concerned with the status of his fellow Negroes, an interest that spills over to other minority groups.

His first TV special a year ago had a cast composed almost entirely of Negroes. His second is called "New York 19," named after a Manhattan postal district in which live many different peoples, many of them poor, many of them minorities, and many of them with alien customs and speaking foreign tongues. Their music and customs will be tonight's theme.

Belafonte is almost painfully aware that he is the first Negro to head up a really successful television show and one of a comparative handful of Negroes who have reached the highest rungs of the show business ladder.

"ABOUT NINE years ago, CBS did a variety show called 'Uptown Jubilee,'" he recalled. "And Nat 'King' Cole once had a good little musical program on a network—we all went on it and worked for practically nothing to keep it going. But it went off because the Madison Avenue agency people said they couldn't sell it. I don't believe it, but they say that network shows with Negroes are impossible to sell because it is injurious to the sponsor's product in some markets, particularly in the South."

In spite of this, Belafonte insists that he is heartened by the way new areas are opening up for Negroes in the theatrical field.

"Perhaps we Negroes have reduced our own opportunities for employment in show business because we don't want to be seen always in stereotype roles—the domestic servant, the clown who gets frightened when he sees a ghost, the lazy boob, or the janitor," he conceded.

"But I feel and many of us feel that the Negro would be better unemployed than merely used in these stereotyped parts. We feel that it would be better to have no 'image' at all of the Negro performer than one without dignity, without a purpose."

Belafonte observes that this stereotyped use of the Negro is gradually disappearing — "although it still pops out from time to time: just the other night there was a TV variety show sketch about an actress trailed by the Negro maid."

Boone Plans to Quit 'Have Gun'

By RON BURTON
United Press International

HOLLYWOOD (UPI)—The stage is set:

A highly successful television series with a top actor, fine writing and good production and directing.

The problem:

The actor-star wants to quit.

This is the problem which is occupying the thoughts these days of Frank R. Pierson, producer of "Have Gun, Will Travel," which stars Richard Boone.

* * * *

"WE'RE IN OUR fourth season," Pierson said. "Dick signed for five. He has been definite about only five years on the show. I have to admit his viewpoint is valid and sensible. He is an actor and a serious one, and he feels he has explored the Paladin character as far as he can.

"Dick has to decide whether he wants to be a wealthy man and stay with a successful TV show or be an important part of the American theater—which I think he is."

Peirson said the alternative to going off the air would lie in replacing Boone. He is against replacing Boone with someone who would be as Boone-like as possible.

* * * *

"ONE SHOW replaced a main character and got away with it," the producer said. "We have to ask ourselves whether the production of the show—all its elements such as acting, writing and production—is sufficient for us to carry on without Dick.

"Then comes the question of whom you look for if you replace Dick. A top actor? A resonant voice? This could be a dreadful mistake. The tempting, easy way out would be to get someone to play it like Dick."

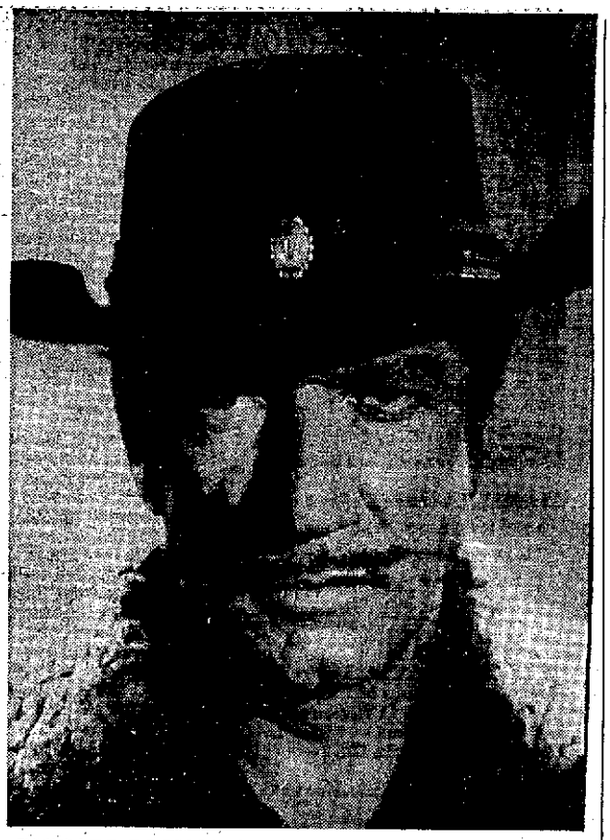

* * * *

CBS SOURCES have said unofficially that Boone was very cooperative—cooperative to the point of being willing to be killed in the script to make way for another performer. Peirson said, however, he hasn't gotten around to asking Boone if he'd make this sacrifice.

"If he is replaced, the replacement must be acceptable to the sponsor, ad agency and network," Peirson said. "A contract with an actor isn't in my domain, but worrying about it is. And right now I'm thinking only about next week's show—that is, when I'm not thinking about what will happen when and if we lose our star."

Pantomime

Red Skelton's recent one-man pantomime program saluting the United Nations will be made available to five Iron Curtain countries through United States embassies in Russia, Hungary, Poland, Bulgaria and Czechoslovakia.

MEANINGFUL

Get's Boot Out of Role

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — Roger Moore, veteran of many movies in his native Britain and Hollywood, is now a western star on TV's "Maverick."

"At last," the Britisher says, "I have found out why so many of your western gunslingers were so mean. Have you ever worn cowboy boots?

"As soon as I put them on every morning, I feel mean. They pinch, they hurt—and when your feet feel mean the rest of you feels mean.

"If loafers had been invented 100 years ago there never would have been a Wild West."

"Here's a popular number with simulated cigarette burns—for when your husband falls asleep watching the Late Show."

Bert's Eye View

By BERT RESNIK
TV and Radio Editor

I'm marking my ballot and it's no secret.

It's a ballot for the "TV Critics Poll" conducted by "Television Today," an agency which annually conducts an industry "audit of personalities."

Come on along for the audit ride and see how readily you disagree with the ballot selections.

Choice No. 1 concerns the best network television program—champion of champions. My choice is "The Danny Thomas Show," a class combination of humor and human relations.

For best television performer—champion of champions—Charles Laughton gets the nod. I think he's been on television enough this year ("Wagon Train" on his last outing) to qualify him as a TV performer. And there are few who can touch his acting qualifications whether it be in movies, on television or reciting a commercial.

My selection for the most promising male "Star of Tomorrow" is 6-year-old Ronny Howard who has the role of "Opie" on the "Andy Griffith Show." He's believable.

The most promising female "Star of Tomorrow" is 13-year-old Lori Martin of "National Velvet" who has managed to remain charming despite the saccharine triteness of the scripts with which she is surrounded.

THE FOURTH BALLOT measure asks for selection of the TV show making the most effective use of color. Our home, alas, is colorless so the measure is skipped.

Bob Hope is the choice for best comedian.

But who is the best comedienne?

There's no one in today's running who can match yesteryear's laugh stature of Lucy (Lucille Ball). There's no one who comes close. I left this measure blank.

The best comedy team is Andy Griffith and Don Knotts. The best comedy show is the "Jack Benny Show."

The best hour or more dramatic program—usually miles ahead of its competition—is "The Play of the Week." Perry Como heads up the best variety program.

For the best half-hour dramatic program, the choice is "The Robert Herridge Theater." For a unique, new program, the selection is "The Nation's Future."

I selected "The Westerner" for the best western series and I told you it would be easy to readily disagree.

"ALFRED HITCHCOCK PRESENTS" is the choice for the best mystery program. (Wish they had a separate category for the funniest master of ceremonies of a mystery program. Hitchcock's got them all beat.)

Perry Como is the best male vocalist.

But who is the best female vocalist?

I think Lena Horne is great, but she's not on TV. I like Dinah Shore's show, including her gowns, but her voice has aged faster than her years.

My selection for the best popular musical show is the "Telephone Hour." My choice for the best country music is "The Lawrence Welk Show." Well, that's the way it sounds to me.

The best quiz program is "The Groucho (Marx) Show."

Bob Hope is the best master of ceremonies and George Fenneman the best announcer.

Walter Cronkite is the best news commentator and Tom Harmon the best sportscaster.

I SELECTED "SPECIAL FOR WOMEN" as the best daytime program. We've had two so far. One dealt with frigidity and the other with the disenchanted housewife.

If calls here are any indication, the most popular daytime program in Long Beach is "As the World Turns."

The best children's program is "The Flintstones." Sure, it's supposed to be an adult cartoon but try and tear the kids away from it and you start a riot.

I'd start another riot if I chose between "Walt Disney Presents" and "The Shirley Temple Show." Our home currently is already too divided on this competitive viewing issue.

The ballot also asked for comment on current television practices and suggestions for improvements. My ballot contained the following:

"This season's specials have shown considerable upgrading in quality scope of entertainment. Good scripts have helped big-name stars prove they have talent instead of just leaning on their reputations.

"Television also is scoring in its documentary examination of issues and space-age developments affecting the nation.

"Sports coverage, generally speaking, is up to standard and should not be de-emphasized.

"There currently are too many weak detective shows, situation comedies and second-rate westerns.

"To eliminate the mediocre, television networks should sell time, not shows, to sponsors."

WE HAVE THEM BOTH

LOWREY
ELECTRONIC/STEREO ORGANS

The new Lowrey Festival is a truly fine organ of great power and beauty... and it has stereo controls already built-in.

All you do is plug in an additional tone cabinet and true stereo is yours—not just a stereo "effect".

With the Festival, you also get Lowrey's full, rich, powerful tone ... classic design...exquisite cabinetry... and exceptional ease to play. Expert organists acclaim the Festival, yet it allows beginners to bring beautiful orchestral effects to the simplest tunes.

But mere words can't describe it. You have to experience the Festival to appreciate it... and we invite you to do just that.

- Clearly marked "touch tabs"—for ease of playing
- Brilliantly, realistic percussion effects
- Superbly designed... distinctively beautiful
- Self-contained hi fidelity speakers
- Exclusive Lowrey Glide Control
- Glorious voices with fine organ tone
- "Moving Stereo" controls built in

Come in today—find out about our FREE HOME TRIAL and Easy Budget Terms

You're welcome to try out a Lowrey organ anytime! Humphreys offers free home trial ... low down payment ... easy monthly terms. And there are Lowrey organs priced as low as $895.

FACTS ABOUT VITAMINS

FREE Your Copy of America's Most Informative Book

After 20 minutes reading of this Guide Book, you will understand vitamins as you never have before. How good is Vitamin C for colds? Is there a difference between natural organic products and synthetic vitamins? What can vitamins really do for the average person? You will learn the answers to these and hundreds of other perplexing vitamin questions. You will not be fooled again by confusing, mysterious labels. You will be able to pick up any vitamin product and know if you are getting your money's worth. You will learn how to cut costs up to 50% on freshly-packed, guaranteed-potency vitamin products. For example, 100 capsules of Vitamin A (25,000 units) need not cost you $1.75, but only 29c. 100 tablets Vitamin C (250 mg.) not $2.25, but only 80c. 100 capsules of Vitamin E (100 Intl. Units), that retail for $4.65, need cost you only $2.15. This all-inclusive Vitamin Guide Book is sent without obligation, as a FREE Service by Vitamin-Quota, one of America's largest distributors of vitamins to doctors, nurses and over 2,500,000 families, coast-to-coast. So Stop buying blindly. Learn the truth and be informed! Send for Free Catalog and Vitamin Guide Book today! VITAMIN-QUOTA, Dept. L-265, 1125 S. Crenshaw Blvd., Los Angeles 19, California

Violence is Trademark

By VERNON SCOTT
UPI Hollywood Correspondent

HOLLYWOOD (UPI) — Despite horror-filled objections from church groups and Parent-Teacher Associations, violence is the most popular form of TV entertainment — the gorier the better.

The ratings prove it.

Westerns are riding high and rare is the horse opera that doesn't include fist fights, gun play and innumerable deaths. Even the "Lassie" show is filled with dog fights and miscellaneous mayhem.

Best example of highly regarded violence is "The Untouchables," which sweeps the Thursday night ratings every week.

* * * *

ELIOT NESS and company slaughter bad guys in wholesale lots.

Bob Stack, who stars in the ABC adventure series, employs a machine gun when necessary to mow down bootleggers, gangsters and dope runners. So far his methods have been wildly successful, both in erasing "heavies" and in garnering viewers.

What does Stack think about violence?

"That's one of the elements that make our show so controversial," he grinned.

"The 1920's was a violent era and we are representing it as authentically as possible. However, none of the violence on our show is just for bloodshed itself.

* * * *

"THE GUN PLAY is part of each story. The cheapest things in a TV show are blank cartridges and guns. Other programs have used them pointlessly and have gone off the air."

Stack went on to say that he and other officials involved with "The Untouchables" have toned down harshness of the era.

"We could never show, for instance, the time Al Capone bashed a guy's brains out with a baseball bat," he suggested. "It happened, but it would be impossible to dramatize such a thing on television."

* * * *

"OF COURSE, a lot of our stories have been fictionalized. Life doesn't give you the luxury of providing complete dramas, with a beginning, a middle and an end.

"But we do rely on old newspapers to give us the basic facts of crimes and criminals, and our writers take over from there.

"The popularity of our show lies in the stories. We're not like other top shows such as 'Gunsmoke' which is a western 'Myrt and Marge.' Viewers love the characters in that program.

"There is no affection for us. If Ness and his companions took time out to talk about a cup of coffee like Marshal Dillon and Chester do we'd be off the air in no time.

"Viewers enjoy our story line—and no matter how you feel about it, violence is a part of every episode."

ROBERT STACK AS ELIOT NESS IN "THE UNTOUCHABLES'

"They do TV commercials. Mr. Dix is the acid indigestion and Mr. Smog is the sinus sufferer!"

WE GIVE THANKS

At THE THANKSGIVING SEASON we bow in wonder and praise before the mystery of God's providence, which gives us the bounties of the good earth, the beauty of the heavens, the fidelity of the seasons.

WE THANK OUR Heavenly Father for the families that have nurtured us, the friends who have guided us, the little children who look up to us. We grow ever more grateful for this land that we love whose resources give us so much to live on and whose freedoms give us so much to live for.

THE MEMORY OF GOD'S past mercies gives us confidence for the future. Our gratitude calls us to live and work that the faith of our fathers shall inspire the dreams of our children. Our prized liberties are safeguarded only as we see that our rights involve responsibilities.

FOR THE PEACE of our world we must seek to lead nations from the passion for power to the compassion for need. As heirs of the Pilgrim Fathers we consecrate ourselves to leave a country richer than we found to a society better than we found.

On Parade

For the fourth time in five years, PARADE's editor, Jess Gorkin, has journeyed to Russia. He was one of the first U.S. newsmen allowed to roam the country after the Geneva Conference in 1955. He went back in 1957 and again in 1959. On his latest trip Mr. Gorkin sought the answers to three questions:

1. What do the Russian people really think of Americans?
2. What effect is the anti-American "spy-catching" campaign having on the Russian people?
3. Has Khrushchev's popularity in the Soviet Union gone up or down since the U-2 incident?

Accompanied by photographer Larry Fried, Editor Gorkin (below, r.) flew to Russia on one of KLM's New York-to-Moscow jets. He talked to hundreds of Russians from Moscow to Tashkent in Soviet Central Asia. For his report, see page 6.

Parade's informative pamphlet, A Guide for Baby Sitters, which spells out the do's and don't's of sitting, has just been reprinted. A copy may be obtained by sending 10 cents to PARADE, Box 1640, Grand Central Station, New York 17, N. Y.

PERSONALITY PARADE

Q. Can you tell me if Fidel Castro is having his air force trained by the Russians?—F.P., Baton Rouge, La.
A. Castro has purchased 25 MIG-17s from Czechoslovakia. He also has sent a large group of Cuban pilots to Czechoslovakia for jet training.

Q. I read that when Tony Martin married Cyd Charisse, she promised to go to baseball games with him if he went to ballet recitals with her. Have they carried out this agreement?—Veronica De Cola, Denver, Colo.
A. According to Tony Martin: "We did make such a deal, but it was called off after I wound up owing Cyd 150 ballets."

Q. Does Bobby Darin wear a toupee?—Helen Garrett, Oakland, Calif.
A. Yes, he wears small temple pieces.

Q. Can you tell me if any white European or American has ever been executed in Africa for killing a Negro?—Mildred From, Chicago, Ill.
A. Peter Poole, 29, a British subject, was hanged in Nairobi several months ago. He was the first European ever convicted and executed for the murder of an African. He shot and killed his houseboy after the houseboy had thrown stones at a dog.

Q. Is it bad protocol to speak to Queen Elizabeth of England before she starts the conversation?—Bertha Burnstein, Newark, N.J.
A. No, this is a myth.

Q. Why is Edward Williams, 40, of Washington, D.C., called "The Nation's Hottest Lawyer"?—Victor Janssen, Indianapolis, Ind.
A. It stems from his defense of controversial clients.

Q. How old is the distinguished French writer, André Maurois?—Bliss Knowles, Washington, D.C.
A. Maurois is 75.

Q. Is it true that when Maria Callas' mother asked the opera singer for $100 a month, Maria wrote her mother: "If you can't earn enough to live on throw yourself out of the window"?—O.P., Chicago, Ill.
A. Yes. According to Maria's mother, this was part of the last letter she ever received from her famous daughter.

Q. How much money does Milton Berle get for doing the bowling games on television?—Frank Rose, Tucson, Ariz.
A. Approximately $15,000 a program, or $600,000 for a period of 40 weeks.

Q. Eddie Fisher plans to enter film production as the producer of Anna Karenina, starring his wife, Elizabeth Taylor. How many times has this film been made before?—George Bristol, Atlanta, Ga.
A. William Fox made it first in 1915. Greta Garbo and Fredric March starred in a 1935 version. Vivien Leigh and Ralph Richardson starred in a 1948 version.

ANSWERS TO VITAL QUESTIONS ABOUT

THE RUSSIAN PEOPLE

by JESS GORKIN Editor of Parade

1. What do the Russian people really think of Americans?

2. What effect is the anti-American "spy catching" campaign having on the Russian people?

3. Has Khrushchev's popularity in the Soviet Union gone up or down since the U-2 incident?

The three questions above are among the most important in the field of American-Soviet relations. To obtain the answers I toured the Soviet Union from Moscow to Tashkent in Soviet Central Asia. On my return, I sought the opinions of some of the nation's top strategists and intelligence experts to get their estimates. Here are the results:

Hakim Hassemov, peasant, Tashkent: "We don't fear your people, only the Pentagon's big potatoes."

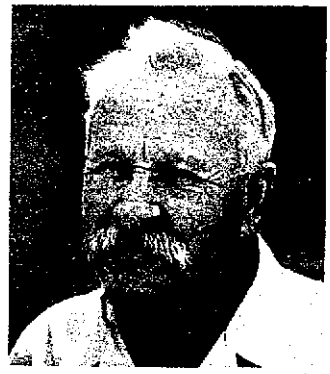

Ludmila Cornelova, student, Moscow: "I believe the American people are the same kind of people we are."

Valeri Sokolov, student, Moscow: "Look at our crowded stores. This means we live better than before."

Rena Agneyeva, sanitarium director, Sochi: "I read books on America. It seems to be a romantic country."

Pyotr Kuprov, retired, Tashkent: "I sit here and read. I hope retired Americans can do this — in peace."

Alexei Ruzlayaka, laborer, Altai: "I never met an American before. It's a good idea for them to visit us."

1. What do the Russian people really think of Americans?

I WATCHED seven men clink their wine glasses in a toast of friendship to the American people.

They were laborers at Tbilisi, capital of Soviet Georgia, enjoying a gay evening in a restaurant on the outskirts of town. The toast was in acknowledgement of my presence—as an American. Afterward, one of the men came over to my table, shook my hand and identified himself as Simon Meerzoyan.

Following the exchange of amenities, I asked him what he really thought of Americans.

"We are labor-loving people and we like the Americans," he said. "Peace is the main question. If there is peace, all other problems will be resolved. There must be peace and friendship between our countries."

Simon Meerzoyan was one of about 200 Soviet citizens—peasants, factory workers, the growing "middle class" of professional people — I buttonholed on streets, in public places and in their homes to learn how Americans rate with the Soviet masses.

Despite the vigilance campaign against American spies brought on by the U-2 incident—in which every Russian is told to act as a "vigilante" — the people themselves spoke to me as freely as they had during my 1959 visit.

When I interviewed the Russian people last year they were happy about the proposed Khrushchev-Eisenhower visits and a possible thaw in the Cold War. Today, they show great concern about the state of U.S.-Soviet relations. But the events of the last six months have not dampened the friendly attitude of the man in the street toward Americans.

Aside from Simon Meerzoyan, what did other Russians tell me?

They spoke from the heart. What discouraged me most, however, was that so many seemed to believe completely the Communist party line. They repeated the fiction we have been hearing so often from Khrushchev and others—that the American people and production methods are admirable but that the U.S. Government does not reflect U.S. popular opinion.

Some of the answers flowed in the following vein: "I think the American people are hard-working and ambitious and want peace and friendship . . . They are good people . . . American working people are much like the Russian working people . . ."

In Moscow, Alexander Gerbatov elaborated: "We have seen Americans during the war and we think only good things about them. I would like to see America with my own eyes. Many Americans are coming here to visit. We should do everything possible to avoid bad feelings toward one another."

Many Russians viewed the struggle for peace as a joint effort. Anatole Pasko, a speedboat driver on the Black Sea, put it this way:

"You have to work for peace as well as we. It is true that we have a different society, but our two people must learn to live together. Everybody wants peace —not war."

Surprisingly, only one in four raised the U-2 question. Ivan Vidas, an Estonian, appeared to accept the official line without question: "Events such as the U-2 are not good. The American Government is responsible. It is not the fault of the American people."

AND YOU

Simon Meerzoyan (r.) is shown with friend in Tbilisi restaurant where they and other Russians drank toast to American friendship (see story). They said peace is "the main question."

Nina Ivanova (l.) and Marie Efeneva, department store clerks, Moscow: "We want to live in peace with the American people. We must cooperate and work for the same things."

And Natasha Luvovo, a teacher from Perm, complained: "The U-2 incident is a sorry event for us. We are not satisfied with the policy of the U.S. Government. We hope the people—who, we know, are peace-loving—will correct this policy."

The Russians think of us as their No. 1 competitor, acknowledging our much higher standard of living. Khrushchev has been using the American standard of living to drive the Russians to higher production. The current seven-year plan is dedicated to "catching up with and surpassing" the U.S. as quickly as possible.

Vladimir Tagor, who lives near Moscow, expressed it in these words: "Maybe we are a little poorer now; we have suffered and you have never suffered. In the future we will overtake you in all fields."

Along with this asserted confidence in Soviet destiny goes the demand that Russia be treated as America's equal. Khrushchev demands it in the UN. A round-faced peasant from Samarkand, Nazar Meerzyaren, put it to me this way: "We hope you Americans respect the Soviet people as much as we respect you."

2. What effect is the anti-American "spy catching" campaign having on the Russian people?

APART FROM THE PRESIDENTIAL ELECTION, many Americans see the U-2 incident as the most important news event of the year. The Russians certainly do.

Six days after pilot Francis Gary Powers' ill-fated May 1 flight, Khrushchev told the Supreme Soviet:

"The fact of the bandit flight of the American plane once again underlines the necessity of being vigilant. Revolutionary vigilance was always a characteristic of the Soviet people."

In September, the Central Committee of the Communist Party stressed "the great importance of training the Soviet people in the highest political vigilance in the present circumstances."

Soviet newspapers, magazines, radio and TV have featured many spy stories since the U-2 incident. The chief targets of their attack have been "some members of the U.S. Embassy in Moscow and over-inquisitive tourists."

Numerous articles have challenged Soviet youth to meet the spy invasion. Widely discussed among university students was a series, Those Who Have Sold Their Souls, published recently in three consecutive issues of Komsomolskaya Pravda, a Young Communist League newspaper. A preface to these articles states:

"State Security agencies have caught red-handed two Muscovites who have been acting as agents for the American intelligence services—Vyacheslav A. Repnikov, 25, and Rostislav L. Rybkin, 26.

"Repnikov and Rybkin were recruited by American intelligence agents who came to our country in the guise of members of tourist groups . . . Agents of the U.S. Central Intelligence Agency are trying to set up a wide-scale ideological diversion against Soviet youth — to poison them with the venom of bourgeois propaganda."

In spite of the spy program, a record 15,000 American tourists (short of the peak of 20,000 predicted) will have visited the Soviet Union by the end of 1960. Some have been caught in the web of spy hysteria.

Here is a partial list of accused Americans as reported in the Soviet press, along with official charges:

THE ACCUSED: James Schultz.

THE CHARGE: "Attempting to recruit a Soviet citizen to spread anti-Soviet rumors in Kiev."

THE ACCUSED: Mr. Douglas (no first name).

THE CHARGE: "Two inhabitants of Viborg (near Leningrad) caught him red-handed as he attempted to take pictures of a railway bridge in Viborg. In addition, he had a drawing of industrial objectives."

THE ACCUSED: Robert Christner.

THE CHARGE: "Spying in Uzhgorod, Lvov, Kiev, Baku and other towns. He was making topographical charts of railways, bridges, radio antennae."

THE ACCUSED: Robert Able.

THE CHARGE: "Taking pictures of radar, radio stations and exercising his special interest to collect information on Soviet rocket fuel."

THE ACCUSED: Mark I. Kaminsky and Harvey C. Bennett, who were traveling together by car.

THE CHARGE: "Gathering information on troop concentrations, radio and power station locations, military camps and their approach roads, and details about bridges, railway stations and industrial centers for use in a 'slanderous' book about the Soviet Union."

Kaminsky was convicted of espionage and on September 16 received a 7-year prison sentence. The Russians suspended sentence and expelled Kaminsky and Bennett from the U.S.S.R.

Why the spy program? What is its real purpose?

1 To scare American visitors into being less inquisitive without stopping them from visiting and bringing tourist dollars into the U.S.S.R.

2 To put a damper on U.S. intelligence activities. The Russians have already achieved the stopping of U-2 flights, and the U.S. is now keeping RB-47 reconnaissance missions farther away from the Russian sector.

3 To help justify the huge Soviet military expenditures. The Kremlin tells Russians in effect: "Look, they are after us. We must be careful."

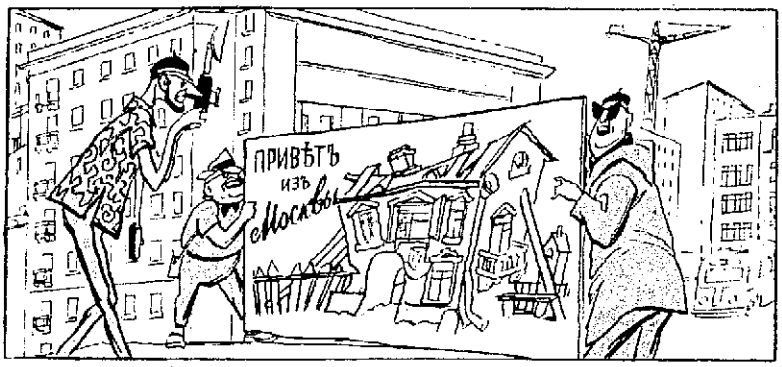

While the spy campaign is taking some hold, there is official concern about going too far.

Some publications, including the trade union paper, Trud, have warned their readers to avoid "spymania."

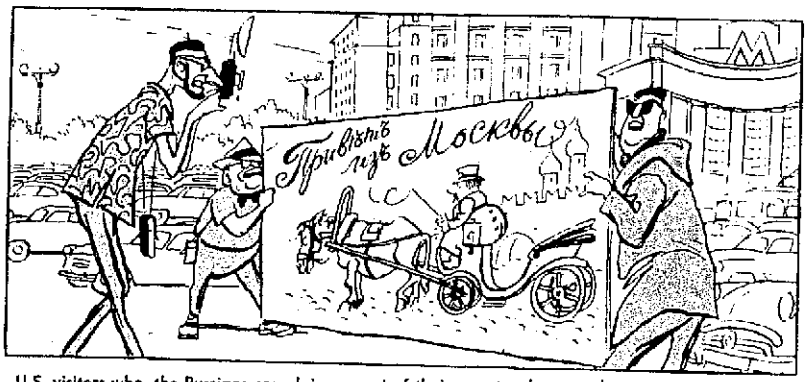

The Russian government is, of course, confronted with this truism: Constant propaganda often invalidates all propaganda.

For instance, I asked one Russian woman whether she had seen any spy posters. "To be perfectly frank," she said, "I don't know. I've been looking at posters of all kinds since I was a child. One year the theme is peace, the next the 7-year plan. I guess I've developed a blind spot for posters. When I look at them I don't see them."

To get an idea of Khrushchev's popularity turn to page 8

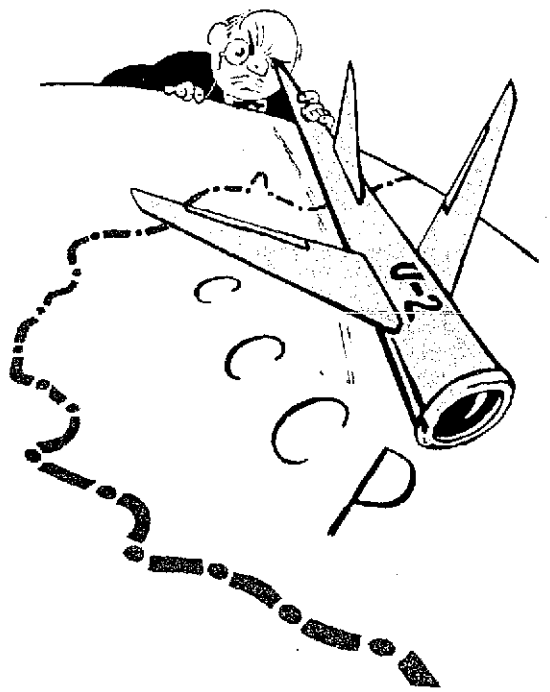

Criticism of American tourists is the theme of these cartoons published in the Soviet humor magazine, Krokodil. Captioned "Objective view," the cartoons take a poke at U.S. visitors who, the Russians complain, go out of their way to photograph seamy conditions—which, as these cartoons attempt to show, are exaggerated and distorted.

3. Has Khrushchev's popularity in the Soviet Union gone up or down since the U-2 incident?

Like Khrushchev, the Soviet press keeps hammering away at the U-2 incident. This Krokodil jibe shows a tourist looking at the U.S.S.R. through a spy glass disguised as U-2 plane.

KHRUSHCHEV'S RATING with the Soviet masses reached an all-time high after his 1959 visit to the United States, which included the Camp David meeting with President Eisenhower.

After the U-2 incident in May 1960, the Summit smash-up in Paris and the resumption of the Cold War, Khrushchev's popularity declined—but not too seriously. The reason for this decline was that the Russian people, who yearn for a relaxation of international tensions, were alarmed by the sudden deterioration of American-Soviet relations.

How does Khrushchev rate with his associates in the Kremlin?

As with the masses, his position among top Soviet officials was initially weakened by the U-2 incident, but he has managed to consolidate his hold on the Kremlin.

A high U.S. State Department official told PARADE: "The Russian Premier is more powerful after his recent visit to the United Nations than he was after the Summit collapse in Paris. He tried to show the neutral nations and his Kremlin associates how powerful and tough he is. From his standpoint, he succeeded."

Khrushchev's opponents in the Kremlin fall into three groups:

1. THE OLD BOLSHEVIKS, epitomized by brittle Sphinx-faced Vyacheslav Molotov, now a U.S.S.R. representative to the International Atomic Energy Agency in Vienna. Dying off, they follow the Stalin line blindly. Transfer of Molotov from the Soviet Embassy in Outer Mongolia, where he was in close contact with Red China's Mao Tse-tung, to a flunky job in Vienna is indicative of Khrushchev's new strength.

2. THE YOUNG STALINISTS, led by the aloof Stalin-like Mikhail Suslov, still a power in the Communist Party. They are more flexible in their tactics, but their aim is the same: Communist conquest of the world by any means, including war.

They nourish a deep suspicion of the West, are convinced that peaceful coexistence is a pipe dream.

3. THE RED ARMY OFFICERS, led by the scowling Defense Minister, Rodion Malinovsky, who kept a heavy hand on Khrushchev's shoulder at Paris.

In the face of such opposition, is Khrushchev still boss of the Kremlin?

He is not and never has been the unchallenged dictator that Stalin was. Khrushchev has his allies, not the least of which are the Russian masses. He also controls the Communist Central Committee, which means control of the Communist Party.

Khrushchev's other trump cards:

• He appears to be indispensable. To oust him would be an admission to the world of Soviet failure in planning and policy, and a loss of prestige for the Kremlin in its diplomatic dealings.

• He has made himself the only Kremlin leader of national and international stature. To purge him now would cause Soviet leadership at the top to appear unstable, might cause the Russian people to lose confidence in their leadership.

The crackdown—or "guilt purge"—in the satellite countries during the last six months has made Khrushchev stronger. For instance, one of the satellites, Albania, sympathized with Red China. A recent report shows that two top leaders have been cleaned out of the Albanian Politburo as a result.

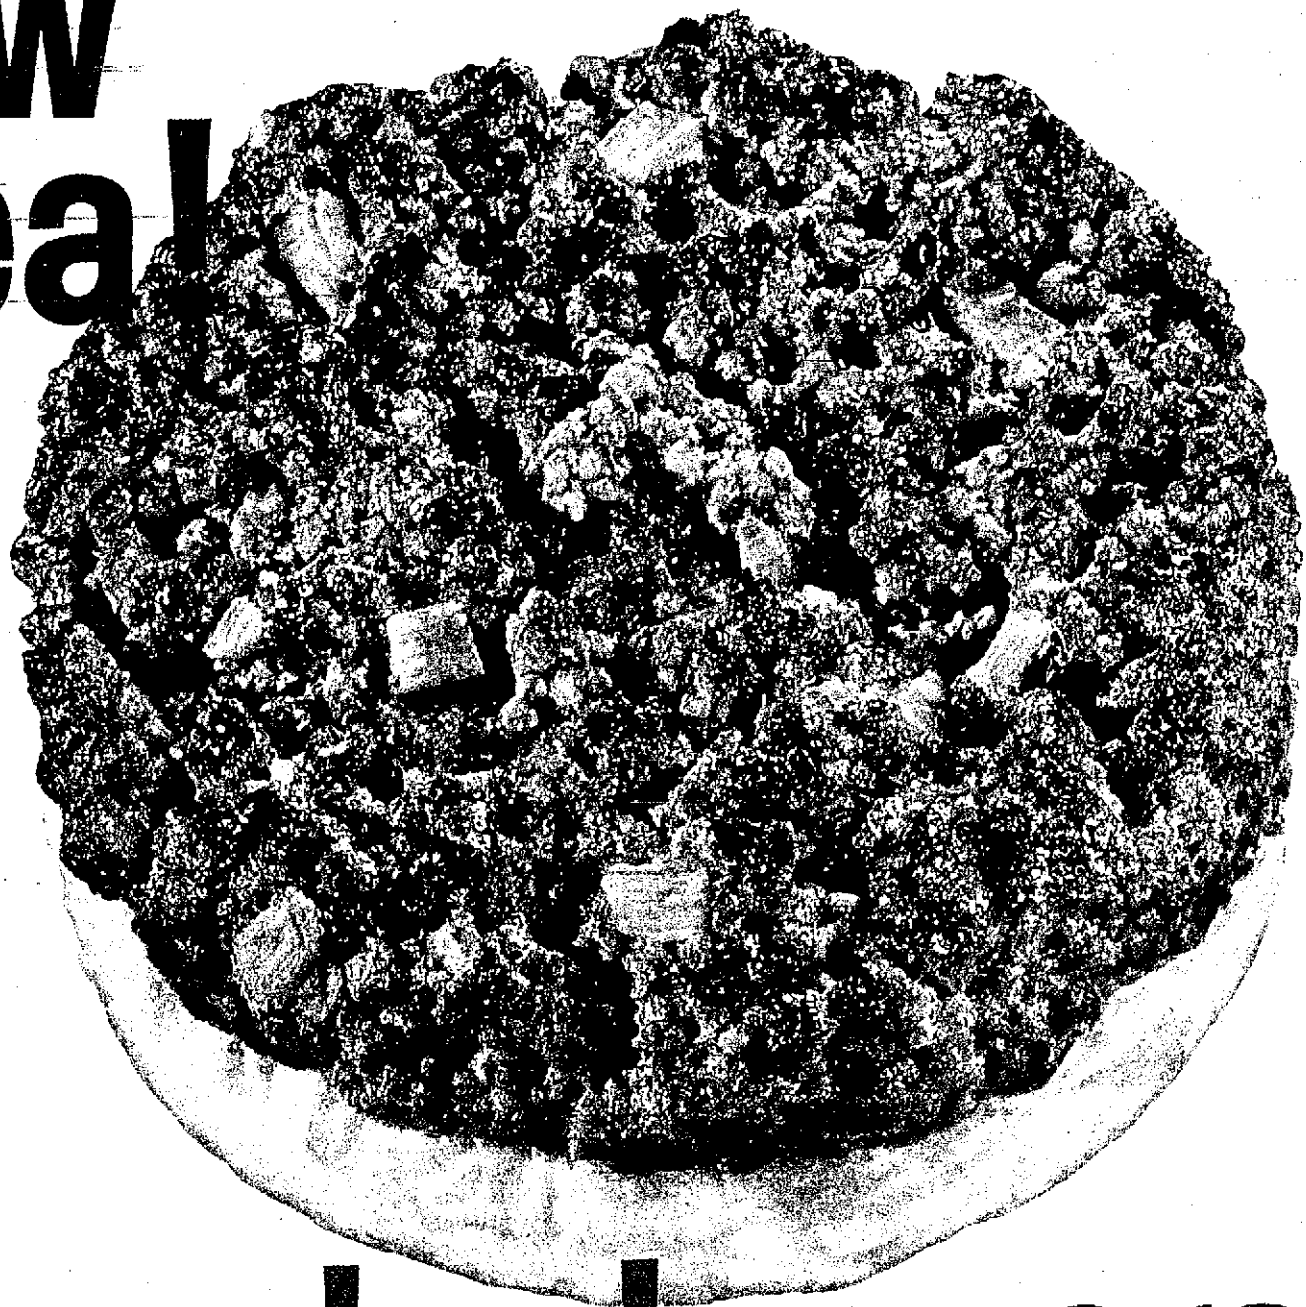

Khrushchev's antics at the UN were crude and sensational. But through his toughness he hoped to convince his colleagues back home that his coexistence policy could work. Khrushchev hoped to persuade the neutral countries that the wave of the future is coming from Moscow.

For the moment, at least, the Soviet Premier seems to have silenced his opponents in the Kremlin. But anything can happen. ■

Is your child's

By SID ROSS

DAYTON, OHIO.

ONE OF THE OLDEST SAWS in American family life says that teenagers and their parents are forever at odds over money. A standard vaudeville joke, for instance, tells about the prep-school boy who had used up his allowance. He wired home what he considered an irresistible appeal for funds: NO MON NO FUN YOUR SON.

His father, however, was equal to the occasion. The next day the reply came back: TOO BAD SO SAD YOUR DAD.

In today's affluent society, do dad and son still bicker over mon? Or are such conflicts a thing of the past? Do today's teenagers think they are given enough money? Should they be forced to work for their allowances? Just how do American families today solve the allowance problem?

To find out, PARADE spent a few days with a representative American family—Mr. and Mrs. Elvin Browne, who live 10 miles south of downtown Dayton, and their son Dale, 15, and daughter Kristine, 13. Browne, a toolmaker at National Cash Register Co., earns about $8,000 a year. His wife also works, as a secretary in the Dayton schools.

Every Friday afternoon when he brings home his paycheck, Browne hands each of the children a $5 bill. But like most parents, he is not sure whether it is enough—or too much. "We don't want to deprive our kids, but we don't want to overindulge them, either," Mrs. Browne says. "We just aren't sure what's right."

In the case of Dale, $5 goes a long way. A slim, intense, snappily-dressed sophomore at Centerville High, his code is "play it cool." He loves rock 'n' roll, pegged pants, pointed shoes and pizza—and all cost money.

As a growing boy, the biggest bite of Dale's allowance, $2, goes for school lunches. This figure includes the 35-cent-a-day standard menu, plus frequent seconds on hamburgers and ice cream.

The mileage that Dale gets out of the remaining $3 would bewilder Secretary of the Treasury Anderson. In an average week, he manages to squeeze out several portions of pizza, a sea of soft drinks, an hour or two of bouncing at a trampoline center, a round of miniature golf, admission to the Centerville High football game and an assortment of hot dogs, popcorn and candy bars. Only rarely is he so short of funds that he must bring lunch from home.

At 15, Dale is too young to drive a car, and he dates infrequently, which keeps his expenses down. He does not believe in Dutch treats. "A downtown date costs money," he complains. "It's $2.50 to get into the movie, then maybe you go out afterwards for a sandwich and a malt, that's another $1.25. One night like that just about shoots your allowance."

Dale also has some major expenses. He saves for long-playing records. Last spring, he borrowed $73 from Kristine and bought an electric guitar. (He still owes her $51.) A few years ago, he sold all his boyhood toys and withdrew money from his savings to buy a motor scooter.

In return for his allowance, Dale is expected to clean up his room and the bathroom, cut the grass in summer and wash the car occasionally. Sometimes, if he needs extra money, his dad will assign an additional job, such as repairing a fence.

"Dad doesn't want me to get something for nothing, and I don't, either," he says. "I must say that getting an allowance is teaching me how to handle money. Of course I'd like to get more. But I can't complain. I plan on getting along on $5, and sometimes I even have money left over."

But if Dale is satisfied with his finances, his younger sister is less so.

zines, records and clothes — lots of clothes. A few weeks ago, for instance, Kristine decided she needed four pairs of shoes—all at the same time. Her dad hit the ceiling. After several days of dispute, he yielded before the combined forces of Kristie and her mother. Browne paid for the costlier shoes—$7.99—and Kristie paid for the others.

"I like to buy sweaters, skirts, shoes and so on--things my parents say I have enough of," Kristie says. "I want to have more because all the other girls have more."

Boys buy her soft drinks and take her to movies—"That makes my money go further," she says. Kristie has an outside income from babysitting. She also still receives sporadic payments from Dale on his loan for the guitar. And even Kristie admits that a raise in allowance would not be an unmixed blessing—"If I got more money, I'd be expected to pay for more of my clothes."

Most teenaged girls apparently believe they need larger allowances. But girls have no monopoly on financial squabbling, parents of Dayton teenagers told PARADE. Although Dale Browne considers his allowance adequate, some of his friends consider theirs downright niggardly.

And these same conflicts are discussed again and again:

No-allowance argument. Some parents give teenagers no regular sum, pay off only for each chore done, require youngsters to appeal anew each time they need money. Parents who use this system say it teaches discipline and responsibility. But one teenager demurs: "It's degrading. Every time I want to buy a malted I either have to beg for money or invent some job that doesn't need doing."

Higher-income argument. Parents with above-average incomes often try to "keep down with the Joneses" by giving their youngsters no more than the average allowance, and sometimes less. The youngsters resent it. "They don't hold down their own expenses," one boy told PARADE. "Dad makes more money than the people next door, and we live better than they do. Why shouldn't I have more money than their son?"

Young-driver argument. Even Dale Browne, satisfied as he is with today's allowance, is "thinking up arguments for when I'm 16"—i.e., for when he can drive a car and dates are more important. "Cars and girls can't live on water," one boy said. The 16-year-old boy, several youngsters told PARADE, is at an awkward age. He needs money; he finds it difficult to get a part-time job; and his parents can't raise his allowance much.

Elvin and Jane Browne expect to meet this problem next year. They don't know how they will solve it. Both feel that $5 is the absolute ceiling as far as allowance is concerned. "If Dale and Kristie want more things as they get older," Browne says, "I guess they'll just have to work for them."

Like many of today's parents, the Brownes grew up in the Depression. Deciding an allowance policy in today's far better-heeled society confuses them. "We used to do things that were free, but today it seems that kids can't do anything unless it costs money," Mr. Browne says. "We swam in the creek; they go to the pool. We played

"THEY'D HAVE BEEN BETTER OFF IF I DIED!"

"I can't earn a salary and they have the extra expense of taking care of me."

Have you considered this brutal fact? When you go to the hospital your family might be better off if you died there rather than return home unable to work.

Every 4 minutes someone is disabled for life. And when that happens to you, your income may be shut off for months or years . . . possibly for the rest of your life. When the bills pile up, instead of supporting your family, you become a terrible burden. But there is a sensible way to provide cash income while you are disabled and unable to work!

EACH DAY 63,000 are hospitalized. 150,000 are disabled . . . 125,000 by sickness, 25,000 by accident!

New Low Cost "Paycheck Protection" with Lifetime Benefits provides True Income Security!

Mutual of Omaha's New "Paycheck Protection" plan can do this for you: should you become disabled by almost any imaginable illness or accident, just as stated in the policy, Mutual of Omaha will help you keep cash coming in every month you are unable to work . . . even for the rest of your life! You select the coverage and the amount you need every month from the plans available. You spend this "salary" the same way you did your regular pay check.

"Paycheck Protection" is different than other insurance you may own!

Most group or "sick leave" plans guard you for just a few weeks or months—but "Paycheck Protection" pays you extra cash for as long as you are unable to work (whether you are in or out of the hospital) even for the rest of your life. If you have short term "sick leave" or group insurance where you work, we have a "Paycheck Protection" plan that can save you 10% to 57%.

Positive Protection

Your "Paycheck Protection" plan with Renewal Safeguard can never be cancelled by Mutual of Omaha because of future changes in your health, no matter how many times you receive benefits. True Positive Protection!

ALLOWANCES continued

Are parents too soft about money?

sandlot baseball; they go down to the trampoline place."

Dale and Kristie both have received allowances since each was 8. Before their income was increased to $5, their parents talked about it for weeks.

"We don't like to feel that we're just keeping up with the Joneses," Browne says. "Yet you have to have a standard—they have to be able to do things the other kids do. You can't take a kid and make an odd-ball out of him. An allowance is a necessity."

"We know some parents that give kids an extra dollar for each 'A' on the report card," his wife says. "We consider that a bribe. We don't believe in that." On the other hand, the Brownes do use allowances to enforce discipline. Not long ago, Dale's dad told him to get his long hair cut short. Dale rebelled. His dad cut out his allowance (except for lunch money) for three weeks, and Dale gave in.

The Brownes also decided early that both kids would have to complete a list of chores to qualify for allowances. Dale, his parents say, has been "pretty good" about it. But his sister, her mother says, is not so ambitious. Her allowance never has been withheld.

"We know we're probably too soft and too easy on our kids," says Jane Browne—and she might be speaking for countless other parents in the U.S.—"but we love our kids and we want to give them things. We want to please them and keep them happy. These days, we can afford it, so why shouldn't we?" ■

At lunch, Dale tucks away hamburger, beans, ice cream and milk. Dale's parents buy his clothes, pay "unusual" school expenses.

What have you heard about METRECAL*

the new concept of weight control?

Since Metrecal was introduced several months ago in powder form, and with its more recent introduction in liquid form, many people have learned of its effectiveness by word-of-mouth. This factual report provides accurate information on Metrecal—what it is, what it is not.

In September of 1959, Mead Johnson & Company introduced a new product to the medical profession under the brand name Metrecal. It was developed to provide physicians with a new technique for use in judicious weight reduction of overweight patients.

We wish to stress the importance of the physician in problems of weight loss and control. This is particularly the case for individuals who are tremendously overweight, patients with disease of the kidneys, and patients with various forms of heart and blood vessel disease.

In view of the broad public and medical interest in weight control, many persons have learned of Metrecal by word-of-mouth; hence, this factual statement.

What is Metrecal?

Metrecal, when properly used, is an effective agent for weight loss and control.

Metrecal is a complete food available in two forms: a powder which is mixed with water; and a liquid, ready to use. Metrecal is designed to provide a low calorie diet which contains all basic nutrients required by a person on a reducing program. Metrecal contains no drugs.

Metrecal can be used as the total diet for the period required to achieve the weight loss which is best for the individual. Thereafter, it can be used for one or two meals a day, or as the total diet on selected days to maintain desired weight.

In other words, the concept is measured calories according to the needs of the individual.

What does Metrecal do?

Overweight persons are able to lose weight through the use of Metrecal simply because they take in fewer calories than are required to maintain weight. In this manner they lose weight naturally, without resorting to fad diets, complex schedules, or artificial appetite depressants. And users of Metrecal are remarkably free from hunger—the appetite is satisfied normally.

What Metrecal cannot do

Metrecal is not a miracle cure for overweight. It cannot provide the will power required for weight reduction. It has to be used properly. It is imperative that the person who desires to lose weight stay on the diet of Metrecal. This is not difficult since little, if any, hunger occurs after a day or two.

Medical evidence of effectiveness

Extensive clinical studies, conducted under medical supervision, have shown an average weight loss by Metrecal users of approximately one-half pound per day for periods up to six weeks. Some lose even more.

Most patients in the studies report little, if any, hunger. Many report that they feel better than before. Almost all find it relatively easy to continue on Metrecal.

What is in Metrecal?

A frequently specified day's supply is one-half pound of Metrecal powder mixed with water or four eight-ounce cans of Metrecal liquid. This provides 900 calories or energy units, 70 grams protein, 110 grams carbohydrate, 20 grams fat and all essential vitamins and minerals in quantities that meet or exceed minimum daily requirements established by the Food and Drug Administration.

In addition to the half-pound can, Metrecal powder is now available in the 3½ pound economy-size can. The new Metrecal liquid is packaged in eight-ounce cans—each provides a convenient individual meal.

How to undertake a reducing program

Your physician is the best source of counsel and guidance in problems of weight loss and control.

12 tips for staying alive this weekend...

ARE YOU A HOLIDAY

by ED FALES

THIS WEEK, millions of American families will take to the highways in the first of three holiday weekends that will bring death to 1,000 Americans and crippling injury to perhaps 30,000 more.

In the face of this dire prediction, will you be able to get your family there and back safely?

To help you, W. J. Toth, a traffic consultant for the Insurance Institute for Highway Safety, and this reporter traveled more than 3,000 miles on recent holiday weekends, trying to find out what really happens to people in holiday traffic.

We have seen, by the light of flares, a car teetering against a fence on a Pennsylvania mountain; dazed families still sitting in wrecked cars and wondering what hit them; a woman sobbing at night beside three smashed cars; a family sadly salvaging gifts from their wrecked auto.

And we found that holiday driving brings special hazards. The increase in traffic alone multiplies the accident odds. On holiday weekends, more drivers have been drinking. More are fatigued. Cars are more heavily laden and less maneuverable. Drivers are in more of a hurry.

But from our travels we also learned that you can "accident-proof" a holiday weekend. Simple steps you can take before leaving home and others to follow on the road will save lives. Here are our tested rules for holiday driving:

1. Avoid the death hours. You can double your chances of a safe holiday trip by getting your family off the road by midnight—and by 1 a.m. at the latest. Half the holiday deaths come after 1 a.m. This is when the "wild ones" come out, running off curves, charging up the wrong side of highways, ignoring speed limits.

Our own trips bore this out. In a recent four-day holiday the only "wild driving" we saw occurred between 1 and 2 a.m.

2. Install safety belts. The National Safety Council advised us: "No one killed last July 4 wore a seat belt." So we paid $9 each for two belts, plus $8 installation. Thirty minutes later at Silver Springs, Md., they paid off. We nearly piled up when a load of junk fell off a truck into our path. We jolted to a stop. Our belts kept us from caroming off the dashboard.

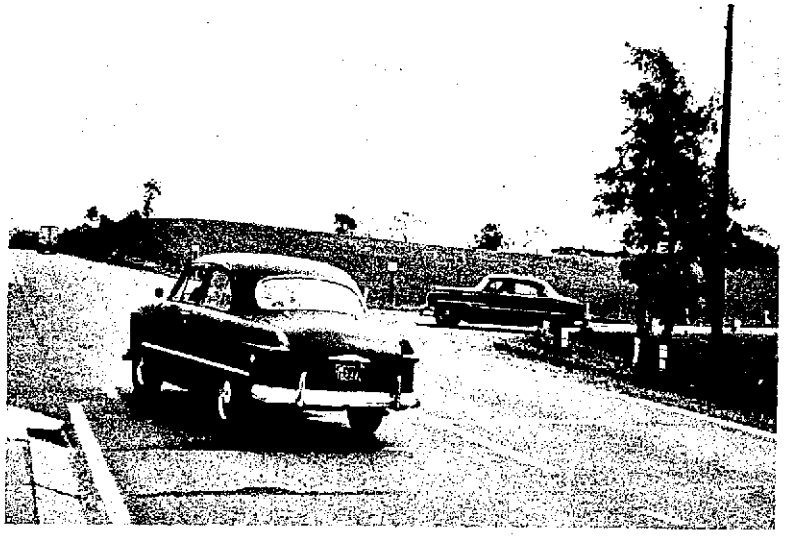

Again and again we saw or learned of crashes in which people were thrown from cars. In such accidents, belts are lifesavers. After a few hundred miles we wondered how we'd ever done without them.

3. Appoint a "family navigator." A dozen times we saw holiday drivers lose their way, jam on brakes, nearly get clipped. We saw families puzzling over maps while stopped in dense traffic. We even saw them backing up into traffic to make turns they'd passed—and this is holiday suicide.

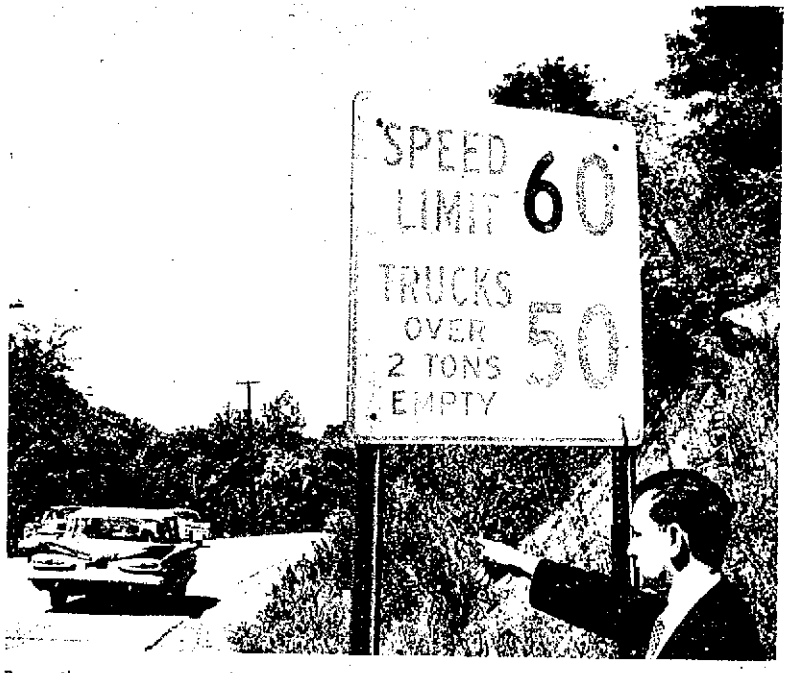

Save yourself this risk with a good map reader. Your "navigator's" job would be: a) to remind you to get all maps you'll need, b) to study them and c) to give you advance notice for turns.

4. Name a "safety officer." We saw one four-car pile-up caused by faulty brake lights. We saw another in which a man died because a "one-eyed" car looked like a motorcycle.

Your "safety officer" should ask you: "Have you checked on your headlights?" "Brake lights and blinkers okay?" "Have you inspected your tires for broken treads, thin rubber or 'bubbles' in the casing?" "Are your brakes working?" "Horn?" "Are

Beware of left turns on highways. The car in foreground risks getting hit from rear by stopping for left turn. For same turn, other car turned off highway onto side road, then crossed.

Be cautious on strange roads. In Ohio, safety expert Toth stands before sign changed to allow speeds of 60 and points to curve—a hazard at 60 mph. for a driver who doesn't know road.

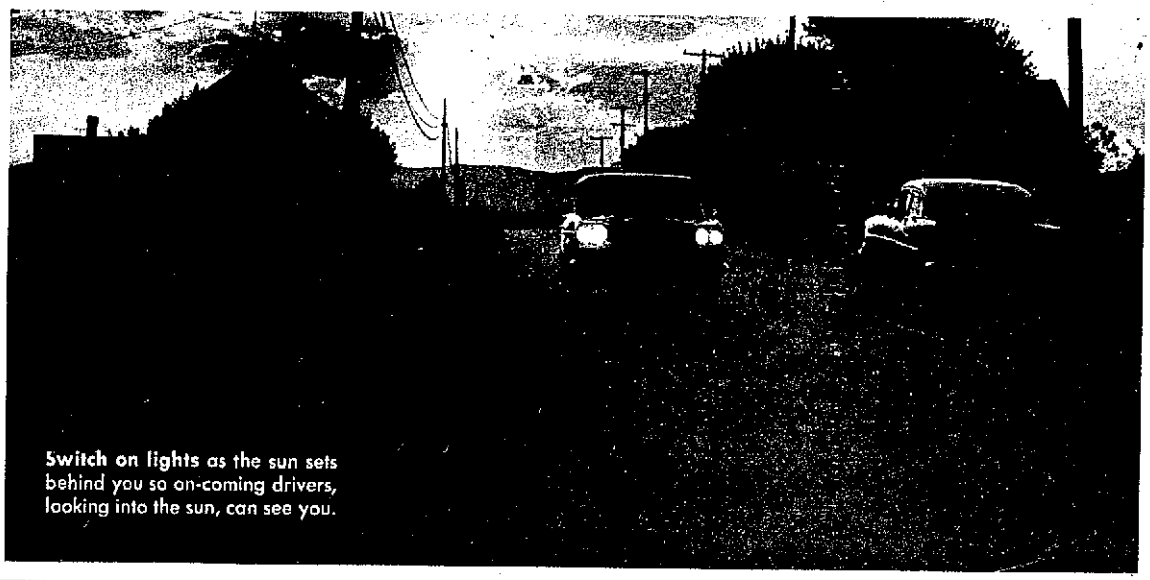

DRIVER?

the car doors all closed and locked?"
And don't start until he clears you!

5. Pick low-hazard roads. Accidents are thick on "high-hazard" roads—old-fashioned two- and three-lane "main roads" that carry especially heavy traffic on holidays. Cars cut in from driveways, gas stations, side roads. And you come too close to cars moving the other way.

Turnpikes are about six times safer than

STOP OILY SKIN TO CHECK PIMPLES!

Don't pick, scratch, squeeze or merely "cover them up"

Doctors know that acne or pimples are caused by the germ called the acne bacillus. These germs invade overactive oil glands in the skin, cause blackheads and pus pockets; then your skin "breaks out."

What's needed is (1) to dry up the excessive oil that collects on skin; (2) to destroy acne germs on the skin, and (3) to stop itching and irritation so pimples can heal.

A doctor's formula, liquid Zemo has this effective 3-way action; also keeps skin looking cleaner!

The first 50 miles can be the most dangerous old "main roads." Once, when old two-lane U.S. 40 was a madhouse of rushing cars, we chose a back-country road instead. It took us a few miles farther, but we had the road to ourselves—without emergencies.

6. Boost the air in those rear tires. At 60 mph., a car that "weaves" is heading for trouble. Yet countless "holiday cars" are so loaded with family and luggage that they actually tip backward. This makes the rear end sway and spoils steering.

More air in rear tires can help to correct the sway. One maker recommends boosting the air from 24 to 30 pounds (cold). Another safeguard: put your heaviest passenger in front, and shift a piece of heavy luggage from trunk to back seat.

7. Beware of the first 50 miles. People tend to think that accidents happen far from home. Wrong! The Safety Council finds that on holidays many happen in the first 90 minutes of driving. Apparently drivers are excited, still getting settled, talking—and hurrying to beat the rush. After a hard day at the office, they are tired.

So drive the first 50 miles as if you were driving through a mine field!

8. Keep a 10-car gap. We saw countless rear collisions and near-collisions. Overloaded holiday cars are harder to stop. Drivers forget that extra weight.

On holidays forget the old-time rule: "Stay one car-length back for each 10 miles of speed." On today's busy roads, at speeds of 50 and more, that's suicide.

We found that a 10-car gap at 50 mph. keeps you out of trouble. The New York Thruway now advises that you stay at least 264 feet behind another car at 60 mph. That's 15 whole car-lengths.

9. Ride the "troughs." On turnpikes, we saw numbers of three- and four-car collisions. These seemed to happen when cars were running close together in wolfpacks, or "waves." One glum driver told us: "When the guy ahead got hit there was just no place for the rest of us to run."

But behind each wave, we found, there is often a carless gap or "trough" nearly a mile long. There no one crowds you. And when the big pile-ups come—you're not there.

10. Avoid death-pocket passing. We saw so many cars trapped in holiday turnpike traffic while trying to pass that we dubbed the space behind slow cars in the right lane the "death pocket."

You're in danger if you come up close behind a slow car and then pull out suddenly. If he slows down, you may clip him. Or a faster car may come up behind—and clip you. Never get in this pocket. Begin your pass at least a quarter-mile back.

11. Keep up your speed. The car in greatest danger in thick holiday traffic is the slow fellow. Remember, every car that overtakes you is a hazard to your family. In 300 miles you may be in danger 1,000 times.

By keeping your speed up to traffic you can cut out hundreds of such moments.

12. Never make a left turn across heavy traffic. In Ohio we saw a car signal a turn, then stop for oncoming traffic. Suddenly a truck hit it from the rear.

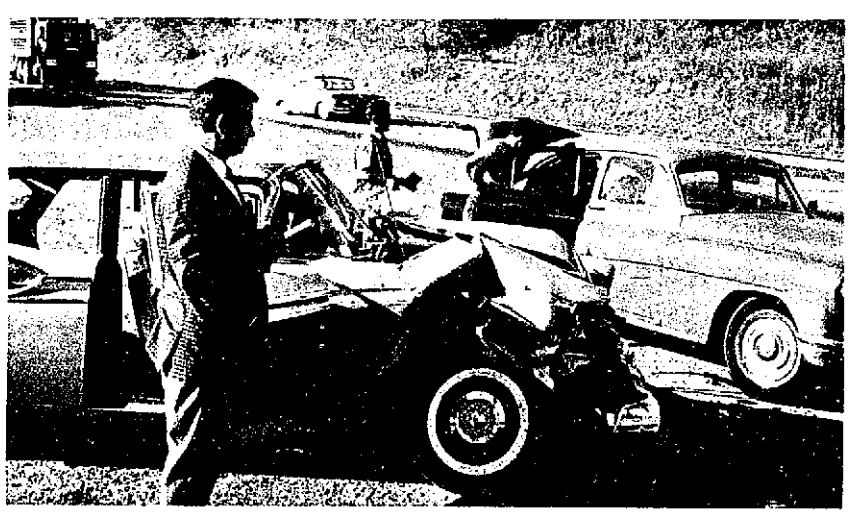

But on U.S. 22 in New Jersey, we saw a motorist do it the right way. He turned right into a side road—then came back to cross U.S. 22 at right angles.

Never expose your family to the danger of rear-end collision by making a left turn—except on the quietest two-lane roads.

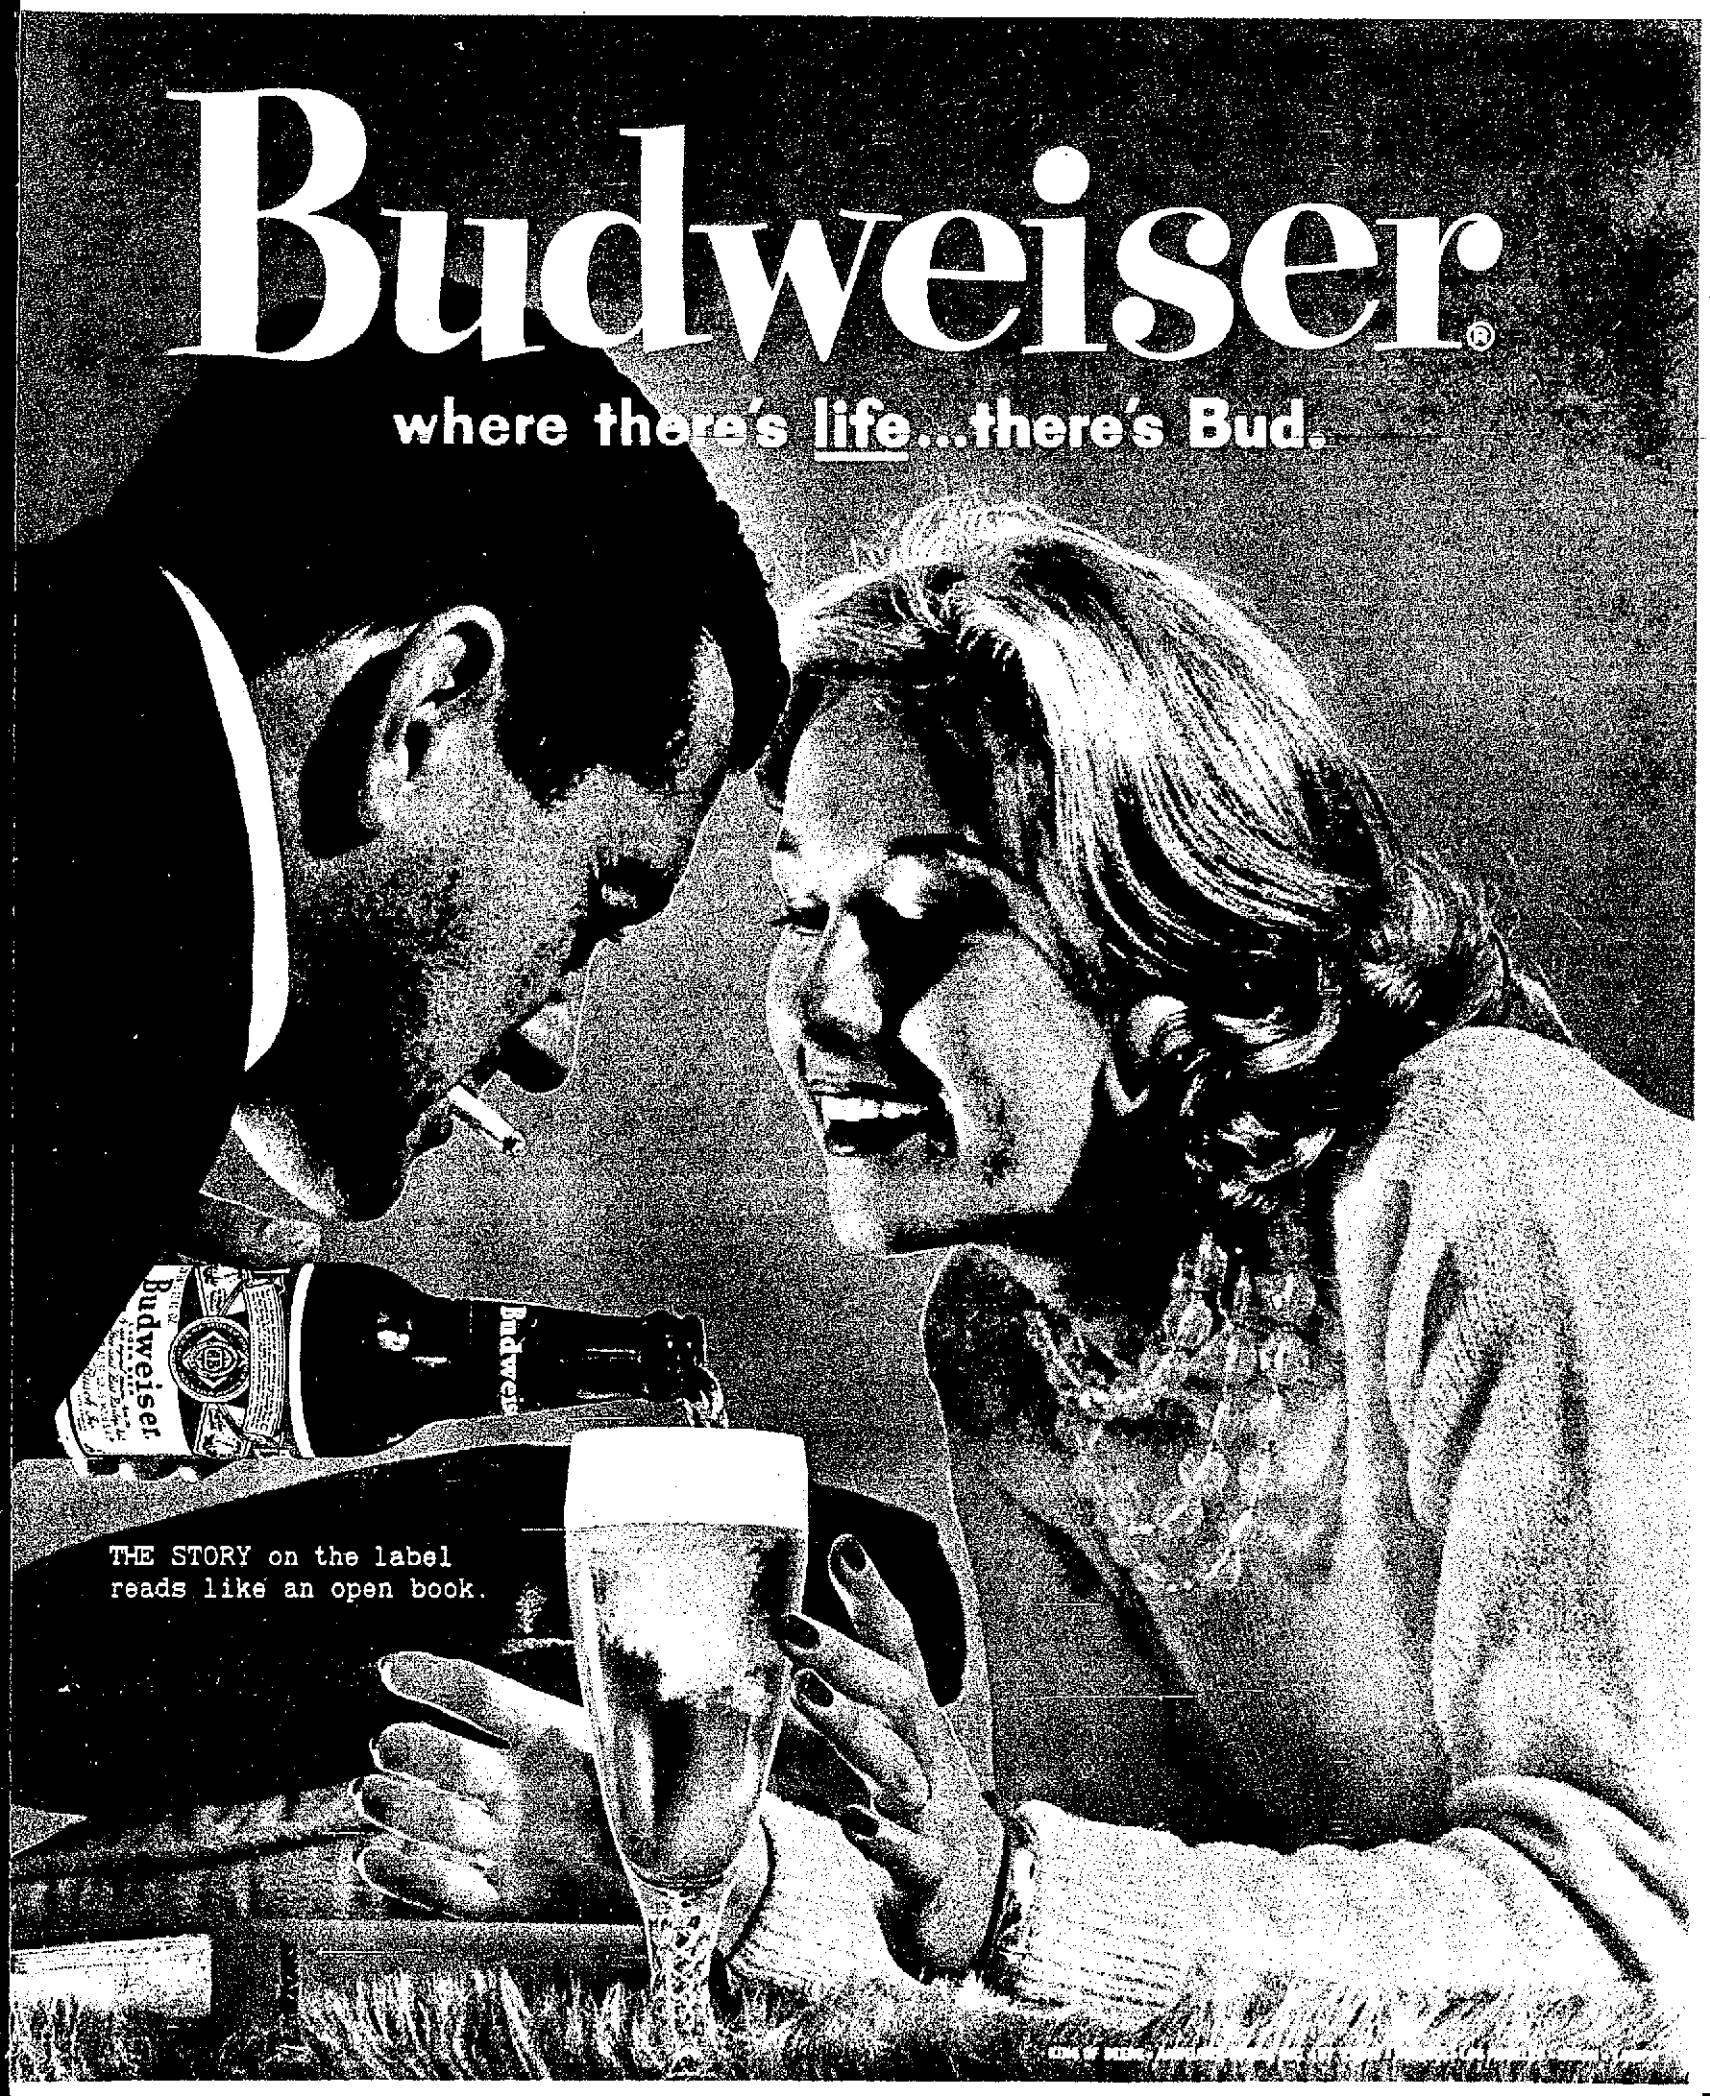

One final suggestion: if you're heading west, look out for the last 45 minutes before sunset, when low glare is blinding. This is the time to stop for supper.

Heading east? There's a similar "blind" period for 45 minutes after sunrise. Plan to take that time for breakfast.

If you'll stick to these rules you should never be one of those holiday "statistics." You'll not only be safe—but your holiday driving will be more fun. ■

Smashed car inspected by Toth was among bunched-up cars instead of in "trough" behind them.

THE STORY on the label

These Nations Are Catholic By CHOICE!

You hear it said today that the Catholic Church seeks to entrench itself as the established religion of any and all nations.

And you are warned that wherever Catholicism dominates, religious liberty is denied to others.

"Look at Spain!" the critics say, "and Italy and Colombia, too. And remember the Dark Ages and their persecutions!"

Implicit in these warnings, of course, is the suggestion that the people of so-called Catholic countries are compelled to remain loyal to the Church against their will. Any fair-minded person who really does "look at Spain" and other predominantly Catholic countries finds that they embrace Catholicism as a matter of choice, not compulsion.

People who take the trouble to "look" at the history of religious oppression are also often surprised at what they find. They discover that the religious persecutions—almost without exception—were actuated by political rather than religious purposes, and that the chief guilt for them should be laid at the door of the statesmen and ruling houses of the nations rather than the churches.

This fact was emphasized in an address to the Congress of the United States on January 8, 1826, by the then distinguished Bishop of Charleston, John England, who said: "...religion has been more frequently but a pretext with statesmen for a political purpose than the cause of persecution from zeal on its own behalf."

The Catholic Church, being universal, must exist under various flags and different political systems. In Colombia, for example, where the people are overwhelmingly Catholic, one statesman describes religion as "the fundamental pillar of our culture." The status of the Catholic Church in such a land would obviously be different than in the United States, where there are many faiths—all entitled to the same rights and privileges.

In 1916 Cardinal Gibbons, dean of American bishops, said: "Separation of church and state in this country seems to Catholics the natural, the inevitable, the best conceivable plan, the one that would work best among us, both for the good of religion and of the state." Speaking for the Bishops in 1948, the late Archbishop McNicholas said U. S. Catholics would not seek union of church and state even if they constituted a majority.

It may surprise you to hear that in at least one era of religious persecution, Catholics and non-Catholics were hanged from the same gallows. This and other dramatic stories dating back to the Middle Ages are related in a pamphlet which we will be glad to send free upon request. It will be mailed in a plain envelope—nobody will call on you. Write today ...ask for Pamphlet No. PR-8.

Helicopter on a leash

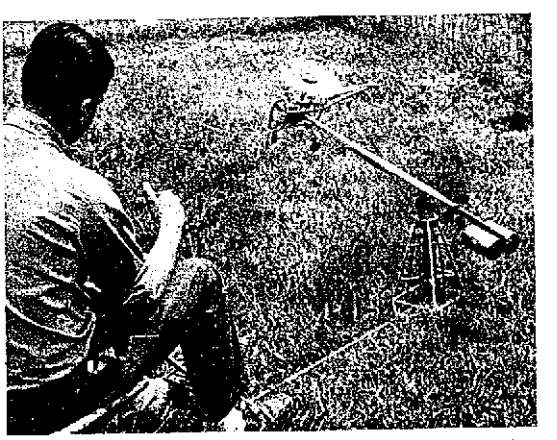

EDMONTON, CANADA.

YOU SOON MAY BE LIFTED high into the sky by the goose-necked contraption at left. Called the Jaycopter, it's basically a helicopter attached to the end of a long steel boom. Right now it's being used to train helicopter pilots, who press its controls—the same as a regular helicopter's—to learn how to take off, land and hover. But inventor Peter Jacobs plans a new use for Jaycopters—rides at midways. ■

Seventy-six feet high—its ceiling—a Jaycopter whirls at end of 100-foot boom. Jaycopters for midway rides will be built to carry eight.

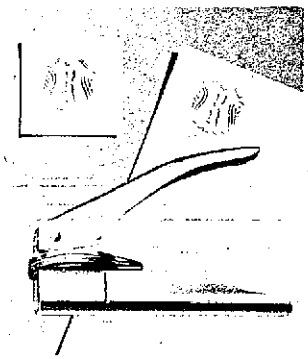

Jaycopter boom has cockpit at one end and weighted barrels for balancing at other end. Craft is powered by 7½-hp. electric motor.

Jaycopter model is operated by remote control. Most pilots, after 15 to 20 hours in the Jaycopter, are ready to fly the real thing.

INSURANCE AGAINST

Spendthrift wife sought psychiatric care. Her behavior may well be "sick."

Frightened executive "froze" before making a speech, got care for a year.

THE BIGGEST NEWS ITEM in health care these days is this: prepaid insurance against mental illness is gaining momentum across the U.S.

Here's what this means: just as millions of Americans now have part of their doctor and hospital bills paid for when they suffer a broken ankle or a heart attack, soon their bills will be paid if they suffer from neurosis, depression, anxiety or behavior problems brought on by mental disorders.

Right now 20 million Americans—about one-sixth of all those covered by health insurance—do have at least some protection against the staggering costs of mental sickness.

Such was the case recently with a 29-year-old New Jersey housewife who fell into a deep depression after her mother died. Hospitalized for two weeks, she received drug therapy and visits from a psychiatrist. A portion of her two weeks' charges was paid by her husband's group health policy.

The basic concept of health insurance isn't changing. Policies are still being sold both by Blue Cross and Blue Shield and by the commercial insurance companies, and in most cases the insurance is paid for—all or in part—by employers for their employees.

Even the policies remain the same—except that they are starting to add a clause spelling out the conditions under which costs of mental sickness are paid.

In 10 years just about every health insurance policy written is expected to cover mental disorders.

"There is a growing realization that mental disease is like any disease and should be treated equally in insurance coverage," says an official of the American Psychiatric Association.

Booming Demand

Why, in spite of obstacles and growing pains, has mental health insurance boomed in the last five years?

Here are the answers, as PARADE obtained them from commercial insurance carriers, the "Blue" plans, doctors and public health experts:

- Public demand for treatment of emotional ills is increasing, breaking social barriers and taboos against seeking mental treatment. People are learning that it is neither a "sin" nor a disgrace to need and want mental treatment.
- Health insurance is now firmly established in the U.S., with 127 million Americans owning policies that pay part of their doctor and hospital bills should they suffer a physical ailment. It's been a logical step to extend this to similar coverage for mental sickness.

The mental health insurance now available is of two kinds:

Basic insurance, covering the costs of relatively short-term illness. Generally this means psychiatric treatment in approved voluntary, general hospitals (as distinct from state hospitals). In 1958, the latest year for which figures are available, 257,000 persons were admitted to general hospitals for psychotherapy. This is the highest total in U.S. history, and gives an idea of the need for mental health insurance.

Comprehensive insurance, covering long-term illness. Such insurance provides payment for psychiatric treatment both in hospital and in the psychiatrist's office. These plans are geared to insure against health catastrophes—hence the term "catastrophe" or major medical insurance—and provide coverage of $5,000, $10,000 or more.

Typically, they include both deductible and co-insurance clauses.

Under a deductible clause, you, the policy holder, would pay, for example, the first $50 or $100 of expenses.

Under the co-insurance clause, the insurance company pays a percentage of all costs above this deductible figure and you pay the balance.

A normal co-insurance clause calls for you to pay 25 per cent, the insurance company the remaining 75 per cent. But because psychiatric treatment often is long-drawn-out and expensive, some companies have increased the co-insurance rate to 50 per cent. Under such a policy, you pay half the costs above the deductible figure and the insurance company half — still providing a significant saving to the patient who is being treated over many months.

Consider what mental health insurance recently meant to an Ohio family besieged by illness—first the baby, then the husband, then an in-law. Finally the wife "broke down"—she experienced acute anxiety with physical symptoms such as aches and trembling.

Treated by a psychiatrist for a short period, her symptoms decreased. More than half the doctor's fee was paid by her insurance policy.

Mental health insurance hasn't arrived without its questions. These are the main ones troubling all concerned, particularly claims experts:

DEFINITION. When is a problem truly emotional? Do marriage, career and behavior problems (of children and adults) reflect real mental illness or merely personality quirks?

For instance, an engineering executive "froze" as he was about to make a speech. Diagnosed as being extremely neurotic, he was treated by a psychiatrist for a year. The company paid his claim, but wondered whether it should have.

DEPENDENTS. How far should coverage extend to wives and children? Many policies do cover family groups, but this raises questions.

Should benefits be paid, for example, to a spendthrift wife who seeks treatment to end her "sick" spending?

Where a husband and wife are constantly battling, which partner needs help? Should the policy cover both?

If the parent of a disturbed teenager seeks treatment both for himself and his child, should the company pay for both?

These are questions that bother the insurance companies, of course. But we, the public, also have a stake in them because of this overriding fact: the more benefits paid under health insurance, no matter what type, the higher the insurance cost for all of the insured is likely to be.

ABUSES. Undoubtedly there are people seeking treatment over trivia, or because it's the "thing to do." This again contributes to rate increases. The problem is

MENTAL ILLNESS

by ROBERT P. GOLDMAN

Battling families pose an insurance dilemma. Who needs help most here?

especially knotty in big cities where psychiatric services are sought most.

With all its problems, though, mental health insurance is coming of age. What are its implications for the future?

1. Most important, of course, is that it is a means of reducing the financial burden mental disorders usually impose.

2. Morton Schillinger, director of a low-cost clinic, the Lincoln Center for Psychotherapy, New York, points out that with insurance, people are likely to seek earlier treatment. Thus, many mental problems will be nipped before they become serious.

3. Insurance makes for more effective use of psychiatric treatment facilities, now greatly overburdened. Often the individual gets treatment only until his money runs out. What usually results is "half-treatment," which can be worse than none at all. With insurance, the patient will have more staying power—and there will be less waste of his time and the therapist's.

4. Insurance will protect the public against fakes and phonies simply because insurance companies will pay claims only to qualified practitioners.

Overcoming Crises

Medical experts point to still another benefit of insurance. Many people have deep emotional problems at various stages of their lives. Known as periods of "life crisis," they include divorce or separation, career disruption, menopause and various problems of aging.

Psychiatric treatment can pull these individuals out of crises — spelling the difference between happiness and misery.

One New York housewife knows all too well what such a crisis meant to her. After giving birth to her second child, she failed to snap out of the depression that commonly follows delivery.

The woman was admitted to a hospital, treated for 10 days and released, much improved.

One clause of her insurance paid part of the hospital bill and part of the doctor's fee for the delivery. Another clause helped pay for hospitalization and treatment received for her mental disorder.

What she experienced from an insurance standpoint will become more prevalent in the years ahead. ■

Do yourself proud again—and again—with fabulous German's* Sweet Chocolate Cake!

"Collector's Item" Recipes for "German's" Sweet Chocolate Cake and a new Mocha variation

1 package Baker's German's Sweet Chocolate
½ cup boiling water
1 cup butter or margarine
2 cups sugar
4 egg yolks, unbeaten
1 teaspoon vanilla
2½ cups sifted Swans Down Cake Flour
1 teaspoon soda
½ teaspoon salt
1 cup buttermilk
4 egg whites, stiffly beaten

Melt chocolate in ½ cup of boiling water. Cool. Cream butter and sugar until light and fluffy. Add egg yolks, one at a time, beating after each. Add vanilla and chocolate; mix until blended. Sift flour with soda and salt. Alternately add sifted dry ingredients and buttermilk to chocolate mixture, beating after each addition until batter is smooth. Fold in stiffly beaten egg whites. Pour batter into three 8- or 9-inch layer pans, lined on bottoms with paper.

Bake in moderate oven (350°F.) for 30 to 40 minutes. Cool. For frosting, use either elegant recipe below.

1. The Original Recipe Calls For Coconut-Pecan Frosting

1 cup evaporated milk
1 cup sugar
3 egg yolks, slightly beaten
¼ pound butter or margarine
1 teaspoon vanilla
1⅓ cups (about) Baker's Angel Flake Coconut
1 cup chopped pecans

Combine milk, sugar, egg yolks, butter or margarine, and vanilla in a saucepan. Cook over medium heat, stirring constantly until mixture thickens, about 12 minutes. Remove from heat. Add coconut and pecans. Beat until cool and of spreading consistency. Makes 2⅔ cups, or enough frosting to cover tops of three 8- or 9-inch layers.

2. New Mocha Recipe Calls For Coffee Whipped Cream Frosting

2½ cups whipping cream
4½ tablespoons confectioners' sugar
4½ teaspoons Instant Maxwell House Coffee
1½ teaspoons vanilla

Place cream, sugar, coffee, and vanilla in chilled bowl. Beat until cream holds its shape. (Do not overbeat.) Makes about 5 cups, or enough to cover tops and sides of three 8- or 9-inch layers. For extra elegance, sprinkle top and sides generously with Baker's Angel Flake Coconut.

What makes a woman

Here's how Hollywood directors, cameramen and make-up artists describe these six top film actresses

Arlene Dahl: "Rich coloring, a natural American-type beauty."

Elizabeth Taylor: "Probably the most photogenic. A natural loveliness, which will last so long as Miss Taylor controls her weight."

by LLOYD SHEARER
Parade West Coast correspondent

HOLLYWOOD.

ARE YOU ONE of those women who "always take a bad picture"?

It may come as a surprise to you, but there are dozens of Hollywood actresses who say the same thing. Not in public, of course. These are the women who off-screen bear little resemblance to themselves on-screen.

Glamorous and alluring on film, they frequently look drab and ordinary in the flesh.

What makes an actress photogenic on-screen and unphotogenic off-screen? What makes any woman photogenic?

I asked these and related questions of Hollywood's leading directors, make-up artists and cameramen. All agree that any woman can be made photogenic. All she has to do is follow a few instructions.

Listen, for example, to Ellsworth Fredericks, a top, veteran movie cameraman. Fredericks, who started out in 1927 as silent star Corinne Griffith's assistant cameraman, has photographed such screen beauties as Joan Crawford, Loretta Young, Janet Gaynor, Lana Turner and many others.

"Just sparkle when the camera turns on you," Fredericks orders. "And you're bound to be photogenic."

How do you sparkle? "That's easy," Fredericks asserts. "It comes from thinking the right thoughts—something like, 'I want him [the photographer] to know I'm happy.' Every woman has an inner radiance. It's an essential part of her womanliness. It emanates from within. Actresses call upon it all the time. Take a woman like Ingrid Bergman. She draws herself up into good posture, no shoulder-sag, no body-slump, pride in her eyes and bearing. And the camera catches it every time.

"Many movie stars use what is known as the pep-talk gimmick," Fredericks reveals. "Just before the shutter snaps, they begin to tell themselves, 'I'm lovely. I'm lovely. I'm the loveliest woman in the world.' And you know what? Even though they're not, they frequently come out looking as if they were."

Emphasize the Best

Mark Robson, one of the best of the so-called "woman's directors"—he did Peyton Place, From the Terrace, Inn of the Sixth Happiness—declares that any woman can become photogenic by emphasizing her best features and concealing her worst.

"I remember," he says, "when I signed Diane Varsi for Peyton Place. One of the executives at the studio said to me, 'You must be crazy. That girl is a dog. She has the complexion of a dish rag. She looks like a refugee from a concentration camp.'

"But I knew," Robson continues, "that Diane had great eyes and good cheekbones, and that we could close up on those and hide the rest. How did we do it? The same way French make-up men hide Brigitte Bardot's bad case of acne—use layers of make-up."

According to Robson, every woman should study her face before she poses for a photo. "Study and analyze," he says. "If your face is wide, never pose head-on. Concentrate on profiles or the three-fourths shot. Every woman has a good side and a bad side.

photogenic?

Always show the photographer your good side."

Some actresses, like Claudette Colbert and Marilyn Monroe, have noses that get in the way, photogenically speaking. They therefore insist upon being photographed from angles and distances that deemphasize the nose. Loretta Young, who wears dental braces off-camera, prefers close-ups which magnify her best feature, her doe-like eyes.

"Women who generally take bad pictures," Robson maintains, "do so because they don't prepare for the sitting. In posing, a woman must apply the same common sense she does to her dressing.

"If she has a stubby neck, she wears something with a long neckline. If her arms are heavy or flabby, she wears long sleeves. If her neck is creased she wears a scarf. Few actresses are naturally photogenic. All are photogenic with adequate preparation."

Max Factor, the millionaire make-up king who's observed thousands of actresses in his time, is convinced that there are four pre-requisites for the photogenic female face:

1) Visible bone structure that is well-proportioned; 2) features properly accented or skillfully concealed through the art of applied make-up; 3) a flattering, face-framing coiffure; 4) the ability to project personality.

"If a woman is looking for beauty in a portrait photo," Factor declares, "she won't find it if any of these four ingredients is missing."

Many directors and cameramen believe firmly that a woman's cheekbone structure, if high and well delineated on her face, can assure her photographic beauty for several decades.

Leon Shamroy, Academy-Award-winning lensman, points to Dolores Del Rio, Greta Garbo and Ava Gardner as cases in point.

Love Is an Asset

"I ran into Del Rio the other day," Shamroy told me. "She's finishing a picture with Elvis Presley. And she looked absolutely stunning. Why? Because she's got great cheekbones, and she hasn't gotten fat so the flesh pads the cheekbones. Dolores must be 55, but she could pass for 40."

Shamroy believes that of today's young players, Arlene Dahl (see cover) is one of the most naturally photogenic. "She's got all the attributes, including high coloring," he says. "But like every other actress I've ever worked with, she photographs best when she's thin, or in love, or if she's pregnant. Those three conditions bring out the best in all women."

The chief worry of most actresses is overweight. The motion-picture camera photographs them fatter than they really are. This is because of the distortion which results from a short focal-length lens which expands the image in a small area.

Columbia Pictures recently signed actress Jo Morrow to a new contract at $400 a week, provided she limits her vital measurements to 37-24-36 and never weighs more than 132 pounds. Other actresses who have had serious weight problems are Elizabeth Taylor, Ann Sothern, Judy Garland, Elana Eden, Maureen O'Hara, Dana Wynter, Debra Paget, Marilyn Monroe, Susan Hayward—almost every actress you can think of except such Spartans as Greta Garbo, Joan Crawford and Katharine Hepburn.

These three were blessed with perfect cheekbones and a will power of steel. ■

Dolores Del Rio: "The best cheekbones in the business give perennial youth."

Grace Kelly: "Cameo-like beauty, which can be photographed from any angle."

Joan Crawford: "Fantastic cheekbone structure makes her beauty ageless."

Greta Garbo: "Ethereal air and great facial planes are her greatest assets."

Mrs. Kohler's Hands Were Red, Rough, Sore Until She Used RESINOL

"My hands were red, rough, so sore that I couldn't wear my wedding ring," writes Mrs. Ernest A. Kohler. "And my husband had many spots on his legs that were red and very itchy. We used salves of all sorts, some quite expensive, but they didn't help us. Now, after using RESINOL, my hands are ever so much better and so are the spots on my husband's legs. I'm wearing my ring again... We can't praise RESINOL enough!" Remember this—quickly relieve sore, itching irritation of rough dry skin, eczema or rash, chafing, chapping with soothing

Racking Bronchial Coughs Quickly Relieved without codeine or other narcotics

Most people's racking coughs due to colds or flu are caused by irritation of the membranes along the bronchial tubes. Phlegm collects in the bronchial passages and you suffer from choking, straining coughs.

Now, Creomulsion Cough Syrup quickly, effectively—yet safely, relieves these annoying bronchial coughs without codeine or other narcotics. It gets at their cause—soothes the irritated membranes, loosens and helps expel germ-laden phlegm, thus helping to break up chest congestion. So relieve your bronchial coughs fast, without feeling "doped" or drowsy. Get Creomulsion Cough Syrup today.

● Parents will find safe, pleasant-tasting Creomulsion for Children just as effective.

THANKSGIVING MINCE PIE

by BETH MERRIMAN

Parade food editor

Thanksgiving means turkey and all the trimmings, complete with mince pie for dessert. That's part of American tradition—but even tradition can be brought up to date with new rich flavor. Our special holiday recipe is for prune mincemeat, combining the mellow sweetness of prunes with your favorite spicy filling. Make it in advance to give yourself time with the family on Thanksgiving Day.

Prune Mincemeat

1 pound prunes
1 pound lean, boneless chuck steak
¼ pound suet
¼ pound citron
2 cans (1 lb. each) apple slices
1 pound seedless raisins
1 quart apple juice
3½ cups sugar
1½ teaspoons nutmeg
1½ teaspoons cinnamon
¼ teaspoon cloves

Cover prunes with cold water. Let stand 24 hours. Remove pits. Cover meat with boiling water; simmer until tender. Let cool in broth. Remove meat (use broth for soup). Put meat, suet, citron and prunes through fine knife of food chopper. Cut apples in small pieces; add to prune mixture. Combine this mixture with raisins, apple juice, sugar, nutmeg, cinnamon and cloves. Simmer over low heat 1½ hours, or until thick, stirring often to prevent sticking. Pour into hot sterilized jars; seal. Makes three quarts, or enough for three 9" pies.

Prune Mince Pie

Line 9" pie pan with pastry. Fill pan with 1 quart Prune Mincemeat. Top with strips of pastry arranged lattice-fashion. Trim pastry; flute edges. Bake in hot oven (425°) 30 to 35 minutes, or until crust is deep golden brown. Serve warm or cold with hard sauce.

Fluffy Hard Sauce

Blend 1 cup butter or margarine and 1 unbeaten egg white with 1 pkg. (14 oz.) creamy white frosting mix. Beat on high speed with electric mixer 1 minute, or by hand until light and fluffy. Add 1 teaspoon rum or brandy flavoring if desired. Chill thoroughly until hard. Makes 1½ cups.

My favorite jokes

by MICKEY ROONEY

EDITOR'S NOTE: Mickey Rooney, born Joe Yule Jr. in New York 40 years ago, is one of the most dynamic, versatile, irrepressible performers in show business. Actor, hoofer, director, comedian, producer, Mickey has been "on" since he was 15 months old, when he made his debut in burlesque with his vaudeville parents. He obtained his first job in 1924 because the producer who hired him thought he was a midget (he's 5 feet 1). Mickey became a full-fledged film star in the 1930s by virtue of the highly successful Andy Hardy movie series. He now appears in every entertainment medium. Mickey has been married five times and pays $3,000 a month to various wives for alimony and child support. Despite this, however, he is always quick to smile and even quicker to tell such jokes as these:

THE OTHER AFTERNOON I was playing golf with Danny Thomas. It was Sunday. The course was crowded with women golfers. As I stepped up to tee off, I shouted, "Fore," at the top of my lungs. The women down the fairway paid no attention to me.

"Fore," I shouted again. Still the women wouldn't move.

Danny came up to me. "Try shouting three-ninety-eight," he suggested.

I ONCE ASKED Joe Frisco, the stuttering comedian who was unhappy at the time, why he didn't go to an analyst. "Listen, Mickey," he answered. "I-I re-re-refuse to p-p-pay anyone $30 an hour j-j-just to squeal on my p-p-parents."

THIS HAPPENED in Detroit. A man walked into the Missing Persons Bureau and announced the disappearance of his wife. The policeman on duty asked for a description.

"She's 5 feet even," the man began, "and she weighs 240 pounds. She's cross-eyed, my wife is, but only in one eye. She's kind of sloppy, especially when she doesn't wear shoes."

The policeman noted the description, then said, "When did you first notice the disappearance?"

The husband thought for a moment. "About five weeks ago."

The policeman was stunned. "Five weeks ago," he repeated. "Why did you wait until now to report it?"

The husband grinned sheepishly. "For the first three weeks," he confessed, "I thought it was a dream."

AT A PARTY a doctor was complaining about all the women who approached him on these occasions. "You know," he said to the man sitting beside him, "they always want advice. They tell me about their ailments, and they ask me to prescribe for them. That's why I hate to go to these parties. You're a lawyer," he continued, "do you think I should charge them for this advice even if I give it after office hours?"

"By all means," said the lawyer. "Advice is advice."

Next day the doctor received a letter from the lawyer.

The bill read simply: "For advice—$50."

THE LITTLE GIRL's father was a union organizer. "Daddy," she said to him one evening, "I can't sleep. Will you tell me a story?"

Daddy nodded, "Once upon a time-and-a-half . . ." he began.

TWO BEAUTIFUL ACTRESSES, well-turned and well-stacked, were admiring a diamond necklace in a swank jewelry store.

"It's out of this world," said one. "But who would be jerk enough to pay $40,000 for it?"

"I don't know," the other actress answered. "But don't worry, I'll find him."

THE OTHER NIGHT I phoned a girl named Doris. "Doris isn't here right now," a voice answered. "But this is her young, 112-pound, 5-foot-4, blue-eyed, red-haired sister."

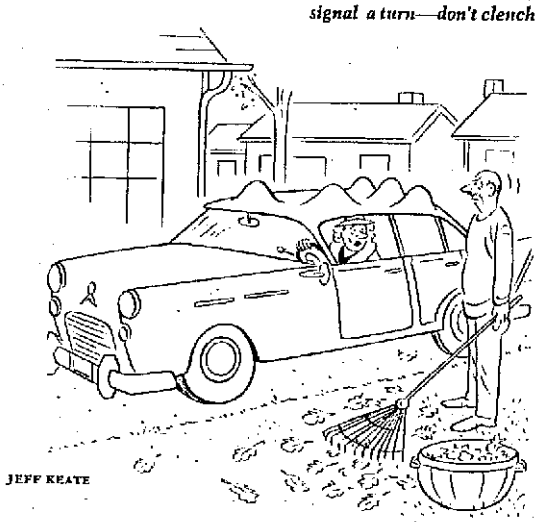

Woman driver—danger?

The average woman may drive too slowly and make up her own hand signals, but she wrecks fewer cars than her husband. The average man, however, continues to laugh his head off at her while collecting more traffic tickets and making an automotive fool of himself. Here are a few comments on the ladies as seen through the steely, masculine eyes of PARADE cartoonists. ■

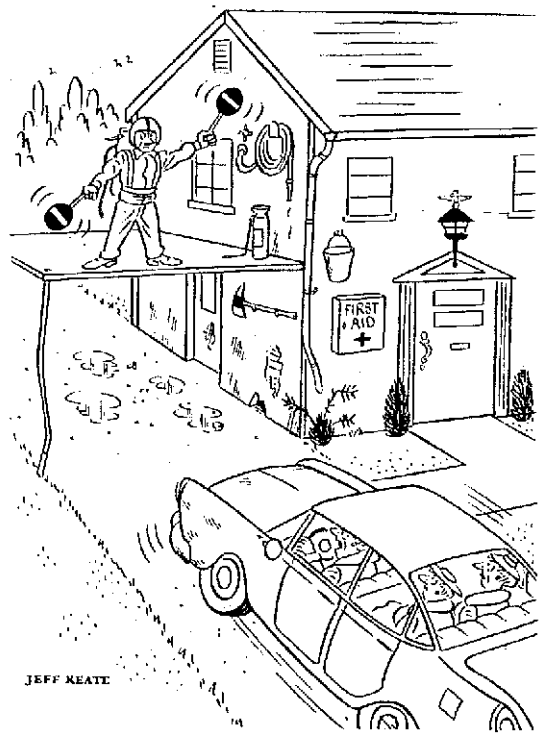

HENRY BOLTINOFF

"Well, next time you put out your hand to signal a turn—don't clench your fist!"

JEFF KEATE

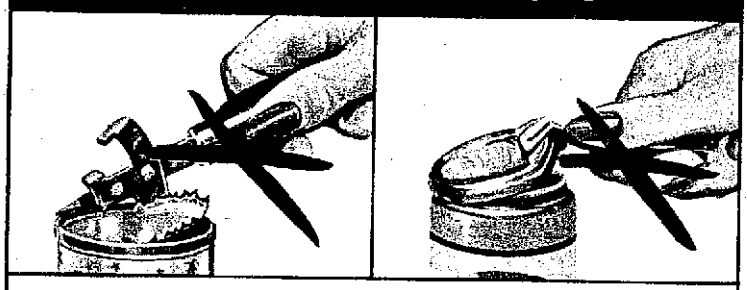

"I was driving the girls to the bridge club when I hit this bump, see . . ."

JEFF KEATE

"I hate Don's attitude about my bringing the car into the carport."

Six weeks later . . . the Blues are holding a 4-point lead in the final minutes, when the Cougars get the ball on the 38-yard line and the offensive team goes in . . .

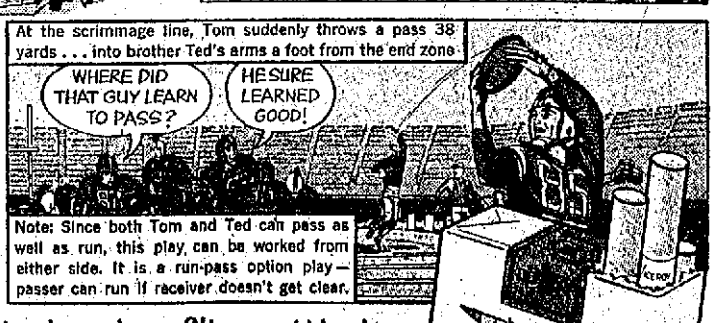

① Quarterback fakes a hand-off to the right half going through the line . . .

② Quarterback then pivots and hands off ball to Right-End Tom, who has pulled out of position and started an end-around run . . .

④ And Left-End Ted cuts down the sidelines to get behind the Blues' safety man . . .

At the scrimmage line, Tom suddenly throws a pass 38 yards . . . into brother Ted's arms a foot from the end zone

Note: Since both Tom and Ted can pass as well as run, this play can be worked from either side. It is a run-pass option play — passer can run if receiver doesn't get clear.
